Enclosure(s)

FBI FOIPA Addendum

As referenced in our letter, the FBI FOIPA Addendum includes information applicable to your request. Part 1 of the Addendum includes standard responses that apply to all requests. If you submitted a request regarding yourself or another person, Part 2 includes additional standard responses that apply to requests for individuals. If you have questions regarding the standard responses in Parts 1 or 2, visit the www.fbi.gov/foia website under "Contact Us." Previously mentioned appeal and dispute resolution services are also available. Part 3 includes general information about FBI records that you may find useful.

Part 1: Standard Responses to All Requests: See Below for all Requests

(i) 5 U.S.C. § 552(c). Congress excluded three categories of law enforcement and national security records from the requirements of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). See 5 U.S. C. § 552(c) (2006 & Supp. IV (2010). FBI responses are limited to those records subject to the requirements of the FOIA. Additional information about the FBI and the FOIPA can be found on the fbi.gov website.

(ii) National Security/Intelligence Records. The FBI can neither confirm nor deny the existence of national security and foreign intelligence records pursuant to FOIA exemptions (b)(1) and (b)(3) and PA exemption (j)(2) as applicable to requests for records about individuals [5 U.S.C. §§ 552/552a (b)(1), (b3), and (j)(2); 50 U.S.C § 3024(i)(1)]. The mere acknowledgment of the existence or nonexistence of such records is itself a classified fact protected by FOIA exemption (b)(1) and/or would reveal intelligence sources, methods, or activities protected by exemption (b)(3); 50 USC § 3024(i)(1). This is a standard response and should not be read to indicate that national security or foreign intelligence records do or do not exist.

Part 2: Standard Responses to Requests for Individuals: See Below for all Requests for Individuals

(i) Requests for Records about any Individual—Watch Lists. The FBI can neither confirm nor deny the existence of any individual's name on a watch list pursuant to FOIA exemption (b)(7)(E) and PA exemption (j)(2) [5 U.S.C. §§ 552/552a (b)(7)(E), (j)(2]. This is a standard response and should not be read to indicate that watch list records do or do not exist.

(ii) Requests for Records for Incarcerated Individuals. The FBI can neither confirm nor deny the existence of records which could reasonably be expected to endanger the life or physical safety of any incarcerated individual pursuant to FOIA exemptions (b)(7)(E) and (b)(7)(F) and PA exemption (j)(2) [5 U.S.C. §§ 552/552a (b)(7)(E), (b)(7)(F), and (j)(2)]. This is a standard response and should not be read to indicate that such records do or do not exist.

Part 3: General Information:

(i) Record Searches. The Record/Information Dissemination Section (RIDS) searches for reasonably described records by searching those systems or locations where responsive records would reasonably be found. Most requests are satisfied by searching the Central Record System (CRS), an extensive system of records consisting of applicant, investigative, intelligence, personnel, administrative, and general files compiled and maintained by the FBI in the course of fulfilling its dual law enforcement and intelligence mission as well as the performance of agency administrative and personnel functions. The CRS spans the entire FBI organization and encompasses the records of FBI Headquarters ("FBIHQ"), FBI Field Offices, and FBI Legal Attaché Offices ("Legats") worldwide. A CRS search includes Electronic Surveillance (ELSUR) records.

(ii) FBI Records
Founded in 1908, the FBI carries out a dual law enforcement and national security mission. As part of this dual mission, the FBI creates and maintains records on various subjects; however, the FBI does not maintain records on every person, subject, or entity.

(iii) Requests for Criminal History Records or "Rap Sheets." The Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division provides Identity History Summary Checks –often referred to as a criminal history record or "rap sheets." These criminal history records are not the same as material in an investigative "FBI file." An Identity History Summary Check is a listing of information taken from fingerprint cards and documents submitted to the FBI in connection with arrests, federal employment, naturalization, or military service. For a fee, individuals can request a copy of their Identity History Summary Check. Forms and directions can be accessed at www.fbi.gov/about-us/cjis/identity-history-summary-checks. Additionally, requests can be submitted electronically at www.edo.cjis.gov. For additional information, please contact CJIS directly at (304) 625-5590.

(iv) The National Name Check Program (NNCP). The mission of NNCP is to analyze and report information in response to name check requests received from federal agencies, for the purpose of protecting the United States from foreign and domestic threats to national security. Please be advised that this is a service provided to other federal agencies. Private citizens cannot request a name check.

COUNTY OF NEW YORK)

EVELYN SELTZER EHRLICH, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

My name is Evelyn Seltzer Ehrlich. I live at 417 Beacon Street, Boston. My married name is Mrs. William Ehrlich. I am a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania where I studied architecture and received the degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts in 1929. Excepting for two years during the war, from 1934 until 1951 I was on the staff of the Fogg Museum of Art, Harvard University, as a part time worker. While there, as a member of the Department of Conservation and Research, my special field of activity and investigation was concerned with the technical examination and conservation of prints, drawings, manuscripts and typography. In the course of my work and under the auspices of the Fogg Museum I was engaged from 1940 to 1951 in an intensive investigation concerned with the detection of spurious prints. In this connection I devoted part of my work to the development of visual techniques of presentation to illustrate the pertinent technical details in the detection of deceptive imprints and typography. I have summarized this print research project in a book entitled "The Detection of Spurious Prints" which is now in manuscript form in the hands of Harvard University.

An article which I wrote and illustrated describing the use of photomicrography as a research tool for the detection of deceptive rare book facsimiles was published in the Harvard Library Bulletin, Vol. IV, No. 1, Winter 1950, and was recently reprinted in the Journal of the National Archives of India, Vol. IV, No. 1.

In December, 1951, I was consulted by Chester T. Lane, attorney for Alger Hiss, with respect to an experiment he said he was conducting in connection with the Hiss case. He told me that he was trying to find out whether it would have been possible for Whittaker Chambers to have had a facsimile typewriter made which would write so nearly like the typewriter which Mr. Hiss had owned that experts looking at samples written on it would be misled into thinking that it was the Hiss typewriter that had been used. He said he had in his possession the Woodstock machine that was supposed to have belonged to the Hisses, and that he was having another machine made which he hoped would be able to duplicate the typing from the so-called Hiss machine. He told me that the work on the machine was not yet finished, but that his experts working on it felt that it was quite close to being a perfect duplication, and that he needed a fresh eye to help him make sure whether he was on the right track. He asked me whether I would be willing to examine specimens from the two machines to see whether they could be told apart.

I agreed to do this and on December 14, 1951, Mr. Lane sent me some samples typed on the so-called Hiss machine and the facsimile machine which had been altered to imitate it. These samples were not marked or separated in any way to indicate which machine had been used to type any individual document. When I examined them I was struck by the extraordinary degree of similarity which had been achieved in the typefaces of those two machines. However, when I examined the samples more carefully under a microscope (magnification 30X) I found a few consistent details of difference which appeared to make it possible to separate these samples into two groups. Apart from these few microscopic details I found that an amazingly faithful reproduction of the so-called Hiss machine had been fabricated in almost every respect.

I made a similar examination of further samples which Mr. Lane sent to me on December 31, 1951, and reached the same conclusion. I separated the samples into two groups and informed Mr. Lane of my results. Again I felt that I had successfully differentiated the typing of the two machines, but only on the basis of a few specific characteristics. Except for those subtle details, I found that the microscopic variations on one machine had been duplicated on the other so faithfully that I might not have believed it possible if I had not been informed that two machines were involved.

After these preliminary experiments Mr. Lane informed me which specimens were typed by one machine and which from the other (confirming the conclusions I had already reached), and on January 7, 1952, provided me with some identified samples from both machines which were typed by the same typist using the same ribbons and a similar variation of pressures for both sets of samples. I thereupon took twelve characters appearing in each set and made eight to twelve photomicrographs (7.6X) of each, using a different imprint for each exposure of the same character, some made by one machine and some by the other.

These photomicrographs (7.6X), which are included herewith as Series A, were made with a Leitz Ultropak microscope, a fluorescent microscope table lamp, and a Land Polaroid camera. Each of the series of letters included was photographed under identical conditions of magnification, illumination, and photographic processes and no further enlargement was made of these magnified details. Orthochromatic Polaroid Film No. 41 was used. The precision controls of the automatic printing and developing processes in the Land Polaroid camera and film allowed for a series of similar letters from various documents to be photographed under conditions as nearly identical as is possible. By taking the photography of these details through a microscope it was possible to obtain a magnified image of each letter without the usual kind of distortion which is inherent in most types of photographic enlarging and copying processes.

Duplicate prints of Series A were also copied with a Polaroid camera and Polaroid film. This was done without any further enlargement of the photomicrograph, and made it possible for all duplicate prints to be made with the same precision controls of printing and developing as the originals. However, it will be noted that the duplicates (as in all photographs of photographs) do not show some of the fine details which can be seen on the original photomicrographs.

The original set of these photomicrographs of similar characters from both machines is attached to the original of this affidavit and a set of the duplicates is attached to an executed carbon hereof.

I have not indicated which machine was used to type these individual characters in Series A. However, each of the photographs is identified by a number and I have carefully noted the machine used for its typing and the document from which the detail was made in a code book which is in my possession.

After this experiment was made Mr. Lane suggested that I read the testimony given by the Government's expert, Mr. Ramos C. Feehan, in the second trial in the Hiss case, and familiarize myself with the criteria which he had applied in demonstrating to the jury his conclusion that the Baltimore Documents and the Hiss standards had been typed on the same machine. I have done so, and it is my opinion that any document expert, acting with reasonable care, who applied these same criteria to the samples sent me by Mr. Lane would reach the conclusion that a single machine had been used to type all of them. Mr. Peehan took ten separate characters appearing both in the Baltimore Documents and in the Hiss standards and pointed out similar deviations in the two groups of documents. On this evidence he concluded that a single machine had been used. It is my opinion that Mr. Lane's two machines contain many more similar deviations than the ten which Mr. Peehan described to justify his testimony at the trial. The twelve sets of individual characters from these two machines in Series A are used to illustrate a few of the similar deviations. It would be possible to provide a similar series for almost every character on the machines.

As a second problem, Mr. Lane asked me to make a study of specimens from the so-called Hiss machine and to compare them, if possible, with some of the photocopies of the Baltimore Documents and also the photocopies of the Hiss documents which were used as Government standards. For this purpose I was given photocopies of the Baltimore Documents dated Berlin, Feb. 12, 1938, Paris, Feb. 16, 1938, and Paris, Feb. 16, 1938. I was also given photocopies of the four Hiss documents which were used as Government standards.

Certain kinds of differences and similarities in a questioned document can be deduced from a photocopy of the document used as a standard, i.e., alignment, slant, spacing, and position of the letter. However, I believe that a final judgment about similar deviations and inconsistent differences in typography can only be reliable if it is based on a comparison of the questioned document with the original copy of the material used as a standard. I have not had access to the original copies of the documents mentioned above, but making allowances for the distortion of the photocopying process which was used for the Government standard 46-B, I observed certain differences in some of the letters in this document and the samples typed by the so-called Hiss machine in Mr. Lane's possession. I found that the photocopies of the other Hiss standards and the Baltimore Documents which I had examined were so distorted by the copying process that they were too inaccurate to work from.

I have made a careful comparison of the photocopy of the Hiss standard (Government Exhibit 46-B) and specimens of typing from the so-called Hiss machine in Mr. Lane's possession. On the basis of this comparison, it is my opinion that it is entirely possible that the so-called Hiss machine now in Mr. Lane's possession is not the machine which was used to type the Hiss standard. I base this conclusion on my observation of certain differences which might not be due to age, normal wear, or personal typing idiosyncracies. To illustrate these differences I have made photomicrographs in the same manner as Series A, but at higher magnifications (15X and 18 X). These are attached as Series B-1 through B-7.

I note, for example, the following differences:

y. There is an interruption in the typeface of the descender of the small letter "y" in all of the imprints of this letter by the so-called Hiss machine. There is no apparent break in the descender of this letter "y" type in the imprints of this letter seen in the photocopy of the Hiss standard.

See photomicrographs, Series B-1.

p. There is a complete break in the descender of the main element of the small letter "p" in about 90% of the times which this letter appears in the samples typed by the so-called Hiss machine. The photocopies of the Hiss document give no indication of this particular deterioration in the small letter "p".

See photomicrographs, Series B-2.

m. In almost all of the imprints of the letter "m" in the photocopy of the Hiss document the highest part of the loops appears to be farther to the right and slightly different in shape than the more rounded loops of the small letter "m" in the samples typed by the so-called Hiss machine.

See photomicrographs, Series B-3.

u. The lower right seriph of the small letter "u" appears to be horizontal in almost a third of the times which this letter appears in the photocopy of the Hiss document, while it appears to be consistently slanted downward at an angle in the imprints of this letter made by the so-called Hiss machine. The attachment of this lower right seriph to the main element of the letter appears abnormal in the so-called Hiss machine. The printing surface of this seriph seems to be set on a lower level than the typeface of the rest of the letter. The upper seriphs of this letter also often appear slanted at a different angle in the imprints of this letter in the Hiss document from those made by the so-called Hiss machine.

See photomicrographs, Series B-4.

d. The seriph at the foot of the terminal element of the small letter "d" is manifest horizontally, apparently at full length, in about a third of the imprints of this letter in the Hiss document. This seriph at the foot of the right side of the letter "d" is manifest only occasionally, and then very short in length, in the imprints of this letter found in the samples typed by the so-called Hiss machine.

See photomicrographs, Series B-5.

Kisseloff-24354

t. The width of the arc in the terminal curve of the small letter "t" appears wider in most of the imprints of this letter in the photocopies of the Hiss document than in the imprints of this letter made by the so-called Hiss machine.

See photomicrographs, Series B-6.

n. The serifs on the right feet of the letter "n" appears to be horizontal in the imprints of this letter in the photocopy of the Hiss document. In the imprints of this letter made by the so-called Hiss machine this right serifs is almost always slanted at a downward angle.

See photomicrographs, Series B-7.

However, for the reasons already stated, my observations could be more complete if I were in a position to examine the original documents. I should add that in examining the similar deviations mentioned by Mr. Feehan on the photocopy of the Hiss document, which was the only one of those furnished to me that was a clear enough photocopy for me to make any use of, I observed that the deviations described for some of Mr. Feehan's chosen examples were not consistent throughout this standard. Two of the deviations were not consistent for over thirty per cent of the times the letter was used so far as was apparent from this document.

SECOND SUPPLEMENTAL AFFIDAVIT OF CHESTER T. LANE IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL ON GROUND OF NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, -against- ALGER HISS, Defendant.	Criminal No. C-123-402

STATE OF NEW YORK)
: ss.:
COUNTY OF NEW YORK)

CHESTER T. LANE, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

I am an attorney at law, a member of the firm of Beer, Richards, Lane & Haller, attorneys for Alger Hiss, the defendant herein, and am in charge of this case for my firm. This is my second supplemental affidavit in support of the defendant's pending motion for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence under Rule 33 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure.

Kisseloff-24357

THE BALTIMORE DOCUMENTS

The damning evidence in this case--the evidence without which there would have been no case worth considering--was the so-called Baltimore Documents. These four small handwritten notes on scratch-pad paper and sixty-five typewritten sheets, copying or paraphrasing or summarizing State Department documents dated in the first three months of 1933, were Chambers's bombshell in his defense to the libel action which Alger Hiss had brought against him in the federal court in Baltimore. They were part, he said, of the fruits of an espionage operation in which he and Alger Hiss had been engaged together from 1934 to 1938. The handwritten notes (Baltimore Documents 1-4) were apparently in Alger Hiss's handwriting, and Alger, he claimed, had given them to him; the typewritten pages (Baltimore Documents 5-47) he said had been typed by Priscilla Hiss for Alger on the family typewriter from State Department documents Alger had brought home overnight for the purpose. The defense conceded Alger Hiss's handwriting on the four small memoranda, and did not contest the Government's expert testimony that the typed sheets had been typed on the same machine as had been used for the so-called Hiss Standards--letters, etc., unquestionably written on the Hiss family typewriter from 1931 to 1937.

There was, of course, other evidence. There were the two developed microfilm strips that House Committee investigators found, wrapped one in another in wax paper, in the hollowed out pumpkin to which Chambers led them at his Westminster, Maryland, farm on December 2, 1948 (R. 703-9, 713). Each of the fifty-eight frames in the two strips was a photographed page of an original State Department document. These microfilms were melodramatically effective; documents of state, found at night by Congressional investigators in a pumpkin patch, presented such an exciting incongruity that all of Chambers's "proofs" of his charge, including the typed and handwritten sheets he produced in the Baltimore libel suit, became popularly and inaccurately known as the "Pumpkin Papers". But intrinsically, and evidentially, the microfilm strips were insignificant. There was only Chambers's word for it that the originals which were photographed had come to him from Alger Hiss. Ten frames (covering Baltimore Exhibits 54 and 55) were photographs of copies of three State Department cables which had passed through Alger Hiss's office and been initialled by him. The other forty-eight were photographs of a group of papers related to a proposed trade agreement with Germany; the subject matter fell in the province of Alger Hiss and his chief, Assistant Secretary Sayre, but the particular copies photographed were not the ones which would normally have gone through the Hiss-Sayre office (see Defendant's Brief on Appeal, pp. 14-20). The microfilms by themselves would have been negligible as proof that Alger Hiss was giving out State Department secrets; they were important only as the capstone of the edifice which Chambers had started to build with the typed Baltimore Documents.

There was the typewriter, too. In my first and second affidavits in support of this motion I have spoken of how the Government used the typewriter as dramatic visual evidence of Hiss's guilt--even though the Government made no effort at the trials to show that this particular typewriter in evidence (Woodstock #N230099) was the original Hiss typewriter. The typewriter was awfully effective.

And there was Edith Murray--the mysterious maid kept under wraps by the Government until the last day of the second trial, when the defense would have no chance to find out, and show the jury, whether what she said was truth, or imagination, or distorted recollection. Edith Murray said she had seen the Hisses and the Chamberses visit together fourteen years earlier; she said she saw Alger at Chambers's home for three or four minutes, once, that long ago, and certainly remembered him. She was effective, too.

But these evidences were only effective because they tended to confirm Chambers's basic proofs, the Baltimore Documents--the typed and handwritten documents that Chambers finally put up at the libel suit deposition hearing in Baltimore. Handwritten notes like Baltimore Documents 1-4 might easily have been stolen off someone's desk, or out of someone's wastebasket; but the typewritten sheets were really important. They seemed to have been typed on the Hiss family typewriter--the one Priscilla had been given by her father in 1932 or 1933 and which she and Alger had certainly had around until late 1937 or early 1938. The Government expert said they had been. The defense had no proof that they had not been. The jury obviously concluded that they had been, and for that reason convicted Alger Hiss.

My earlier affidavits in support of this motion have dealt at length with the typewriter. I have shown that Chambers could have created a fake typewriter to forge his Baltimore Documents with, and how he could have done so. I have offered proof not only that the machine in evidence, Woodstock H230099, is not the original Hiss family typewriter, but that it is itself a deliberately fabricated machine--leaving no possible inference but that the typed Baltimore Documents are forgeries. I have tendered evidence that Edith Murray's recollection is, to say the least, untrustworthy, and that Chambers himself had gone into hiding from the Communist Party weeks before the dates of many of the State Department documents which he claimed Alger had had copied for him on the Woodstock. My earlier affidavits are, I believe, compulsive towards the granting of a new trial.

But in those earlier affidavits I could not present proofs based upon study of the Baltimore Documents themselves. The defense had photographs of some of them; but these had been taken early in the case, before my experiments had exposed the techniques by which forgery by typewriter could be--and in this case undoubtedly was--accomplished. I had asked the Government for access to the originals for expert examination and photography, as well as for testing of their paper content and condition. My request had been refused, and in my first supplemental affidavit I gave notice that at the hearing on the motion I would move in open court for an order allowing me to make such an examination.

After my first supplemental affidavit was filed, the United States Attorney asked me to consent to an adjournment of the hearing on the ground that he needed more time to study the affidavit and its supporting material. I said I had no objection, but felt that I should not be required to defer my subsidiary motion for leave to examine the original documents. I suggested that we take both points up with Judge Goddard.

At our conference with Judge Goddard in chambers on March 21st a new time schedule was set for the hearing of the motion,[1] and the United States Attorney withdrew his objection to my requested examination. The documents were accordingly produced at my request in Boston on April 1st, and, under continuous FBI supervision and subject to reasonable limitations as to working hours, were made available to my experts when and how they were needed, for a period of a little over two weeks. I commend the cooperation with which both the United States Attorney and the FBI carried out the spirit of the agreement under which the documents were to be made available for examination.[2]

1/ The motion was originally made on January 24, 1952, returnable for hearing on February 4, 1952, the next regular available criminal motion day. I consented to an adjournment to February 25th, and later a conference was held with Judge Goddard in chambers on the United States Attorney's request for a further adjournment. At this conference, on February 19th, the motion was set down for argument on April 8th, the Government's counter-affidavits to be filed and served on March 24th, and memoranda of law to be filed and exchange on March 31st.

At the conference mentioned in the text, at which the United States Attorney withdrew his objection to my proposed examination of the documents, he requested that he be given not less than four weeks in which to answer such further supplemental affidavits as I might file as a result of the examination, as well as my earlier affidavits. This arrangement was acceptable to me and was approved by Judge Goddard, and at a further conference in chambers on March 31st, after I had had an opportunity to consult with my experts, the dates were set as follows:

Further affidavits in support of motion	April 21
Government's counter-affidavits	May 19
Interchange of memoranda of law	May 26
Hearing on motion	June 2.

2/ Three subsidiary requests I made of the United States Attorney were refused by him on what seemed to me to be unnecessarily technical grounds. These will be mentioned below.

Kisseloff-24362

RESULTS OF THE EXAMINATION OF THE DOCUMENTS

This, my second supplemental affidavit, deals with the results of the examination of the documents. The examination has been most fruitful. I believe that it leaves no vestige of doubt but that Chambers's whole story is false, and that his fraudulent plot now stands exposed.

Background: Chambers's Story of the Origin and History of the Documents

As I have said, Priscilla Hiss was supposed to have typed the documents on the family machine, as Alger was no typist. According to Chambers's story, the ordinary plan was to have Alger bring home original documents overnight, so that Priscilla could make typed copies or summaries. Every ten days or two weeks Chambers would come around to pick up the typed material, together with originals which Alger might have brought home on that particular day. Chambers would take the copies and originals to Baltimore that night, to have them photographed; later the same night he would come back to Washington and return the originals to Alger. The typed copies or summaries he would burn.

For some reason never yet convincingly explained, the crop of typed papers which Chambers produced in Baltimore he kept, instead of burning them. He broke with the Party, and abandoned his document conspiracy, around April 15, 1938. The papers which he had kept, instead of burning, he put into an envelope, which he gave for safekeeping to his wife's nephew, Nathan Levine, in May or June of that year. Levine put the envelope in an old dumbwaiter shaft in his mother's house in Brooklyn, and forgot about it. He had no idea what was in it.

There the documents are said to have rested for more than ten years. On November 4, 1948, at the deposition hearing in Baltimore, Chambers was asked to produce any correspondence or other papers that he might have received from any member of the Hiss family. He produced none the next day, and the hearing was adjourned. It was resumed on November 16 for testimony by Mrs. Chambers. On the following day Chambers reappeared, with the documents. Now, for the first time in his many official stories, he asserted that the conspiracy had actually involved the copying of official State Department papers. He told how he had recollected the existence of the envelope that he had given so many years before to Nathan Levine; how he had asked Levine for it; how they had gone together on November 14th to the house in Brooklyn and Levine had pulled the dust-encrusted envelope out of the dumbwaiter shaft and given it to him; how he had opened it by himself in the kitchen, while Levine was cleaning up the dust that had fallen on the floor; and how he was amazed at finding that the envelope contained these typewritten sheets, which he had forgotten all about.[3/]

With the typewritten sheets were other things, he said. There were the short handwritten memoranda. There were some yellow sheets supposedly in the handwriting of Harry Dexter White. There were two strips of developed microfilm, and three cylinders of microfilm, undeveloped. And, according to Chambers's article in the Saturday Evening Post for April 5, 1952, there were "one or two smaller items of no particular importance".

3/ This account necessarily telescopes Chambers's varying stories in the Baltimore deposition hearing, the first and second trials, and his Saturday Evening Post articles.

Nathan Levine made clear, and Chambers has repeatedly made clear for him, that Levine never knew what went into the envelope, and never saw what came out of it. He knew only that he had put it in the dumbwaiter shaft for Chambers in 1938; that he had gotten it out for him in October, 1948 (on cross-examination he corrected this to November 14, 1948); that it was sealed; and that it was bulky.[4]

The handwritten and typewritten papers Chambers produced in Baltimore three days later, on November 17th. The developed microfilm he did not; he held it for the House Committee, hidden in the pumpkin. Why, if he really found them all together in the envelope, is still a mystery.[5]

4/ See Levine's testimony at R. 726-731; also his testimony on December 10, 1948, before the House Committee.

5/ As in so many other respects, Chambers has made a belated attempt in his Saturday Evening Post articles to plug this particular hole in his story. Mystically, he explains that "the meaning of the pumpkin" is "the heart meaning of the case", and that he was "moved by a subconscious intuition" to put the microfilms in it. (Saturday Evening Post, April 5, 1952, p. 72). Strangely enough, even this explanation deals only with the three cylinders of undeveloped microfilm; for his decision "on the level of consciousness" was to divide the evidence "in order to try to find out what was on the undeveloped film" (ibid.). There is still no explanation of his failure to produce the developed film in Baltimore.

Foreground: What the Documents Themselves Show

If Chambers is telling the truth, the typed Baltimore Documents must have been typed by one person (Priscilla Hiss), on one typewriter (the Hiss family Woodstock),[6] currently over the three months period represented by the dates of the underlying State Department documents (January 5, to April 1, 1938). They must have been kept together in one envelope, a specific envelope, for ten years, over a disused dumbwaiter in Brooklyn. They must have rested there, in that envelope, with three cylinders of undeveloped microfilm and a "little spool of developed film (actually two strips)",[7] as well as with the "long memo on yellow foolscap in the handwriting of Harry Dexter White [and] one or two smaller items of no particular importance."[8]

6/ Baltimore 10, a precis of a long War Department MID report routed to Mr. Hamilton, of the Far Eastern Division of the State Department, was obviously not written on the same typewriter as the others, and the Government made no contention that it was (R. 1097-1101); but Chambers still pressed his recollection: "I believe Alger Hiss gave me that paper". (R. 655, contrast R. 532).

7/ This particular description comes from page 736 of an advance copy of Chambers's apologia, "Witness", shortly to be published. His April 5, 1952, article in the Saturday Evening Post speaks of "two strips of developed microfilm". His second trial testimony (R. 292) emphasizes that while the undeveloped film was in cylinders, the developed film was not. When Agent Appell of the FBI reached in and found it in the green pumpkin on December 2, 1948 (or when Chambers "took out the documents and handed them over"--whichever may be the fact--see R. 709-714; R. 295), they were still not in cylinders; according to Agent Appell, they were "wrapped one in another, wrapped in wax paper".

8/ This description is from his April 5, 1952, Saturday Evening Post article. The text of the "memo on yellow foolscap" ascribed to Harry Dexter White was read into the Congressional Record for January 30, 1950, by Representative Nixon, and the memorandum was there described as consisting of eight pages.

I attach affidavits of experts who have at last had an opportunity to examine and analyze the originals of the Baltimore Documents and the Hiss standards. Their qualifications have been set out before, in my earlier affidavits and in their affidavits which I annexed to mine. Mrs. Evelyn S. Ehrlich is an expert in the use of photomicrography to detect printing forgeries. Miss Elizabeth McCarthy is an expert in the examination of questioned documents, handwritten and typewritten. Dr. Daniel P. Norman is an expert in physical and chemical analysis of paper, metals and other materials. They have examined the Baltimore Documents, separately, according to their several expertnesses. They have recorded their findings in their affidavits, which I number

Exhibit 2S-I: Elizabeth McCarthy
Exhibit 2S-II: Evelyn S. Ehrlich
Exhibit 2S-III: Daniel P. Norman

They find, and will testify at a new trial:

Can we tell? Can we critize their reasons?

1. That the Baltimore Documents were not typed by one person, but by two, and probably more, and that therefore Priscilla Hiss cannot have typed all of them, as Chambers said she did. (Exhibit 2S-I)

2. That Priscilla Hiss did not type any of the Baltimore Documents. (Exhibit 2S-I)

3. That neither Priscilla nor Alger Hiss made the pencil corrections on the Baltimore Documents. (Exhibit 2S-I)

4. That the Baltimore Documents, physically observed, fall into two categories of size, one of which is made up of sheets apparently cut down to a particular size

Why?

(approximately 8" x 10½") after the typing had been done, but before the penciled corrections were made.[9] (Exhibit 2S-III)

5. That the same two categories show such different characteristics of aging and discoloration that they cannot have been stored together for ten years in a single envelope, and therefore cannot all have been kept in the envelope which Chambers recovered from the dumbwaiter. (Exhibit 2S-III)

6. That the envelope in which Chambers said the documents had been kept is most peculiar in itself; its observable stains, both outside and in, and the condition of its flap, and of the two parts of the label which presumably once sealed it, pose questions which defy logical explanation. (Exhibit 2S-III, especially illustrative Figures 5, 6 and 7).

7. That none of the Baltimore Documents can have been kept in that envelope; they are devoid of the stains and pressure marks which they would have had to show if they had been in the envelope. (Exhibit 2S-III)

8. That the absence of stains and pressure marks on the Baltimore Documents cannot be explained by the presence

9/ Spectrographic analysis of the typewriter ink at the edges of the pages which were cut off in the middle of line-end letters might have enabled us to prove more effectively that the cutting was done after the typing. The Government would not let us make the excisions necessary for this analysis.

Kisseloff-24368

of other protective material, since the envelope could not have held all these and the microfilms too.[10] (Exhibit 2S-III)

9. That the Baltimore Documents are a tricky set of papers, typed on a machine, or machines, closely resembling the original Hiss machine, but with miscellaneously different typewriter ribbons and faked typographical errors, plainly designed to confuse. (Exhibits 2S-I, 2S-II and 2S-III)

10. That the typewriter in evidence (Woodstock #H230099) was certainly not the original Hiss machine, although it probably was the machine made to forge the Baltimore Documents. (Exhibits 2S-II and 2S-III)

In short, the typed Baltimore Documents were not typed by Priscilla Hiss, or by any one person. They were not given to Chambers by Alger Hiss. They were not put in the envelope and kept in the dumbwaiter for ten long years. They are an ingenious set of forgeries.

CONCLUSION

After all my investigation, I still do not know exactly what Chambers did, or how he did it, or exactly what motivated him to frame Alger Hiss. Some signs point

10/ I have myself examined the envelope, and seen in it markings which might well have been made by the cylinders of undeveloped microfilm. There is another marking, made apparently by the presence of a squarish box or carton, approximately 3" x 3". This mark, from its shape and size, cannot be the mark of Chambers's "little spool of developed film"; and therefore even the "Pumpkin Papers" microfilm may well not have been in the envelope. Unfortunately, the United States Attorney would not permit us to split the envelope so that we could demonstrate photographically the interior markings and stains. The United States Attorney would not, either, let us see the 3 pages of "foolscap" on the ground that it had not been formally admitted as an exhibit at the trial--even though it had been produced in court, and its text has since been made public by Representative Nixon in the Congressional Record. Whether or not the foolscap shows stains or pressure marks, it could not have adequately protected the Baltimore Documents.

to the conclusion that, though his personal interest may have been largely to protect himself in the libel suit, the availability to him of the means for such self-protection may have been part of a much larger scheme, involving other people, and far larger objectives than the mere framing of Alger Hiss. This, however, is speculation. For purposes of this motion it should be enough that I present proof that every important point of the Government's case at the trials is vulnerable. Chambers was the Government's witness, its only real witness; and everything that he said, or did, or said he did, is tainted with fraud and forgery. The Government may present evidence to countervail some of my proffered proofs; if so, that will create issues. Those issues should be considered anew, by a jury. Wherever the truth may ultimately be found, in all its details, we have surely borne the burden of showing that on the proofs that went before the last jury a grave miscarriage of justice has occurred. We should be given a chance to rectify this at a new trial.

EXHIBIT 23-I

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS)
: ss.:
COUNTY OF SUFFOLK)

I, ELIZABETH McCARTHY, of Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, on oath depose and say:

I reside at 16 Porter Street and have an office at 40 Court Street, both in said Boston.

I am a qualified examiner of questioned documents. I have stated my qualifications in this respect in an affidavit executed January 22, 1952, for filing in connection with a motion for a new trial of Alger Hiss on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

My affidavit of January 22nd dealt with the results of an experiment being conducted by the attorneys for Alger Hiss to determine the extent to which it would be possible as a practical matter to build or adapt a typewriter which would so nearly duplicate the typing of another machine that qualified document examiners, comparing specimens of typing from the two machines, would be led by ordinary standards of comparison to conclude that only a single machine had been used.

When I first agreed to assist in the experiment, I told Mr. Lane, Mr. Hiss's attorney, that I doubted very much whether such a machine could be made, but that if it could the knowledge that such a thing was possible would be so important to the profession of document examiners, as well as to the public at large, that I thought I would be doing a public service by assisting in the experiment.

As my earlier affidavit shows, Mr. Lane's experiment, in terms of precise duplication of the typing of one machine by another, was carried to a point of perfection which I had not supposed possible. I illustrated this by attaching to my affidavit specimens of typing from the two machines. It may be that Government document examiners, approaching these two sets of specimens with the knowledge that some of them were typed on a machine deliberately fabricated so as to produce typing resembling that of another machine, have because of their forewarning been able to distinguish the products of the two machines; as of now, of course, I have no way of knowing how far they may have been successful in making such a distinction. I do believe, however, that the experiment was carried to a point so close to complete duplication that any careful document examiner who from here on engages to compare questioned typing with samples, in a situation where the background facts allow the possibility that a duplicate machine might have been constructed for forgery purposes, must take that possibility into account, and must be prepared to be confronted with a duplication so substantially complete as to defy detection.

We always have it into account

Recently, Mr. Lane told me that the Government had finally agreed to let him have an expert examination made of the originals of the so-called Baltimore Documents which had been introduced in evidence in the Hiss trials, as well as the so-called Hiss Standards with which Mr. F[illegible]han, the Government's document expert, had compared them. He asked me to compare these two sets of documents with each other, and also with specimens of typing from the so-called Hiss machine in his possession--that is, the machine which had been introduced into the trials as being the machine owned by the Hisses in the 1930's, and which had been used as the standard machine in the experiment of trying to create a duplicate. He said he wanted my opinion as to whether all three sets of documents had been typed on one machine--in which case, of course, the machine would necessarily be the so-called Hiss machine--or whether more than one machine was used, and, if so, how many.

I have never examined Mr. Lane's so-called Hiss machine, my work in connection with the construction of the duplicate having been limited to examination of specimens of typing from it and from the duplicate machine. However, since the experiment in duplication was finished and I made my January affidavit about it, I have read Dr. Daniel Norman's affidavit of March 7th in which he describes and illustrates the results of his physical examination of the machine, and the grounds for his conclusion that it is a deliberately altered machine. I have made my examination of the three sets of documents in the light of my knowledge of Dr. Norman's findings, as well as my own experience in studying the typing results of a machine deliberately created for the purpose of showing that forgery by typewriter would be possible.

Without considering the possibility of forgery, I should have concluded, by all standard tests ordinarily applied by questioned document examiners, that all three sets of documents were typed on the same machine. I should not have based this conclusion merely upon an inconsequential number of relatively identical peculiarities,*/ but upon the more convincing fact that

*/ I have in mind the ten similarities of typing impression between the Baltimore Documents and the standards which Mr. Feehan, the Government's expert at the second trial, relied on as a basis for his opinion that they were typed on the same machine. I call them inconsequential not only because Mr. Feehan gave no testimony as to the identity or dissimilarity of the other seventy-four characters, but because eight of the ten peculiarities which he picked are of a kind which are most likely to occur in old typewriters, particularly Woodstocks of this vintage. For example, I have seen at least fourteen Woodstocks of this period, all of which had somewhat similar damage at the right side of the lower loop of the "g". The final upstroke of the "e" is one of the most vulnerable small pieces of type in the whole keyboard, and is often rushed to the right or left out of its perfect arc in much-used machines. I could continue the catalogue in detail.

Which means nothing.

Just all together and all other characters?

How about other characters?

Kisseloff-24373

I find no substantial consistent deviations in type impressions as among the three sets of documents. However, my own experience has shown me that it is possible, by careful work on a machine, to eliminate almost completely the deviations which would normally have developed between its typing and that of another machine, and therefore, while I cannot say definitely that all three sets of documents were not typed on the same machine, I believe it just as possible, in the light of the observable facts, that the Baltimore Documents were typed on a machine which was not the original Hiss machine used for the standards, but another machine made to type like the original Hiss machine. Since the typing of the Baltimore Documents so closely resembles the typing of the specimens from the so-called Hiss machine, and since Dr. Norman has furnished evidence that that machine is a deliberately fabricated one, I can only conclude that, as between the two possibilities, the forgery of the Baltimore Documents is the more likely. If the Baltimore Documents are forged, the forgery is a good one, but it is no better than I know would be possible with careful workmanship.

This is the conclusion of [illegible]

Norman incorrect. Plus her "so closely resembles" seems to equal id.

N.C. Knows standards and #5-#9, #11-#47

I have not confined my examination of the documents to a comparison of the typing for purposes of trying to reach an opinion as to how many machines were used. When Mr. Lane asked me to make this comparison he told me that there were additional points on which he wanted my opinion. He said that, while the defense had on earlier occasions been allowed to photograph the documents in one way or another, the originals had never, so far as he knew, been made available for close and detailed expert study. He told me that according to Chambers's testimony at the trial all the typewritten Baltimore Documents had been typed by Priscilla Hiss and given to him by Alger Hiss at some time between January 5 and April 15, 1938. He asked me to examine the original documents closely and give him my opinion as to whether this testimony was correct.

I have done so, and am satisfied that Chambers's testimony on this point cannot possibly be correct. The following are my more significant conclusions; I am prepared to support and illustrate each of them in detail on the stand if given an opportunity.

1. No one person typed the Baltimore Documents. There were certainly two typists, whose work varied sharply in evenness of pressure, typing skill, mechanical understanding and control of the machine, style habits, and other similar respects. No one person's work could exhibit such differences. It is quite possible that more than two typists were involved.

2. Since certainly more than one person typed the Baltimore Documents, Priscilla Hiss cannot have typed them all. Furthermore, the characteristics of her typing make it perfectly clear that she was not either of the two principal typists involved. I base this conclusion to a considerable extent upon such factors, not clearly observable except from the original documents, as typing rhythm, pressure habits and variations, quality of touch, pace of typing, relative competence of the two hands, and the like. My conclusion from these factors is borne out by many other differentiating characteristics in such matters as style, mechanical skill, and habits of mind. Priscilla Hiss did not in my opinion type any of the Baltimore Documents.

3. The respective tendencies towards certain kinds of typing errors and corrections are also extremely important. It is a common habit of most typists, when an incorrect letter is struck, to push the carriage back and strike over the wrong letter with the right one. The normal and almost universal tendency, in doing this, is to strike the second, correct, letter more heavily, so as to obliterate the first, incorrect, impression.

Done.

In the Baltimore Documents I find from examination of the originals no less than twenty-seven instances where the ordinary habit is reversed, and the incorrect letter is struck more heavily than the correct one. There is no such instance in any of the Hiss standards.

See K22 PP3 7

This difference goes far to support the conclusion that Priscilla Hiss did not type the Baltimore Documents. But it has an additional, far-reaching significance. The phenomenon is not isolated; it appears on seventeen pages of the Baltimore Documents, and in the work of both of the clearly different typists, so that it cannot be a personal idiosyncrasy. It is such an extraordinary phenomenon, so lacking in rational explanation in the work of any ordinary typist, that it can scarcely be explained on any other basis than that the typists of the Baltimore Documents either were attempting to make precise and intentional copies of someone else's unintentional typing errors, or were attempting to simulate the work of some other relatively inaccurate typist.

Kisseloff-24376

4. While on the subject of typing errors, I feel I should comment on the statement of the prosecutor, Mr. Murphy, to the jury, that the jury could draw conclusions as to the identity of the typist by observing three "common typing errors", namely, the combinations "r" for "i", "f" for "g", and "f" for "d", and noting that they appeared both in the Baltimore Documents and in two of the standards, Government Exhibits 34 and 46-B.

In my opinion this observation was grossly misleading. The combination "r" for "i" does not appear at all in the standards, in the sense of being a confusion between the two letters. The instance Mr. Murphy obviously had in mind is in the word "transcript" in Government Exhibit 34, where the typist, having originally written the letters "transri", noticed the omission of the "c", and went back to type the letters "cr" over the letters "ri", thus superimposing the "r" on the "i".

The "combinations" "f" for "g" and "f" for "d" are the commonest kind of typing errors, committed by every typist because of the proximity of the letters on the keyboard. Even if Mr. Murphy's selection of what he calls "common typing errors" were correct--which they are not--or were unusual--which they are not--they are totally insignificant against the fact that the Baltimore Documents contain at least fifty typing errors of a kind which do bear on the personality of the typist and which do not appear anywhere in the standards, while on the other hand nine errors of that nature appearing in the standards never occur in the Baltimore Documents. Only four errors of this kind are common to the two sets of documents.

5. Entirely apart from the typing of the Baltimore Documents, my examination of the originals has given me an opportunity to draw certain conclusions from the pencilled corrections and proof-reading marks appearing Kasetkin 4377

A striking fact is that, whereas the Baltimore Documents are claimed to have been typed currently from day to day over a period of about three months, the pencilled corrections give the appearance of having been made in one continuous operation rather than at the separate times when the separate pages should have been typed. The corrections and proof-reading marks were made with a soft, grayish-black pencil, in approximately the same condition of wornness and bluntness throughout, and are quite inconsistent with the idea that the same or different pencils were used at a number of different times over a three months period.

As to the handwriting and the correctional or proof-reading habits, they show that the pencil notations were carefully done, at one time, by one person, quite probably with stenographic training. I have studied numerous samples of the handwriting of Alger and Priscilla Hiss, as well as samples of documents furnished to me as taken from Alger Hiss's files in the 1930's and showing his correctional and proof-reading habits. In my opinion neither Alger nor Priscilla Hiss could have done the pencil marking on the documents.

6. Although the pencil corrections would appear, as I have said, to have been made in one operation, examination of the ribbon imprint appearing on the original documents makes it seem extremely unlikely that the documents were typed in a normal single continuous operation, or even consecutively by the same person over a period of three months. I base this observation on the fact that the ink on documents dated on the same day sometimes differs radically in color, documents dated within a few days of each other likewise show ink of different shades, and documents typed months apart show ink of much the same color. At least four, and probably more, ribbons were used, and if the documents were typed consecutively according to their dates it would appear that these four or more ribbons were alternately being put on and taken off the machine, sometimes daily, or every day or so. The best ribbon, making the blackest and clearest impression, was used only once, in Baltimore Document No. 9. I do not undertake to suggest any explanation as to why this alternation of ribbons may have taken place, but merely point out that it appears entirely inconsistent with the normal use of a typewriter.

EXHIBIT 23-III

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS)
COUNTY OF ESSEX) ss.:

DANIEL P. NORMAN, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

I am President of Skinner & Sherman, Inc., 246 Stuart Street, Boston, Mass. My firm is engaged in the business of testing and analysis, both physical and chemical, of paper, and other materials, for the United States Armed Services, Federal, State, and Municipal Departments, and major industrial firms. My qualifications, and those of my organization, in this and related fields are set out in detail in an affidavit which I executed on March 7, 1952, for filing in connection with a motion for a new trial of Alger Hiss on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

In the latter part of March, 1952, Chester T. Lane, attorney for Alger Hiss, informed me that the United States Attorney had finally agreed to make available to him for physical examination and analysis the originals of the so-called Baltimore Documents which were introduced in evidence at the Hiss trials, and he requested me and my organization to examine these documents by physical and chemical tests in an attempt to obtain any possible information as to their source and history. He told me that he was particularly interested in any conclusions which I could draw from such an examination which would bear upon the truth of the claim that Baltimore Documents 5-47 were all documents typed by one person on one machine in the period of approximately the first three months of 1938 and had all been kept together, with other material, in a single envelope from the middle of 1938 until November 1948.

Baltimore Documents 5-47 and Government Exhibits 34, 37, 39 and 46-B (the Hiss Standards) were made available to me and my organization under FBI guard in Boston on April 1, 1952. Shortly thereafter, at my request, there were also made available the envelope (Government Exhibit 19) in which I understand it has been claimed that the documents were stored between 1938 and 1948, as well as Baltimore Documents 1-4 (the handwritten notes) and Government Exhibits 66 and 66-A (the paper on which Mr. McCool typed in court).

I was permitted to cut a section of the blank portions of each of the typed Baltimore Documents, a section of page 3 of Government's Exhibit 46-B, and a section of the completely blank page of Exhibit 66. In most instances the sections were approximately 1" square but in a few instances as large as approximately 4" x 5". I was not permitted to take any section on which there was typing or writing of any kind, and wherever an abnormality of any kind, such as a stain or spot, was observed I had to leave at least half of the abnormality.

I was also permitted to cut six 1" squares from the envelope, one from the flap, three from the front and two from the back, the sections in each instance again being so selected that at least half of each stain in which I was interested was left intact on the envelope. (By "back" of the envelope I mean the side on which the clasp and label are found; by "front" I mean the opposite side--the side on which the address would normally be written.) When the specimens were taken, both from the documents and from the envelope, I would indicate the portion I wanted and an FBI agent would then cut it off, the agent and I would initial the main part of the document, and we would then photograph the document and the portion cut therefrom, simultaneously, approximately in situ. It was not possible to photograph the markings on the inside of the envelope without slitting it open, and I was denied permission to do this.

Except as just indicated, I was permitted to photograph the documents and the envelope freely.

While I was allowed to take away and use as I saw fit the samples cut from the documents and from the envelope, the balance of the papers were at all times kept under surveillance by one or more representatives of the FBI.

As a result of direct observation of the papers and study of my photographs of them, as well as chemical and other analyses of the specimens which were furnished to me, I have been able to reach a number of definite conclusions bearing on the questions which Mr. Lane asked us to consider.

1a. Physically, the typed Baltimore Documents except Nos. 9 and 10 fall into two different size categories:

A. 8½" x 11" (Baltimore Documents numbered 5, 6, 7, 8, 12, 13, 15, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47).

B. 8" x 10½" (Baltimore Documents numbered 11, 14, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36).

1b. From the arrangement of the typing on the pages of the documents in category B, including the observable narrow margins and the frequent slicing of the edge of the paper through the typed letters at the right margin, it appears probable that at some time after the typing was done all the sheets in this category were cut down from some other size or sizes to the present 8" x 10½" size. I illustrate this observation by a photograph marked Figure 1, which is a 0.4 magnification of Baltimore 22, page 1, showing the entire document right out to the edge of the paper. Figure 2 is a 0.4 magnification of Baltimore 17, page 1, showing similar crowding at the right margin, and particularly the cutting at the end of the 25th line. Figure 3 is a 3X enlargement of a portion of the right margin of the same page, showing how the last word in the 25th line of the text was cut off and the missing portion pencilled in. Figure 4 shows a 3X enlargement of the upper right margin of Baltimore 11, page 1, showing particularly the words in the 23rd and 25th lines which have been cut off at the edge of the paper.

Phenomena of this kind are present on many other pages of documents in category B, but are not present in any of the pages of documents in category A.

2a. The majority of the typed Baltimore Documents are on paper which meets present-day Federal specifications for white manifold papers of types IV and V. That is to say, they are composed wholly or predominantly of chemical wood fibers. None of the papers show an abnormally high acidity (the pH of water extracts of the paper vary between 5.0 and 5.5, while the specifications merely require that the pH be not less than 4.2), and there is no evidence of abnormal chemical properties in the many samples tested.

2b. All documents in category A (8½" x 11") are heavily yellowed and show marks of age over substantial portions of their area to a degree not apparent in any of the documents in category B (8" x 10½"). The appearance of the paper in the category B documents is very similar to that of Government manifold paper known to have been stored in ordinary office files from 1937 to 1952. The appearance of the paper in the category A documents is that of sheets which have been subjected to deteriorating conditions which were not uniform across the area of the sheets.

It is well known that the conditions of storage of paper have a considerable influence on its degree of permanence, variations in heat and humidity being in particular reponsible for variations in the rate of aging and yellowing of paper. In view of the fact that most of the papers in both category A and category B are of the same general class (predominantly chemical wood pulp) and show no chemical idiosyncrasies (such as abnormal alum concentrations which would be reflected in abnormal acidity), I conclude that the two categories of documents could not have been stored together under the same atmospheric conditions for most of their existence.

Experiments which we have conducted with paper of comparable quality known to have come from Government files in the latter part of the 1930's have satisfied us that the present appearance of the typed Baltimore Documents cannot have been caused by the handling and exposure to light to which these documents have presumably been subjected since they were first turned over to the Government in November 1948. Particularly, such handling and exposure to light could not explain the varying degrees of aged appearance shown by the documents in the two categories, A and B.

3. What I have said indicates that it would have been impossible for all the typed Baltimore Documents to have been stored together over the 10 year period from 1938 to 1948. From this it follows that they cannot have been all stored together during that period in the envelope in which they are alleged to have been stored.

I have carefully examined this envelope (Government Exhibit 19) for the purpose of determining whether it would nevertheless have been possible that some of the documents might have been stored in it. My examination leads to the conclusion that it would not have been possible. I base this observation on analyses of certain stains appearing on both the front and back of the envelope, and both inside and out, as well as upon observation of the effect made on the envelope by the presence of certain hard physical objects which may have been microfilm containers of one kind or another. These observations lead me to conclude that, unless very elaborate precautions had been taken, no set of papers could have been enclosed for a period of 10 years in this envelope without showing stains or pressure marks which are totally absent in all the typed Baltimore Documents. In view of the size of the envelope and the presumed size of the microfilm containers or other physical objects which were enclosed in it, I am satisfied that there would not have been room in the envelope for additional material sufficient to protect the Baltimore Documents.

At my suggestion Mr. Lane requested permission to examine the 8 sheets of yellow paper which were marked at the trial as Government Exhibit 20 for Identification, and which Chambers testified were also enclosed in the envelope. This permission was denied, so that I have no knowledge as to whether those yellow sheets reflect the type of stains or pressure marks to which I have referred. However, if they do, I am satisfied that no 8 sheets of ordinary paper could have been so arranged as completely to protect any set of papers, of the type used for the Baltimore Documents, from markings of the kind I have described.

I do not undertake to present at this time detailed data on the results of the examinations and analyses which I and my organization have made of the stains and pressure marks appearing on the envelope. I do, however, illustrate the condition of the envelope by the attached photographs--Figures 5, 6 and 7. For purposes of these photographs the envelope was held down by two rubber bands.

Figure 5 is a photograph of the front of the envelope with the flap open so that the stains on the outside of the envelope are visible.

Figure 7 shows the back of the envelope with the flap closed. It is interesting to note that the portion of the label which is still attached to the flap shows an entirely different degree of discoloration and staining than does the portion of the label adhering to the back of the envelope, although they were clearly once part of the same label. Unfortunately, I was not permitted by the FBI to slit open the envelope so that I could take photographs of its interior, particularly photographs illustrating the internal stains which I have observed and analyzed, and the character of which precludes their being due to seepage or penetration from the outside.

4. Mr. Lane asked us to make a separate study of the ribbon thread counts visible on the typed Baltimore Documents. This study has established to our satisfaction that at least four ribbons were used in the typing of these documents. Alternation in the use of the various ribbons bears no discernible relationship to any possible grouping of the documents by their dates; in fact, in a number of instances two documents dated some time apart are typed with a ribbon of a given thread count while other documents with dates in between are typed with a ribbon of a different count.

5. I report the result of one further separate experiment which I conducted at Mr. Lane's request. He advised me that Ira Lockey, from whom the defense had acquired Woodstock No. N230099, had testified at the second trial that when he originally acquired the machine in 1945 it was out in a heavy rain in a Washington backyard. He asked me to determine whether No. N230099 could have been exposed outdoors to the elements for any length of time. As a basis for reaching a conclusion on this point I exposed a Woodstock typewriter of the same general class and approximately the same serial number outdoors in Ipswich, Mass., for a period of two weeks. For the first week, on days in which we did not have rain, we wet the typewriter down with water. In the second week, which was relatively dry, we did not. At the end of the first three days this comparison Woodstock machine showed appreciable signs of corrosion and damage in the form of paint flaking off and rust appearing on various parts of the mechanism. At the end of two weeks the type face, the type bars, the carriage ways, the slotted segment in which the type moves, and all the unpainted metal portions, showed heavy rusting and the paint on the carriage back and sides of the machine showed substantial flaking and spotting. No traces of rust or of flaking of the paint of the nature we have observed in this exposed comparison machine can be found on No. N230099. It appears to be merely a somewhat dirty machine.

In my opinion Woodstock No. N230099 could not be in its present condition if it had ever been exposed to a heavy rain, unless after such exposure it had been completely reconditioned.

EXHIBIT 2S-II

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS)

COUNTY OF SUFFOLK)

EVELYN SELTZER EHRLICH, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

My name is Evelyn Seltzer Ehrlich. I live at 417 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts. My background and training in the detection of spurious and deceptive imprints and typography, as well as my experience in the use of photomicrography in the detection and illustration of documentary forgeries, are outlined in an affidavit which I executed on January 24, 1952, for filing in connection with a motion being made for a new trial of Alger Hiss on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

In my earlier affidavit I dealt with two problems which Mr. Hiss's attorney, Chester T. Lane, had asked me to consider.

1. I examined samples of typing taken from a Woodstock typewriter which Mr. Lane told me was supposed to have belonged to the Hiss family in the 1930's, and contrasted them with samples of typing taken from another machine which Mr. Lane told me he had had made with the object of duplicating as nearly as possible the typing from the so-called Hiss machine. The object of this examination was to determine how nearly perfect a duplication had been achieved. On the basis of my examination I found that I could successfully differentiate the typing of the two machines on the basis of a few specific characteristics, but, as I stated in my affidavit, except for these subtle details I found that the microscopic variations on one machine had been duplicated on the other so faithfully that I might not have believed it possible that two separate machines were involved if I had not been so informed in advance.

In addition, after studying the testimony given by the Government's expert, Mr. Ramos C. Feehan, in the second trial in the Hiss case, I expressed the opinion that any document expert, acting with reasonable care, who applied the criteria of comparison used by Mr. Feehan to the samples sent me by Mr. Lane from his two machines would reach the conclusion that a single machine had been used to type all of them.

2. The second problem which I considered in my affidavit of January 24th involved a three-way comparison between the typing in (a) specimens from the so-called Hiss machine in Mr. Lane's possession, (b) the Baltimore Documents, and (c) the documents introduced as Government standards at the trial and admittedly typed in the 1930's on the machine then owned by the Hisses.

For purposes of this comparison I was furnished with original specimens from the so-called Hiss machine, but only with photocopies of the Government standards--known as Government Exhibits 34, 37, 39 and 46-B--and of three of the Baltimore Documents. Mr. Lane explained to me that the original Baltimore Documents and the original Government standards were in the possession of the Government and that he did not have access to them for comparison purposes.

The photocopies thus supplied to me were in general so distorted by the copying process that I found them too inaccurate to work from. However, one photocopy--that of Government Exhibit 46-B, one of the standards of Hiss typing--was sufficiently clear to enable me to form a tentative conclusion that the machine on which that document was typed might well not be the same as the so-called Hiss machine in Mr. Lane's possession. I attached to my affidavit a series (Series B) of photo-micrographs made at 15X and 17X magnifications, which in my opinion tended to support this tentative judgment. As I stated in my affidavit, I was unwilling to express any final judgment regarding the similarities or the inconsistencies between the two sets of typing without access to the original of the material used as a standard.

In the latter part of March, 1952, Mr. Lane informed me that he had had a conference with the United States Attorney and with the Judge, and that the Government had agreed to allow him to have access to the original Baltimore Documents and the original Government standards of Hiss typing for detailed examination and comparison with each other and with specimens from the so-called Hiss machine. Mr. Lane asked me to make such a detailed examination and comparison, with a view to seeing whether study of the originals would support any more positive conclusion than I had been able to reach on my earlier examination of the copies.

The original documents were put at my disposal in Boston under FBI guard on April 1, 1952, and I have been allowed to make an intensive study of them, and to take such photographs and measurements as I might wish. I have also been able to make a similar study of the original of Defendant's Exhibit TT, a letter apparently typed on the Hiss Woodstock in 1933. For comparison purposes I have had a large number of specimens furnished me as having been typed on the so-called Hiss machine (which I will call #N230099) at various times and with varying ribbons and operators, from the date when the machine was first discovered in April, 1949, down to the present.

Kisseloff-24391

In studying and contrasting these three sets of documents (Baltimore Documents 5-47; the Hiss standards [Government's Exhibits 34, 37, 39 and 46-B and Defendant's Exhibit TT]; specimens taken since April 16, 1949, from #N230099), I found many of them difficult to work from. The Baltimore Documents were all on poor types of paper with inadequate sizing and a high degree of absorbency. In many instances the ribbons were apparently moist. These factors resulted in obscuring the exact characteristics of the type which might have been observable on microscopic examination if the documents had been on other kinds of paper. Two of the Hiss standards--Government Exhibits 34 and 39--are likewise inadequate for comparison purposes; the latter is an inexpensive and extremely absorbent bond, and the former, though with a good sizing surface, has a highly irregular surface conformation; and both are typed with a heavy, moist ribbon which further alters the measurements to such an extent that precise comparisons are almost impossible. In this connection, I have noted that when Mr. Feehan, in his testimony at the second trial, was illustrating to the jury the ten similar characteristics which he said supported his opinion that the same machine typed both the Baltimore Documents and the Hiss standards, he used letters appearing in these two blurred exhibits--Government Exhibits 34 and 39--to illustrate every one of his ten characteristics, with only two supporting references to Government Exhibit 46-B, and none at all to Government Exhibit 37 or Defendant's Exhibit TT.

The only reliable comparison I have found possible is between the three last-mentioned standards, and the specimens I have been furnished from #N230099. On the basis of this comparison I am now prepared to confirm the tentative judgment I formed earlier on the basis of my study of a photocopy of Government Exhibit 46-B.

In my opinion, #N230099 cannot be the same machine that typed Government Exhibits 37 and 46-B and Defendant's Exhibit TT. I base this opinion upon certain differences in type impressions between many of the letters in the two sets of documents, these differences appearing with such a high degree of regularity as to preclude the possibility of their being due to variations of ribbon, typing pressure, or other peculiarities of operation, and being of such a nature that differences in imprint cannot be due to age or wear on the machine.

On the other hand, I have not found it possible to form a definite opinion as to whether the Baltimore Documents were typed on #N230099.*/ I observe certain subtle details of difference, but these are of a kind which might quite possibly be due to the particular ribbons and the absorbent quality of the low grade of poorly sized paper which was used for the Baltimore Documents. The same is true of a comparison between the Baltimore Documents and the Hiss Standards 46-B, 37 and TT. As to these comparisons I can only say that the observable peculiarities in the type of the Baltimore Documents in my opinion more nearly resemble the peculiarities in the typing from #N230099 than they do the peculiarities in the Hiss Standards which I used for comparison.

I am attaching photographs intended to illustrate the grounds for my opinion. Series A, C, E and F show comparisons, at 15X magnification, of the "y", "t", "u" and "n" appearing in all three sets of documents. The particular imprints which I have chosen to photograph have been selected not because they were unusual, but because after careful study I found them typical examples, for photomicrographic purposes, of the particular peculiarities which I observe in these letters throughout the three sets of documents. Nor are these four letters the only ones which could be used to illustrate my opinion. The kinds of distortions which I have illustrated, particularly by the "u" and the "n", could be equally well illustrated by photographic studies of many of the other characters on the keyboard.

The photographs in Series B and D are enlargments of details of the "y" and "t" appearing in the three sets of documents, at magnification 26X. The photomicrographs in Series A-F were made in the same way as those which were made for my earlier affidavit, except that polarized light was used for most of the photomicrographs included with this affidavit.

SERIES A and B

y. The clear-cut sharp angles which are almost always apparent at the juncture of the seriphs and the legs of the small letter "y" in the Hiss Standards 46-B, 37 and TT are almost always blurred and indistinct in the imprints of this letter by N230099. The left leg of the small letter "y" appears to meet the main staff of the letter at a higher point in the imprints of this letter in the Hiss Standards than in the imprints made by #N230099. This difference makes the descender of the small letter "y" longer in the Hiss Standards than it does in the imprints from #N230099. There is a break or cut in the type face of the terminal arc in the descender of the small letter "y" in #N230099 which does not appear in the other two sets of documents. This defect helps to obscure the difference between the length of the descender of the "y" in the #N230099 machine and that of the "y" in the Hiss Standards where the type face is continuous in this terminal curve. It also tends to confuse micrometric comparisons between the letter "y" as it appears in the Baltimore Documents and as it appears in specimens from #N230099.

t. The arc in the terminal curve of the small letter "t" is wider in most of the imprints of this letter in the Hiss Standards 46-B, 37 and TT than in the imprints of this letter by #N230099, and the line of the curve follows a different pattern.

variations for comment of no value.

u. The angles where the lower seriph and the loop, respectively, meet the right leg are different in the imprints of #N230099 from those in the Hiss Standards 46-B, 37 and TT.

SERIES F

n. The differences between the imprints of this letter in the Hiss Standards 46-B, 37 and TT, and the imprints in the typing from #N230099, are most clearly shown in the angles where the seriphs meet the left and right leg and where the loop meets the left upright.

EXHIBIT I-B

STATE OF NEW YORK }
COUNTY OF NEW YORK } SS.:

I, Elizabeth McCarthy, of Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, on oath depose and say:

I reside at 16 Porter Street and have an office at 40 Court Street, both in said Boston.

I am a qualified examiner of questioned documents.

I was graduated from Vassar College with a degree of A.B., from Simmons College, and from Portia Law School with a degree of LL.B.

I am an attorney at law.

During the last sixteen years I have testified frequently in state and federal courts in many parts of the country in cases involving questioned handwriting, typewriting, inks, paper, rubber stamps, imprints, et cetera. I have frequently been employed as a document expert by both federal and state prosecuting officials and law enforcement agencies, and pursuant to such employment have examined documents, prepared reports, rendered expert opinions, and presented expert testimony in court on behalf of both federal and state governments. I have lectured at various law schools and before bar associations and banking groups on the subject of document identification, and on the presentation of testimony on the subject. I have qualified as an expert in the examination of disputed typewritten documents in many courts in various jurisdictions and have been consulted by many judges of such courts. I am at present the document expert for the Police Department of the City of Boston and for the Massachusetts State Police. I have had occasion in many cases to make intensive studies of questioned typewriting and to make comparisons with samples taken from other machines.

Heretofore, so far as I am aware, it has been the underlying assumption of all qualified document examiners, including myself, that no two typewriters could ever, merely by accidental coincidence, make identical impressions, and also that it would be as a practical matter impossible to change or adapt any one machine to the extent necessary to enable it to duplicate the product of another machine in all relevant respects. As a consequence it has been the practice of document examiners, however highly qualified, to concentrate their examination upon the presence or absence of a substantial number of identical peculiarities or irregularities in the questioned and known typing, in the belief that if any considerable number of such identical peculiarities or irregularities was found there would be no possibility that even the laws of chance could have produced such peculiarities in two separate machines. This evidently was the basis of the opinion given by the Government's expert, Ramos C. Feehan, in his testimony at the second trial, since he testified solely as to the existence of ten specific identical peculiarities in the type impressions in the two sets of documents. It could not have occurred to Mr. Feehan, any more than it would have occurred to any other qualified document examiner, that even a possibility existed of a machine having been fabricated to such an extent of perfection as to be able to produce as many identical peculiarities of type as appeared in the two sets of documents.

In the earlier part of this year I was consulted by Chester T. Lane, Esquire, attorney, of 70 Pine Street, New York City. He told me he was conducting an experiment to determine whether it would as a practical matter be possible to build a typewriter which would meet the standards of identity accepted by document examiners as grounds for a conclusion that a single machine had been used in two sets of documents. He said he had for a long time been looking for a qualified expert who could assist in the experiment by checking the results but that all the experts he had so far talked to had refused to have any part of it. I said I doubted that such an experiment could in any large measure be successful, but I expressed my willingness to examine the products of his experimental machine as the experiment continud, and to point out the respects in which the attempted duplication had not yet been successful. In undertaking this assignment I had in mind that the profession of document examiners, as well as the public at large, were entitled to learn whether any such experiment could be successfully conducted, since if it could, general knowledge of the fact would be essential as a means of preventing large numbers of forgeries which otherwise might be successfully carried out.

It was agreed that I should confine any examination to samples from the two machines without at any time inspecting the machines themselves, or any duplicates of their type; and my work throughout has been confined to typed samples.

The experiment has now been completed to the greatest extent possible in the time allowed. I am not prepared to say that the duplication btween the two machines is even yet complete to the highest degree of accuracy, and in fact I know that there are still a small number of characters sufficiently dissimilar so that in the light of the careful observation I have had occasion to give to samples from the two machines during the progress of the experiment I should myself find it possible to distinguish between the products of the two machines. Nevertheless, it is my opinion, based upon my long experience in methods of questioned document examination, that the duplication has progressed to such a degree that an expert in the field, however highly qualified, would find it difficult if not impossible to distinguish between samples from the two machines.

I attach samples of the writing from the two machines, which I believe will demonstrate the soundness of this conclusion. I have a key showing which samples were made on which machine, and shall be glad to furnish it to the court should it be desired to check the accuracy of the results of any test to which the Government may choose to subject the samples.

I should add that even if it can be demonstrated that my above conclusion is unfounded, it is my opinion as an expert in the examination of questioned documents that the duplication has progressed to a point where any document examiner not forewarned (as anyone now examining these samples must necessarily be) that a deliberate attempt at duplication of machines had been made, would be deceived into thinking that all the samples were made on a single machine. In particular, the success of the experiment shows that any such testimony as that given by the Government's expert, Mr. Feehan, at the second trial, basing his conclusion of identity of machines on the identity of only ten characters in the two sets of documents, is absolutely worthless.

Dear Mr. White:

When you called on the telephone last Friday afternoon I was with some one and so had the opportunity only of covering the essential point of our desire to have you help us on the problems and on the basis you and I had discussed at lunch. I wanted to run over with you a little more concretely than we had at lunch the assistance on the writing end. I wasn't able to reach you by phone later Friday afternoon and so I send you this scratch.

I was very glad to find you already knew Paul Appleby. That will facilitate good working relations. I think I made clear at lunch that Paul, John Russell and I have got our ideas pretty well fixed, subject to points that will be made at the August 25th session and in the review by various people we will get of the revision to follow August 25. I don't think, however, that I was so precise as I would have liked to have been in a later talk (after it was definitely set that you were available and we not hampered by other commitments) as to the kind of editorial assistance I think we will need.

Negatively put, it isn't a ghost-writing assignment or even a re-write job. Rather it's advice in the re-writing and help in the collecting of suggestions made on August 25 and subsequently. We will have a stenographer to help in making a record of the August 25 meeting and I realize that you will utilize that session largely to acquire background and to orient yourself in the field. Nonetheless I think it would help greatly if you could attempt to keep notes of your own of the main suggestions made. This would supplement John Russell's notes as he will have to be free to participate with Paul fully in the substantive discussion, with the result that his notes may necessarily suffer.

If in addition you and Paul and John can work out arrangements whereby you can actually take over re-drafting portions of the text -- in the introduction or recommendations -- so much the better. But that must, I think, be left up to Paul to decide as to the most efficient way of proceeding at the time when the three of you sit down together next Monday night or Tuesday morning after the session with the consultants. I'm sure, in any event, that you and Paul will work out arrangements that will be helpful to Paul in the grind of getting this baby born.

I'm going to ask Miss Sayre to make a copy of this to forward to Paul for his information so that we can all keep au courant of each other's thinking.

Description of personal characteristics of Timothy Hobson

I Schooling

Ten years old on September 19, 1936. Intellectually quick and intelligent. Lively interest in new information. Except for one year at the Sidwell Friends School has always attended progressive scholls and pre-schools of uneven merit but all with considerable individual supervisi n and little formal schooling. Reads well and enjoys it, spells and writes rather badly, fond of arithmetic but has not had a particularly satisfactory grounding in its fundamentals and will require special help. Enjoys music, has had two years of very simple piano training, naturally good ear and sense of rhythm, likes to sing. Natural mechanical interest and some ingenuity.

II Sports

Physically strong and active. Intense and apt to get over excited if not kept calm by occasional outside help. Has had little successful participation in organized athletics but at camp this summer has shown definite improvement in ability to participate in group games. Good at swimming and capable at riding -- enjoys both. Has rudimentary knowledge of baseball, football and basketball, in order named.

III General psychological traits not described above.

Only child. Has lived with mother and stepfather since the age of three. In past two years has occasionally visited father, resulting in some traces of strain -- mostly from absence of familiar routine and receipt of rather lavish presents. Imaginative, impulsive, sense of humor, frequently thoughtless of others but not mean or petty, tries to get own way but is definitely happiest when under consistent, friendly and rather firm discipline-- even though in moments of stress he pretends to misunderstand it. Apt to be acquisitive of material things and to get friends to give him their possessions in a thoughtless, impulsive kind of selfishness. Needs considerable help in social adjustment and self control, but has consciously improved in these respects in past eighteen months. Affectionate and intense in personal relations, tending to get over excited and fresh. Needs affection in return, but a consistent and calm relationship rather than stimulation. When lacking in security through fatigue, irregular discipline or too much stimulation is apt to try to dominate group activity to point of bossiness. He responds well to responsibility of which he is capable. This should come gradually as he is still too unstable to be able to handle much responsibility.

Sidwell Friends School considered him non-conforming, lazy, rude and lacking in cooperation but made no effort to study his individual problems. Withdrawn by parents from Friends School to give him fresh start and to avoid a fixed faculty antagonism there. Being naturally sunny and cheerful he held no grudges against Friends School and liked all his teachers. Had every expectation of returning, although he knew his status had been doubtful at end of last term. Got along well with most schoolmates, chummed with most individualistic and nonconforming types. Had some kind of scrape with Christopher Amussen in which Jim received a bruised eyeball which became slightly infected. Reason for fight never satisfactorily explained. Shock of unusually painful outcome left him afraid of Christopher for a while and still offish.

President's Report for the year 1936--1937.

Gov't Exh. # 39

Your president's report for the year should be entirely devoted to acknowledgment of help, it seems to me. The blitheness with which I entered the office at last Spring's last meeting had entirely evaporated by early Fall when I realized that the Club had taken upon itself the role of sponsoring two benefits and in addition the role of playing hostess to thirty three alumnae for the three-day Alumnar Council meeting.

All thanks should go to Canon Stokes for his extremely generous donation of time and energy in the series of lectures he gave for our scholarship fund in November. The efforts of Olivia Stokes, Laurie Stein and Margery Swope went into the arrangements for the lectures and contributed a great deal to their success. The response was very good, it seems to me, and the needy scholarship fund was the richer by a welcome one hundred and fifty dollars.

Came the Council meeting at the end of February, as you all know, and a more valiant committee never functioned under a more devoted chairman, Dorothea Blaisdell. At times it seemed to the Committee as though every possible fatality had been encountered only to have another crisis arise as it planned away for the food, housing and clothing for thirty three people for three days (and the clothing problem, or rather the dressing problem, really was acute when one remembers that Council members did have to have somewhere to dress between some of the functions). The Chairman of the Committee, Mrs Blaisdell, very amusingly recounted some of the mishaps in her March report to the Club. I think I should amplify her report with the remark that I really dont see how we could have provided a nicer background for the Council meetings, and that I do feel it was tremendously worth while for the Club to make the effort. Some sixty two Washington Bryn Mawrters appeared ~~for~~ at the Council dinner and the entire session pulled the Club together in a way that should be helpful for next year.

The benefit choice of Jane Eyre, with Katherine Hepburn, even in Holy Week, proved an excellent one on the part of the play committee. Mrs Grant, Olivia Stokes, Mrs O'Hara, Mrs Moorehead, and Mrs Tate had a very short time indeed to work out the details of selling tickets and publicity and accomplished wonders. And then there was of course the perfect gift of Katherine Hepburn herself to the scholarship fund. Her gesture was part and parcel of a very charming performance. We did not entertain for her because we thought she would be too busy and because we thought she didnt like social affairs. We did telegraph her about the benefit and wrote her afterwards.

Our speakers for the year were three: Mr Roy Veatch, of the State Department, and two alumnae, Olivia Fountain and Dr. Ethel Dunham, who spoke on their interesting work with the Federal Government. The fact that too many of our club meetings had to be business meetings prevented our having more speakers.

Our scholarship chairman, Mrs Tate, deserves especial thanks from the Club for stirring up so much interest in our District scholarship, particularly among the high schools, and for her faithful cooperation with College in all of the scholarship problems as they have arisen about our past and future candidates. She has been a most helpful and pleasant worker for the year as have our treasurer and secretary, Mrs Abbott and Mrs Kelton.

So you see I really feel that my report to you should be in the nature of a bread and butter letter for the pleasant year I have had working with you and the deep thanks I feel for the help the committees have been.

Govt Exh #39

Throughout the year various problems of policy came up and had too little discussion because of the hecticness of this particular year of the Club's life. In closing I should like to recommend to the Club, however, that next year, perhaps during the first few meetings, might be a good time to shape policy on various points which, once settled, would save time for the future. In particular there is the problem of our scholarships, to wit, whether we shall send one girl to Bryn Mawr for four years or each year launch a different freshman from the District at Bryn Mawr. Another problem which comes up every year is that of whether to "save for a rainy day" or whether to disburse all of our funds annually. A third problem is the relationship of the Washington Club to the Summer School, that is whether the Summer School which is now much more a part of the College than ever before, does not belong among our responsibilities.

So, having helped to settle none of these major problems of policy this year, I pass the burden along to the Club next year with a hearty God Speed.

Mr. W.M. Hillegeist,
Director of Admissions,
University of Maryland,
Baltimore, Maryland.

Dear Mr. Hillegeist,

I am sending to your office today, together with the necessary photographs and application fee, an application for entrance into the summer course in Inorganic Chemistry, beginning June 7th, in the School of Pharmacy. I have written, as you suggested yesterday, to Bryn Mawr College asking that the transcript of my college record be sent directly to your office to expedite matters. Since I am extremely anxious to take the course and obtain the necessary credits for Mercy Hospital's training course in medical technology, I am hoping that my application may be accepted as speedily as possible so that I may pay the necessary matriculation and tuition fees soon to avoid technical mishaps in my record.

I realize that this is extremely short notice for your office and very much appreciate your assurance that, if there are any delays in registration, I may begin the course on June 7th before registration is completed.

With all thanks for your kind help of yesterday,

Yours very sincerely,

Priscilla Fansler Hiss

sented as stating that I had "always" lived in my then "locality". If 3A refers to domicil it is correct as I was then and had always been domicilled in Baltimore but nowhere in the policy does it appear that my domicil was Baltimore.

Finally in my application for a change of beneficiary and for Extended Term Insurance (whatever that may be), dated April 14, 1930, I certified that I had had no illness and had not consulted any physician for five years prior to that date. This was inaccurate in the respects noted above and in addition to the doctors consulted prior to January 24, 1929 there should be added Dr. Weems of Washington. As part of this April 14, 1930 application I also stated that my answers to Part II of the January 24, 1929 application "are true". This was incorrect in the particulars referred to above. Furthermore, if "are true" meant as of April 14, 1930 other answers true in 1929 were no longer true because of events occurring after January 24, 1929 and before April 14, 1930.

As I understand the effect of the incontestable clause and of the Massachusetts statute as to the effect of unintentional and immaterial inaccuracies the points I have set out probably do not affect the validity of the policy even without the company being thus notified through you of the errors. But I do not wish the policy to be kept alive for any such reasons. Therefore will you please take up with your company the points I have raised and tell them that I wish;

(1) a new application to be attached to the policy correcting each of the errors and clarifying each of the ambiguities I have set forth (this may or may not require the issuance of a new policy) or (2) a letter from the company referring to each item I have mentioned and stating that as these items do not increase the risk assumed by the company their effect, if any, is waived or (3) a cancellation of the policy and a return to me of the premiums I have paid.

Re Convertible Policy
No. 7,604,460

Dear Walter,

On reading over my policy last week I examined for the first time the photostatic copies of my applications attached to the policy. There are several inaccuracies and ambiguities.

The answers to part II of my original application are in some hand other than my own (perhaps in that of the examining physician). As I remember it the doctor who examined me asked me a series of questions - very rapidly. Some of the questions to which answers appear were, I feel sure, never asked.

They are:

4D The answer should be "yes". My occupation being stated as "student" I obviously contemplated a permanent change.

6B The answer should be "yes". I had frequently consulted doctors for colds and had had several general examinations.

6F The answer should be "yes". I was at that time wearing glasses for reading. They had been prescribed by oculists whom I had consulted.

6G The answer should be "yes". I had had several temporary attacks of hemorrhoids.

7D The answers to both parts of this question should be "yes". As stated in answer 3F I underwent a minor operation in 19[illegible].

9 It is certainly not true that I had not consulted or been treated by any physician for five years prior to January [illegible]4, 1929. It would be impossible for me to be sure I could remember "every" such physician but among such were or may have been: Doctors Penrose (I believe he is now dead); Bequardt (now dead); Lockhardt; Earle; and Austrian, all of Baltimore. These do not include dentists or oculists or chiropractors and I may have misspelled some names.

10B The answer should be "yes".

In Part I I stated my then residence to be 5[illegible] Walter Hastings Hall, Cambridge but in the answer to question 3A of Part II Iam repre-

Dear Mr. Schelker, Re: Policy No. 604-7460

This is in reply to your letter of February 11, 1933. The answers to the three questions contained in your letter are as follows:

1. I have always had two or three sieges of bronchial inflammation each winter. These would last for a week or two. At times I would have a slight fever and once in three or four years I would spend a day or so in bed as a result of the fever.

2. I wear glasses for reading only. My vision at twenty feet is materially improved for reading purposes by my glasses. For a more detailed statement as to the acuity of my vision and for information as to the type and degree of lenses I use I shall have to refer you to my oculist, Dr. Le Grand H. Hardy, 30 East 40th Street, New York City.

3. In 1922 I was circumcised.

Very truly yours,

Alger Hiss

Dear Miss Hellings:

Dr Peltz, my physician and Dr Wolfert U?of P. heart specialist have ordered me to 16 hrs a day in bed to try and build up my resistence which at present seems to be nil. The blood pressure is below 110 and the pulse 100 so to bed it is; I did not come in on Saturday and if I am very good I may be able to come on Friday, at least that is what I am hoping. Doesnt it sound silly, 16hrs in bed and 5 meals, ye Gods, when eating is a bore anyway. Id go to Atlantic City if I had the money, that would I know put me on my feet. It has been a hard year physically for me, and that combined with the nerve strain since spring about the parents has just about reduced me very close to a nervous breakdown. I do not believe that there is anything pressing in the department. Miss Oberlander will return on Monday, and the additional desks have changed the morale of the staff, even in the short time, very much, which Allah be praised If there is a staff meeting either Miss Hagar or Miss Galbreth will be there, to attend; and every one in the department has their "own job". With many thanks for your kindnesses,

Sincerely yours,

Mary Gansler

K15. g a t r 5 2 — Corresponds most closely to our standards for Underwood pica type spaced 10 to 1 inch manufactured ~~between~~ 1902 to 1924.

The specimen shows the machine has been banged up quite a bit, this being reflected in printing of letters g, t, etc. Small letter r is different than on our 650A but appears on 650. No information on when "r" added

ESPIONAGE - R

ATTENTION: FBI LABORATORY

There are enclosed herewith, nine sheets of typewriting specimens obtained by an Agent of the Philadelphia Office from a Woodstock Typewriter, Serial Number N 168983.

Since it has been impossible to ascertain the original purchaser of this typewriter, and further, since it appears that the range of serial numbers of Woodstock typewriters manufactured during the year 1927 is between approximately 160,000 and 177,000, these specimens have been obtained for comparison with questioned specimens already in the hands of the Laboratory.

After the examination has been completed, the specimens may be destroyed.

Mr. Percy H. Evans,

Dear Sir:

The "Life Insurance Courant", August 1929 issue records the 20 year dividend experiences of various Companies. I note that on page #405 the Metropolitan net cost items have used special settlement dividend equal to 10% of the policy's terminal reserve in the cash value and further that they have made mention of the maturity dividend of $100.

I was under the impression that these extras only pertained to the special $5,000 contract. Was the dividend made retro-active in connection with all policies?

I would appreciate any information you may furnish in this connection.

Very truly yours,

Dear Sir:

Your Letter Feb. 13th.

I recently requested you to furnish some information regarding Dr. Longnecker and felt that it was proper for me to furnish you with a copy of a plan which is workable in connection with the Continental American new policy.

The second sheet I believe is self-explanatory since an additional $10,000 policy on the Term Plan can be purchased to provide for settlement under our Option "B" while the $10,000 Ordinary Life policy will remain with the Company under option "A". The cost is in favor of Northwestern.

This is forwarded as a matter of information.

Mr. E. G. Fassel,
Assistant Actuary.

Dear Sir:

Yesterday I had the opportunity of discussing a case with William E. Crary, Assistant Actuary of the Provident Mutual Life. I was surprised to learn that his Company would make a change to a lower premium policy and thereby proportionally increase the amount of Insurance as of the original date. The case for your information follows:

Date of birth of the insured - March 17, 1872. Present insurable age 58. The Provident issued a 20-Payment 25-Year Endowment policy at age 40 dating from August 28, 1912 with an annual premium of $218.50. On this basis you can see that the premium payments will cease with the 1931 premium.

There is a loan on the policy of $1525.00, interest accruing at 6%. The theory advanced by the Provident for changing to Ordinary Life follows:

Endowment Premium	Ordinary Life Premium
$43.70 per $1,000	$30.25 per $1,000.

The endowment premiums totaled $218.50. This would have purchased at the original date, $7223.00 of Ordinary Life protection and figuring on the 18th year cash value would involve a refund to the insured of approximately $1175.00.

It is true that by letting the policy run its regular course, the insured receives the benefit of the full cash value. Do you think it would be to the insured's advantage to allow a total value of $2203.00 remain with the Company and continue paying the Ordinary Life Premium? Do you think it a wise procedure under the circumstances to purchase new Insurance instead of making the change? For your information, if the same plan could be pursued with other Insurance, I am sure that his policies with the Provident could be doubled.

I am arranging the Insurance program of Dr. Longnecker who is also insured with this Company, and would appreciate your prompt response.

Very truly yours,

H. L. Martin

Dear Sir:

Referring to your letter of July 8 giving me the Option Settlement as applied on Frank E. Barger policies Nos. 1970390 and 1987361.

Mr. Barger is anxious to have the same form of settlement apply on a new policy for which I expect to have the examination made during the next week. Will you be good enough to forward the Option Settlement form required to have this feature supplement the application?

The new policy will carry with it the same provisions and Option Settlement as drafted by your Department.

Attention: FBI LABORATORY

Dear Sir:

Rebutel January 3, 1949, requesting contact with the Rosehill Cemetery, Chicago, to obtain any typewritten specimens in the file pertaining to the FANSLER family plot.

Mr. JOHN B. VERCOE, President, Rosehill Cemetery Company, 5800 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, on January 4, 1949 produced their file No. 1645 pertaining to Lot 13, Section 112, which originally was purchased by THOMAS L. FANSLER, father of PRISCILLA HISS. Upon examination of this file by Mr. VERCOE and Special Agent WESLEY A. ANDERSON of this office, it was ascertained that the only typewritten communications from members of the FANSLER family in possession of the cemetery are the following:

1. Typewritten letter on the letterhead of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company dated April 11, 1925 and signed by THOMAS L. FANSLER.

2. Typewritten letter on the letterhead of the same company dated November 13, 1925, signed by THOMAS L. FANSLER.

3. Typewritten letter on the letterhead of the same company dated November 23, 1925, signed by THOMAS L. FANSLER.

4. Typewritten letter on the letterhead of the same company dated November 4, 1929, signed by THOMAS L. FANSLER.

Director, FBI
Re: Jay David Whittaker Chambers, was;
Alger Hiss, was, Et Al

January 4, 1949

5. Typewritten letter on the letterhead of THOMAS L. FANSLER, 1616 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, dated April 18, 1933, signed by THOMAS L. FANSLER.

6. Typewritten letter on the letterhead of FANSLER, 3450 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, dated December 27, 1939, signed by DAISY FANSLER.

The originals of the above were made available to Special Agent ANDERSON by Mr. VERCOE and the initials of both appear on the reverse side of each document. All of the letters are being submitted herewith as enclosures for comparison with the questioned documents in the above captioned case.

At the conclusion of the examination, the above letters should be returned to the Chicago Office, in order that they may be returned to the Rosehill Cemetery. It is suggested that the results of the examination be submitted to the New York Office for inclusion in its report.

Very truly yours,

G. R. McSwain

The handwriting of Alger, Priscilla Hiss and Chambers was compared with [illegible] appearing in the Knight Homestead report Q161 but nothing of significance was noted. However it was not possible to differentiate the writing of Hiss with the writing of A.N. Fast, Robert Fast and Betty Ann Fast under date of Aug 29, 1937 as the style of writing is somewhat like Hiss' style of writing. However the word and letter spaces are not sufficiently alike the writing of Hiss for an positive conclusion.

Specimens:

K736 A two-page letter typewritten on letterhead stationery of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, dated at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, July 31, 1929 to Mr. Harry L. Martin, c/o Mr. [illegible] Carroll, [illegible] Ave., Oshkosh, Wisconsin, signed [illegible]

RESULTS OF EXAMINATION

The typewriting listed above as specimen K736 was compared with the typewriting appearing on specimens .5 and .6 through .69. The conclusion was reached that specimen .5 was not typed by the same machine which typed K736. Inasmuch as there are nine years intervening when K736 and specimens .6 through .69 were typed a definite conclusion could not be reached in regard to a comparison of K736 with .6 through .69, as a machine could develop numerous defects in nine years of use. Specimens .6 through .69 show many typewriting defects which do not appear in the typewriting K736. However, there are several defects appearing in .6 through .69 that also appear in K736. Due to the fact that such defects are of minor nature while there are other defects in the questioned specimens that do not appear in K736 the known specimen cannot be definitely eliminated or identified with .6 through .69.

K736 will be photographed and returned to the Philadelphia office within the next several days.

Request of examination to determine make and approximate age of typewriter which typed Q5 and the nature of the paper on which it was typed.

cc New York

Q5 typing corresponds most closely to Royal standards - however differences between Q5 and Underwood standards for distinctive elite are microscopic and it is conceivable these differences may be caused by condition of ribbon, paper, or wear of typewriter &c. the possibility of an Und. having been used cannot be absolutely eliminated. Machine may have undergone repairs which may have involved the installation of the Royal numeral 7.

A Neater Letter—Quicker—Better

The WOODSTOCK is worthy. It is characterized by great durability. We have not turned aside from the standard principles of typewriter construction. We have been able to benefit by drawing from the rich background of basic features that have been built into writing machines for years. We have improved upon these and have added other exclusive features that are essential to dependable and uninterrupted service in the business office.

NOTE

The WOODSTOCK is not merely another competitive machine, for if it were only just as good there would be positively no reason for it in the market. Investigate the WOODSTOCK. Try the touch—feel how light and responsive it is. It represents the greatest progress and offers the finest improvements to be found in any writing machine today.

Question: Is it possible to forge typewriter.

There is a possibility it might be accomplished but it would take considerable time and be a nearly insurmountable task. It would be necessary ~~to have information regarding the characteristics of~~ for a person to be well versed in typewriter defects and similarities of type designs ~~or have such information as~~ to reconstruct a typewriter so that it would possess all the characteristics of ~~another typewriter~~ every character ~~of~~ another typewriter.

I testified at the first and second Hiss trials that the Baltimore documents #5 → #9 and #14 → #47 were typed on the same typewriter that was used to type the known standards, consisting of documents described as follows:

1. Three pages of typewriting headed "Description of personal characteristics of Timothy Hobson", dated September 9, 1936 and was unsigned. (Govt. exhibit #19B.)

2. Three pages of typewriting, unsigned, and headed "Presidents Report for the year 1936 -- 1937." (Govt. exhibit #22)

3. One page of typewriting addressed to, "Mr W. M. Hillegeist, Director of Admissions, University of Maryland, Baltimore, Maryland." The letter was signed Priscilla Tanner Hiss, and dated May 25, 1937. (Govt. exhibit #17)

4. One page letter + envelope in typewriting dated June 12, 1931 addressed to "Miss Emma L. Hellings, The Free Library, Logan Square, Philadelphia, Pa." (Govt's exhibit #21)

When I testified at both trials the characteristics used by me in court in demonstrating my conclusions, were those appearing in the letters, g, e, i, o, u, l, d, a, r and A. This does not mean that my identification of the known typewriting standards and the typewriting on the Baltimore documents was based on only ten characters. There were many other characteristics in common. The various examinations and comparisons of the typewriting appearing on those documents in the F.B.I. Laboratory in Wash, D.C. I examined each and every letter and figure of typewriting, the horizontal and vertical spacing, slant, effects, etc, to determine not only what individual characteristics were in common in the questioned and known standards of typewriting, but also to ascertain if there were any unaccounted for differences present. If unexplained or unaccounted for characteristics had been found I would not have reached the conclusion that the Baltimore documents and the known standards were typed by the same typewriter.

JAHAM
ESPIONAGE - R

There is set forth hereafter a summary of the information obtained by Special Agent James C. Cadigan as a result of his observation of the work of defense experts EVELYN EHRLICH, ELIZABETH McCARTHY and Dr. DANIEL P. NORMAN in Boston from April 1 to April 8, 1952.

Dr. NORMAN is the head of the New England Spectrochemical Laboratories with laboratories in Boston and Ipswich, Massachusetts. He was principally interested in the paper used for the Baltimore documents, the envelope in which they were contained and the known standards of typewriting used by the Government in the last two trials of ALGER HISS. He conducted an ultraviolet light examination of the discolorations on the Baltimore documents and was quite interested in the fact that some of these documents are considerably more discolored in one quadrant than in others and also there were more discolorations along the folds. At one time or another, these documents were folded in quarters and it is not unreasonable to believe that if left in a folded condition for some time, as the documents apparently were, then 1/4 of the area would be more stained or discolored than other areas protected by the folding.

From conversations between NORMAN, EHRLICH, McCARTHY and NORMAN's assistants, Mr. Stanley (photographer) and Mr. Johnson (a physicist), NORMAN will conduct detailed physical tests of the paper used, chemical analysis of fillers in the paper, fiber analysis of the six different kinds of paper he says are contained in the Baltimore documents and spectrographic analysis of the paper. NORMAN made numerous photographs, including a complete set of the fronts and backs of the Baltimore documents in color, using Kodachrome film.

On one occasion in the Ipswich Laboratory, JOHNSON's notebook was available for a short time and inasmuch as he had been spending most of the day studying the text of the various Baltimore exhibits, advantage was taken of the opportunity offered and his notes indicated that he was interested in the misspellings, strike overs, margins, et cetera. In this connection, it is noted at the previous two trials neither the Government nor the defense introduced any testimony by an expert to identify the personal characteristics of the typist or otherwise offered proof that the documents had or had not been typed by Mrs. HISS (according to a statement appearing on page 323 of Alistair Cooke's book "A Generation On Trial)." It is believed that in the forthcoming affidavit from NORMAN such an analysis of the personal characteristics of the author of the Baltimore documents will be made and it will be alleged that PRISCILLA HISS was too well educated to make such mistakes. Counterbalancing such an allegation will be the fact that PRISCILLA HISS in her previous testimony said she was not at all skilled in typewriting and that the Woodstock machine used by her was not in too good a mechanical condition. These latter two factors could easily be the cause of mistakes occurring in the typewritten documents and at the same time it is quite possible that she would not make the same mistakes in handwritten material.

At NORMAN's Ipswich residence an old Woodstock typewriter was seen on a porch which had evidently been out in the weather for some time since considerable rusting was evident. It is believed that NORMAN is conducting an experiment to determine how much damage weathering will do to a machine of this type although it is difficult to determine the exact value of such an experiment since the condition of the machine after it was discarded by the HISS' would not have any effect on typewriting characteristics put on paper while the machine was still in the possession of the HISS'.

From his conversations, NORMAN apparently has done quite a bit of work for various textile concerns in New England and it is felt that he has the necessary technical skill to conduct the various physical and chemical tests of the paper comprising the Baltimore documents. However, since he does not claim to be a document expert it is possible that he will err in his evaluations of the results obtained or lay undue stress on one particular aspect of his examinations assigning certain causes to certain results which might not be in conformity with the actual causes. This will be particularly true if he has started with the preconceived notion that the Baltimore papers are forgeries and were not prepared in 1938 and wishes to find some evidence he thinks will support a finding of forgery.

Conversations between NORMAN, ERHLICH and McCARTHY indicate that the original HISS typewriter is in a bank vault and under the control of NORMAN who has had the type faces cleaned and known specimens prepared.

It might be well to point out here that since the original HISS machine and the reconstructed typewriter are under the control of the defense experts, then any offers of proof of forgery based on these machines or the products of them are contestable.

In the original affidavit filed by ELIZABETH McCARTHY she indicated that at the request of CHESTER T. LANE she assisted in an experiment involving the duplication of a set of typewriter defects on one machine by using a second machine of the same make and model. In her affidavit she said that she examined the product of the experimental machine and pointed out the respects in which the attempted duplication had not been successful. It would therefore appear that if the defense is contending that this actually took place and that the HISS machine was not used to prepare the Baltimore documents, then they would have to introduce evidence to show that CHAMBERS or someone associated with him had the necessary technical and mechanical skill required to alter a typewriter and even more important to show that CHAMBERS or his associates had the necessary technical skill of a qualified document examiner to determine not only the defects in material typewritten on one machine, but also to determine the mechanical fault responsible for the defects. If such evidence cannot be advanced, then it would seem that the defense's theory is only a theory.

McCARTHY and EHRLICH both worked on the Baltimore documents at Mrs. EHRLICH's residence at 417 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts, where EHRLICH maintains a laboratory.

McCARTHY examined the various Baltimore documents and known standards as a document expert and as such was interested in the paper, the discoloration of the paper, the over-all appearance of the typewriting, the defects present, et cetera. She constantly would arrive late in the morning and quit early in the afternoon, one one occasion showing up at 2:00 and quiting around 4:30. She constantly complained about the huge volume of material to examine (only 82 items in all), took frequent breaks to "rest my eyes," was willing to discuss any subject with anybody present and in general wasted much of the working day. If these experts are being paid on a day to day basis, they are making it last.

It is noted that in her previous affidavit relative to the possible duplication of typing McCARTHY stated "Nevertheless it is my opinion based upon my long experience in methods of questioned document examinations, that the duplication has progressed to such degree that an expert in the field, however highly qualified, would find it difficult if not impossible to distinguish between samples from the two machines." McCARTHY in filing her affidavit based on her examination of the original Baltimore exhibits may well contend that it is impossible to determine whether the original Baltimore documents were prepared on the HISS machine or on a reconstructed or duplicated machine basing part of her agrument on the fact that if one man (Tytell) could do it so could others. Again she may claim that the Baltimore documents were not prepared either on the HISS machine nor typed by PRISCILLA HISS and that the Government's expert was completely in error.

Whatever conclusions are reached by McCARTHY, it is believed that our Bureau experts are considerably more experienced and qualified in this field than she is and will be able to satisfactorily rebut her claims.

ERRLICH, according to her previous affidavit, has been concerned with the technical examination and conservation of prints, drawings, manuscripts and typography. She appears to be a more industrious worker than McCARTHY and confines her examinations solely to the individual typewritten characteristics and had no apparent interest in the over-all document problems involved in this case. She would spend most of the day in examining the various Baltimore documents and known standards and then the following day take a series of photomicrographs, among them the lower case letters a, y, c, j, g, e, r, t, f, u, d, e, k, the upper case letter A and the numerals 7 and 8.

In the course of conversation with her she indicated that some years ago she had been commissioned by the Government to make certain studies of the original Declaration of Independence, at the time being stored in Fort Knox. She also indicated that frequently she is called upon to examine rare books and manuscripts of considerable value. It is noted that in her previous affidavit EHRLICH stated that she had compared a photocopy of the HISS standard (Government's Exhibit 46B) and specimens of typing from the so-called HISS machine in Mr. LANE's possession and that on the basis of that comparison it was her opinion that it was entirely possible that the so-called HISS machine is not the machine which was used to type the HISS standard. She based this conclusion on her observations of certain differences which might not be due to age, normal wear, or to personal typing idiosyncrasies (Examiner's Note: And on the other hand these differences might well be due to age, normal wear, et cetera).

It is believed that the affidavit which will be submitted by EHRLICH will relate only to individual characteristics appearing in the typewriting and that her conclusions will follow along the lines set out in her previous affidavit. While it is not possible to state definitely that EHRLICH has a preconceived opinion that the Baltimore documents are forgeries, it was the examiner's impression that she does so believe and consequently her conclusions may be colored by this. Additionally, it is noted that EHRLICH is not a document examiner and while she may be an excellent photomicrographer and can show differences in individual letters selected by her in the various exhibits it is not felt that she will assign the proper weight to these variations since the defects of a typewriter are not the same as those found in the usual printing equipment for books, manuscripts, et cetera, and lack of fundamental knowledge about the various causes of typewriter defects may lead her into an erroneous interpretation of the evidence actually present.

RESULTS OF INVESTIGATION

An Agent of this office contacted the Dies Committee and ascertained that the basis for placing Mr. HISS' name as a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action on the list furnished to the Attorney General is the appearance of his name on a list in the possession of the Dies Committee entitled, "Washington Committee for Democratic Action". This office was advised as of December 23, 1941, that no further information concerning Mr. HISS is in the possession of the Dies Committee. A subsequent inquiry was made at the office of the Dies Committee on January 10, 1942, at which time a representative of the Dies Committee advised that no further information has been received concerning Mr. HISS.

A source of information herein designated as T-1 advised this office the name ALGER HISS does not in fact appear in the active indices of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. However, informant advised the name of Mrs. ALGER HISS, 3415 Volta Place, N. W., does appear in the active indices of that organization.

A source of information herein designated as T-2, who is an employee of the Department of State, advised that he has been acquainted with Mr. HISS for a period of five years. During this period, the informant stated nothing has come to his attention to cause him to doubt Mr. HISS' loyalty. T-2 stated that at one time he heard that Mr. HISS and his brother, DONALD HISS, also an employee of the Department of State, were claised as "fellow travelers". Informant stated that he is not aware of the basis for the allegations. He stated that Mr. HISS was at one time secretary to the late Associate Justice OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES of the Supreme Court. He stated that Justice HOLMES was considered "liberal" and added, "But what a liberal". In this connection, the informant stated in his opinion, Mr. HISS likely absorbed some of the beliefs of Justice HOLMES during his association with him, and that if Mr. HOLMES is classed as "liberal", his "liberalism" is likely of the same quality. T-2 stated that it has been his observation that Mr. HISS is a "stay at home", and does not get about as much as would be to his advantage. Informant knows of no activities of Mr. HISS away from his office. He stated that Mr. HISS' wife is possibly "more liberal" than her husband and may possibly have membership in "liberal organizations".

A source of information herein designated as T-3, who is an employee of the Department of State, advised that he is not well acquainted with Mr. HISS, but that from hearsay and otherwise he is inclined to class Mr. HISS as a "Laski Socialist".

Persons in the vicinity of Mr. HISS' residence appeared to know little concerning his activities.

Kisseloff-23797

A source of information herein designated as T-4, who resides in the neighborhood of 3415 Volta Place, N. W., stated she is acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. HISS, but is limited to infrequent conversation. Informant stated that he has observed no unusual activities at the HISS residence. T-4 stated that Mr. and Mrs. HISS are not very friendly, and the informant has for that reason never engaged in conversation that would indicate their political and economic philosophies.

A source of information herein designated as T-5, who resides in the vicinity of Mr. HISS' residence, advised that she is well acquainted with Mr. HISS' brother, DONALD HISS and considers him to be a loyal citizen. Informant stated that ALGER HISS appears to be a peculiar individual and expressed an opinion that there may exist some difference in political opinions between the two brothers. The informant stated she had once heard a "rumor" concerning ALGER HISS, but refused to state the nature of this rumor, advising that it was only hearsay and that the source of information may not be [illegible] employed by the Agricultural Adjustment years from 1933 to Administration, described Mr. HISS as being honorable in personal affairs, but intellectually dishonest. The informant stated that Mr. HISS, together with LEE PRESSMAN, GARDNER JACKSON, FRANK SHEA and others in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, interpreted the Agricultural Adjustment Act, not in the spirit of the law, but in a manner which would suit their beliefs and own private purposes. Informant stated that Mr. HISS and his associates surrounded themselves with employees in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration of their own choosing, whom they knew would fall in line with their social and economic theories. This informant stated that it was the definite purpose of this group to change our form of Government, and to use the instrumentality of the good offices of the Department of Agriculture to further their purposes. The informant explained that these individuals in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, instead of administering the law, as it was intended, to protect the interest of tenant farmers, deliberately used the Government's time and money in an effort to unionize share croppers and tenant farmers. Informant stated that "there was nothing of America--My Country 'Tis of Thee in what those boys were doing."

T-6 recalled bits of conversation which the informant stated passed between Mr. HISS, LEE PRESSMAN and others during this period. Informant recalled that one of the persons involved had stated that the "Okies would be the best people to change order and that Migrant labor was their meat." Informant stated that the use of professional agitators was made in connection with the attem to unionize share croppers. T-6 stated that in this connection, at one time a report was made concerning share croppers in the State o Arkansas, and that the report was considered a confidential report to which the public was not entitled. Shortly thereafter, some 219 communications were addressed to the Department of Agriculture, in the nature of "Demands" that this report be made public. Informant stated that the sources of these communications were traced and were found to be organizations which could have no possible interest in the report, or information as to its existence, and in many cases it was found that fictitious return addresses had been used. T-6 stated concerning Mr. HISS, "If he was not a Communist, he was a fellow traveler". Informant advised that Mr. HISS was one of the organizers of the Lawyers Guild and stated that he possibly had "an overdose of Harvard". T-6 further stated that he was "quite a Marxist". Informant stated that Mr. HISS is very shrewd and that due to his shrewdness he was not included in the "purge" which took place in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in 1935.

In connection with the information stated above, and attributed to informant T-6, it may be stated that T-6, maintained a diary at the time the events stated above were alleged to have taken place. This diary records the impressions of informant at the time of the activities of Mr. HISS and his associates. Quotations from this diary, which appeared to be indicative of the informant's impressions are stated below:

"Administrators, who don't happen to be lawyers are certainly at the mercy of a motley crew possessed of appalling energy."

"Meanwhile, men who have never been closer to a farm than the campus of Harvard or Columbia, may have flown to Arkansas to lend a helping hand to sharecroppers--terribly worked up over their sad plight."

"And if you go to the Capitol, you will find them like locusts swarming in Committee rooms--especially the Munitions Investigations Committee, Civil Liberties Committee, etc."

Kisseloff-23799

"I am sick when I see at close range men using the undoubtedly high purposes and motives of the President, to put over their fantastic ideas, financed beyond their wildest dream. informant stated that he had no doubt whatever that some members of the staff were "extreme left-wingers", and stated that he always felt like GARDNER JACKSON might even carry a Communist Party card. He stated, however, that he had never considered ALGER HISS in the same light and had no doubt at that time as to his loyalty. He stated that Mr. HISS resigned from the position because he, HISS, felt officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration no longer had the confidence in him, which so far as the informant was concerned was not the case.

T-7 recalled that one of the chief difficulties that arose in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was the attempt of the Legal Division to interpret the Act, not according to the intent of Congress, but in accordance with their own views. In this connection, informant stated that he confronted ALGER HISS with the fact and HISS stated the law might be subject to more than one interpretation.

A source of information herein designated as T-8 furnished this office with a pamphlet entitled "Leninism-Lewisism", in which it is stated that the National Republic magazine has certified evidence concerning the Communist connection of LEE PRESSMAN.

A source of information herein designated as T-9 advised that members of the Communist Party on the West Coast referred to Mr. PRESSMAN as Comrade PRESSMAN. This same informant quoted a member of the Communist Party as saying "Comrade PRESSMAN goes to bat with anything we of the Communist Party want to know".

A source of information herein designa[illegible] who professes to have been at one time a member of the Communist Party advised that he was not acquainted with ALGER HISS during the time of informant's membership in the Party. He stated he understands certain New York Communists have a connection at the State Departmen through whom certain considerations can be received, but was unable

Examination of Alger Hiss in the presence
l Agent G. D. King, Jr., and Stenographer Zona McArthu ureau of Investigation. Questions are by Mr. King.

Are you Mr. Alger Hiss employed as an Assistant to the Advisor on Political Relations of the Department of State?

I am.

Mr. Hiss, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been empowered by the 77th Congress of the United States under Public Law No. 135 to investigate the employees of the Federal Government who are alleged members of subversive organizations or who advocate the overthrow of the Federal Government and report these findings to the Congress. The purpose of this interview today is to allow you an opportunity to answer questions regarding information which has been received by the Federal Bureau of Investigation concerning alleged activity on your part. The questions I am about to ask you may be answered if you so desire, and you will be given an opportunity to include any statement which you feel is necessary to fairly present your side of this inquiry. A copy of the report of this investigation will be furnished to the agency which employs you. In order that the statement may have particular credence, you will be placed under oath. Do you have any objections to that

Not at all.

Will you stand please and raise your right hand? Do you solemnly swear to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help you God?

I do.

Mr. Hiss, what is your present home address, please sir?

3415 Volta Place, Northwest, Washington, D. C.

And would you tell us please how long you have been employed by the Department of State?

About five and one-half years, I think.

Mr. Hiss, are you now or have you ever been a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action?

I have not.

Have you ever attended any meetings of that organization or received any of its literature to your recollection?

I certainly have never attended any meeting, and I have no recollection of receiving any of its literature.

Mr. Hiss, are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist Party?

I am not and never have been.

Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Young Communist League?

Kisseloff-23806

I have not and never have been.

Have you ever attended any meetings or received any literature to your recollection of these two organizations

Not to my recollection have I received any literature, and I know I have never attended any meetings.

Mr. Hiss, do you now or have you ever advocated the overthrow of the present form of Government which we enjoy in the United States?

I certainly have not. There is only one Government that I want to overthrow and that is Hitler's.

Mr. Hiss, have you ever advocated destroying to our present form of Government?

I have not.

At this time, Mr. Hiss, you may have the opportunity of making any statement you deem pertinent to this inquiry you so desire.

Well, that is a big order. I think the best statement
I can make is really a question. This all comes as a great surprise to me, and I'd like to find out what it is all about if it is proper to ask. I have always been a staunch supporter of the Roosevelt administration ever since it came in.

As I informed you at the beginning -- possibly then you didn't quite grasp, not knowing what was coming later --- that under Public Law No. 135 which was passed by the 77th Congress, the Federal Bureau of Investigati was empowered by that Congress under that Law to investigate the employees of the Federal Government who are alleged members of subversive organizations.

It was the word alleged that I was addressing myself to. I wondered what the allegations were, because it was news to me. I think the purpose of the resolution is laudable.

I am not at liberty to furnish you the information from the files.

But if you could give me some indication of what it was you had in mind, I would know what to address my statement to.

I couldn't give you any indication. The only indicatio is by the questions I have already asked you as to what the allegation could possibly be. That is all
I am at liberty to furnish you.

allegations which were referred to in the Statute, I

ALGER HISS,	:
Plaintiff	:
vs.	:	CIVIL NO. 4176
WHITTAKER CHAMBERS,	:
Defendant	:

Baltimore, Maryland, November 17, 1948

FOURTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS

(Afternoon Session)

APPEARANCES:

Messrs. Martury, Miller & Evans (by William I. Martury, Esq., Charles C. G. Evans, Esq., and Franklin G. Allen, Esq.) and Messrs. Debevoise, Plimpton & McLean (by Harold Rosenwald, Esq.), on behalf of plaintiff.

Messrs. Semmes, Bowen & Semmes (by William D. Macmillan, Esq., and Richard F. Cleveland, Esq.), on behalf of defendant.

Thereupon---

WHITTAKER CHAMBERS

resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued)

By Mr. Marbury:

MR. MACMILLAN: Let me say this, Mr. Marbury, that Mr. Chambers desires to make a statement at this time in connection with certain testimony that has been given by him heretofore in this deposition.

MR. MARBURY: Very well, go ahead.

THE WITNESS: In response to your request to produce papers from Mr. Hiss, I made a search, and I have certain papers in Mr. Hiss' handwriting and certain other papers.

In testifying from the beginning, I have faced two problems.

My first problem was to paralyze and destroy in so far as I was able the Communist conspiracy.

My second problem was to do no more injury than necessary to the individuals involved in that operation.

I was particularly anxious, for reasons of friendship, and because Mr. Hiss is one of the most brilliant young men in the country, not to do injury more than necessary to Mr. Hiss.

Therefore, I have carefully avoided testifying to certain activities of Mr. Hiss at any place or any time heretofore.

I found when I looked at the papers which I had put by certain documents which I had forgotten I had put by. I thought I had destroyed them. I supposed that the documents I had put away were the handwriting specimens of Mr. Hiss. The documents I refer to reveal a kind of activity, the revelation of which is somewhat different from anything I have testified about before. I first saw those documents last Sunday evening. I first brought them to the attention of my counsel on Monday. I was incapable of deciding at that time whether or not to present them in evidence. My counsel very strongly urged me, in the nature of the case, that I had practically no other choice. But I left them on Monday not strongly convinced, but without having reached a decision. And I wanted until Tuesday to finally make up my mind. That is why I was unable to depose on Tuesday. The result of my turmoil, which is merely the last act of the turmoil that has been going on for a decade, was the decision to give you the material.

MR. MARBURY: May we have it, sir.

MR. MACMILLAN: There it is. (Indicating) Let it be known that we have the original documents that Mr. Chambers has just referred to, and we also have had photostats taken thereof, because we don't want the originals to leave our possession. We are prepared, however, to leave with you a photostatic set of the various documents. We have not arranged them chronologically. And I see Mr. Cleveland is trying to do that now. It may take a little time to get them in some such order, or at least in such order that I assume that they ought to be marked in some way, the originals and also the photostats, so that they will be identified at least for future reference.

Shall I through the medium of the witness here place these documents before you, having them identified accordingly?

MR. MARBURY: If you have them identified, I think we are entitled to see them before they are put in evidence.

MR. MACMILLAN: Well, I don't know whether you consider this being put in evidence or not. It would be hardly putting anything in evidence until you presented them at the time of trial.

MR. MARBURY: We asked you to produce them. I think we are entitled to examine them, and then if we want to put them in evidence we will, and if not, we will not. It is up to you. But I think we are entitled to examine them on the motion to produce.

MR. MACMILLAN: All right.

MR. CLEVELAND: Except for these, Mack, these are not really in response to the request to produce.

MR. MARBURY: Well, have you any objection to my looking at them?

MR. CLEVELAND: Oh, no.

MR. MARBURY: Before ---

MR. MACMILLAN: What we want to do is to have them marked in some way, so that if as and when you should want to ask Mr. Chambers anything about one, you would know which one you are referring to.

MR. MARBURY: That is all right.

MR. MACMILLAN: You see what I mean, because there are some papers here that have no particular dates as such.

Well, do you have any preference as to having them designated, Mr. Marbury?

MR. MARBURY: I don't know. I am not offering them. As I take it, you just want the stenographer ---

MR. MACMILLAN: To make a note of what we have.

MR. MARBURY: A note on the back.

MR. MACMILLAN: And also on the record that we hand you certain papers.

MR. MARBURY: Yes.

MR. MACMILLAN: Whether they will be admitted in evidence remains, of course, to be seen.

MR. MARBURY: Yes.

MR. MACMILLAN: But at least we are now presenting to you ---

MR. MARBURY: Are those originals that you are having marked?

MR. MACMILLAN: I am going to have them marked, the original marked and the photostat marked.

MR. MARBURY: I see.

MR. MACMILLAN: To be marked as one the counterpart of the other.

MR. MARBURY: I see.

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, the first paper I show you, Mr. Chambers, is a paper that starts with -- it is a memorandum, a small piece of paper marked M-28, isn't that right?

THE WITNESS: I think so, yes.

MR. MACMILLAN: And does it not start with the words "tel. from" -- it is "tel. fro." abbreviated -- from Mary Martin, widow of Hugh Martin.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

MR. MACMILLAN: Formerly employed ---

THE WITNESS: That is an abbreviation for telegram.

MR. MACMILLAN: Just for identification purposes, beginning with that.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

MR. MACMILLAN: And ending with the sentence reading, "Remember Rutons while working for Hugh be strict if needed. Write Lib." I guess that is Library--"Cong. Law Div." -- Division.

MR. EVANS: Why don't you just have them marked.

MR. MACMILLAN: I will start with that and have it marked. I will ask that that be marked No. 1.

(Paper identified as M-28, starting with the words "tel.fro." and ending with "Lib.Cong. Law Div.", marked, the original and photostat thereof, respectively,
#1 "Exhibit No. 1.")

MR. MACMILLAN: And I suggest, Mr. McDonald, that you take these and mark them correspondingly, 2, 3, 4, and so forth.

(Papers referred to marked, respectively, the 2-3-4 originals and photostats thereof, Exhibits Nos. 2, 3 and 4.)

MR. EVANS: With reference to No. 2, is there only one page of No. 2?

MR. MACMILLAN: There is no way that I can tell, frankly, which one was the sequence of the other.

I have not examined them that carefully to find out. They are not themselves numbered.

Suppose we have them marked before we begin. I think that is the only way you are going to keep them in order. Let us have them marked, can't we, in some way?

MR. CLEVELAND: Make sure that the dates are correct. There are some sheets that carry several dates, and then there would be an individual paper which has a date in between, and it is impossible to keep them absolutely chronologically.

MR. MACMILLAN: Well, I would think that we could take, for instance, this paper that is headed "Voluntary Report", and then the next page "New Economic Organization of Manchukuo", and then there are thirteen separate pages, and have them marked in the record that that is what we present, and that would ear-mark them. So that we are now presenting to you a paper writing headed "American Consulate, Yokohama, Japan, January 6, 1938," signed by Richard F. Boyce, American Consul.

MR. EVANS: Not signed. It is a typewritten name.

MR. MACMILLAN: Well, typewritten.

(Paper headed "American Consulate, Yokohama, Japan, January 6, 1938" and signed by Richard F. Boyce, marked, respectively, the original and photostat thereof, "Exhibit No. 5.")

#5

MR. MACMILLAN: That is the letter of transmittal for the whole business.

Here is a paper headed "Voluntary Report", there appearing in typewriting date of completion, January 6, 1938, and underneath, date of mailing, January 7, 1938.

(Paper headed "Voluntary Report", bearing in typewriting date of completion January 6, 1938 and underneath that, date of mailing, January 7, 1938, marked, respectively, the original and photostat thereof, "Exhibit No. 6.")

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, then, No. 7 is a paper headed in typewriting, "New Economic Organization of Manchukuo," and have that marked No. 7.

(Paper headed "New Economic Organization of Manchukuo" marked, respectively, the original and 67 photostat thereof, "Exhibit No. 7.")

MR. MACMILLAN: And a batch of thirteen typewritten pages, numbered from 1 to 13.

(Batch of thirteen typewritten pages, numbered from 1 to 13, marked, respectively, the originals and 68 photostats thereof, marked "Exhibit No. 8.")

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, the next paper that looks like it has any sequence is a typewritten paper marked "Europe, January 5", starting with "Bullitt cabled from Paris." That should be marked No. 9, I take it.

(Typewritten paper marked "Europe, January 5", starting with "Bullitt cabled from Paris", marked, respectively, the original and photostat thereof, "Ex-

69 hibit No. 9.")

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, then, the next paper is a paper that purports to be dated 1/7/38, starting off with "Reliable source reports", and that will be No. 10.

(Paper dated 1/7/38, starting off with "Reliable source reports", marked, respectively, the original and

70 photostat thereof, "Exhibit No. 10.")

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, then, the next is a paper writing, typewritten, "Far East, January 22, Tsingtao," and consisting of three additional pages.

(Typewritten paper "Far East, January 22, Tsingtao", and consisting of three additional pages, marked, respectively, the originals and photostats thereof, "Exhibit No. 11.")

#11

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, then, next there is a typewritten paper dated February 7, 1938, consisting of three typewritten pages, headed, "The Significance of the Establishment, etc." That should be marked as a batch.

(Batch of papers, dated February 7,1938, consisting of three typewritten pages, headed "The Significance of the Establishment, etc.," marked, respectively, the originals and photostats thereof, "Exhibit No. 12.")

#12

(Paper dated February 9, 1938, beginning "Yokohama reports", marked, respectively, the original and photostat thereof, "Exhibit No. 13.")

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, I would like the privilege of inquiring of the witness whether or not he does not have more to say as part of the statement which he desired to make at the outset of this afternoon's session.

MR. MARBURY: I was going to ask him that myself.

MR. MACMILLAN: All right.

MR. MARBURY: I was going to ask him to explain what these papers are which have been identified.

MR. CLEVELAND: I think the point might be made that this testimony today is an amplification of answers to questions you have previously asked him.

THE WITNESS: May I explain in my own words?

MR. MARBURY: Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: I have been very careful to make a distinction in testifying as to Mr. Hiss' activities with the Communist Party, but in the year 1937 anew development took place in the Washington apparatus, which I was ---

Q (By Mr. Marbury) Excuse me one minute. You said a distinction. A distinction between what?

A Between Mr. Hiss' activities prior to that date and afterwards. Sometime in 1937, I think about the middle of the year, J. Peters introduced me to a Russian who identified himself under the pseudonym Peter, I presume for purposes of confusion between his name and J. Peters. I subsequently learned from Walter Krivitsky that the Russian Peter was one Colonel Bykov -- B-y-k-o-v, I believe it is spelled, and I propose to refer to him as Bykov hereafter, to avoid the confusion between his pseudonym and the name J. Peters. Colonel Bykov was extremely interested in the Washington apparatus about which he questioned me endlessly. J. Peters was extremely interested that Colonel Bykov should not know too much about the Washington apparatus, not out of any Communistic disloyalty, but due to a proprietary sense, I think, that the Russians were moving in on the apparatus, which he had, at least, had a large share in creating. He, of course, did not tell me in so many words, "Do not help Bykov," but he gave me to understand that the less I told him about the Washington apparatus the better. Nevertheless, it proved impossible not to tell him about the details of the apparatus. He then having learned presently of the group, raised the question of procuring documents through them. I should think in August or the early fall of 1937 I arranged a meeting between Alger Hiss and Colonel Bykov. For that purpose, Mr. Hiss came to New York, where I met him. I have forgotten where our rendezvous was held, but I believe it was somewhere near the Brooklyn Bridge. We then proceeded by the elevated train to a movie house quite a distance out in Brooklyn, which I cannot locate, but which I believe I could easily find. Alger and I waited on a bench on the mezzanine, and presently Bykov emerged from the body of the theatre. I introduced them. We left the theatre and went for a long walk, and by various conveyances, we went back to New York City and had supper, the three of us together, at the Port Arthur Restaurant in Chinatown. Colonel Bykov spoke no English, or refused to speak English. He spoke German with a very bad Yiddish accent. He raised the question of procuring documents from the State Department, and Mr. Hiss agreed.

Q What ?

A Mr. Hiss agreed. Colonel Bykov also raised the question of Donald Hiss' procuring documents. Alger Hiss said that he was not sure that his brother was sufficiently developed yet for that function -- and perhaps I should say right here that Donald Hiss never at any time procured any documents. Nevertheless, he was a member of the apparatus which I headed. Following that meeting Alger Hiss began a fairly consistent flow of such material as we have before us here. The method was for him to bring home documents in his brief case, which Mrs. Hiss usually typed. I am not sure that she typed all of them. Alger Hiss may have typed some of them himself. But it became a function for her and helped to solve the problem of Mrs. Hiss' longing for activity, that is, Communist activity. Nevertheless, there occasionally came to Mr. Hiss' knowledge, certain things, or he saw certain papers which he was not able to bring out of the Department for one reason or another, either because they merely passed through his hands quickly, or because he thought it inadvisable, but notations, in his handwriting are notes of such documents, such information, which he made and brought out in that form.

Would you like to ask questions at that point?

Q You say this began in 1937?

A I believe so.

Q Can you place the meeting any more closely than that?

A As to months? No, I am not sure, but it seems to me that the weather was not very severe, so I presume it had to be late spring, or the summer or fall -- early fall.

Q Now, may I ask, did I understand you to say that you had not testified as to this activity of Mr. Hiss before?

A I have never to my knowledge testified as to this activity.

Q Did you inform the Senate Committee of this activity?

A I have never informed any one of this activity.

Q You never informed the FBI?

A I have never informed any one of this activity.

I said before my desire was to destroy the Communist activities, but to preserve in so far as possible the very fine people who are engaged in them. Any informing of such matters was bound to injure them, but there are degrees of injury. And I did not think that it was proper to inflict that injury on Alger Hiss, partly because I am not without compassion, and partly because I was once a Communist. It was given me to find the strength to break with the Communist Party. And there is always a possibility that others who are still Communists will also find that strength. Time is of the essence of such matters. And that was an important factor for me to keep this information to myself. I am perfectly satisfied as to what I have done, both with respect to trying to smash the the conspiracy, and to try to shield such people as Alger Hiss from the most extreme consequences.

Q In other words, your view of the matter is that although Mr. Hiss passed directly to the Russian ---

A Mr. Hiss passed this information to me. I gave it to Colonel Bykov.

Q He knew where it was going?

A Both Mr. Hiss and I knew where it was going.

Q In other words, you knew it was going to the Russian Government?

A I knew it was going to ColonelBykov.

Q Well, you know who he was, did you not?

A I knew he was a Russian. I did not know what apparatus he was connected with.

Q And you say that although he did that, you think that it was proper to withhold that fact until today?

A I think there is a human factor, and the community factor, let us say. I tried to give due weight to each.

Q Well, I think we will have to have time to examine these documents, and in the meantime I think we better try to cover some of the points which have not been clarified, which you left unclear to us in your previous testimony, and one or two points which you have not actually covered, and I hope to go over with you.

I would like you to clarify for us a little more clearly what the function is of a member of the underground apparatus. As I understand, what you have told us before ---

MR. CLEVELAND: It is understood that we may retain possession of the originals of these?

MR. MARBURY: Yes, that is, subject to inspection if we want to look at them.

MR. CLEVELAND: Yes.

Q (By Mr. Marbury) My understanding is that when you were told that you were to join the underground, that some change in your method of life was demanded of you. Now, just exactly what was the nature of the underground apparatus?

A There are, of course, different kinds of underground apparatuses.

Q The peculiar institution that you speak of.

A The peculiar institution was, as far as I knew, a communications ring or group -- I don't know what you would call it -- that was receiving and sending communications between New York and Hamburg and Bremen, Germany.

Q Now about the one of which Peter was the head, the American underground?

A Peter was the head of the whole American underground, which may have contained many apparatuses for many different purposes and organized in different ways. My knowledge of these is limited two.

Q And those two were ---

A Those two were the groups in Washington, and the parallel group which we split off from them.

Q Now, the group in Washington you have described as an organization made up a number of cells, the leaders of which met?

A That is right.

Q And somewith some other people who were not cell leaders?

A That is right.

Q What was the function of that apparatus precisely?

A As nearly as I know the function of that apparatus was to bring together secretly Communists who were working in the Government. Its precise function to begin with was nothing more, I think, than to form a unit of the Communist Party underground in Washington and the people in the leading group, and I presume the members of the cells worked in different sections of the Government. They undoubtedly tried to make and determine policy, or to develop policy, or change policy even, in the interests of the Communist Party.

Q Well, did those cells, did the people who belonged to that apparatus have party names, or did they go by their own?

A I think that few cells -- let us begin at the top, as the men at the top knew one another by their own names, and I never heard any pseudonyms used among them, except in the case of Peter, J. Peter. Now, in the cells themselves, I very much doubt that they used pseudonyms. I think I have told you I saw only one such cell that was so arranged, and I think I was the only person present with a pseudonym.

Q What cell?

A That was the cell of which Henry Collins was the leader, and met at least the night I attended at the house of Richard Post in Alexandria, Virginia.

Q The house of whom?

A Richard Post.

Q Richard Post?

A Yes.

Q Who were the members of that cell?

A I don't know.

Q Yousaen that you were not introduced to them?

A No, I was simply introduced as Carl, and they were not introduced to me by name.

Q Post and Collins were in the same cell?

A Collins was the head of the cell of which Post was a member.

Q This is the same Post that was in your own apparatus?

A This is the Post whom I shortly thereafter split out of the other apparatus and took him to my own.

Q And I believe you testified he is now employed in the State Department?

A I understand he is.

Q Now, was Maxim Lieber a member of the underground?

A Maxim Lieber was not a member of the underground. Maxim Lieber had been, I believe a member of the open Communist Party. He was withdrawn from that and used for a special function, which was to be a front for an underground apparatus in Japan.

Q Well, he knew you by what name?

A Maxim Lieber had known me before I was in the underground as Whittaker Chambers.

Q But you worked with him after you went into the underground?

A That is right. He was given to me by J. Peters for the special purpose that I referred to.

Q So that he was one of Peters' men that was answering to the orders -- answering Peters' orders?

A That is true.

Q That is, in other words, the same way you were?

A I would say there that Peters probably had the right to coopt practically anybody in the Communist Party who was not otherwise engaged in conflicting work of some kind, or work which was deemed more important.

Q You mean he would go to anybody and say, "You are it, you are going to do so and so"?

A I think the process was transferred in some way to the secretary of the Party, or some proper person in the Political Bureau whose function was to take care of just such matters, or some one on the Central Control Commission, and the person who was wanted for the underground would then be cut free from the open Party, cut loose from the open Party, and inducted into the underground.

Q Well, now, Lister, you say was inducted into the underground?

A Yes.

Q Now, what happened to a man when he was inducted into the underground?

A Well, in many cases -- and I suppose in all cases really -- when a man came from the open Party to the underground, his first job was to separate himself as far as possible from other Communists and Communist activities, open Communist activities.

Q And what else? How was he to do that?

A Well, in Lieber's case he was not to attend any more meetings of the John Reed Club, he was not to participate in the activities of the New Masses, he was not to go to Party meetings, he was to keep away from all Party demonstrations, and in so far as possible see no open Communists. In his case some exceptions had to be made, because as a literary agent he dealt with Communist writers occasionally -- frequently.

Q Well, now, when you and he rented this place together on the Delaware River, how was that done?

A The actual mechanics of renting it?

Q Yes.

A I have forgotten, but I imagine that Lieber found the place and rented it in his name, I think.

Q Well, now, he rented it from this man Boucot?

A This man Boucot.

Q Now, you were there as a co-tenant, as I understand it.

A That is right.

Q That fact was known to Boucot?

A I don't know whether he knew me as a co-tenant or as a guest in the house. But he was well aware of us as a resident of the house.

Q And by what name did he know you?

A I have forgotten, but it is possible that we were using the name Green at that time.

Q You think that you were using the name Green?

A I say it is possible. I am not sure.

Q That was at Branchtown?

A This house, of course, was on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware, about six miles below Branchtown.

Q Now, let me turn to another subject. I think you have told us that your maximum income while you were on the Daily Worker was $35 a week.

A I would think it was about that.

Q And have you been able to recollect what you were paid on the New Masses?

A No. I was only on the New Masses for about three months, if I recall right, and I don't know whether I ever received a full salary there.

Q Now, in the underground, you said that you got $35 a week and that you had an expense account.

A I did.

Q How did you operate that expense account?

A Let me explain something. There used to be, and may be yet, in the Communist Party what is known as the Party maximum. That is the top figure which the highest Communists are paid. I think the top figure in those days was either thirty-five or forty-five -- I have forgotten which -- but no Communist, no matter what he is, was supposed to get more than that. In the open Party, it was quite possible, of course, to live on that as a Communist. In the underground, it was not, and, therefore, the expense account was the means of making a proper adjustment of the income, an adjustment between the way you had to live as an average middle class person and the Party maximum.

Q Well, how did it operate?

A What is that?

Q How did it operate? If you just used -- you have told us that you were given a lump sum.

A Yes. All right. You would turn in an expense account -- your rent, telephone, travel expenses, dinners, at meetings --

Q Did you have any evidence to support your statement?

A No, you are not required to have any evidence, but the Communist Party was well aware that if it became necessary to discipline a comrade, or liquidate him in one form or another, not necessarily the extreme form, the expense account was a wonderful handle against him, because while he was encouraged to use the expense account to live properly in discretion, he could always be charged with abuse of it. That is the way the Party functions.

Q So you just made it up and they paid it?

A It is not quite that simple.

Q Well, how did it work?

A I think I explained it, or at least I tried to explain it, that it is to put down perfectly legitimate items, and these are accepted as legitimate.

Q What kind of items could you include in the expense account?

A Rent, travel expenses, telephone, meals if you were eating with people, special expenses, medical expenses. It was also said the underground workers, that we were doing a special kind of work which is more or less dangerous, and we have a right to live better than other Communists.

Q Well, now, did you render written accounts?

A Yes.

Q Have you kept any copies of them?

A No.

Q You did not preserve them?

A No.

Q You say that you could include medical expenses?

A Yes, indeed.

Q How would they check on these things?

A I suppose there was some kind of notion of what a proper price should be, and as long as it was roughly in that range, why, it was accepted. I never remember any evil about an expense account. It might also be pointed out that Communists have a sense of what is proper in such matters, too, a very strong sense as a rule.

Q Did you file any income tax returns during this period?

A No, I did not.

Q No returns at all.

A No.

Q Did the Communist Party supply you with an automobile?

A An automobile was supplied when we were living on the Delaware. I think that was the first time.

Q And that would be according to your schedule of chronology here in the ---

A That would be about 1935, wouldn't it?

Q The summer of '35?

A About that.

Q So you had an automobile from that time on, on and off?

A I think so, if the chronology is right.

Q What kind of automobile was it?

A As nearly as I can remember, it was a tan Ford, or coffee-colored Ford, a second-hand car.

Q Did you buy it yourself?

A I bought it with Maria Hiober. I paid for it by money given me by the Party for that purpose.

Q You bought it from Maria Hiober?

A No, I bought it with him. We went together.

Q Where did you get it?

A I bought it in New York, somewhere on Broadway, in the 500 or 600, as nearly as I can remember.

Q How long did you have that car?

A I think I had that car until just before I broke.

Q Well, then, what did you do with it?

A Traded it in, I believe, on the next car.

Q At Randalletown?

A I think so. I am not absolutely sure about that.

Q So that you had a car all during this period?

A I believe so.

Q From 1935 up until the time you broke with the party?

A I believe so. Not only that, but I had the use of Maxim Lieber's car, and sometimes Alger Hiss' car, and sometimes J. Peters' car. There was a period when Peters did not know how to drive, and I used to drive for him frequently.

Q Where did you have that car registered?

A In New York, I believe.

Q Throughout this period?

A I am not sure, but I think so.

Q New York State?

A I think so.

Q Do you know at what address? Lynbrook?

A No, I don't think it was. I think it was more probably at Nathan Litvov's address, which was somewhere in the 40s, 44th or 46th Street, I think, between Fifth Avenue and Sixth Avenue.

Q Under what name?

A If it was Green, under the name of Green. If we were living under the name Green presumably under the name Green.

Q Well, you moved from this place down into Baltimore, and did you move the car with you there?

A I believe so, yes.

Q And what did you do, operate on a New York license, or did you register?

A I think I probably did for a while. I may have reregistered it. I have a vague recollection that I sold it to myself under the name Chambers, which I think the record would show.

Q Sold it to yourself?

A Yes.

Q Under the name Chambers?

A I think so.

Q Here in Maryland?

A I think so. I am not sure. You would have to check it.

Q And that would be, you think, in 1936, then?

A Possibly.

Q Well, you had to get out a new license? In other words, you could not operate on New York license tags forever?

A No, though you may operate longer than you may imagine.

Q Did you take out Maryland license tags on the car?

A I think perhaps I did. I am simply not clear about it.

Q Under the name Chambers?

A It is possible.

Q The car that you bought before you broke with the Party, under what name did you buy it?

A Under the name Chambers.

Q Now, has anybody ever paid your expenses except the Communist Party? I mean before you went on time?

A Before I went with time?

Q Yes, and during the period from, let us say, 1929 on through up to 1938?

A Yes.

Q Who?

A When I was in the first underground group, they were paid by the group leader Ulrich.

Q Well, he was in the Communist Party?

A Yes. I am making a distinction between an international underground and the American Communist Party.

Q Well, that was paid --- I see.

A You mean outside of the Communist movement altogether?

Q That is right.

A I don't think so.

Q No expenses ever paid by anybody else?

A I don't think so. No, it is impossible that there should be any expenses. I don't know whether I ever did any translating during that period, but I don't think so.

Q Well, leaving out publishers, so that you don't need to worry about that, leaving out publishers, did anybody else?

A Yes, of course. Right at the end, when I got a job in the Government.

Q Well, that was in 1937?

A '37, I guess it was.

Q Well, let us say then between '29 and '37.

A I don't believe so.

Q Well, I want you to be sure about that.

A I am as sure as I can be, but I cannot recall any one paying my expenses.

Q Now, about that Government job, you got it -- when did you start it?

A Well, that exact date I have forgotten about, but I presume it was at the end of '37, because that was the period when I was preparing to break. My guess would be it was probably in December '37. It might have been November.

Q And you were then living on Mt. Royal Terrace?

A I think so. That would have had to be Auchentoroly or Mt.Royal.

Q Is that the first Government job you ever had?

A Yes. The only one.

Q And at that time, who got you that job? How did you get that job?

A I went first to Peters and told him I did not think I could continue to run around Washington or elsewhere all this time without any regular job, and it would be better if I had a front. And he agreed. I then went to George Silverman and told him I wanted some kind of a job in the Government as a cover, and Silverman got in touch with, or got in in touch with Irving Kaplan, who was then living in Philadelphia. Kaplan I believe was co-director of something called the National Research Project.

Q What was Silverman doing then?

A Silverman was in the Railroad Retirement Board.

Q I believe you have named him as one of the men who were in your apparatus.

A That is true.

Q And you say he put you in touch ---

A With Irving Kaplan.

Q Kaplan?

A Kaplan.

Q How was that done?

A I presume he saw Kaplan in Washington, or wrote to him. Anyway, Kaplan knew that I was coming, and I made a trip to Philadelphia.

Q Who did he know was coming?

A I think that he had the name Jay V. Chambers.

Q You mean that Silverman called him up and said, "Jay V. Chambers is coming to see you"?

A In what ever form he made the appointment, that would have been what he must have said.

Q Silverman then knew you as Jay V. Chambers?

A No, Silverman knew I wanted a job in that zone, which he believed to be a pseudonym.

Q Was Silverman a Communist?

A Silverman was a Communist.

Q When did you first meet him?

A Oh, perhaps in '35 or '6.

Q Where was he then employed?

A In the Railroad Retirement Board. He was in the Railroad Retirement Board as long as I knew him.

Q And was he a Communist when you first met him?

A Yes, he was.

Q How long had he been in the Party?

A That I don't know.

Q What had his activities been before you met him?

A I think he was a member of one of the cells. He was originally turned over to me for two reasons: One, because he was the closest friend of Harry Dexter White, and, two, because he was the one communist down there who Peter had a great deal of trouble collecting dues from, and Peter thought perhaps I would be able to explain to him the necessity of paying regular dues, and besides he wanted this problem child off his hands.

Q The reasons, then, why he was in this apparatus of yours were, first, so that you could get the dues out of him, and, second, because he was a friend of Harry White's?

A I think the reasons are in the wrong order. The most important reason is that he was Harry White's closest friend.

Q Why was that a reason for ---

A Because Harry White held an important position in the Treasury at that time. Harry White was very close to the Communist Party, but as far as I know was not a member of the Communist Party, and it was believed that George Silverman could influence him to work for the Party and work in that apparatus, which he did.

Q You have used the term "close to the Communist Party." What do you mean?

A I mean that he sympathized as fully as possible with the Communist Party and its purposes, and was willing to help it up to a point.

Q Well, you have described the purposes of the Communist Party rather vividly from time to time. Did he sympathize with the objective of overthrowing the Government of the United States by force and violence?

A I would say that he must have.

Q Well, at what point would he stop?

A Well, perhaps I should complete the history.

Q You said he was not a member of the Party, but he was willing to help it up to a point. Now, I want to know at what point he is going to stop, if he is not going to stop at force and violence.

A I will tell you in just a moment. One of the people whom Colonel Bykov was particularly interested in was Harry Dexter White. And I arranged a meeting between them in Washington, and thereafter Harry White also supplied information to Colonel Bykov, a piece of which in his handwriting is in my possession.

Q He sent it through you?

A That is right.

Q And you have some of his handwriting?

A I have.

Q Now, let me ask about Harry White. Just what were your relations with him? He was in your apparatus, as I understand it.

A They differed in no essential way from my relations with any other member of the apparatus, except that since he was not under discipline, I dealt with him by indirection, let us say, rather than by in the sense that we were operating as Communists and functionally.

Q Well, what do you mean by indirection?

A I could not give him orders, and would not give him orders.

Q In other words, he would not take orders, but he would supply you with confidential Government documents?

A He may have taken orders, but I never gave him any orders.

Q Well, now, heknew you as Chambers?

A No.

Q Or Carl?

A He knew me as Carl.

Q He knew you only as Carl?

A That is right.

Q And he handed over secret papers to you?

A No, I don't believe he did, but he used to write out reports of interesting things he had heard in the Treasury.

Q Well, I thought you said that he furnished papers a few moments ago?

A If I did, it was a loose way of speaking.

Q Was his connection solely through you?

A As far as I know, it was.

Q In other words, he would give you the secret papers?

A No -- well, sometimes, yes. Well, secret papers -- he would give me his written report. He sometimes gave them to George Silverman to give to me.

Q So that this apparatus consisted of White and Silverman, who knew each other ---

A Very well.

Q You say they were the closest of friends?

A They were very close friends.

Q And one of them was a Communist, and the other one was not?

A To the best of my knowledge.

Q But was willing, as you understand it, to --- how would you know he was not a Communist if he would do all these things?

A Why, I suppose that at some time either George Silverman, Peter or somebody else told me in so many words he is not a member of the Communist Party, but he is a close sympathizer. I don't recall exactly the point of such things.

Q And yet he would be selected to be in touch with the underground, although he was not a party member?

A Quite true.

Q And how many people who were not members of the Party were familiar with or dealt with some underground in which you were a member?

A I think he was the only one.

Q Now, how about Post?

A Post was a Communist.

Q How long had he been a Communist?

A Oh, I don't know, but from talking to him, I should not have thought very long.

Q Now, there was Harry White. Did Harry White recruit people for you?

A No.

Q He gave you information?

A Yes, eventually.

Q What else did he do?

A Well, before he began giving information, which was after Colonel Bykov arrived, his function was to be a close sympathizer of the Communist Party in the Treasury Department. He was in a high place. He managed to place various Communists in the Treasury Department.

Q Who were they?

A Dr. Glasser, Solomon Adler, one of the Coe brothers, and perhaps some others that I don't recall.

Q Now, what did Silverman do besides getting ---

A Silverman was chiefly, as far as I was concerned, a go-between with White.

Q You mean you did not deal directly with White yourself?

A Yes, I did very often, as I saw White frequently, but White was a cantankerous fellow, and since he was not under discipline, it was very important that somebody whom he knew and trusted should be with him.

Q But he must have known you pretty well if he was willing to take the risk of giving you information as to secret documents?

A He was willing to do that after his conversation with Colonel Bykov, whom he had never seen before.

Q Well, what was Mr. Silverman's function then?

A Well, I thought I had explained it once. He was the man who kept Harry White in line, to put it in very bald English.

Q Well, now, what else did he do besides that? Did he give you information?

A Harry White?

Q No, Silverman.

A No, Silverman had no information that was interesting to Bykov.

Q He had no information that was of interest?

A Not in the Railroad Retirement Board.

Q Did he recruit members?

A Not for me.

Q What about Post?

A Post came to my attention rather late, and he was at that time -- he was introduced to me by -- oh, what is his name -- Collins, Henry Collins -- and at the time we were introduced, he was working in the WPA, I believe, on a project for measuring babies' skulls for some nutritional findings. He believed that through certain connections he could get a job in the State Department. And I met him and talked with him, wished him God speed, and did not think that it would very likely happen, and it happened almost right away. He got himself a job, I think a foreign service job.

Q How did he get it, do you know?

A I don't know. He had some connections in there. He was extremely well connected. He never gave any secrets or confidential information, or any information of any kind.

Q What did he do? You say he was selected to be in your apparatus.

A The first step was to get himself a job in the State Department. He got that job not very long before I broke with the party. I don't know what he might have done if I had been able to observe him longer. I was not.

Q Well, now, just what were your relations with him? You were introduced to him by Henry Collins, and he told you he was trying to get a job in the State Department?

A He told me that -- Henry had first told me that he thought Post had possibilities for getting a job in the State Department.

Q Yes.

A So I met Post and talked to him about it. And, as I told you, he was very optimistic. I was not. Nevertheless, he did get a job in the State Department.

Q Then what happened?

A I merely maintained contact with him, at not too frequent intervals, to see how he was coming along. And naturally he did not come along very fast in that very short time.

Q You said he was one of the apparatus consisting of the two Hiss brothers, White and Silverman?

A He was.

Q And Post?

A That is quite true.

Q That was your parallel apparatus?

A That is right.

Q Now, how did he get to be part of the apparatus?

A We separated him from the cell in which he had first been a member, and took him into the apparatus. He therefore ceased to have anything to do with his former Communist contacts -- at least that was our understanding -- and was supposed to further himself in the State Department.

Q Well, the separation from the cell and being taken into your apparatus consisted of the fact that the man stops, simply stops his previous connections with the Communist Party?

A That is naturally the initial step, yes.

Q What else did he have to do?

A He did not have time, I tried to explain, to do anything.

Q That is all he did so far as you knew?

A I said he never gave any information of any kind.

Q Really, all you know about Post is that he stopped being a Communist apparently?

A No, from what I know about Post is not that he stopped being a Communist.

Q I said apparently.

A Apparently or even apparently, but that he entered another Communist apparatus.

Q Well, how did he enter it, what did he do to enter it?

A I am sorry that I cannot make myself clear. In fact, I am at a loss for words to repeat.

MR. MACMILLAN: It is certainly a test of your patience, and so forth.

MR. MARBURY: It is not intended as such.

MR. MACMILLAN: Yes, I can hardly hold myself in this chair, but it is all right, go ahead and do the best you can and just answer the questions if you can.

MR. MARBURY: Well, I won't press it.

MR. MACMILLAN: You will notice that we did not introduce any objections to it.

MR. MARBURY: I won't press it.

MR. MACMILLAN: It is the most unusual deposition I have ever attended in my life, I must say.

Q (By Mr. Marbury) Now, I would like to turn to the purchase of the St. Paul Street property. Now, first you purchased your farm -- that was first bought, was it not, the farm?

A That is right.

Q Do you remember where you were living when you bought that farm?

A I think we were living on Auchenteroly Terrace.

Q On Auchenteroly Terrace. And did you carry on the negotiations yourself for the farm?

A I think that I did in part, and that my wife did in part.

Q Did you visit the farm together before you bought it?

A I don't recall.

Q How much did you pay for it?

A Oh, I have forgotten that, too, but it seems to me it was about $500, of which we through great innocence in such matters paid something like $200 down, and I don't believe we finished paying it until after I went to work for Time.

Q Was that included in your expense account ---

A No.

Q --- in the Communist Party?

A No, it was not.

MR. CLEVELAND: Did he answer that?

THE WITNESS: I said it was not.

Q (By Mr. Marbury) I understand, however, the automobile was included in a lump sum?

A It was not so interpreted, but I was given a lump sum of money to buy the automobile.

Q I did not use the word "interpreted". I said the automobile was included. I said the automobile was included in your expense account.

A No, the automobile was not included in the expense account. The money for the automobile was given to me in a lump sum for that purpose.

Q Now about the St. Paul property?

MR. MACMILLAN: Before you leave the farm property, it reminds me to ask you now if by any chance you have correspondence that passed between Mr. Case and any of the parties here, Mr. and Mrs. Hiss, or Mr. Chambers. Do you have that correspondence?

MR. MARBURY: I have only seen the correspondence that Mr. Chambers has reproduced in the Baltimore News-Post.

MR. MACMILLAN: Yes.

MR. MARBURY: And I presume you have seen them likewise. I have some letters from Mr. Hiss to Mr. Chambers.

MR. CLEVELAND: Mr. Case.

MR. MARBURY: I mean Mr. Case.

MR. MACMILLAN: Do you have the originals or carbon copies of those letters?

MR. MACMILLAN: No, I have the originals.

MR. MACMILLAN: From Mr. Chambers?

MR. MARBURY: From Mr. Case.

MR. MACMILLAN: You have some of them, too.

MR. MARBURY: Yes. I don't know whether I have them all or not. You see, the Committee sent investigators -- I don't know whether you want all this in the record.

MR. MACMILLAN: Yes, I think it should be in the record.

MR. MARBURY: The Committee sent investigators up to Westminster and took a great many papers out of Mr. Case's files.

MR. MACMILLAN: Yes.

MR. MARBURY: And I am not sure that they were all returned. In fact, the Committee has a good many papers, Mr. Macmillan, which I would like very much to see and ---

MR. MACMILLAN: Yes. Well, could you give us the dates of the letters that you do have?

MR. MARBURY: Well, I will be glad to do it. I don't want to stop to do it now, if you don't mind.

MR. MACMILLAN: Well, before we leave today.

MR. MARBURY: Yes, I would be glad to do that.

MR. MACMILLAN: All right.

Q (By Mr. Marbury) Now, as to the St. Paul property, you purchased that after you had broken with the Party?

A That is right.

Q So the Party certainly did not pay for that.

A No.

Q Do you remember, did you negotiate the purchase of that property yourself?

A I think my wife and I negotiated it together.

Q Yes. Your wife has testified this morning that you spent a month in Daytona Beach and ---

A Yes, we did.

Q --- during the spring of 1938 -- that is to say, you went to the Old Court Road for a time, and then went to Daytona Beach.

A That is right. I think for about a month.

Q Do you remember what month of the year it was?

A I should think it was May, perhaps.

Q May. And then you bought the St. Paul Street property shortly after you return from there?

A That is right. We came back, and I was determined by then that I must come out in the open at all costs. And the first step seemed to me to buy a piece of property and have a local habitation and a name.

Q Now, may I ask you some questions which are just particular matters which were not particularly clear to me, and not related to this, but just separate subjects. You spoke of a man named Nap Caplan, who was your understudy, or who was, rather, put in your hands as your assistant, who took over your job on the Daily Worker.

A Yes.

Q Did you know him yourself by any other name?

A It is possible that I did.

Q Well, that is ---

A Well, I could not testify that I certainly knew him by any other name, but I believe that I did.

Q And what name do you believe? Do you know the name that you believe you knew him by?

A Gainly.

Q You believe that you knew him as Gainly?

A I think so.

Q Now, did I understand you to testify before that you worked at the bookstore up until the time of your brother's suicide, and then your next job was with the Daily Worker.

A I think so.

Q May I ask whether your brother's suicide had any relation to his marriage?

A It undoubtedly did. And it occurred to me that maybe I should have gone into that more fully, at least, since, so far as I am able to, I don't know all the circumstances of his marriage, except that he married a girl whom I did not believe he should marry, and urged him not to marry her, and the rest of his family also urged him not to marry, but he married her I thinkout of a sense that it was a duty. I don't believe that they were happy at any time. As I recall it, the marriage was very brief.

Q Now, this Ida Dales, you spoke of her before, but we never found out anything about her. Do you know where she is living, or what she is doing?

A No, I don't know where she is living. I have not heard of her for many years.

Q What was she doing at the time you were living with her?

A Oh, I think she had some Party function, but I cannot remember quite what it may have been, in the International Labor Defense.

Q You don't know anything about her background or anything of that sort?

A I don't think so. She had been in the Communist Party since she was -- in the Socialist and Communist Party since she was a child, I think.

Q Did you ever live at Malvern, Long Island?

A No, no.

Q Now, after you left the Party, you lived for a time at the Bucks, up until May, and then went to Florida. During the time when you were at the Bucks, were you living actually there yourself, or were you away the most of the time?

A In the weeks or in the time before we went South, I don't think I left the Buck property. I was strictly in hiding. One of the reasons we decided to go South was because we were all cramped together in one room, and were getting on one another's nerves, and I looked around for the most anonymous place we could go to, and pitched on Florida, a place far away, and where there were a great many transients.

Q You just stayed at the property the whole time?

A I believe so. I may have made one or two trips to the store, but I don't think any more.

Q You did not go to New York during that period?

A Yes. As a matter of fact, I must have, because one of the things I did in the South was translate a book, and I got that translation in New York, so I must have made one or two trips to New York.

Q Where did you get the translation?

A From Paul Willert, of the Oxford University, but translated it actually for Longmans-Green Company.

Q Did you have any collaborator on that translation?

A Not at that time. The translation dragged on until after I went to work for Time, at which point somebody else came in and did the last chapters. I have forgotten who it was now.

Q Now, when you came back in June to the Bucks, then you started in from that time on -- at the time you went to St. Paul Street, what were you doing?

A I was still working on the translation and doing some research work, trying to write.

Q And after you moved to St. Paul Street?

A The same, until I went to Time.

Q You were in New York during that time?

A I was in New York occasionally during that time, yes.

Q What were you doing there?

A Looking for more work, visiting my mother.

Q Now, do you remember exactly when you got your job with Time?

A I think in April of 1939, if I am not mistaken.

Q Well, now, was it prior to that time that you had your interview with Mr. Levine?

A Yes, I got to know Levine a few months prior to that, I think.

Q A few what?

A A few months prior to that time.

Q A few months prior to that. How did you get to know him?

A I was introduced to him by Herbert Sollow, who is now one of the editors of Fortune.

Q How did you get in touch with him? Had you known Mr. Sollow?

A Yes, I had known Sollow for years.

Q You went to see him and asked him to give you an interview with Levine?

A No, as a matter of fact, he suggested it, as I remember it.

Q How did that happen?

A Why, Mr. Levine is a kind of a focus for ex-Communists. He gets to meet all of them. And I think that is about it.

Q What I mean, how did the man who was on the editorial staff of Fortune ---

A He was not at that time. I did not mention that.

Q Oh, what was he doing then?

A I think he was probably free-lancing.

Q And I take it that he knew you were an ex-Communist.

A Yes, indeed.

Q Was he one himself?

A No, I don't believe he was ever a Communist. He is an anti-Communist.

Q How could he happen to know you then?

A I went to college with him.

Q I see. And you ran across him in New York, or something.

A Oh, I had known him off and on for years. He moved in the fringes of the Communist movement, or among the leftists.

Q You mean just for curiosity sake? You say he was an anti-Communist?

A No, he was a mild kind of sympathizer with the Communist Party at one time.

Q Oh!

A And then he became I think more than a mild sympathizer with Trotsky, and then he ceased to be a sympathizer with Trotsky. I would think he is not a very politically-minded person.

Q Well, now, you got in touch with him. Did you get in touch with other people in New York during this time?

A During that time, I was in touch with Robert Cantwell and Prof. Shapiro, Paul Willert -- not very many people.

Q The object being to try to find work?

A That is right.

Q You were still living in Baltimore, at St. Paul Street?

A I was living at St. Paul Street.

Q And did you tell any of these people of your experience in the Communist underground?

A Yes. Herbert Sollow was at that time living in the house of Margaret DeSilva, who had about that time married Carlo Tresca, who was later murdered in New York, an anarchist leader, an Italian anarchist leader. And I talked to Carlo Tresca at some length about my experiences.

Q He is dead now?

A Yes.

Q Did you tell any one who is now alive about them?

A Yes, I told Isaac John Levine.

Q Was he the first one?

A No, I certainly talked to Sollow before then.

Q Well, now, then, what did you tell Sollow?

A A good part of what I have told you.

Q And that was in ---

A 1939 -- '8 and '9.

Q Around the turn of the year, you told him that story, and he suggested that you go see Levine?

A That is right.

Q And he introduced you to Levine?

A He did.

Q Now, what was your object in seeing Levine?

A Well, he seemed to think that Levine could help me to sell articles on the Communist movement.

Q And you met Levine you said several months before you got your job on Time?

A I think so.

Q Which would be in the early part, of course, of '39?

A Probably.

Q Now, can you recollect what your conversation with Levine was?

A Chiefly about the underground Communist movement.

Q Well, did you tell him all of the things that you have told here today?

A No, but I told him that there was a Communist apparatus functioning in Washington, and I told him that a number of these people were highly placed in the Government.

Q Did you have any manuscript that you submitted to him?

A I think I did.

Q Have you still got it?

A No.

Q You mean you have destroyed it?

A As a matter of fact, I don't know what became of it. It was chiefly as I recall a kind of summary, to just see whether or not he thought it was interesting material journalistically.

Q And what did he say?

A I got the impression he would find it interesting if he wrote it for me on the side, and as I have some of the writer's usual vanity, I preferred to write it myself, so we dropped the matter.

Q And that was the end of it. Did you have only one conference with him?

A No, I saw him several times. It was he who introduced me to Walter Krivitsky.

Q I think he had published some articles which he had himself written in, what is the phrase, in collaboration with John Krivitsky.

A Yes.

Q I think he was in the process of writing or publishing those at that time.

A I am not sure.

Q Hadn't some of them appeared in the Saturday Evening Post?

A I am sure they had.

Q At the time you went to see him?

A I am not sure that they had yet appeared, but they must have soon thereafter.

Q And you say his suggestion was that he do the same thing with you, and you did not like it?

A I don't think it was quite as bald as that, but I had the impression he would not mind writing my experiences for me, and I was more interested in writing them myself, and not very much interested in that.

Q And is that the only reason the deal with him fell through at that time?

A There was not any deal.

Q Well, now, you went to him with the hope that he would help you get ---

A Perhaps I should relate something else there.

An ex-Communist is one of the lonliest of creatures, particularly an ex-Communist of my sort, who is in constant apprehension, who is afraid to trust almost any one, and to find some one whose reputation in this matter was as well known as Levine's meant that I had somebody I could talk to and who was familiar with such matters, more or less.

Q Well, as I understood your testimony a few moments ago, you said you went to Levine with the idea that he might help you sell your manuscript, sell articles?

A I think John Kirvitsky suggested that he had journalistic contacts that might help me sell some.

Q Did you tell him any of the details about the individuals, for instance, the Hiss Brothers, and so forth?

A I don't believe I did at that time.

Q You did not?

A No, I don't think so.

Q You just told him in a general way?

A I think I left out most of the names. He first heard them when I talked to Mr. Berle.

Q I see. Now, prior to that time, you say Levine is the first -- in your talks with Sollow, you said a few moments ago that you had told a good part of what you told here. Again, did you name the Hisses to Sollow?

A I don't know whether I did or not, but I am inclined to think I probably did not.

Q You think you did not. So that the first time that you ever mentioned the Hiss brothers to anybody was when?

A Well, without saying categorically it was the first time, I would say that to Mr. Berle I first gave a more extended account of what was going on in Washington.

Q Well, I am asking about the Hiss brothers now particularly.

A I mentioned the Hiss brothers to Mr. Berle.

Q So I understand. Had you ever mentioned them before that to anybody else?

A I am not sure, but I rather think not.

Q You think not. You had never told any one in the FBI before that time?

A I had not seen the FBI.

Q Had not seen any one in the FBI?

A No.

Q Prior to that time?

A No.

Q And, as I say, you never told Levine anything about the Hisses until the time when he went with you to Mr. Berle?

A I think not. I cannot be absolutely sure of that, but I rather think not.

Q But you had told Mr. Sollow and Mr. Levine, and had you told others in general of your situation, that is, that you were an ex-member of the underground and living in apprehension, and so forth?

A I had told Carlo Tretska. I don't know that anybody else knew about it except Robert Cantwell.

Q Cantwell?

A Cantwell.

Q Cantwell was then employed?

A I think so.

Q I believe he is a book review editor, isn't that correct?

A He was writing for books on Time.

Q Writing on books for Time?

A Yes.

Q And you believe you had told him this story?

A I had given him a general notion of it, at any rate.

Q But not naming names?

A I don't think so.

Q Now, how did you get this job on Time?

A Why, I needed a job very badly indeed, and I said to Cantwell one day I thought I would like a job on Time. And he said, "I don't believe it." And I convinced him that I was serious, and he tried to get me one, as I recall it, for a month or so. There was no opening, and then as work opened on Time there were several openings at once, and he had me come to New York, and I wrote two or three trial book reviews.

Q What was that?

A Two or three trial reviews, and the editors were sufficiently satisfied to hire me.

Q Well, now, you say Cantwell knew that you had been in the Communist underground?

A That is right.

Q And you told him about this ring of spies. That is what they were.

A I did not say that. I said I had given him a general idea that there was an underground.

Q Well, did you tell him what the underground was doing?

A I don't know that I did.

Q Well, didn't he have any interest in what this underground was, what the work of the underground meant?

A Mr. Robert Cantwell had been on the fringes of the Communist Party for a number of years. He knew what an underground was.

Q So it was not necessary to explain it to him?

A I don't think so.

Q He knew. Well, now, were you employed by Time without any knowledge on their part of your background and connections?

A No, I had the impression that -- they did not sit me down and ask me about it -- but I believe they learned from Cantwell something about it.

Q Nobody ever talked to you about it?

A Not that I recall.

Q You were just hired?

A That is right.

Q Without any interview, with no personnel man who ever went over the situation with you to find out what kind, or to ask you about your previous connections, and so forth?

A Well, people are hired at Time in different ways, and if you have a friend there who will recommend you, and you have done work which they think is Time-worthy, as they say, you may be hired, which is what happened to me, and in the process of hiring me I had an interview with the managing editor, who was then Manfred Godfrey, in which he asked me very perfunctory questions and talked chiefly about the work I had done.

Q Did you tell him that you were a former Communist?

A No.

Q Did they know it?

A They knew it very shortly thereafter. If he did not know it then, my impression is he did know it shortly.

Q Where did you get that impression from?

A Probably from Robert Cantwell.

Q You mean Cantwell told you that he had explained your previous background to your employers?

A No, I don't think he did in so many words.

Q Never told you or never explained it?

A Never told me, but I had the impression, and it was very clear to me in about a week that everybody knew my background.

Q How did you have that?

A People began to talk to me about it. The first people who talked to me about it were Communists at Time. We had one or two then, and they had not been told that I was an ex-Communist. So one of them, Mr. Leon Spherek, who is now going around getting quarters for any dirt he can get on Chambers in connection with this case, asked me to join the Newspaper Guild, and I said, "Well, you would not want me in the Newspaper Guild," and he said, "Oh, yes, we know you are a well-known Communist." And I then told him I had broken with the Communist Party.

Q Did anybody besides the Communists know that you were a well-known Communist?

A I don't think they knew I was a well-known Communist. In fact, I thought that was rather an amusing way to put it. They presently became aware I was an ex-Communist, and made me aware that they were aware.

Q Well, now, do you remember what your first salary was at Time?

A No, I don't, but I think it was about $100 a week, as near as I can remember.

Q Writing book reviews?

A That is right.

Q Or was it ---

A Writing book reviews.

Q Were you head of the book review department?

A Not at that time. Robert Cantwell became the head of the book department just about the time I went into it. Tom Matthews had been the head of it before. At that time he became editor for National Affairs, I think.

Q Well, now, when did you first tell -- how did you come to tell the story to Mr. Berle? Did you get in touch with Mr. Levine, or did he get in touch with you?

A Mr. Levine had urged me almost from the beginning to bring these matters to the attention of the Government. And I had been very reluctant. But at that point, which was August or September, 1939, the Moscow-Berlin Pact was signed and the war was on. That would seem to me that the decision had been made for me.

Q Now, did you take the initiative then and get in touch with him then?

A Mr. Levine got in touch with me.

Q I see.

A And he said that he had arranged, or would arrange a meeting with Mr. Berle.

Q Mr. Berle?

A Mr. Berle.

Q You mean, in other words, the first time you heard from Mr. Levine was that he simply called you up and said, "I want you to come down, and have arranged an interview with Mr. Berle."

A No, I think he came to my office, and, as a matter of fact, said that he could arrange this interview with Mr. Berle, and would I, and I said yes.

Q What was his idea about a White House interview?

A My original idea had been that I should take this story to the President.

Q Was that your idea or his?

A That was my idea.

Q I mean did Mr. Levine know that?

A Yes, I think he did.

Q Then he must have had a conversation with you before this occasion when he told you about the appointment with Mr. Berle.

A No, his original idea had been to try to go to the President.

Q You mean when he came to see you in New York in your office, he talked to you about going to the President?

A No, by that time he had been told that Mr. Berle was the President's man in Intelligence matters.

Q Well, I am trying to get back to how it started. You say the Hitler-Stalin, the Moscow-Berlin Pact had been signed. What happened? Did you call him on the phone? Did he call you?

A We had discussed this matter before the Pact was signed.

Q Yes, and you had refused ---

A I had not refused. I was considering it. And then the Pact was signed. And, as I said, the decision seemed to have been made. Meanwhile, Mr. Levine had got in touch, or was about to get in touch with Mr. Berle. I have forgotten the exact circumstances. He came to my office and asked me if I would talk to Mr. Berle, and I said yes.

Q Well, had you previously agreed to talk to the White House, to the President?

A If we could, yes.

Q You mean before the Hitler-Stalin Pact?

A If we could get to him, then the understanding was I would consider that problem.

Q You mean that was before the Hitler-Stalin Pact?

A I believe it was, yes.

Q That is, you had discussed this matter with Mr. Levine, and you said if you could get to the President, you would be willing to tell your story?

A I think so.

Q And then after the talk, he called you up and said, "I cannot get to the President, but I can get you to Mr. Berle."

A No, after the talk, in a few days he came to my office, as I recall it ---

Q Yes.

A --- and said that he meant to take it to Mr. Berle. That is as nearly as I recall it.

Q Yes. Well, that clears it up. And then you made your statement to Mr. Berle. Now, after you had made your statement to him -- you did not tell him about these documents, the espionage ---

A Not to my knowledge.

Q --- going on in the State Department.

A Not to my knowledge. Nevertheless, I gave him to understand there was an apparatus working in the Government. In other words, I described the apparatus, the parallel apparatus which I headed.

Q That is to say, the Hiss brothers, Mr. Harry Dexter White and Silverman.

A And Mr. Post.

Q And Mr. Post?

A Mr. Post.

Q Those five?

A I think so.

Q And you described that to Mr. Berle?

A I also described the other apparatus and various things. I had heard from Peters about people around about Washington.

Q Now, did you say anything about espionage at all?

A I think there was a very direct implication, but I don't know that I said it in so many words.

Q Didn't you tell him about ---

A --- Colonel Bykov, no.

Q Well, or about the State Department documents that you had seen, and so forth?

A I don't think so. I may have.

Q Now, about this Field apparatus, I believe you said in your testimony that that was headed by Hatta Gumperts.

A Hetta Gumperts.

Q Is she in Government service?

A I don't know what she does. My impression at present is that she does not.

Q Was she in the open? Is that her real name?

A I cannot even tell you. That is the name I heard her called.

Q Well, did she have a parallel position to yours?

A I am not sure of that. Apparently she was at the head, one of the parallel heads.

Q She was in, I suppose, the Noel Field's?

A That I cannot tell you.

Q You cannot tell us. Were any other people in the State department in it?

A I don't know.

Q You don't know?

A I don't know. It was a parallel apparatus. It was not my apparatus.

Q How did you know Hetta Gumperts was head of it?

A I think Peters told me about Hetta Gumperts because of Noel Field.

Q I think there was one thing left loose before that that ought to be connected up a little. The record does not show something I think you said about Larry Duckett.

A Yes.

Q Lawrence Duckett. (Duggan?)

A Yes.

Q Have you any information that he has ever been a Communist?

A None whatsoever.

MR. MARBURY: Off the record.

(Discussion off the record followed.)

THE WITNESS: It is my impression that he was not.

Q (By Mr. Marbury) Now, you told your story to Mr. Berle. Who did you tell it to next?

A Mr. Ray Murphy, I believe.

Q And who is Mr. Ray Murphy?

A He is a securities officer in the State Department.

Q When did you tell him?

A Well, I am not quite sure of the year. I am not quite sure whether I told it to the FBI first or Mr. Murphy, but sometime in 1945, I should think around that period.

Q '45?

A I think so.

Q In other words, six years after you told Mr. Berle?

A Something like that.

Q That was the first time that you ever told any one else?

A I think so. Both the State Department---both Mr. Murphy and the FBI got in touch with me and asked me about the matter, and I told the FBI in my office, in answer to their questions about the matter, and Mr. Murphy called me up at my home in Westminster, and came up with a stenographer, and I told him the story, which was then taken down as a stenographic record.

Q Now, how much did you tell Mr. Murphy at that time?

A I told Mr. Murphy the general set-up of the apparatus and the parallel apparatus, as I recall it.

Q Did you name names?

A Yes.

Q And this was in '45, you say?

A I think so.

Q And that was the first time that you told anybody after you told Mr. Berle?

A I think so, with this qualification, that in '43 probably two FBI men called on me and asked me some rather wild questions, and among them if I had murdered John Krivitsky, and I had not, of course, and I don't think at that time we went into the story of the groups, but I have forgotten about that.

Q And how did Mr. Murphy find out about it?

A As a matter of fact, I don't know. That is his secret.

Q You don't think he got it from the FBI?

A I have no way of knowing it.

Q Well, if you did not tell the FBI, he could not have.

A Well, it is a question whether I spoke to the FBI men before I spoke to Mr. Murphy, or the other way around.

Q Well, I understood you to say you talked to the two FBI men in a rather wild conversation, and you don't think it covered this subject?

A That is right. And then several years later I spoke to the FBI again in a much more coherent and rational conversation, when we went into the structure of these groups. Now, whether that preceded the conversation with Mr. Murphy or came after it, I am not quite sure. I think they were roughly in the same general period.

Q I see.

A How Mr. Murphy knew about it, and why the FBI asked me, I don't know.

Q Well, now, what was the first time that you ever told any one --- did you mention all these names?

A I think so.

Q All the names -- Harry White ---

A No, originally I did not mention Harry White to Berle, because I thought that I had broken wide away, and that I gathered was not so. And I presently told the FBI about White.

Q You say presently. When was that?

A Well, I have forgotten how I used "presently" there.

Q You said, "I presently told the FBI about White."

A Oh, I told it probably in that more full conversation with the FBI, and I believe I went into it then for the first time, which would I believe be around 1945.

Q And you think you mentioned Harry White at that time?

A I believe so.

Q So that now you remember two conversations with the FBI?

A I remember those two conversations, and a great many brief visits from the FBI, to ask me about specific people, or matters connected with Communism.

Q Well, that would be following those visits or before?

A Those were following?

Q Following?

A Yes.

Q In other words, after you told your main story---

A That is right.

Q --- that you remember was in 1945, then you began to be consulted from time to time?

A That is right.

MR. MACMILLAN: How much longer, Mr. Marbury, are you going to be?

MR. MARBURY: I don't think much longer.

MR. MACMILLAN: All right.

Q (By Mr. Marbury) Now, after this story to the FBI, when did you next tell the story?

A I don't know that I had occasion to tell it again in any detail.

Q I don't know, either, but does that answer mean you never did tell it again until you came before the Committee?

Kisseloff-23911

A I think that I never told it at any length again or in any detail.

Q Well, did you ever mention the Hiss brothers again?

A I certainly did.

Q When?

A I mentioned it to one or two people at Time, what I knew about the Hiss brothers.

Q When?

A It would have to be in the '40s sometime.

Q In the what?

A In the '40s sometime. I don't know any specific date.

Q Well, what was the occasion of it, and to whom did you tell it?

A I don't know that I can even answer that exactly. I think one person I mentioned it to was John Barkham, who was a foreign news writer. And I don't really recall any one else. Oh, yes, Samuel Wells, Samuel Gardner Wells.

Q Who was he?

A He was perhaps at that time the religion editor on Time, and is now foreign correspondent on there.

Kisseloff-23912

Q So you told this story about the Hisses being in the Communist underground ring to a number of people?

A Well, at least ---

Q Outside of the Government.

A At least two people.

Q Well, were there more than two?

A Well, I don't know. Those are the two I recall.

Q Those were people in Time?

A Yes.

Q In the same organization that you were?

A John Barkham is not with Time any more, but Wells is. They were at that time.

Q Now, then, you came and told your story before the Committee?

A Yes.

Q How did that come about?

A I wish I knew. Hearst I know knew about it. It was the Sunday preceding my first testimony, when the Hearst Washington Bureau called me about it at the time, and asked me if I was the man who had been subpoenaed by the Un-American Committee, and I answered that I did not know. And then shortly thereafter the Journal-American called me up and asked me if I was the man who had been subpoenaed by the Un-American Committee, and I made the same answer. And the next morning or in the meantime I went to the managing editor of Time and said, "I think I am about to be subpoenaed by the Un-American Committee", and the next morning a Hearst reporter and a Hearst photographer appeared at my office, and I said, "No story, no pictures, I have had no subpoena." And a little later on a man appeared with a subpoena. And the rest you know.

Q Did you know Mr. Howard Rushmore?

A I had met Mr. Rushmore on two occasions.

Q Did you ever tell him this story?

A Not to my knowledge. In fact, definitely no.

Q You had not?

A I had not. The first time I saw Mr. Rushmore was when I was writing Cinema on Time, and he appeared in my office and asked for a job on Time. I had heard of him as a movie writer for the Daily Worker, and I told him as an ex-Communist I would have nothing to do with a Communist, and he left my office. And I discovered a few days later he had broken with the Communist Party. I don't know why he did not tell me that, but he did not. The next time

Kisseloff-23914

I saw Howard Rushmore was at my consultation with J. Peters in the Federal Building, when Rushmore introduced me. I would not have recognized him otherwise. Those are the only two occasions.

Q Did you talk to Stribling before you testified?

A I talked to him about five minutes, I guess, before I testified.

Q Now, you said a good long while back that you had gone to church. I would like to ask you what church you joined, and when.

A Under the influence of the same Mr. Wells we have mentioned, I joined the Episcopal Church.

Q When was that?

A I would think in 1942, perhaps. The Priest who baptized me was a close friend of the managing editor on Time. I was not very satisfied within the Episcopal Church, perhaps due to some inadequacies of my own, but I was more and more drawn to Quakerism, and I presently began to attend the meetings at the little Meeting near Westminster. And after a period of some months I was asked if I would like to unite with the Meeting, and I and my whole family became members of that Meeting.

Kisseloff-23915

Q Now, just a very few more questions, and I think I can finish up, at least for the present. Have you any knowledge of the activities either of Alger Hiss or Priscilla Hiss as Communists prior to your first meeting them in Washington in the summer of 1934?

A No. I once heard somewhere that Priscilla had incautiously taken part in some demonstration in Washington, at least had been present where a demonstration was going on, but beyond that I don't think I know anything about their activities before in that regard.

Q How about Donald Hiss?

A No, I know nothing about his activities prior to my meeting him.

Q Can you explain briefly just what your knowledge of Donald Hiss' activities are? You have said you were introduced to him by either Ware or Peters.

A Yes.

Kisseloff-23916

Q That he attended meetings of this group in St. Mathews Court.

A Yes.

Q How many meetings?

A How many meetings?

Q Yes, to your knowledge.

A I don't know. I would not like to say a definite number. Let me say three or four, to be conservative.

Q And that following that he was separated?

A He was presently separated. I don't know exactly how soon.

Q And he stopped attending meetings, and after that you saw him at Alger Hiss' house?

A Usually.

Q And at times other than the usual times, where did you see him?

A I probably met him at a drug store or in the park somewhere.

Q And what did he do for you? You said he did not get any documents?

A He never did.

Kisseloff-23917

Q Did he recruit any people for you?

A He never did.

Q What did he do to justify his presence in the apparatus?

A I don't know that he ever did anything to justify his presence in the apparatus. The idea was that he would advance in Government somewhat the way his brother did. And as I think I testified, he presently had the opportunity to become a legal adviser to the Philippines Division, and at that time he was told by the Party to do that, much against his will.

Q You think that was against his will?

A I know it was.

Q How do you know it?

A Because he protested. He was working in the Labor Department, in the Immigration Division, I believe, and the plan had been, the Party's plan, and I guess also the Department's plan had been to have him go out in the same capacity in the Bridges deportation hearing.

Q Well, now, how did you know that that was the plan?

A From conversations with Peters and from conversations with Donald Hiss.

Russell 23910

Q What did Donald Hiss tell you?

A Just what I have told you, to which may be added the fact that he preferred to do that rather than go into the Philippines Division.

Q You mean Donald Hiss told you that the Party told him to work on the Bridges case?

A Of course.

Q And how did he know?

A He talked to Peters, too.

Q Was the Labor Department consulted in this matter?

A The Labor Department was undoubtedly consulted, but not in a way which would lead them to understand the processes of the Communist Party.

Q How was it done?

A I don't know exactly how Donald operated within the Labor Department, but I presume the basis of the choice was on his general ability and interest, perhaps.

Q Well, now, did he object to you about this thing?

Kisseloff-23919

A Did he protest about it?

Q Yes.

A Yes, he did.

Q He told you he did not want to?

A That is right.

Q To go into the State Department?

A That is right. He preferred to go out on the Bridges case.

Q To go out on the Bridges case?

A Yes.

Q Now, when was this?

A That I don't remember. There is a record of the matter somewhere.

Q What?

A There is a record of the matter somewhere.

Q You are quite right about that. Now, can you give us a little more information about the Bridges case? What was that case?

A I have forgotten the circumstances of the Bridges case beyond the fact that the plan was -- the Government was planning I believe to deport Bridges to Australia. Such kind of hearings were involved which would decide whether or not Bridges was deportable. And I seem to recall he was not, since he is still here.

Kissoff 23920

Q What was Donald's function to be?

A I understand that he was to be part of the panel which decided whether or not Bridges was to be deported.

Q In other words, he was to be the hearing officer?

A If that is the word for it.

Q That is the technical word for it. He was to be the hearing officer -- that is your understanding?

A I think so.

Q And he wanted to take that job?

A He did. In fact, my recollection is that he had already been assigned to the case.

Q Your recollection is that he had been assigned to the job of hearing officer?

A I think so. I think so. But I don't believe he was the only hearing officer involved. I think there were probably several.

Q You don't remember the date of this, either, the time of the year, whether the winter, spring or fall?

Kisselloff 23021

A No, I do not.

Q Had the proceedings actually begun against

Bridges at that time?

A I don't remember. Very likely they had.

Q And your recollection is that after he was assigned as hearing officer on the Bridges case, he got this opportunity to go into the State Department?

A If he had been assigned, yes.

Q Well, didn't you say he had?

A No, I said that was my understanding.

Q That is what I say, your recollection.

A Yes. Excuse me.

Q And after that he got this opportunity, and he did not want to go?

A Right.

Q And that the Party insisted that he go?

A That is right.

Q The Party, through you, you say?

A Through me and Peters.

Q Insisted that he go to the State Department?

A Yes.

Kisseloff-23922

Q Now, you say through Peters. Were you present at the time of any conversations with Peters?

A No, I was not.

Q How did you know about it?

A Peters told me.

Q But you yourself had conversations with Donald Hiss on the subject?

A I did.

Q Do you remember how many times?

A Once, I believe.

Q Once. Was any one else there?

A No.

Q Do you remember where the conversations took place?

A I think in Alger's house.

Q Alger was not present?

A He was not.

Q And again, you don't remember -- what house was it at?

A Well, I don't remember that either.

Q You cannot place it at all further than that it was at Alger's house?

Kisseloff-23923

A I could be quite certain it was either P Street or 30th Street. I would be inclined to 30th Street.

Q 30th Street. I think you said you met Mrs. Donald Hiss on one occasion.

A No, I don't believe I did say that. I was not sure, and I thought that I had not.

Q Well, you think you did not meet her?

A I think I did not. My wife met her.

Q Now, have you told us everything that you told the Committee, either on or off the record, that related to the Hisses or about this apparatus?

A I believe so.

Q Did you mention any names to the Committee which you have not mentioned to us?

A No. I am inclined to think I have mentioned more names to you than I mentioned to the Committee.

Q The specific question is not more, but whether you mentioned any names to the Committee that you have not mentioned here?

A Not that I recall.

Kisseloff-23924

Q Now, you said that Hiss was not a registered member of the Party. By that I take it you mean that he did not carry a Party book. How did you know he was a member of the Communist Party? He paid you dues, didn't he?

A He did occasionally.

Q Why do you say occasionally?

A Because he did not pay them to me regularly. He paid them to me when he had failed to see Henry Collins or J. Peters.

Q You mean Collins continued to collect dues from Hiss?

A He did.

Q After he got into your apparatus?

A Collins was half in my apparatus.

Q Was he the dues collector for the apparatus?

A No, he was a dues collector with the original apparatus.

Q So I understand, but after Hiss had been separated, did Henry Collins continue to collect dues from him?

A He did.

Q How long?

A As far as I know, as long as I knew him.

Kisseloff-23925

Q And you would collect them only -- well, how would it happen that you would do it then?

A If they had not met, for one reason or another, and Alger would send the dues by me to Peters.

Q Did he collect them from anybody else?

A Who?

Q Collins.

A He collected them from his whole apparatus, from the original apparatus.

Q Oh, I understand that, but I mean after you had separated out from that apparatus the two Hiss brothers, did he collect dues from ---

A Yes, my understanding is that he collected Donald's dues through Alger.

Q Through Alger? And that is even after they were separated?

A After they were separated.

Q How about Harry White's dues?

Kisseloff-23926

A No, Harry White, as far as I know paid no dues.

Q Oh, Silverman's dues?

A Silverman's dues, I don't know how he arranged that. I did not have anything to do with that.

Q How about Post?

A Post, I don't know either. He probably continued to pay them to Henry.

MR. MARBURY: Well, gentlemen, we have got to stop tonight. I want to go through these documents, and there are certain obvious questions that ought to be asked about them, where they came from, and all that kind of business. And I don't see how it is possible to cover that ground tonight.

MR. MACMILLAN: Do it tomorrow morning, then.

MR. MARBURY: I am sorry, but I have made an appointment in New York for tomorrow, that it has taken me nearly a month to get the appointment, and I don't think I ought not go to it. When would it be convenient to do it?

THE WITNESS: Do it sometime next week.

MR. MACMILLAN: I don't know.

(Discussion off the record followed.)

Q (By Mr. Marbury) Let me ask you oneQuestion before you leave. You passed these papers on to Colonel Byrov, did you not?

Kisseloff-23927

A Colonel Bykov.

Q Is that his name?

A Bykov.

Q How did they get back into your possession?

A I did not pass these.

Q How?

A I did not pass these. I was prepared to bring them at this time.

Q You just held on to them. Well, did you pass any during this time at all?

A Yes, I did.

Q You mean you passed some on without others?

A That is right.

MR. MARBURY: All right, make it Tuesday.

MR. MACMILLAN: Now, on the record now, can you tell us the dates of the original records?

MR. MARBURY: Of the letters?

MR. MACMILLAN: Letters from Mr. and/or Mrs. Hiss to Mr. Case.

Kissloff-23928

(Discussion off the record followed.)

MR. MARBURY: I seem to have the original only of one letter.

MR. MACMILLAN: One letter.

MR. MARBURY: No, two letters. One is dated May 28, 1936, and is addressed to Mr. Edward W. Case, and the other is dated May 13, 1936, and is addressed to Mr. Case, both of them having been signed by Mr. Alger Hiss, and they were given to me by Mr. Case from his files.

MR. MACMILLAN: All right.

(Thereupon, at 5:30 o'clock P.M., an adjournment was taken to a date to be later decided upon.)

1/10/38 - Taylor tried to press the Secretary (indirectly through Feis to Hull & Sec.) to hurriedly accept an offer from Hungary of settlement of her 2 million dollar debt to U.S. Govt. The payment offered was trivial. Sec. refused to be hurried & said did not want to establish a pattern on these int. debt. settlements without considering the whole problem. The fact that the Hungarian amount involved was trifling was no reason to accept the offer as it raised matters of principle, precedent, policy etc.
(What is behind Taylor's & and possibly Feis' desire to press M. into an debt settlement arrangement of that character at this time. Why didn't Taylor try to convince Sec. directly instead of surreptitiously via Feis.)

1/9/38 U.S. Naval Captain Ingersoll will remain in London until English want to communicate anything to us with respect to Japanese boycott or exchange controls. He is to act solely as an agent of communication and not discuss matters. Englishmen are not now interested in in economic boycotts of against Japan. Some incident may develop which will lead them to be desirous of our cooperation. We are likely to act alone only if unusually bad "incident" occurs such as another Panay incident.

Japan, according to Col. Stong, has increased greatly its storage facilities for oil. Tanks built underground with two layers of thick cement and air space between was protection against bombing.

We have just discovered evidence of Japanese "dumping" of textiles into U.S. and are urging importers to put up ~~temporary~~ 100% bond against imports. I expect evidence of dumping will increase.

About 1 month ago the Pres. asked Sec. M. to see what he could place as many obstacles in the path of imports from Japan as possible under existing regulations. We have made only a little progress to date on the matter. ~~But~~ Our purchases from Japan are declining ~~where steadily~~ steadily mostly on items other than silk. Our imports average about two-thirds of last year's average. Part of the decline is due, of course, to our reduction in purchases from all countries.

Japans ~~balance~~ dollar balances in U.S. are not declining much. They are about 50 million dollars.

Purchases of Japanese goods by [illegible] are decreasing sharply while our exports to those countries are increasing.

State Dept. believes ~~British~~ Kisselloff 23935 moves toward Italy and Germany will reduce substantially European fears of war in the near future.

If Japan repeats another incident like the "Panay" incident, Treasury machinery is all ready to embargo Japanese imports into U.S. & freeze her dollar balances. This was done at the Pres. orders. It remains unknown outside of Treasury.

We have just agreed to purchase 50 million more oz. of silver from China. ~~It~~ China ~~has~~ ~~195~~ will have left (almost all in London) ~~to~~ about 100 million oz. of silver. Her dollar balances are almost all gone.

Bullitt just called to Sec. (copy not available) comments by Herriot, Blum, Reynaud to him. Herriot says if he were ~~made~~ premier he would quickly strengthen ties with U.S.S.R. & reassure Czech. that France will at once come to her assistance and if Germany ~~interferes~~ enters Czech. He also intated that if U.S.S.R goes to aid of Czech she would cut through Roumanian ~~neutrality~~ "like butter" and would also get through quickly Latvia & Esthonia against their wishes. Herriot doesn't think there is any chance, however, of his becoming Premier.

Reynaud believed the solution of French ~~[illegible]~~ ~~economic~~ economic situation is ~~sharp drop~~ to permit a ~~short~~ sharp drop in the franc, also to form a "national" cabinet that would include all elements. Blum claims he doesn't want to be Premier at this time.

Marchandeau tried feebly to get Eng. & U.S. to agree to support the franc. (Not the slightest chance) The prospects of continued depreciation of franc are very strong.

I have heard nothing as to Capt. Ingersoll's mission in England beyond my earlier explanation. So far as the Treasury is concerned he is supposed to be there in case of another incident with Japan. In that event he would serve as secret liaison man between Eng. & U.S. unknown to anybody as to the nature of his mission. ~~The~~ Chamberlain turned us down at the time of the Panay incident when we asked him whether he would cooperate with us in placing exchange restrictions against Japanese operations in case we decided to do so, but another Kwatchulu incident may bring them around.

Baltimore, Maryland
December 3, 1948

I, JAY DAVID WHITTAKER CHAMBERS, make the following statement to FLOYD L. JONES and DANIEL F. X. CALLAHAN, whom I know to be Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I understand that any statement that I make can be used against me in a court of law. No threats or promises have been made to me in connection with this statement. I have been advised that I have a right of counsel, but I have waived same after consulting with my counsel in connection with the making of this statement.

I am presently a defendant in a civil action brought against me by ALGER HISS in Federal Court in Baltimore, Maryland. In connection with a pre-trial deposition being taken at the request of counsel for Mr. HISS, on November 17, 1948, I produced in evidence 65 typewritten documents and 4 small pieces of white paper on which appeared handwriting that, according to my recollection, is the handwriting of ALGER HISS. The 65 pages of documents were copies or condensations of State Department documents which were turned over to me by ALGER HISS during the latter part of 1937 and early 1938. These documents have been in the possession of NATHAN LEVINE, my wife's nephew, who now resides on Sterling Place in Brooklyn, New York. He is a lawyer and has an office on 42nd Street near Broadway, believed to be in the Newsweek Building. When I gave him these documents shortly after I broke with the Party in 1938, he was living in his mother's house at 260 Rochester Avenue, Brooklyn, New York. When

Levine interviewed 7-8

Kisselloff-25022

I gave them to him, I asked him to hide them for me and, if anything happened to me, that he should open them and make them public. He didn't know the contents of these documents or where they came from. They were in a brown manila envelope. I got them from him on Sunday, November 14, 1948, at his mother's house in Brooklyn. They were hidden in a dumb waiter shaft in his mother's house. There were also contained in this envelope three cans of undeveloped film and two strips of developed film which I will mention later. I went to LEVINE's house to get the small pieces of paper containing HISS' handwriting and had forgotten about the documents and the film until they were turned over to me.

Handwritings compared & identified JGB

Also included in this brown envelope were four yellow-lined sheets of paper in the handwriting of HARRY DEXTER WHITE. I had mentioned this handwriting in my deposition on November 17, 1948. The reason I did not introduce the three cans of film at the deposition was because it was undeveloped. I did not introduce the two strips of developed negative film was because I wanted to keep all the film together and possibly have the film developed and made readable at a later date.

Kisseloff-25023

I did not introduce the handwritten pages turned over to me by HARRY DEXTER WHITE on advice of counsel because they thought it was irrelevant. The handwriting of HARRY DEXTER WHITE described above has been in the possession of my attorneys since November 17, 1948, the date of the pre-trial deposition. The three cans of undeveloped film as well as the two strips of developed negative film were turned over by me to two investigators of the House Committee on Un-American Activities at my home in Westminster, Maryland, on Thursday night, December 2, 1948, in response to a subpoena presented by them to me on that date.

I have no other documents whatever of this nature now.

Walter Henry Pegman interviewed JEG

As far as I can recall, the undeveloped film in the cans described above contained photographs of original documents that came out of the State Department and the Bureau of Standards. The bulk of the documents from the State Department were turned over to me by ALGER HISS. Others were turned over to me possibly by JULIAN WALLEIGH. I assume that these were classified Confidential and Strictly Confidential, the same as some of the documents that I presented on November 17, 1948.

Walleigh interviewed JEG

The documents that were presented by me at the deposition were copies or condensations of State Department documents. These copies were turned over to me by ALGER HISS during the latter part of 1937 and the first part of 1938 as indicated by the dates on the documents. These documents were given to me for delivery to a Colonel BYKOV, who had previously been introduced to ALGER HISS, at which time ALGER HISS agreed to furnish documents from the State Department to me for delivery to Colonel BYKOV. ALGER HISS was well aware that Colonel BYKOV was the head of a Soviet underground organization. It is possible that some of the 65 documents that I presented at the deposition were photographed and copies of the photographs were turned over to Colonel BYKOV. I didn't destroy the documents because I was preparing to break with the Party in about April, 1938.

Some of the documents supplied by HISS were copied on a typewriter in ALGER HISS' home by him or his wife, and then turned over to me. In other instances, original documents from the State Department were turned over to me by ALGER HISS and taken by me in most instances to photographers to be copied, the original documents then being returned to ALGER HISS the same night to be returned by him to the State Department. One of these photographers was an individual named FELIX, whose last name I do not know, the name FELIX being a pseudonym to the best of my belief. FELIX was a member of my Communist apparatus and resided in an apartment, either on or in the vicinity of Konig Street, in Baltimore, Maryland. FELIX was placed in the Communist apparatus for the purpose of photographing documents of this nature. The usual procedure when I obtained these documents from ALGER HISS was for me to meet FELIX at some pre-arranged point in either Baltimore or Washington, at which time I would turn the documents to be photographed over to him. The documents would be returned to me the same night and I would in turn deliver them back to ALGER HISS the same night. At a later date, FELIX would turn over to me the developed or undeveloped film, which I in turn would deliver to Colonel BYKOV. ALGER HISS was aware of the fact that the documents were being photographed for delivery to Colonel BYKOV.

Felix believed identified with Samuel J. Roberts JZG

Another photographer was utilized occasionally for the same purpose described above, namely, DAVID CARPENTER, who was a Baltimorean. He did

Carpenter identified as Sadie Zimmerman JZG

Kisseloff-25025

his photography at the house of a man, a Communist, who was employed by Ludwig Bauman Company. This house was located in southeast Washington, the exact location of which I don't remember. DAVID CARPENTER was a Communist and a member of my Communist apparatus. I followed the same procedure in the handling of documents to be photographed by DAVID CARPENTER as described above in the case of FELIX.

Concerning the four pieces of yellow paper on which appears handwritten notes of HARRY DEXTER WHITE, these are examples of material that HARRY WHITE made available to me from the Treasury Department for delivery to Colonel DYKOV. I met HARRY WHITE always in Washington and he insisted upon having the meetings near his home. Many of them were in front of a theater in the vicinity of Ordway and Connecticut Avenue, N.W., located on the righthand side of Connecticut Avenue, going north. At other times, I would meet him and we would drive around in his automobile. Some of the material that he gave me, I remember, were Office of Naval Intelligence reports signed by a Captain PULISTON. I don't exactly remember what they were about. He also furnished me reports about activities in the Far East. However, the supply of his material was thin. I remember one time he described to me a meeting between the Russian Ambassador, OUMANSKY, and Secretary of the Treasury MORGANTHAU. He reported on how OUMANSKY acted at this meeting. This was one way the Russians had of checking on their representatives. This particular report was given to me orally and I passed it on to Colonel DYKOV, as well as other material that WHITE furnished to me.

Kisseloff-25026

I was introduced to Colonel BYKOV by J. PETERS in New York City, I believe in front of St. Patrick's Cathedral, during the end of 1936 or the first part of 1937. He was introduced to me under the name "PETER", a Russian underground worker, and I was told by J. PETERS that I was to help him. Later on, WALTER KRYVITSKY told me that "PETER" was actually Colonel BYKOV, and that he was with the Fourth Section of the Red Army Intelligence. I think that Colonel BYKOV had recently arrived in this country. J. PETERS appeared considerably disturbed, due to the fact that Colonel BYKOV wanted to work his way into the American Communist Party underground apparatus in Washington, D.C., because it apparently meant that PETERS would eventually lose control of this apparatus in Washington, D.C. However, J. PETERS could not do anything about this. Colonel BYKOV wanted to know something about the personnel in the apparatus and questioned me very closely about them. He wanted to meet some of them.

The first person that he met in the apparatus was ALGER HISS. In the spring of 1937, I arranged a meeting between ALGER HISS and Colonel BYKOV. HISS went to New York where I met him at a place somewhere near the Brooklyn Bridge. We then proceeded to a movie house quite a distance out in Brooklyn. HISS and I waited on a bench in the mezzanine of the theater, and BYKOV emerged from the audience and I introduced him to ALGER HISS.

Collins + Silverman

I arranged for similar meetings in Brooklyn, New York, between Colonel BYKOV and HENRY COLLINS, the Treasurer of the original Communist underground apparatus in Washington, D.C. and an employee of the Department of Agriculture. I also arranged meetings between Colonel BYKOV and HARRY DEXTER WHITE and GEORGE SILVERMAN in Washington, D.C. I believe that Colonel BYKOV met each of these people only on one occasion. He wanted to size them up as individuals, to discuss with them their work for him and the prospects of further developing their work, and also, possibly, to check on me.

Collins interviewed by NYP 7-9

At the time of the meeting with HISS, after leaving the theater Colonel BYKOV raised the question of procuring documents from the State Department, and ALGER HISSagreed. Following the meeting, ALGER HISS began to supply a consistent flow of material from the State Department, such as the type of documents that I presented at the pre-trial deposition on November 17, 1948. I want to say that as far as I can remember, I have never discussed the existence of the documents that I presented at the pre-trial deposition with anyone. Neither have I told any Governmental agency or Government body concerning the existence of these documents. I have never discussed with anyone the procuring of any documents from Government agencies for transmittal to Colonel BYKOV.

Kissloff-25028

In testifying to various Government agencies over the last ten years, I have had two purposes in mind. The first was to stop the Communist conspiracy. The second was to try to preserve the human elements involved. In this sense, I was shielding these people. For these reasons, I have not previously mentioned the procuring and passing of any documents.

I have read the above statement consisting of this and seven other pages in typewriting, double-spaced, and to the best of my knowledge and recollection, I declare it is the truth.

On the plane I read B. Fitz's Daughter by Marquand. I liked it though like so many of the writers these days their portrayal of new Yorker is much inferior to the rest of their writing. Now the bus I think you would enjoy it should you run out of reading material.

Good lord - how far behind in living standards are all these countries compared to U.S. We don't have ~~something~~ some of the good things they have - but even those good things ~~—~~ largely consist of the simple living imported by backward industrial development. To get some idea of the felt power, wealth and respect in which the U.S. is ~~held~~ regarded it is necessary to travel to Central or So. America.

We have our disappointments in Uruguay but I think we would find a prolonged stay in most of these Latin American areas very depressing. Mexico City might be an exception if we knew Spanish well enough to carry on a good conversation. Spanish is not difficult. I wish I had learned it instead of German. I think I'd advise the Kids to ~~study~~ take a course in it if they easily can. After all the peoples of over 20 countries speak it. You could pick it up in two months time convenient.

Maybe when I get to Chile there will be a letter from you. With love

Sat. night.

Anne dearest,

Arrived to-day after a rather long night sitting up. We flew most of Mexico City over the clouds so I could not see much, but the city itself was in full view - in a sort of flat saucer surrounded by fairly high hills - or small mountains.

It's so interesting to come to a foreign city with its slow tempo, Moorish trolleys, people dressed in such a variety of simple garb, - so ranging from good clothes almost a la N.Y. to the simplest of cotton old dresses, old overalls and no shoes. The shops, too, are so hand-me-down (except of course in the main shopping centre) and the contents a mixture of cheap 5 & 10 cent stuff to interesting hand wrought iron work, trinkets and gadgets.

Mr Gomez met me at the station and after washing up at this quaint hotel - right on a teeming square in the small business section but very near the Bank of Mexico (The building is a couple of hundred yrs old but the plumbing is new) we had a late lunch or early dinner at his home. Mrs. Gomez asked much after you. She was very hospitable. In the late evening they went to dinner with us as my guests and toured the city. There has been no chance to discuss monetary problems of Mexico yet. Incidentally the Gomez have a very darling baby 15 mos. old. They have been married some 20 years I think and this is their first! She claims she has to work fairly hard despite a nurse for the child, a cook, and a maid. Mrs. G. says their all so terribly inefficient.

They are going to take me to a bull fight tomorrow though I warned them I shall root for the bulls. I think we shall leave for Costa Rica on Tues. but the something depends on whether we are able to cover enough economic discussions by then.

I feel good and am drinking beer and coca-cola galore. The weather is perfect and I'm glad to be here for a few days. There is no doubt but that you must soon spend a few weeks in Mexico. I know you will love it. Love Dad.

Fri. afternoon

3/7/88

Well, Anne dear, there are doubtless hotter places than this in the world, but I haven't been in them. I arrived this noon by plane from Costa Rica, and I'd grab the first one out were it not for the negotiations to be conducted. We meet the monetary authorities for a long session in the late afternoon and another one will be held tomorrow morning. We have a scheduled meeting with the President of this beautiful Republic tomorrow and leave for Guatemala as soon thereafter as possible - Sunday A.M., I believe. From there to Mexico City where I hope to crystallize some exploratory discussions. They were too vague up to now to draw any conclusions. I must be in Panama on Wed. to meet Santos-Filho. We both then go to Ecuador and then Bolivia.

Our visit in Costa Rica was more successful than I had hoped for, and fully justified my position before the Board and my trip here. We were met by an imposing delegation dinned, cocktailed, and shown the country-side. Costa-Rica is beautiful and the climate and weather perfect this time of the year. From May to Dec. I believe it rains buckets every day. You and I must visit this country and spend about a week there. Beautiful city, scenery, coffee plantations everywhere, and ~~a clean~~ an unusually clean but uninteresting capital.

I'll give you an interesting account of our negotiations some day, but suffice to say we had complete success in achieving our objective. We had a long talk with the President of the country and altogether got what we wanted. It would have been impossible to have got such results without ~~a top~~ conferences on the ground.

I've been well though the days are hectic. I do not have any time to myself except on the plane while note taking with Gomez. I'll doubtless be tired before I'm through but I'll sure ~~have~~ learn a good deal about the financial and monetary problems of these countries. Incidentally, I gave them some darn good advice - and they recognize it as such.

It seems that I've been away for so long already. I want to hear from you so I'll call you up from Mexico - probably Tuesday late afternoon or Wed. early morning. Be sure to go to that doctor about treatment for your arm.

With love, Dad.

CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS CONCERNING ALGER HISS

When Whittaker Chambers was interviewed by Bureau Agents on May 13, 1942, he described a Communist underground movement in Washington, D. C., of which he had been a member for approximately four years, ending in the Spring of 1937. Chambers declared that this group was headed by Harold Ware and that a number of its members were Government employees. He said that one of the members of this group, which was a part of the underground organization of the Communist Party, was Alger Hiss.

In the copy of the notes obtained from Adolf A. Berle, Jr., then Assistant Secretary of State, in June, 1943, and which had been set down by Mr. Berle during an interview in 1939 with Chambers concerning this same Communist underground Government group, Alger Hiss was described as follows:

"Alger Hiss

Ass't. to Sayre - CP - 1937
Members of the underground Comm. - Active
Baltimore boys -
Wife - Priscilla Hiss - Socialist -
Early days of the New Deal"

When Chambers was again interviewed by Bureau Agents in May, 1945, he again stated that Hiss was a member of a Communist underground group headed by Harold Ware. He specifically stated that Hiss, while he was in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, had met on several occasions with Harold Ware's group and that he had usually been in attendance when meetings of this group were held at Henry Collins' home. He said that when Hiss went with the Senate (Nye) Committee investigating the munitions industry, he was segregated from the group and had no more official contacts with them but would meet socially with a number of them and was particularly close to Marian Bachrack, the sister of John J. Abt who, according to Chambers, was also a member of the same Communist group and was elected its leader upon the death of Harold Ware.

Asked whether or not he believed Hiss might have broken with the Communist Party, Chambers stated that he had no reason to believe that he had "dropped out." As a reason for this belief, Chambers explained that after he, Chambers, had broken away from the Communist Party, he had made a special trip to Hiss' home in the Georgetown section of Washington for the purpose of talking Hiss into breaking away from the Party also. Chambers said that when he arrived there, Hiss' wife, Priscilla, was the only one presentand that while Chambers momentarily excused himself to go to the bathroom, he observed Mrs. Hiss immediately go to the telephone, obviously to get in touch with Party members. Chambers said he immediately returned to the room and awaited the arrival of Alger Hiss. When Hiss came, they had dinner together at Hiss' home. Chambers said that he then talked with Hiss all night in an effort to persuade him to leave the Party. He said that Hiss with tears streaming down his face had refused to break with the Communists and that he had given as his reason for not breaking away his loyalty to his friends and principles.

Chambers further declared that he had endeavored to persuade Hiss to leave the Communist Party because he personally had great regard for Hiss and considered him an intelligent and decent young man whose better judgment should have led him to break with the Communist Party. Chambers pointed out that in his opinion one of the strongest reasons for Hiss' maintaining contact with the Communist Party was the fanatic loyalty to the Party on the part of his wife.

Chambers was again interviewed specifically concerning Hiss on March 28, 1946, at which time he declared that he was unable to elaborate on the information concerning Hiss' connection with the Communist Party which he had furnished in 1942 and 1945. He stated that he had absolutely no information that would conclusively prove that Hiss held a membership card in the Communist Party or that he was an actual dues paying member of the Communist Party even while he was active prior to 1937. He volunteered that he knew that in 1937 Hiss was favorably impressed with the Communist movement and was of the present opinion that Hiss still had the same beliefs.

ALGER HISS INTERVIEWED IN SILVERMASTER CASE
ON JUNE 2, 1947

In November, 1945, Elizabeth Terrill Bentley indicated that Alger Hiss had been connected with a Soviet espionage group in Washington. As a result, Hiss was interviewed by Bureau agents on June 2, 1947. On that occasion, he denied having any connection with the Communist Party or that he had engaged in any kind of espionage activity. He further stated that he was not acquainted with an individual by the name of Whittaker Chambers.

He added that at least he could recall no one by that name as being one of his acquaintances. He further stated that as far as he could recall no individual by that name had ever visited his home on any occasion. He did acknowledge in a signed statement that, among others, he knew Charles Kramer, Leon Pressman, Henry Collins, John J. Abt since the early 1930's, mentioning that he could not recall Perlo too well. It is noted that all of these individuals were stated by Chambers to have been members of the Communist underground government group in Washington of which Hiss was alleged by Chambers to have been a member.

(65-56402-118; 100-25824-36)

NO INDICATION FOUND IN BUREAU FILES
THAT HISS KNEW CHAMBERS

A search of the Bureau files has disclosed no indication that Alger Hiss knew J. D. Whittaker Chambers at any time prior to his admission to the House Committee on Un-American Activities on August 25, 1948, upon being confronted with Chambers that he had known Chambers but only as George Crosley, a free lance writer, whom he had known in 1935 in Washington.

OTHERS WHO MAY BE ABLE TO STATE THAT HISS KNEW CHAMBERS IN COMMUNIST UNDERGROUND GOVERNMENT GROUP AT WASHINGTON IN 1930's

When J. D. Whittaker Chambers was interviewed by Bureau Agents on May 10, 1945, Chambers explained that after he was assigned to work with Harold Ware, who was the head of a Communist underground government group, he came to learn the identities of its members inasmuch as he met them on numerous occasions. Among those he could readily recall as having attended group meetings were: John J. Abt, Leon Pressman, Henry H. Collins Jr., Victor Perlo (Chambers first referred to him as Nathan Perlow but subsequently identified him as Victor Perlo), Nathan Witt,_____Post (Chambers described him as editor in 1939 of the State Department's Foreign Service Journal. Consequently this is believed to be Richard Howell Post who is known to have served in that capacity)., Charles Kramer, Donald Hiss, Alger Hiss.

Chambers said he recalled that Alger Hiss while employed by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration had, on several occasions, met with Harold Ware's group and that he had usually attended the group meetings when they were held at Henry Collins' house.

Chambers furthermentioned that the members of the group would also meet, although not as a group, at the violin studio in Washington belonging to Helen Ware, which was generally regarded by them to be the headquarters of the group leader Harold Ware.

Chambers also said that Peter (subsequently identified as Alexander Stevens) frequently came to Washington to attend meetings of the underground group whenever he felt the group needed a pep talk or required special instructions.

Consequently, it would appear from the above information that Abt, Pressman, Collins, Perlo, Kramer, Post, Witt, Donald Hiss and possibly Helen Ware may be able to state from personal knowledge that Alger Hiss knew Whittaker Chambers as a member of the Communist underground group at sometime during the period from 1933 to 1937 when Chambers has admitted he had worked for the Communist Party in Washington. (100-25824-36)

CHAMBERS EMPLOYED BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IN 1937-38

Chambers was interviewed in 1942 and again in 1945 concerning the operations of a Communist underground organization in Washington among government employees. There is no reference in the Bureau's files that he mentioned on either of these occasions that he had been employed by the Federal Government while still a member of the Communist underground group.

CONFIDENTIAL

Kisseloff-26123

However, in testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on August 30, 1948, Chambers stated that he had worked on a "boondoggling" job in the Research Department of the Railroad Retirement Board at six thousand dollars per year (this was later corrected to two thousand dollars per year).

Inquiry by the Washington Field and Chicago Offices on September 1, 1948, disclosed that Jay V. David Chambers, who at the time gave his address as 3310 Auchentoraly Terrace, Baltimore, Maryland, had worked on a WPA research project for the Railroad Retirement Board at Washington from October 18, 1937 until January 31, 1938. Since the record of this Chambers shows he was born in Philadelphia in 1901 and studied at the University of Brussels, Belgium, and had been in Germany, it is probable that he is identical with the man who, up until now, has been known as Whittaker Chambers inasmuch as this information corresponds with data previously known to the Bureau concerning the latter.

BUREAU'S FILES SEARCHED FOR REFERENCES TO JAY V. DAVID CHAMBERS

No previous references to Chambers have been found in the Bureau's files under the name of Jay V. David Chambers nor as Jay David Whittaker Chambers.

ACTION TAKEN BY FBI CONCERNING CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The information which follows is intended to show what allegations were made by Chambers when interviewed by Bureau agents on May 13, 1942, and May 10, 1945, concerning various individuals mentioned by him as being members of a Communist underground government group in Washington or connected with the Communist Party in other ways as will be shown below.

Set forth below under the names of the individuals listed are the allegations of Chambers as outlined in the notes set down by Adolph A. Berle, Jr., former Assistant Secretary of State, when he interviewed Chambers in 1939 on substantially the same material later furnished by Chambers to the FBI. A copy of these notes were obtained from Mr. Berle in June 1943.

When Chambers was interviewed in 1942 he advised that he had been a member of the Communist Party from 1924 until 1937 at which time he severed his connections with the Party. During approximately four years before his exit from the Party he was a member, he said, of an underground movement of the Communist Party in Washington, D. C. Chambers declared that his particular interest at the time was the organization of the Communist Party in the United States Government at a time when the "New Deal" was flourishing. Chambers stated that there was an OGPU organization during the period when he was associated with the Communist Party but said that he was not directly connected with it but that on the contrary his real position was with the underground movement of the Communist Party. He said that occasionally the underground movement would check the activities and personal behavior of an individual in whom the OGPU was interested. However, he said that thereafter if the individual became a member of the OGPU he was segregated from the Party proper. Chambers advised that he served as an assistant to Harold Ware, the leader of the underground group, members of which will be individually referred to below. Chambers' duties, he stated, were those of a morale officer inasmuch as recruits had to be guided in the Party's policies at all times and that such was his responsibility.

When interviewed in 1945, Chambers further explained that the underground organization which he said had existed in Washington had been set up for the purpose of enabling Communist Party members to conceal their Party activities in cases where the nature of their occupations required it. Chambers related that for several years until about 1935 he had also acted as a courier at $30 a week between one Arthur_____and J. Peters who was later identified as Alexander Stevens. His duties in this connection consisted of carrying messages, envelopes, or packages between them in New York City, meeting one or the other at pre-arranged places. He said this was done to "throw off" any one who might be following. Chambers said that to avoid being distrusted, he never inquired as the contents of what he carried between Arthur and Peters. He said that he did not at any time suspect that he was participating in the activities of a Russian espionage ring. He declared that he had no reason to believe that his activities in connection with the underground movement where concerned with other then the regular promotion of the Communist movement. He pointed out furthermore, that he did not at any time consider himself a Comintern agent or an agent of the OGPU. (100-25284-22,36)

SPECIFIC ALLEGATIONS MADE BY CHAMBERS CONCERNING INDIVIDUALS NAMED BY HIM AND PRIOR AND SUBSEQUENT FBI INVESTIGATION

There follow the specific allegations made by Chambers concerning the individuals mentioned by him as having been connected with Communist activity. Also set forth are summaries of what investigations were conducted by the FBI before and after these individuals' names were brought to its attention by Chambers.

JOHN JACOB ABT
Also known as "Kidney"

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No active investigation was being conducted by the Bureau concerning John Jacob Abt prior to the first allegations made by Chambers on May 13, 1942.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Under date of May 14, 1942, the New York Office submitted a letter setting forth the results of an interview conducted with Whittaker Chambers the previous day. This letter revealed that Chambers made no allegations at that time concerning John Jacob Abt. (100-25824-22)

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

There was no investigation instituted concerning Abt after the allegations made by Chambers on May 13, 1942, inasmuch as Chambers did not make any mention of Abt. However, Abt came to the attention of the Bureau on July 23, 1942, when Alexander Stevens, who was then being investigated by the Bureau, contacted Abt at his home in Jackson Heights, Long Island, New York. (100-236194-1, page 4)

At about the same time that Stevens contacted Abt, it was ascertained that Abt and his wife, Jessica Smith Abt, were in contact with various known Communists in New York City. It was ascertained that Abt frequently associated with Roy Hudson and Robert Minor, prominent Communists in New York City, and it was indicated at that time that Abt had been in contact with Eugene Dennis. It was also ascertained that on January 28, 1943, Abt was in contact with John Williamson, a functionary in the Communist Party in New York City. During this period of time, John Abt was General Counsel for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, CIO, in New York City. This information was furnished on February 4, 1947, to Mr. Theron L. Caudle, Assistant Attorney General, in the report of Special Agent W. Earl Jennings dated at New York May 9, 1944. (100-236194-5)

III (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS MADE IN JUNE, 1943

In June of 1943, Mr. A. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State, made available to the Bureau original notes which he had made at the time Whittaker Chambers furnished him information in 1939 concerning the underground Communist group in Washington, D. C. On page one of Mr. Berle's notes, there is set out the following comment:

III (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As noted above, an active investigation was being conducted concerning Abt due to his frequent contact with prominent active Communists in New York City, and the information obtained from Berle's notes served as a substantiation of Abt's connections with individuals who had previously been reported by Chambers in his allegations on May 19, 1942. (100-236194-5)

This investigation reflected that between the time the Berle notes were obtained and the second allegations made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, Abt remained in contact with Roy Hudson, John Williamson, Lee Pressman, "Mother" Bloor, Alexander Stevens, and Ann Silver, the wife of Alexander Stevens, all active Communists in New York City. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle, Assistant Attorney General, on February 4, 1947.

It was also determined that Abt had not been connected in any way with the Federal Government since November 30, 1938. Abt originally became connected with the Government when he served with the Department of Agriculture from 1933 to 1935, with the Federal Emergency Reconstruction Administration during 1935, with the Works Progress Administration from December, 1935, to 1937, and with the Justice Department from 1937 to 1938. On July 16, 1938, Abt was transferred to the New York Office of the Department of Justice's Antitrust Division, where he served until his resignation on November 30, 1938. (100-236194-6)

Abt, during 1944, continued to be in contact with key figures of the Communist Party in New York City, including Matthew and Phyllis Silverman, Alexander Stevens, Carl Brove, a son of "Mother" Bloor, Alexander Trachtenberg, and Roy Hudson. (100-236194-12)

This information was submitted to the Division of Records on October 10, 1944, in a report of Special Agent C. Earl Jennings dated at New York, New York on August 2, 1944.

It was also ascertained at this time that Abt had married Jessica Smith, who was the widow of Harold Ware, who Chambers had named as head of the underground organization in Washington, D. C. This marriage took place on March 14, 1937.

In November of 1944 it was ascertained that Abt was in contact with Roy Hudson, Eugene Dennis, and Nella V. Dodd, known Communists in New York City. This information was furnished by report dated November 16, 1944, to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947.

Early in 1945, Abt maintained contact with Eugene Dennis, Alexander Stevens, Alexander Trachtenberg, and Eugene Kisselev, USSR Consul General in New York City. This contact with Kisselev was made on November 29, 1944, at the home of Abt, and prior to Abt's departure for London, England, where he attended a labor conference. Immediately upon his return, Abt was again in contact with Kisselev. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947, by report dated January 13, 1945. (100-236194-56)

Investigation further reflected that Abt made a second trip to London for the World Trade Union Conference as a representative of the CIO, leaving the United States on February 5, 1945, and returning on March 3, 1945. Abt was in contact with Kisselev prior to and subsequent to his trip to London. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947, by report dated March 10, 1945.

During early 1945 Abt maintained contact with Roy Hudson and Eugene Dennis and was very active in the World Trade Union Conference for the United Nations Conference in San Francisco. It was also determined that Abt was in contact with Pavel Mikhailov of the USSR Consul General's Office in New York City on April 10, 1945. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947, in a report dated May 17, 1945.

IV (A). CHAMBERS AMPLIFIES ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers was interviewed by Bureau Agents of the New York Office. At that time Chambers advised that one of the organizations in Washington, D. C., was headed by Harold Ware, with whom he had been assigned to work; that John Abt was a member of this organization headed by Ware; that Abt was formerly in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration; Assistant Attorney General, Antitrust Division, Department of Justice; Counsel with the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee; and presently Counsel for the CIO Political Action Committee and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

The New York Office advised at this time that they were conducting an extensive investigation concerning John Abt, who is the husband of Jessica Smith, Editor of "Soviet Russia Today."

Chambers also advised that John Abt's house on 15th Street was one of the places used by this group for meetings. Chambers stated that as a courier for this group he transmitted funds between the individual known as Peter and Harold Ware, Nathan Witt, and John Abt, who were successively the leaders of this group. He advised that after Harold Ware's death, he recalled that a meeting had taken place, at which time he had been present, and at this meeting a vote had been taken in which John Abt had been elected leader of the group. He advised that there were about six men present at that meeting and that to the best of his recollection they were Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlo, and Peter. He advised that this meeting took place at the home of Henry Collins, which was then right off Connecticut Avenue, in St. Matthew's Court, over a garage.

IV (A). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Inasmuch as the Bureau was conducting an active investigation of Abt and this investigation reflected that Abt was in contact with several of the individuals mentioned by Whittaker Chambers, the allegations made by Chambers were used to further the investigation concerning Abt. This investigation reflected that after the allegations were made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, Abt continued contacts with Alexander Stevens, Lee Pressman, Eugene Dennis, Marion Bachrach, his sister, Lou Harris, Michael Quill, Nathan Witt, and various other lesser functionaries of the Communist Party in New York City.

Investigation further reflected that Abt was born on May 1, 1904, in Chicago, Illinois. He obtained a law degree from the University of Chicago. He married Jessica Smith, the former wife of Harold Ware, in 1937, at which time Jessica Smith was reportedly a secretarial employee of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D. C. As of September, 1945, Jessica Smith was the President of Soviet Russia Today publications and Editor of the magazine "Soviet Russia Today." It is noted that Harold Ware was the son of Ella Reeve Bloor.

In October, 1945, it was ascertained that Abt was a member of an eleven-man CIO delegation from the United States who were on a tour of Moscow for a week's visit, and the eleven-man delegation had been in attendance at the World Trade Union Conference at Paris. This information was furnished to the Division of Records on January 24, 1946, in the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated October 31, 1945. (100-236194-106)

The activities of Abt and his continued association with known Communist Party members in New York from October, 1945, until October 22, 1946, were furnished to the Division of Records on March 16, 1946, in the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated January 25, 1946; on February 25, 1946, in the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated December 12, 1945; on January 16, 1947, in the report of Special Agent

It should be noted that the Bureau has been conducting an active investigation of John Abt since July 23, 1942, not only to substantiate the information which was furnished by Whittaker Chambers in the Berle notes obtained in June, 1943, and in Chambers' allegations on May 10, 1945, but for the purpose of determining any espionage activities on the part of John Abt.

This investigation was reported in a separate file maintained on Abt; however, his activities were reported in the Silvermaster case after November, 1945. Copies of such summary reports in the Silvermaster case have been furnished to the White House, the Department of Justice, and other Government agencies. On February 4, 1947, Mr. Theron L. Caudle was furnished a copy of the report of Special Agent G. Re: SCHLOMER ADLER, was.,

Schlobel Adler

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

A review of the Bureau's indices has failed to reflect that there was a main file on the above-captioned individual prior to the time that the allegations concerning him made by Whittaker Chambers were received.

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Under date of May 14, 1942, the New York Office submitted a letter setting forth the results of an interview conducted with Whittaker Chambers the previous day. This letter revealed that Chambers made no allegations at that time concerning captioned individual.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

In June of 1943, Mr. A. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State made available to the Bureau original notes which he had made at the time Whittaker Chambers furnished him information in 1939 concerning the underground Communist group in Washington, D. C. Page three of Mr. Berle's notes set forth the following comment: "Schlomer Adler (Sol Adler?), Counsels Office, sends immediately reports to C.P. (Gen. Counsel's Office)." 100-25824-27

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It has been determined that at the time that Mr. Berle made available his notes pertaining to the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers, Adler was in China where he served as the American representative to the Chinese Currency Stabilization Board. Therefore, no investigation was undertaken at that time in a effort to determine Adler's activities and contacts.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the Bureau with the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers conducted by agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945. This letter from the New York Office contained the following statement on page 21:

> "It will be recalled that Chambers mentioned this name (Schlomer Adler, Sol Adler) to Assistant Secretary of State Berle in his conversations with him in 1939. He explained that Adler is definitely a Communist and was employed at that time in the Treasury Department. He added that he knows him to have been in close contact with Peter and to have made reports of a financial nature to Peter. He stated he suspected the Communist Party was playing the stock market, and that they utilized his financial information in this connection."

You will recall that the individual named above as "Peter" was Whittaker Chambers' contact in New York City. Chambers advised that he gained the impression that Peter was the leader of the entire underground for the Eastern part of the country and he suspected for the whole country. 100-25624-36 page 21

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

At the time that Chambers made the above allegation concerning Adler on May 10, 1945, Adler was in China where he was assigned to the American Embassy as the United States Treasury Attache. There is an indication in the file that Adler was in the United States between the time that the Berle notes were received and the time that Chambers made his statements with respect to Adler on May 10, 1945. There is no indication that Adler was investigated actively during that period he was probably in the United States.

The investigation concerning Adler originally was undertaken in the Gregory case in view of the fact that Elizabeth T. Bentley, the informant, made certain allegations concerning Adler. These allegations of the informant were to the effect that during the latter part of 1942 and through the early part of 1943, mention was made by individuals connected with the Gregory case of Sol Adler. The informant in the Gregory case also related that she had seen in the Nathan G. Silvermaster home certain official letters written by Sol Adler from Chungking, China to the United States Treasury Department in Washington, D. C. Gregory stated that presumably these official documents had found their way to the Silvermaster home through Harry Dexter White, an official in the Treasury Department and a prominent figure in the Gregory case. The informant reported that Silvermaster had characterized Sol Adler as an opportunist, but further indicated that he would like to place him in some strategic location in the United States Government. The informant also stated that Sol Adler was a member of the Communist Party and that his dues were collected by Silvermaster and turned over to the informant.

From the time of the receipt of the allegation by Chambers on May 10, 1945 and until July 14, 1946, Adler was continuously in China serving as United States Treasury Attache to the United States Embassy. From July 14 to August 6, 1946, Adler was in Washington, D. C., except for short trips he made to New York City and Boston, Massachusetts. During the time that he was in Washington, his activities were extensively investigated. Physical surveillance was maintained on Adler and the services of highly confidential informants were utilized.

As a result of this investigation it was learned that Adler obtained a position with the National Research Project, NYA through the efforts of Irving Kaplan, a Gregory case subject. This investigation concerning Adler also revealed that he had worked on or been associated with the following individuals, all of whom were subjects of the Gregory case: William Ludwig Ullmann, Virginius Frank Coe, Harry Dexter White, William Henry Taylor, Harold Glasser, Mr. Lauchlin Currie and Abraham George Silverman.

Complete background information was developed during the investigation of Sol Adler. Such information indicated he was born August 6, 1909 at Leeds, England, that he immigrated to the United States from England on February 20, 1935 and that he was naturalized as a citizen of the United States on September 3, 1940 in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. It may be noted that in securing his naturalization Adler used the name of Lauchlin Currie, one of the Gregory case subjects as a reference.

The investigation further revealed that Adler first became connected with the United States Government as an employee on February 26, 1936. He continued this connection until September 30, 1942. He resigned from his position with the Treasury Department on the latter date but was carried on annual leave until February 19, 1943. Upon his resignation Adler became the American representative to the Chinese Currency Stabilization Board. This latter position terminated February 29, 1944. Adler thereupon immediately re-entered the Government service in the United States Treasury Department and has continued this employment to the present date. 65-56402-2450

By letter dated March 4, 1946 a summary dated February 21, 1946 entitled, "Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in Agencies of the U. S. Government" wherein the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers about Adler was made available to the Secretary of the Treasury.

In view of the fact that Adler was one of the subjects of the Gregory case, his background, activities and contacts were thoroughly developed during the investigation of this case. You will recall that the results attained in the Gregory case were summarized and disseminated to the White House, the Department of Justice and other interested governmental agencies. Such results included the information developed pertaining to Adler.

It may be of further interest to note that a loyalty of Government employees investigation has been conducted concerning Adler. Copies of the reports prepared in this investigation were made available to the Civil Service Commission. 121-4089

AMTORG TRADING CORPORATION

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Amtorg Trading Corporation was incorporated in the State of New York on May 27, 1924, and functions generally as an importer and exporter on the North American Continent dealing with official trusts of the USSR. (61-5381-3016, page 2)

An investigation concerning instant organization was initiated in 1939 to ascertain if Amtorg was being utilized by the Soviet Government for any purposes other than legitimate trade activities. The investigation was particularly directed towards discovering NKVD operations within Amtorg. (61-5381-3016, page 35)

In this connection it is to be noted that Mikhail Nikolaevich Gorin, known espionage agent, first entered the United States in 1936 and was destined to Amtorg at that time. Gorin was arrested on December 12, 1938, for violation of the Espionage Statute and was sentenced to serve six years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. The investigation reflected that Gorin had been obtaining information from the files of the Office of Naval Intelligence from Hafis Salich. (61-7574-743)

Gaik Badalovich Ovakimian, known espionage agent, first entered the United States on August 15, 1932, and was also destined to Amtorg. Ovakimian was arrested by Agents of the FBI on May 5, 1941, and was charged with violation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act. Under an agreement with the Soviet Government and the United States State Department, Ovakimian was permitted to leave the United States for the Soviet Union. Investigation reflected that Ovakimian was an active Soviet agent. Continued Bureau surveillance revealed that he was constantly getting information from individual contacts on the streets.

The State Department and the Attorney General were cognizant of the facts in the Corin and Ovakimian cases and were advised of the connection of these Soviet espionage agents and the Amtorg Trading Corporation. (61-7574-743)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers advised on May 13, 1942, that there was an OGPU organization during the period of time when he was associated with the Communist Party and that he presumed that there was also such an organization at the time of the interview. He advised he did not know the identity of the head of such an organization but suspects that the organization is connected with the

Amtorg Trading Corporation and the Tass newspaper. He further advised that there was a group of Russians here studying and teaching at the Ford Plant in Detroit sometime during the 1930's and that unquestionably one or more of these individuals were members of the OGPU. (100-25824-22, page 2)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Inasmuch as previous allegations had been received concerning the possible connection of the OGPU and the Amtorg Trading Corporation, this investigation continued to ascertain the identities of Soviet agents within Amtorg. Inasmuch as Chambers only suspected that Amtorg was being used by the OGPU and since the State Department and the Attorney General had previously been advised of the actual connection between Amtorg and the Soviet Intelligence System in such investigations as GORIN and OVAKIMIAN, this information was not furnished to the State Department and the Department of Justice. _____ AZIMOV (phonetic)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

There was no investigation of the above-captioned individual prior to Chambers' allegations on May 13, 1942.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

In an interview with Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers advised that there was a man named Azimov (phonetic) who was a metallurgist, who had been specializing in steel at the University of California. He stated that this individual was born in Russia and came to the United States when very young, and that he had made a discovery in the chemical side of his studies, (Chambers was told) which he turned over to the Russian Consul. Chambers stated that although he did not check on this information, Azimov reportedly became the head of research in U.S. Steel in Chicago, and that he knows for sure that Azimov was definitely tied in with the Russian apparatus. Chambers stated that he met Azimov once.

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The New York Office was unable to identify Azimov, and by letter dated August 22, 1945, the New York Office forwarded a letter to the San Francisco Office, furnishing the information obtained from Whittaker Chambers and requesting the San Francisco Office to attempt to identify Azimov through records at the University of California. However, no identification of Azimov has ever made. (100-25024-37)

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

There were no allegations concerning Azimov in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, at the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office, he again stated that he had met Azimov (phonetic) in the company of Peter. He advised that Azimov was a young metallurgist who had been working in the laboratories of the University of California at Berkeley, California, and who had later been employed in the Research Department of U.S. Steel. Chambers advised that Azimov had been a specialist in mathematics of some kind and that on one occasion he had been told by Peter that Azimov had developed some discovery on the chemical side of his studies, which discovery he had offered to Peter to be transmitted to Russia. He stated that Peter advised Azimov to go to the Russian Consul in California and that the Consul had immediately accepted the discovery for transmission to Russia. Chambers advised that he had seen Azimov only once and furnished

RE: MARION BACHRACH, was Marion Bacharach,
Marian Bachrach

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Bureau's files concerning Marion Bachrach, which date from October, 1940, initially indicated that in a "document" published in the July 12, 1940 issue of "PM" newspaper, she was characterized as a member of the Communist Party. She was further reflected as Washington correspondent in the "News For Living" department of the "PM" newspaper. She was also reflected as one of the sponsors of the "conference on Constitutional Liberties in America" in Washington, D. C. June 7 - 9, 1940. (100-3255-1)

Subsequent investigation revealed that Marion Bachrach was Executive Secretary of the Council for Pan-American Democracy and served as Secretary to Vincente Lombardo Toledano, Mexican Labor Leader, who visited the United States.

In April, 1943 it was determined that Marion Bachrach was the sister of John Abt, the husband of Jessica Smith of "Soviet Russia Today," which information was made available to the Department of State, OWI, G-2 and the Department. (100-3255-13)

Subject has been separated from her husband, Arthur Bachrach since approximately 1941. As of 1942 Arthur Bachrach was employed as an Administrator for the Farm Security Administration. (100-3255-9)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

No allegations concerning Marion Bachrach were made by Whittaker Chambers on May 13, 1942.

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As a result of the information furnished by Mr. Berle, no investigation based specifically thereon was conducted inasmuch as the investigation concerning Marion Bachrach was continuing and the fact of her relationship to Abt had already been determined.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945, on page 11 of which Whittaker Chambers alleged that Alger Hiss was particularly close to John Abt's sister, Marion Bachrach.

(100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Since the investigation concerning Marion Bachrach has been continued to date, no additional investigation was instituted as a result of the allegation made by Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945. The allegation made by Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945 was incorporated in the report of Special Agent Chester A. Reilly dated September 15, 1947 at New York entitled "Marion Bachrach, Internal Security - C," a copy of which report was furnished to the Division of Records on September 25, 1947.

Since January, 1948 to the present, investigation concerning Marion Bachrach has included a technical surveillance of her activities. She was recently appointed Public Relations Director of the Communist Party, USA and is also a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Communist Party, USA. She is believed to be the liaison between the Communist Party, USA and the Communist Party in Latin America.

(100-3255-67)

Investigation has further disclosed that she has been a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, the United Spanish Relief Committee of American Peoples Mobilization, and has also been a teacher at the Jefferson School of Social Science in New York City.

In the copies of the Berle notes made available to the Bureau in June, 1943, no reference is made to Mrs. Barnes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the Bureau with the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers conducted by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945. This letter from the New York Office reflected that Whittaker Chambers advised that Peters had on one occasion told him that Frederick Vanderbilt Field's mother or Joseph Fels Barnes' mother had turned over her apartment on Central Park West to be used as a headquarters of the underground group.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Bureau files fail to reflect that any inquiries have been made concerning Mrs. Barnes as a result of Chambers' allegations.

Joseph Fels Barnes

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Barnes has been the subject of an internal security investigation by the Bureau since August of 1941 at which time a complaint was received by the New York Office that Barnes, who was then Foreign News Editor of the New York Herald Tribune in New York City, was formerly a Tribune correspondent in Moscow and was strongly suspected of being a member of the Communist Party and in close cooperation with the Communist Party in the United States. As a result of this complaint an internal security investigation was immediately instituted.

On December 11, 1941, a request for an investigation of Barnes was received from the Office of Coordinator of Information which request was based upon an application that Barnes had made with that agency for a position with that agency. It was later discovered that he had been employed by the Office of Coordinator since September, 1941.

Upon the receipt of the request for investigation by the Office of Coordinator of Information, this investigation was conducted in conjunction with the internal security investigation and in February of 1942, based on derogatory information previously obtained, investigation was also conducted under the provision of Public Law 135, 77th Congress. (Hatch Act investigation)

This investigation failed to link Barnes with the Communist Party; however, considerable information concerning Barnes' activities through Communist channels was developed.

During this investigation it was ascertained that Barnes was born in Montclair, New Jersey, on July 21, 1907. He received an A.B. degree from Harvard University in 1927 and was also a student at the University of Grenoble and the University of London, both in England. He married Elizabeth G. Brown in 1930 and divorced her in 1935, and in 1936 he married the former wife of Frederick Vanderbilt Field..

It was determined that in 1927 and 1928 he traveled in England and Russia. He was employed with the Equitable Trust Company in New York City from 1929 to 1931. In an interview with Barnes' first wife, Elizabeth Brown, she advised that she and Barnes sailed for Russia in January, 1931. She and Barnes traveled through Russia studying and in the Fall of that year Barnes attended a conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations in Shanghai and returned to the United States around Thanksgiving in 1931. He then did research work for the American Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations until the Fall of 1933 when he was elected Secretary of the American Council.

WHG

Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes further advised that in 1934 she and Barnes made a second trip to Russia on business of the Institute of Pacific Relations. She advised that this was a two-months' trip and they returned to the United States in July, 1934.

Mrs. Barnes further stated that after Barnes' return from Russia he then resigned from the Institute of Pacific Relations and then began working on a project for Henry Luce of Time and Fortune Magazines. She advised that he worked on this project for several months and in the Spring of 1935 he joined the New York Herald Tribune as a reporter and in the early part of 1937 he was sent to Moscow by the Herald Tribune as a foreign correspondent. She advised that he remained in Moscow until 1939 when he returned for a visit home. He was then transferred to Berlin where he remained a short time and then returned to New York in late 1939 to work in the home office of the New York Herald Tribune.

It is noted that Barnes then became Foreign Editor of the Herald Tribune and remained in that capacity until becoming employed with the Office of Coordinator of Information around September of 1941, when he became Deputy Director of the Overseas Branch of the Office of War Information where he remained until 1944. He accompanied Wendell Wilkie on his trip to Russia and China in 1942. His home address at the present time is at 430 West 22nd Street, New York, New York, and his office is located at 230 West 41st Street, New York City.

The investigation that was conducted by the Bureau from August, 1941, up until February 9, 1942, resulted in obtaining information from various individuals who classified Barnes as being pro-Communist; however, there were others who classified him as being in sympathy with Russia but not un-American and some of his associates classified him as being strictly American with no pro-Russian tendencies. It was ascertained that he had heavily supported the Communist faction in the Newspaper Guild, had been a Director of the Open Road, Incorporated, and to have written articles for "New Masses." One confidential informant described Barnes as an individual who would like to see the United States Government evolve into a government more along socialistic and Communistic lines and of a less capitalistic nature than our present form of government; however, this informant advised that Barnes did not advocate a government in conformity with Marxist principles nor a change in government by revolutionary means.

In an interview with Mrs. Ogden Reid, then the publisher of the New York Herald Tribune, in January of 1942, Mrs. Reid advised that Barnes was not a Communist, that he had never been associated with Communists or Communist-controlled organizations, that Barnes is an individual who thinks that this country in the future will continue a trend to the left.

At the time that Barnes was interviewed by a representative of the Civil Service Commission, he advised that he had married Elizabeth Field, who was the former wife of Frederick Vanderbilt Field, on November 1, 1936. He advised that Frederick Vanderbilt Field was an officer of the American Peace Mobilization and was interested in the Friends of Soviet Russia. Barnes told the Civil Service Commission that he had never been a member of the Communist Party but that he was convinced of the need for cooperation between the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States, and that he had been sympathetic with the Spanish Loyalist cause, that he did not believe that the Loyalist Government in Spain was Communistic.

Another confidential informant advised that Barnes always defended Communism and was never known to oppose any of the Communistic policies or beliefs in his dispatches from Moscow and he apologized for and defended the Soviet Government. The same informant advised that Barnes was so sympathetic with the Communists that he always followed the Communist Party line and this informant advised that Barnes would be loyal to the United States only so far as the United States Government's policies were continued in the interest of the Soviet Government. Another informant advised that Barnes was definitely a Communist sympathizer.

On June 1, 1942, copies of two Hatch Act reports together with five reports written as the results of our investigation and containing all of the information in the Bureau files concerning Barnes were forwarded to William J. Donovan, Coordinator of Information, Washington, D. C.

On September 11, 1942, Mr. Donovan advised that Barnes had transferred to the Office of War Information and as a result, copies of these seven reports were forwarded to Mr. Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information.

On December 18, 1942, Mr. Davis wrote the Bureau that he had received the copies of these reports of the investigation of Barnes and after having studied these reports it appeared to him that the overwhelming weight of evidence completely exonerated Mr. Barnes of the charges against him, that the Office of War Information had no reason whatsoever to doubt Mr. Barnes' loyalty to the United States, and that the identity of the informants giving unfavorable reports is in almost all cases confidential, and that he is unable to evaluate their evidence adequately but that he knew from his own knowledge that some of the statements that have been made are false and he has considerable reason to doubt some of the others.

The Bureau's files reflect that Barnes became Deputy Director of the Office of War Information and served with that agency until 1944. (76-13677-41X3, 41, 42, 43, 47, 49)

In the Spring of 1948, it was announced that Barnes together with Bartley C. Crum had taken over the New York City newspaper "P.M." (now known as the New York Sun) with the support of Marshall Field, III.

II.(A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Under date of May 14, 1942, the New York Office submitted a letter setting forth the results of an interview conducted with Whittaker Chambers the previous date. This letter reflects that Whittaker Chambers advised, "Although this was only hearsay, Fred Field, then a Captain in the Naval Intelligence, was the center of another underground apparatus." According to Whittaker Chambers, Field, his wife, his mother and Joseph Barnes, were the chief members of this apparatus. Chambers stated that he was told that a house on Central Park West, owned by one of the female Field's, was supposed to have been the center for this particular underground movement. Whittaker Chambers said that Peters, head of the Communist underground movement, had told him this. (100-25824-22)

II.(B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

There was no separate investigation instituted in connection with the allegations made by Chambers on May 13, 1942, inasmuch as the Bureau was conducting an investigation of Barnes as the result of the complaint received in August of 1941.

However, on March 27, 1943, a summary of the information appearing in the reports previously furnished Colonel William J. Donovan, Coordinator of Information, and the information obtained from Chambers on May 13, 1942, was prepared and on March 28, 1943, a copy was forwarded to Mr. Fred Lyon, State Department, and on August 23, 1943, a copy was sent to the Military Intelligence Service and on April 14, 1947, a copy was sent to the Central Intelligence Group.

On May 13, 1943, a memorandum was sent to the Interdepartmental Committee on Employee Investigations containing the information furnished by Chambers on May 13, 1942, and enclosing seven reports previously mentioned. (77-13677-43, 46)

III.(A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

A review of the Berle notes fails to reflect that Chambers furnished any information to Berle concerning Joseph Barnes.

IV.(A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the Bureau with the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers conducted by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945. This letter from the New York Office reflects that Whittaker Chambers stated that there was a marriage tie between Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Joseph Fels Barnes, and that Barnes had associated to some extent with Communist Party members but he was unable to state definitely that Barnes was or had ever been a member of the Communist Party.

IV.(B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Inasmuch as the allegations made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, were in accord with information previously developed by the Bureau, no active investigation was conducted in connection with these allegations; however, the Bureau, since the internal security investigation was instituted in August of 1941, continued to obtain information concerning Barnes.

Kissel-nf-26147

During February of 1944, the San Francisco Office advised that Professor J. Robert Oppenheimer, atomic energy scientist, named Haakon M. Chevalier as the individual who had contacted three employees of the Radiation Laboratory at the University of California for restricted information on behalf of George Charles Eltenton, who in turn was to deliver this information to an official of the San Francisco Consulate of the USSR. Chevalier contacted Joseph Barnes in New York during February of 1944, apparently in connection with his efforts to secure employment in some Government agency. (100-203581-1647)

Paul Massing, a former Communist espionage agent and husband of Heidi Massing, also a Soviet agent from 1931 to 1937, advised that he knew Barnes when Barnes was Moscow correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune. Barnes seemed to have outstanding contacts in Moscow and to enjoy privileges usually denied the average correspondent. Massing stated that he saw Barnes in Moscow playing tennis on the NKVD courts where Massing himself played with Vassili Zubilin. (65-9940-30)

It is noted that at the time Joseph Barnes applied for a job with the Foreign Economic Administration he listed as a character reference Herman Habicht. It is noted that Habicht was a contact of Vassili Zubilin, who was at one time secretary of the Russian Embassy in Washington and reportedly the head of personnel of the NKVD. (100-203581-3702, page 341)

In the report of Special Agent William A. Branigan in the case entitled "Comintern Apparatus - Internal Security - R" dated August 14, 1945, the name and address of Joseph Barnes are set out which appeared in the address book of George Henri Anton Ivens along with the name of Harry Freeman, who is a brother of Joe Freeman, a contact of Vassili Zubilin. Ivens is described in the report as a revolutionary Communist. It was also stated that during the months prior to August of 1945, Joseph Barnes had been in touch with Max Yergen, Louise Bransten, Joseph North and Steve Fisher, all known Communists and of interest in the Comrap investigation. (100-203581-4723, page 138)

The name and address of Joseph Barnes was found in the effects of Ursula Wasserman, a subject in the Gregory case. (65-56402-758)

MAX BEDOCK, MAX BECHT,
JOHN MAR HALL, CHARLES MARSHALL,
JOHN BRAUN, JOHN M. BRAUN,
H. M. SABATH

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

A review of the Bureau file concerning Max Bedacht reflects that investigation of his activities was first instituted in the year 1919 and has been continuous to date. During the period 1927 to 1941, the file indicates very little investigative activity. Max Bedacht was born in Germany on October 13, 1883, came to the United States in 1908, and was naturalized in Superior Court of San Francisco, California, in April, 1915. In testifying before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities on October 16, 1939, he stated that he had been a member of the Communist Party in the United States since the Party's inception; that he was a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party; and that he has been the executive secretary of the International Workers Order (IWO) since 1933.
(100-18830-25)

Bedacht has been very active in Communist Party work in the United States, and was reported by a confidential informant as having acted as an intermediary for the G. P. U. This information was distributed to ONI and G-2 under date of November 4, 1943.
(100-13830-19)

Bedacht has been active in or associated with numerous Communist Party organizations, has contributed many articles to the "Daily Worker", and is considered a Communist Party key figure.
(100-13830-27)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers made no allegations concerning Max Bedacht.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes of Mr. A. A. Berle made available in June, 1943, which contained information furnished by Whittaker Chambers to Mr. Berle reflected no allegations concerning Max Bedacht.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945, on page 2 of which the following information was reflected:

> Whittaker Chambers related that in about 1931 he became editor of the "New Masses", and about a year later he was called into the offices of Max Bedacht, the Communist Party headquarters in New York City. He stated that Bedacht told him he had a "secret" assignment which would require a great deal of discretion and gave him overnight to think it over. On the next day, Whittaker Chambers agreed to carry out this assignment. Whittaker Chambers pointed out that at no time did Bedacht explain to him the nature of the work he was to be given, but impressed upon him its serious and confidential nature. On the second meeting with Bedacht, Whittaker Chambers was introduced to a man known only to him (Whittaker Chambers) by the name of Arthur, which introduction occurred in a 14th Street subway station in New York City. Bedacht admonished Whittaker Chambers to do whatever Arthur told him. It was Arthur who subsequently introduced Whittaker Chambers to a man by the name of Peter who was recognized by Whittaker Chambers as a former treasurer of the Hungarian Communist newspaper "Uj Elore" (phonetic), and who had also published numerous articles on Communism under the name of J. Peters
> (100-25824-36, Pages 2 and 3)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the continuing nature of the investigation concerning Max Bedacht, the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers concerning activity which took place in about the year 1932 provoked no additional investigative effort. Investigations subsequent to May 10, 1945, reflect that according to the records of the United States District Court, Southern District of New York, in the case entitled "U. According to a confidential informant, Bedacht was removed from his position of general secretary of the I. W. O. during 1947 as a result of a dispute over the National Group Policy of the organization.
(100-18830-35)

A confidential informant has advised under date of August 9, 1948, that Max Bedacht was unseated as a delegate to the state convention of the New Jersey Communist Party for the reason that he allegedly falsified his position in the Mercer County, New Jersey, convention in order to be elected a state convention delegate.
(100-18830-40)

All pertinent reports concerning Max Bedacht have been forwarded to the Division of Records.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Bureau's main file concerning Alexander Bittelman, reflects that active investigation of his activities was begun in 1941 and has continued to date.

Bittelman was born January 19, 1890, at Berdicher, Kiev, Russia, and entered the United States at the Port of New York on January 2, 1912, aboard the SS Vaderland. He filed a Declaration of Intention to become a United States citizen in 1935, but he has taken no further action in this regard up to the present time. In 1943, he advised his Selective Service Board that he was not a citizen of any country and that he possessed Alien Registration No. 5289346. He has been employed as the General Secretary of the Morning Freiheit Association, 50 East 13th Street, New York City, and has served as a member of the Editorial Board of "Jewish Life" and "Political Affairs". He has been active in the Communist Party since 1921, according to the "New York Times", and, according to William Z. Foster, National Chairman of the Communist Party, USA, Bittelman has been active in the Communist Party since 1922. He is known as one of the theoreticians and dialecticians of the Communist Party, has contributed frequently to many Communist Party publications, has been the author of numerous pamphlets and books setting forth the political theory of Communism, and is a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party, USA. (100-57691-12 and 72)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On interview on May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers made no allegations concerning Alexander Bittelman.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

In June, 1943, Mr. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State, made available to the Bureau original notes which he had made at the time Whittaker Chambers furnished him information in 1939 concerning the underground Communist group in Washington, D. C. These notes contained no allegations concerning Alexander Bittelman.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945, on page two of which the following is reflected:

Chambers related that in 1926 he was made Editor of the "Daily Worker", which position he held until 1929 when he broke with the Party. He gave as his reason for breaking with the Party that he was disgusted with the strong-arm tactics of the Stalinist group which came into power as a result of the split with Jay Lovestone. He pointed out that "Browder, Bittelman, and Foster in their fight to consolidate and control the Party instituted one of the worst minor reigns of terror . . . ." As a result of this he (Whittaker Chambers) had resigned his Editorship and quit the Party. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the fact that as of 1945 the Bureau's investigation concerning Alexander Bittelman was then extensive, the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers did not constitute any contribution of information that had not already been obtained. It is also noted that the information furnished by Chambers pertaining to Bittelman related to events which occurred in 1929 and did not in any way connect Bittelman with any Communist group operating within the Government during the time that he (Chambers) was a member of the underground, and in view of the fact that the information furnished by Chambers was already in the possession of the Bureau, no active investigation was conducted concerning this allegation.

In the report of Special Agent James J. McCarthy dated December 4, 1947, at New York, New York, in the case entitled, "Alexander Bittelman, was; Internal Security - C", the information concerning the split in the Communist Party in 1929 as appeared in the "New York Times" issue of July 5, 1929, and which is the same information furnished by Chambers, was set out. A copy of this report was forwarded to the Division of Records on January 6, 1948, and a copy was sent to the Immigration and Naturalization Service on January 6, 1948.

The subject is presently free on bond as a result of deportation proceedings instituted by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Since his arrest by the Immigration and Naturalization Service for deportation proceedings on January 1[illegible], 1948, considerable activities have taken place within the Communist Party to bar his deportation.

Considerable information has been obtained by the Bureau concerning the steps being taken by members of the Communist Party to prevent deportation of the subject, and this information has been furnished by the Bureau to the Immigration and Naturalization Service and to the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. (100-57691-124 and 125)

RALPH BOWMAN, was
Rudolph Blum; Ruddy Blum;
Rudy Baker

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The first information appearing in the Bureau's files concerning this individual is a reference to Rudolph Blum. This is in letter dated April 6, 1918, which furnished to the U. S. Attorney in Pittsburgh a summary of Blum's activity in the IWW. Blum at that time was in jail as a draft dodger for refusing to enter the Army. Later a search of Blum's home in January, 1920, reflected a membership card in the Communist Party of America. Active investigation of Bowman was again instituted in 1943, following the receipt of information that one "Al" was the head of the East Coast section of an underground Communist Espionage Organization. Al was subsequently identified as Ralph Bowman who had used the name of Rudy Baker and whose true name was Rudolph Blum. The investigation of Bowman thereafter reflected that he had been trained in the Lenin School from 1928 to 1930 and had thereafter served as a Comintern Representative in the Far East possibly in Korea. During the 1930's Bowman using the name of Rudy Baker was an important figure in the Communist Party, USA, attending National Committee meetings up until about 1939 at which time he apparently went underground. 100-258542-125

Bowman's whereabouts at the present time are unknown inasmuch as in July of 1948 he disappeared from New York City. His wife left the United States from New York City on the Yugoslav Ship, SS Radnik, on August 18, 1948. She was going to Hungary at that time and it is surmised that she will join her husband in the Balkans. 100-258542-140, 149, 150

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers stated that Rudolph Baker was a Communist Party organizer in Michigan at one time and was once either a Comintern Agent or an OGPU Agent in Korea. According to Chambers, Baker was still active in Party circles in 1942. Chambers revealed that an investigation of Baker would probably lead to "better things".

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No active investigation of Baker was conducted based on the May 13, 1942 interview with Chambers.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

There is no information concerning this matter in Berle notes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers' advised that he had no knowledge of Baker's activities as an organizer in the New York area and that all that he knew concerning Baker was that articles in liberal newspapers and magazines referred to him as a Communist Party organizer in Detroit in the late twenties. He recalled that Peters told him Baker had been a Comintern Agent in Korea and made the remard "Rudy Baker is in the business of exporting dried cuttle fish in Korea". He stated that he does not recall ever having seen Baker but knows Peters referred to him as a "little guy" and from this he assumed him to be small in stature. Chambers was unable to identify a photograph of Ralph Bowman who is known to be identical with Baker when it was shown to him.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

While the information from Chambers was of interest concerning Bowman and was accurate insofar as was known from the investigation, we did not conduct additional investigation based on Chambers' information and we already were conducting an extremely active investigation of Bowman which included all of the ramifications of Bowman's Communist and Espionage activity.

EARL RUSSELL BROWDER, WAS. GEORGE MORRIS,
NICHOLAS DOZENBERG, ALBERT HARRY RICHARDS

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

Browder has been a member of the Communist Party since 1919, the date of the formation of the Communist Party in the USA. Extensive investigation has been conducted by the Bureau with regard to Browder's activities in the Communist Party since 1921. Browder was sentenced on January 22, 1940, to four years in the Federal Penitentiary and fined $2000 for unlawful use of a passport obtained by false statements. On May 16, 1942, the sentence was commuted by President Roosevelt. At the time of his incarceration and again after his release, Browder was Executive Secretary of the Communist Party of the USA. He has, on occasions, been granted personal interviews by Joseph Stalin. In 1945, Browder was banned from the Communist Party but recent information indicates that he may be on his return to power in the Communist Party, USA. (40-3798-243, 525)

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that the OGPU operated in the United States under the supervision of one Charles Dirba rather than under the supervision of Earl Browder. (100-25824-22)

II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No specific investigation concerning Browder was made as a result of the above allegation. The active investigation of Browder continued. (40-3798)

III (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

There is no reference to Browder in the Berle notes, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943.

IV (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, at which time he pointed out that Browder, Bittleman, and

Foster, in their fight to consolidate the Party, instituted one of the worst minor reigns of terror that he had ever known and that as a result of the above, Chambers indicated that he had resigned his editorship of the Daily Worker and quit the Communist Party.

He advised that Browder was sent to the Far East and that Browder carried with him numerous large denomination bills. Chambers indicated that either in Canton or Nanking, China, Browder gathered together several well known Communist leaders for a convention. Chambers advised that the Chinese Police surrounded the meeting place and arrested all of those present. (100-25321-36)

IV (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No specific investigation was conducted with regard to the above allegations. The active investigation concerning Browder was continued and full information pertaining to his activities in the Communist Party were obtained. Copies of pertinent reports in this investigation have been furnished to the Department of State, Office of Naval Intelligence, Intelligence Department of the Army, and to the Division of Records. (LO-3796)

Information regarding Browder's activities in the Far East already appeared in the Bureau's files in more detailed form than Chambers was able to furnish.

MRS. EARL BROWDER, AKA. RAISSA BROWDER,
RAISSA BERMAN BROWDER, RAISSA BERMAN,
GLADYS BROWDER, MRS. EARL RAISSA I. BROWDER

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

There has been no separate investigation conducted with regard to Mrs. Earl Browder. During the course of the investigation of her husband, Earl Russell Browder, considerable information has come to the attention of the Bureau from confidential and reliable sources indicating that Mrs. Browder was a high functionary of the Communist Party. She was observed in attendance at the Lenin School at Moscow, Russia in the early 1930's. (40-58735-5)

She is said to have been a practising attorney in Russia and to have held a commission in the Red Army. (39-878-8) She is alleged to have been a judge in Russia prior to her departure and to have been an active official of the Soviet Union and a member of the Communist Party in Russia. (39-878-1 USIS) Mrs. Browder has worked on "The Communist" at the Daily Worker Building and in connection with her duties there, maintained regular office hours daily. She is alleged to have held numerous meetings in her office at the Daily Worker, at which time various instructions were issued which all present obeyed. It is said that Mrs. Browder does more effective work than her husband, Earl Browder. (100-18255) Mrs. Browder is known to have attended closed meetings of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, USA at 35 East 12th Street, New York City. She has been introduced at various Communist Party meetings as "Comrade Irene Browder". It was also alleged that the Daily Worker staff regarded Mrs. Browder as a higher authority than her husband. It was also stated that Mrs. Browder was a personal friend of Joseph Stalin and was actually a GPU representative. In 1938, Mrs. Browder had her office on the ninth floor of the Communist Party Headquarters, 35 East 12th Street, New York City, located at the same place as the offices of the other Central Committee members of the Communist Party. (39-878-29) Mrs. Browder was a speaker at the New York State Communist Party Convention on May 22, 1938. In March of 1939, a confidential informant [redacted] furnished copies of reports which he had prepared relating to the Tenth Annual Convention of the Communist Party of USA. It was stated in the report that the Central Committee of the Communist Party made selections of Committee Officers. Mrs. Browder was listed therein as Secretary. (40-58735-1)

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that Earl Browder did not handle operations of the OGPU in the USA, and that it was his understanding that Earl's wife was a member of the OGPU and kept Earl straight on Party policies. II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No specific investigation was made to prove or disprove the above allegations. Information available to the Bureau at that time indicated that Mrs. Browder was at one time a member of the OGPU and a member of the Communist Party. The active and extensive investigation conducted with regard to Mrs. Browder's husband, Earl, revealed considerable information pertaining to Mrs. Browder and her activities in the Communist Party. (40-58735; 39-878; 100-2278)

III (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

There is no reference to Mrs. Browder in the Berle notes, copies of which were made available to the Bureau in June, 1943.

IV (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Whittaker Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Field Office on May 10, 1945, and during this interview he furnished no information relative to Mrs. Browder. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No investigation was conducted with regard to Mrs. Browder, however, considerable information is being obtained from time to time in connection with the active investigation of her husband. Information regarding Mrs. Browder was disseminated to the Department of State by summary memorandum dated May 27, 1944, and to the Immigration and Naturalization Service by summary memorandum dated September 11, 1946. (40-58735-1; 40-58735)

MARGARET BROWDER
Also known as
Mrs. Harrison George

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The files of the Bureau reflect that information indicating that Margaret Browder was one of W. G. Krivitsky's assistants in Soviet intelligence work was obtained prior to the initial interview with Whittaker Chambers although no individual investigation was initiated concerning her. (65-2839-1X2)

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

During the interview with Chambers on May 13, 1942, by Agents of the New York Office, Chambers stated that Harrison George, Browder's brother-in-law, might be of interest. George married Margaret Browder, who was one of Krivitsky's assistants in Paris. (100-25824-22)

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files fail to reflect that any investigation was initiated as a result of Chambers' allegations, since no data showed she was here.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Margaret Browder was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Margaret Browder was not mentioned during the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945.

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Investigation was initiated on March 13, 1944, on one Jean Montgomery, who appeared as a suspect in the Alto Case. Inasmuch as it was known that Jean Montgomery was an alias formerly utilized by Margaret Browder, an investigation was instituted to ascertain if the Jean Montgomery in the Alto Case was identical with Margaret Browder. It was determined that the two were not identical, but investigation was conducted to attempt to locate Margaret Browder in the United States, inasmuch as information had been received indicating that she had returned to this country. She was finally located in New York in September, 1946, at which time she was utilizing the name Ann Meadows. The investigation is still in a pending status and copies of pertinent reports were furnished to the Division of Redords on May 7, 1948. (100-297645)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

Walter G. Krivitsky, the former Chief of Soviet Military Intelligence for Western Europe, indicated to the Dies Committee in 1939 that an individual by the name of Borris Bykov was in charge of Soviet Military Intelligence in the United States from 1936 to 1939. Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Field Office on May 10, 1945, at which time he advised that another person whom he had met while in the company of Peter (last name unknown) was one Boris Bykov. He advised that General Walter G. Krivitsky later identified Bykov to him as Colonel Boris Bykoff who was sent to the United States to head the OGPU activities. Chambers described Boris Bykoff as a short, red-headed Russian. (100-25824-36)

SAMUEL CARP, was.
Sam Carp, Isay Karponsky

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation of Samuel Carp was instituted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on July 29, 1940, on the basis of a report that Carp was endeavoring to send $5,000 to Russia, and that Carp had a sister who was married to Vyachesloff Molotov, the Soviet Foreign Minister.

Carp was born at Yakaturra, Russia, on March 30, 1888. He arrived in the United States at Baltimore, Maryland, on February 16, 1911, and was naturalized as a United States citizen at Bridgeport, Connecticut, on February 7, 1917. He started business as a house painter and subsequently engaged in the junk business. Thereafter, he became successful in promoting various activities in Bridgeport, Connecticut, dealing particularly in gasoline, fuel oil, and real estate. He reportedly, in 1936, organized the Carp Export and Import Company of New York to arrange for exports to Russia from this country. He allegedly received instructions from the Russian Government to purchase battleships in the United States. He was reported to have spent $100,000 in an effort to secure contracts in this regard. Carp testified on one occasion that he had paid Scott Ferris, a former Congressman and Democratic National Committee member from Oklahoma, $32,000 in Soviet funds in order to get assistance in making purchases for the Russian Government in the United States. Carp's attempts in this regard were fruitless. Carp testified before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities in 1939, and before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1945, with considerable resulting publicity based upon his relationship to Molotov, and his attempts to purchase battleships in the United States. The results of investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reflected in investigative reports, were referred to the Criminal Division, Department of Justice, on September 24, 1946, with a request for instructions as to what further investigation was warranted. The Criminal Division replied on October 17, 1946, to the effect that they had no specific request for any particular action, but that they desired to be kept advised of any new information concerning Carp. (100-5193-1, 42, 43, 44)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

During interview with Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, Chambers made no mention of Robert Coe. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

None.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

The Berle notes, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943, refer to Bob Coe, brother of Frank Coe as being in "Communist Party's Foreign Bureau."

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Chambers advised Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, that Robert Coe was certainly a Communist Party member and that he had seen Robert in association with members of the underground group. Chambers advised that it was his understanding that Robert belonged to one of the small units of the Washington Underground. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation has been conducted with regard to this individual. A review of the files of the Bureau fails to reveal that Virginius Frank Coe has a brother by the name of Robert Coe. This file review has failed to identify the above referenced Robert Coe. Files of the Bureau reveal that one Charles Joseph Coe, with aliases Charles J. Coe, Bob Coe, was investigated by the Bureau in November, 1944, at which time it was ascertained that he was the editor of "Facts For Farmers", a pamphlet published by Farm Research, Incorporated, New York City. Information obtained during this investigation indicated that the publication "Facts For Farmers" followed the Communist Party line and the Farm Research, Incorporated was alleged to be a Communist front organization. (100-333343-3)

ERC:rev:rb

Kisseloff-26165

The files also reveal that as of December 2, 1942, one Robert Coe was Second Secretary of the American Embassy stationed in London, England. It is not known whether either of the above two individuals is identical with Robert Coe mentioned by Chambers. (62-64427-449)

VIRGINIUS FRANK COE, also known as FRANK COE

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

In October, 1940, the Advisory Commission to the Council of National Defense referred a list of names of their employees to this Bureau for investigation. No allegations were made concerning the various employees. Included on this list was the name Virginius Frank Coe. The Washington Field Office ascertained prior to investigation that Coe had resigned his position with the Commission and returned to his former position with the U. S. Treasury Department. No investigation was undertaken. (62-60175-2)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATION MADE ON MAY 13, 1942

At the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, no mention was made of Virginius Frank Coe.

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

None.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943, refer to Frank Coe as a brother of Bob Coe who was in the "CP's Foreign Bureau'." Frank Coe alleged to be attending McGill University, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. (100-25824-27)

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

None. Frank Coe alleged to be in Canada.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers advised Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, that Frank Coe and his brother, Robert Coe, had been mentioned by him to the Assistant Secretary of the Department of State. Chambers stated that Robert was certainly a Communist Party member and that he had seen Robert associate with members of the underground group. Chambers said he had been advised that Robert belonged to one of the small units of the Washington Underground. (100-25824-36)

ERC:rcv:rb

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted as a result of the above allegations made by Chambers. Investigation was conducted, however, in connection with the Gregory case, and the following is a brief summary of the information available concerning Coe. He has admitted being friendly with Lauchlin Currie. (65-56402-1655) During a physical surveillance conducted on Currie, it was ascertained that Coe had dinner with Currie on January 8, 1946. Currie was allegedly a member of the Silvermaster group. (65-56402-466) Investigation also disclosed that Coe was closely associated with Irving Kaplan, the Silvermasters, Harry Dexter White, George Silverman, Harry Magdoff, Allen Rosenberg, and William Ludwig Ullman. When interviewed by Agents of the Bureau on May 29, 1947, he advised that he was not closely associated with the Silvermasters but only met them occasionaly while traveling in "Economic Circles". (65-56402-2530) When Coe testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on August 13, 1948, he denied being a part of the "Silvermaster Ring". By letter dated February 25, 1946, a summary memorandum entitled "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in Agencies of the United States Government" dated February 21, 1946, wherein information was contained with regard to Coe, was made available to Brigadier General Harry H. Re: HENRY HILL COLLINS, Jr.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CONGRESS' ALLEGATIONS

During the winter of 1941 - 1942, the Washington Field Office conducted an investigation of Collins under the title "Henry H. Collins, Jr., senior Exemptions Examiner, Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor, Internal Security, Hatch Act", the results of which are briefly set forth as follows:

> The name of Henry H. Collins, Jr., was alleged to have been on the active indices of the American Peace Mobilization, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, and the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties. Confidential informants disclosed that Collins had been very active in the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, serving as a member of the Executive Committee and as chairman of various other committees; that he advised and urged other members of the Department of Labor where he was employed to join this organization and that he solicited and accepted contributions from them.
> An informant stated that Collins kept much Communist literature about his house as well as printed matter from the American Peace Mobilization, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, and the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties. He was said to associate with known Communists and to have signed a letter petitioning Governor Olson of California to free Samuel Adams Darcy, Secretary of the Communist Party of Pennsylvania.
> Collins' wife, Susan B. Anthony, II, was reported to have been prominently associated with the American Peace Mobilization, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, and the American League for Peace and Democracy, and was named by a Dies Committee investigator as being a radical.

> In a Hatch Act interview with agents of the Washington Field Office, Henry Collins admitted that he was a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, that he attended meetings, that he served as the Chairman of the Committee of the Co-operatives, and that he may have solicited employees of the Department of Labor for membership in that organization. He denied that he was ever a member of the American Peace Mobilization, of the Communist Party, or of any organization which advocated the overthrow of the Federal Government. He stated that he may have attended meetings of the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, but that he was uncertain as to whether or not he had been a member of this organization. After this Hatch Act investigation had been completed and reports submitted to the Department of Labor, it was learned that that Department took no administrative action against Collins.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

No reference appeared in the notes furnished this Bureau in June, 1943, by Mr. A. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State, covering his interview with Whittaker Chambers in 1939.
(100-25824-27)

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, agents of our New York Office interviewed Whittaker Chambers. During this interview, Chambers advised that he was a courier in what he believed to be the Communist movement, and that around 1935 he operated between Alexander Stevens (who was known to him as Peter) in New York City, and Harold Ware, leader of a group of men composed of Government employees in high salaried positions who were Communist Party members.

Chambers explained that there were approximately eight individual members in the organization headed by Ware, and that almost every one of these members was himself a leader of another underground unit operating in Washington, D. C., which consisted of some six to eight members; that the members of each of these underground units were not aware of the identity or composition of any of the other units.

Chambers said that Henry Collins, at that time in the Forestry Department of the Department of Agriculture, was one of the persons who attended meetings of the Ware group. Others who attended these meetings were John Abt, Lee Pressman, Nathan Perlow, Charles Krivitsky with alias Charles Kramer, Alger Hiss, Donald Hiss, - - - - Post, Nathan Witt, and an unknown man who was the husband of Alice Fendham. Chambers advised that the Ware group met in various places in Washington, D. C., but that the principal meeting place was the apartment of Henry Collins on St. Matthews Court over a garage. Collins, according to Chambers, was the treasurer of the group and apparently collected a percentage of the salary of each member which was then transmitted to Peter in New York City. He added that Collins had some regular way of sending money to New York which was unknown to Chambers, but on several occasions when this system had broken down, he, Chambers, was instructed by Collins to deliver a package which he was told contained money to Peter. He explained in this connection that he never at any time knew what was actually in any of the packages or envelopes which he transmitted and that he never tried to inquire as to their contents on the assumption that such inquiry would arouse the distrust of his correspondents.

Chambers related that after Harold Ware's death, a meeting was held in Collins' apartment at which the latter was present for the purpose of electing a new leader for the group. John Abt was elected as the new leader at this meeting.
(65-56402-1473)

IV(B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

At the time that Whittaker Chambers furnished the above information, Henry Collins was in the Army. He had entered active service November 30, 1943, as a Captain. He was separated from service on May 6, 1946, at which time he held the rank of Major. During a portion of the time he was enlisted in the Army, he served overseas in the European Theater of Operations.
(65-56402-1473)

Following his separation from service, Collins took a position with the Department of State. In November, 1946, he was released from his position with the Department of State actually for security purposes, but ostensibly because of reduction in force. An investigation was undertaken of Collins immediately upon his release from service. This investigation reflected that he was a close friend of Alger Hiss and his wife, and of Bela and Sonia Gold, both of whom are subjects in the Silvermaster Case.

The investigation developed that Collins held Government positions almost continuously from 1933 until November, 1946, with the exception of the period during which he was an officer in the United States Army.

At the present time a separate case file has been opened on Collins whereas the results of the investigation of his activities previous to March, 1948, were set forth in the Silvermaster Case file. This investigation is in a pending status. The information furnished by Whittaker Chambers concerning Henry Collins was set forth in the Silvermaster Case. Summaries prepared in this case have been furnished to the White House, the Department of Justice, and other Governmental agencies. Under date of March 9, 1948, the Washington Field Office submitted a report setting forth a summary of all information revealed in the Field Office files relating to Collins and showing that the investigation is continuing. A copy of this report was forwarded to Colonel Forney, Intelligence Division, Department of the Army, on May 21, 1948. A copy was also furnished to the Division of Records on June 14, 1948.

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was conducted concerning the captioned individual prior to the receipt of information concerning him from Whittaker Chambers.

II CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

The name of Currie was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes of Mr. Berle of the State Department concerning his original interview with Chambers in September, 1939, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943, reflect the following: Laughlin Currie was a "Tellow Traveler" - helped various Communists - never went the whole way. (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau failed to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of the reference to Currie in the Berle notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Currie's name was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by New York Agents on May 10, 1945.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Bureau files fail to reflect that any investigation was initiated concerning Currie on the basis of the reference to him in the Berle notes. There is also no indication in the files that the information contained in the Berle notes concerning Currie was distributed outside of the Bureau prior to the interview with Elizabeth Bentley in the Gregory Case in the fall of 1945. As a result of the information which she furnished, a letter was sent to Brigadier General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President on November 8, 1945 advising him that a highly confidential source had furnished information indicating a number of persons employed in the government had been furnishing data and information to persons outside of the federal government, who were in turn transmitting this information to agents of the Soviet government. A list of individuals who participated in this operation or were utilized by the principals in the ring was set out. This list included Laughlin Currie, former administrative advisor to the late President Roosevelt. (61-3499-192)

Subsequently on February 25, 1946 a memorandum dated February 21, 1946 and captioned, "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in agencies of the United States Government" was furnished to General Vaughan, the Secretary of State and the Attorney General. This memorandum in addition to information received from Elizabeth Bentley, contained information in the Bureau files concerning Currie, including the information submitted by Whittaker Chambers as contained in the Berle notes. (65-56402-573)

No investigation of Currie has been conducted except that conducted in connection with the Gregory Case with which you are familiar.

CHARLES DIRBA, AKA. CHARLES LAPIN

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Charles Dirba first came to the attention of the Bureau in August, 1919, at which time he was Secretary of the State Socialist Party of the State of Minnesota. From that time until the present, Dirba has received active investigation by Agents of this Bureau. Dirba signed the charter of the Communist Party of America on December 30, 1919, at Chicago, Illinois, as Executive Secretary. Dirba became a member of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party, USA in 1927. He went on missions to the Soviet Union in 1928, 1930, 1934, 1935, and 1938. Maurice Walkin indicated to the Dies Committee in 1939 that Dirba was an OGPU representative in the United States and a member of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party, USA. Jan Valtin, author of "Out Of The Night," in 1941 informed that Dirba was considered an Agent of the GPU in the United States at the time he, Valtin, left the Communist Party in 1937. Ben Gitlow testified before the Dies Committee that it was his understanding that Dirba was an OGPU Agent. At the present time Dirba is active in the ordinary affairs of the Communist Party, having transferred his membership from New York City to Los Angeles in 1947, but there is no indication that he is a functionary in the Party. (61-1651-1, 91)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that Charles Dirba, head of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party for years, was understood by Chambers to be connected with the OGPU. Chambers also indicated that it was his understanding that the OGPU operated through Dirba rather than through Browder. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Extensive investigation conducted with regard to Charles Dirba failed to definitely establish his connection with the OGPU. Various informants from time to time have indicated his connection with the OGPU. (61-1651-91)

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

No reference to Dirba was found in the copy of the Berle notes furnished the Bureau in June, 1943.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Field Office on May 10, 1945, at which time no mention was made of Charles Dirba.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation indicated. The active investigation with regard to Charles Dirba has continued up to the present time, although his case file is carried in a closed status as of January 27, 1948. All pertinent information obtained by the Los Angeles Field Office is currently being furnished to the Bureau. Information relative to Charles Dirba has been furnished from time to time in the form of investigative reports to the Division of Records. (61-1651)

LAURENCE DUGGAN, also known as:
Laurence Duggin, Laurence H. Duggan

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was conducted with regard to Duggan. However, the Bureau files reveal the following information concerning him. His name appeared on the mailing list of the United American Spanish Aid Committee in 1941. His name and address were found on the person of Joris Ivens, an active Communist Party member from Berlin and Moscow. Ivens was a suspected member of the Soviet Secret Intelligence Service (NKVD). (100-251233-25)

On May 6, 1942, Duggan wrote a letter to Richard Sommers, the subject of an extensive Espionage - G investigation by the Bureau, on the letterhead of Advisor of Public Relations, Department of State, in which he indicated that he had known Sommers for a number of years. On June 29, 1942, Sommers wrote a letter to Duggan which indicated that they were close friends, and thanked Duggan for making it possible for his wife, Olga Sommers, to come to the United States. Duggan was later interviewed by representatives of the Military Intelligence Division of the Department of the Army, relative to this matter, at which time he advised these representatives that he had never heard of Richard Sommers. (100-251233-25)

The name Laurence H. Duggan appeared on the letterhead of the "Open Road, Inc." as a member of the Board of Directors of that organization. Frederick V. Field, reported to be a Communist Party member and sponsor of many Communist front organizations, was listed as President of this organization. (100-31230-2)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers advised Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, that Laurence Duggin, who was then Chief of the Latin-American Section of the Department of State, was not a Party member and was not connected with the Communist underground group, but was presumably with the OGPU, because of his contacts with Hedda Gomperts, whom he knew to be a Communist Party member. (100-25824-12)

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation conducted with regard to Duggan. However, an active investigation was conducted in order to ascertain the activities of Hedda Gomperts (Hedi Massing).

E.R.Clayton/de

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS TO ADOLF BERLE, JR. IN JUNE, 1943

Copies of the Berle notes which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943, indicate that Berle was advised by Chambers that there was considerable doubt in his mind as to whether or not Duggan was a member of the Communist Party. Chambers indicated that Duggan might be a member of the Communist Shop Group of the Department of State. (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted with regard to Duggan. However, the active investigation of Hedi Gomperts was continued during this period. It was ascertained that Duggan resigned from the State Department in the latter part of July, 1944. (65-9940-94)

A summary memorandum of available information concerning Duggan's activities was furnished to the Department of State on September 29, 1944. (100-251233-25)

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers advised Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, that Duggan associated with Hedda Gomperts, whom he knew to be a Communist and that he suspected Duggan of at least being a fellow traveler. Chambers had no information indicating Communist Party membership on the part of Duggan. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted. However, at the conclusion of the Hedi Massing investigation, she was interviewed, at which time she stated that to the best of her knowledge, Duggan was not a member of the Communist Party nor an agent of the NKVD. She stated that she had attempted to recruit Duggan into the Soviet Intelligence Service but had been unsuccessful. The following is a brief summary of other available information contained in the files of the Bureau concerning Duggan:

It was reported that Duggan was friendly with Enrique de Lozada, a South American Communist. (100-251233-25)

Duggan participated in a conference on "U.S. Policy Toward Argentina," sponsored by the Council for the Pan-American Democracy on March 25, 1944. (100-13361-23)

Duggan is reported to be on friendly terms with Frederick V. Field, a reported Communist, and to have had considerable correspondence with him.
(64-200-224-8)

During another investigation it was ascertained that Duggan was friendly with Joseph Starobin, Foreign Editor of the Daily Worker. (65-52109-514, Page 41)

The name Laurence Duggan appeared on the letterhead of the Americans United for World Organization, Inc. as a member of the Board of Trustees in July of 1945. (100-90431-19)

Sir Bernard Pares completed a speaking tour of the Middle East in October of 1947, during which time he maintained that the objectives of the Soviet Union are peaceful, and he indicated further that there was little likelihood of war. Among other things, Sir Bernard also stated that the Russians "have a right to the Dardanelles" and, also: "They should have a chance at the Mediterranean." His speaking tour was sponsored by the Institute of International Education, New York City, and was arranged by Laurence Duggan, Director of the Institute.

I [illegible] FBI INVESTIGATION [illegible] ALLEGATIONS

An investigation of Gerhart Eisler was instituted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation upon Eisler's arrival in the United States on July 13, 1941. This investigation, which is still continuing, resulted in the conviction of Gerhart Eisler on August 15, 1947 in the District Court, District of Columbia for fraud in obtaining an exit visa (Title 22, Section 223). Evidence was produced at the trial based upon the investigation conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation proving Eisler had operated as a Comintern Agent in the United States under the names of Edwards and Hans Berger. It was also proved that he had obtained a false United States passport in 1934 under the name of Samuel Liptzen. Eisler was sentenced to one year on a contempt of Congress charge on March 24, 1943 and sentenced to a term of one to three years on exit visa fraud on June 27, 1947. Eisler at the present time is on bond pending appeals in both cases. ([illegible]-3252)-625)

II [illegible] MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not mention Eisler during this interview.

III CHAMBERS' [illegible] IN BERLE NOTES [illegible] IN JUNE, 1943

Eisler is not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A) [illegible] MAY 10, 1945

Chambers furnished information on May 10, 1945 to the effect that he knew that the name Edwards was an alias of Gerhart Eisler. He pointed out that J. Peters, his Soviet superior, was a very close friend of Eisler and at one time shared a summer cottage with him at an unknown location. Chambers stated that the many conversations he had with J. Peters, he heard Eisler spoken of only as Edwards and he had learned Eisler's true identity from Willi Schlamm, Editor of Fortune magazine and a former Communist in Austria. According to Chambers, J. Peters, in discussing Edwards, always considered him very highly and stated that Edwards had fallen into disrepute at one time over the question of internal policies in Germany, as punishment for which he was sent to China as a Comintern representative in the early 1930's. Chambers also learned from J. Peters that Edwards later came to the United States as a Comintern representative. Chambers stated that Eisler counsels the leaders of the Communist Party, U. S. A. in order to maintain the Party line for Moscow. Chambers stated that he also understood that Eisler wrote for the Daily Worker under the alias of Hans Berger.

Chambers recalled that sometime in 1936 Agnes Smedley, who had been an important pro-Soviet propagandist in China, returned to the United States and he told Peters he would like to meet her. Later Peters arranged the meeting and upon seeing Chambers she stated, "I thought I was going to meet Edwards." Chambers also recalled that William Weiner, an important Party functionary, was a close contact of Edwards.

(100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On the basis of the information from Chambers no specific additional investigation was conducted as there was already an extremely active investigation of Eisler; however, Chambers' information did substantiate information from other sources and proved to be accurate in so far as it could be verified.

SCOTT FERRIS

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Information available in the files of the Bureau indicate that Sam Carp, Russian-born naturalized American citizen and brother-in-law of Molotov, testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on September 18, 1939, at which time he advised the Committee that he had engaged the services of Scott Ferris, a former Congressman and then Democratic National Committeeman from Oklahoma, to represent him in their negotiations to purchase two U. S. battleships for the USSR. He indicated to the Committee that he had paid Scott Ferris $32,000 for his services. (100-5193-A and 40)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

At the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, no mention was made of Scott Ferris.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

None indicated.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Chambers indicated to Mr. A. A. Berle, the then Assistant Secretary of the Department of State, at the time Mr. Berle interviewed Chambers, that one "Karp", brother-in-law of Molotov, was said to be working with Scott Ferris to obtain plans for two super battleships in 1937. (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the above known information concerning former Congressman Ferris, no investigation was deemed necessary.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

At the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, no mention was made of Scott Ferris.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

"The Current Biography" for July, 1945, indicated that Scott Ferris was born November 3, 1877 and died June 9, 1945. It was also indicated that he was a former United States Congressman from Oklahoma and served as Democratic National Committeeman from Oklahoma for sixteen years. (94-3-4-1115-47)

FREDERICK VANDERBILT FIELD, VA. FREDERICK SPENCER

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

Field has been the subject of an intensive investigation by the Bureau since February, 1941. Considerable information has been developed relative to his association with various Communist front and Communist organizations. Former confidential informant [redacted] former member of the Communist Party, discontinued) furnished information indicating that Field was a member of the Communist Party and extremely active in numerous Communist front groups. Investigation has revealed that he is Managing Editor of New Masses, a writer for the Daily Worker and Political Affairs, a Director on the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson School of Social Science, and is affiliated with numerous organizations including the Committee for Democratic Far Eastern Policy, of which he is a Director. Field is known to make regular contributions to many Communist front organizations, the more prominent being American Youth for Democracy, Spanish Refugee Appeal, Committee for Democratic Far Eastern Policy, Soviet Russia Today, National Council of American Soviet Friendship, and American Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born. Field attended Communist Party National Convention and Communist Political Association Rally, both in New York City in 1944. Investigation in this case indicates that Field is presently active in his Communist front associations and activities. (100-2278-73, 35, 42, 46)

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a former official of the Institute for Pacific Relations, was believed by him to be the center of a Communist underground apparatus. Chambers indicated that Field, his wife Edith, his mother Lila, and one Joseph Barnes were the chief members of this apparatus. Chambers advised that one Peter, last name unknown to him, had related the above information to him. Chambers indicated that either Field's wife or his mother had furnished a home on Central Park West, New York City, for the use of this underground movement. Chambers also indicated that it was his belief that Peter had recruited Field into the Communist Party. (100-2582-22)

II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

As a result of Chambers' information, the investigation in this case was intensified in the early part of 1943. IV (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

The active investigation of Frederick Vanderbilt Field continued but no information developed indicating his membership in a Communist underground group. Field is presently carried as a key figure by the New York Field Office and all information of a pertinent nature is promptly furnished to the Bureau. MRS. FREDERICK VANDERBILT FIELD,
AKA MRS. EDITH CHAMBERLIN FIELD

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

The Bureau has not conducted a separate investigation with regard to Mrs. Field. Through the intensive investigation conducted on her husband, Frederick Vanderbilt Field, very little information has been developed indicating Communist activity on the part of Mrs. Field. On January 5, 1944, Frederick Vanderbilt Field, Max Yergan and Edith Chamberlin Field took title to the premises located at 23 West 26th Street, New York City. This building has, since its acquisition by Field, Yergan and Field, been occupied by various organizations including the Council on African Affairs, Council for Pan-American Democracy, American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born, Institute for International Democracy, Hungarian American Committee for Democracy, Indonesian Committee, and the Voice of Fighting Spain. There has been no information developed indicating that Mrs. Field took part in the activities of these organizations. It is known, however, that Mrs. Field's home, 16 West 12th Street, New York City, has been used as a meeting place for prominent Communists for special meetings. It is also known that her husband leased an apartment located at 1116 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C., on September 9, 1940, for the use of the American Peace Mobilization. (100-2270-55, 73)

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that Frederick Vanderbilt Field, his wife and his mother, were the chief members of a Communist underground apparatus. Chambers also indicated that either Field's wife or his mother furnished a home on Central Park West, New York City, for use as a headquarters for this underground apparatus. (100-2270-22)

II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No investigation was conducted with respect to Chambers' allegations regarding the activities of Mrs. Edith Chamberlin Field. As pointed out above, however, considerable information was developed concerning Mrs. Field during the investigation of her husband. To date no information has been received indicating that Mrs. Field was a member of a Communist underground movement. During the investigation of Field, it was determined that his home had been made available for prominent Communists in New York City. (100-2270-55)

NOEL HAVILAND FIELD

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Field's activities were first called to the Bureau's attention in 1926 by the Industrial Defense Association, Inc., Boston, Massachusetts, which furnished information reflecting that he was a member of the "Disloyal Fellowship of Youth for Peace." It was also indicated that his mother and wife were members of the Red Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. These data were furnished the State Department on November 23, 1926. (105-2175-X, X1)

In 1928 Field was employed by the Department of State and continued this employment until approximately 1940 or 1941. (105-2175-15)

J. B. Matthews testified before the Dies Committee on November 7, 1938, at which time he related that, according to his personal knowledge, Noel Field, who was at that time employed by the Department of State, was a member of the Communist Party. (105-2175-15)

Addition information was furnished to the Department of State by letter dated October 29, 1940. By letter dated March 27, 1941, the Department of State was further advised that Field was reliably reported as a member of the Communist Party.

Information received July 28, 1941, indicated that the name Noel H. Field, 419 Fourth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., appeared on the mailing list of Friends of the Soviet Union. (100-7045-95 x2)

In 1941 or 1942, while in Europe, Field became a representative of the Unitarian Service Committee. (100-2175-4)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

At the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, no mention was made of Noel Haviland Field.

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation indicated.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

At the time Mr. A. A. Berle, the then Assistant Secretary of the Department of State, interviewed Chambers, he was advised by Chambers that an individual named Field (FNU) was believed to be a member of the Communist Party. It was indicated that Field was employed in the Western European Section of the Department of State at that time. No further identification was made of this individual at that time. However, he has since been identified by Dr. Paul Wilhelm Massing and his wife, Hedi, as Noel Haviland Field.

(100-25824-27
105-2175-X,X1,X2,15)

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation conducted.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Field's name was not mentioned during the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted with regard to this individual at that time, as he was out of the United States. In November, 1947 an active investigation was undertaken on the basis of other data to the effect he was an espionage agent.

On March 3, 1948, a 15-page summary memorandum containing information available in the Bureau's files concerning Field was furnished to the Central Intelligence Agency. This memorandum reflects that Field, who has for some years been employed in Europe by the Unitarian Service Committee in the direction of their reflief program, was employed by the Department of State from 1928 until about 1940 or 1941. Field's pro-Communist activities were reflected in this memorandum. Considerable information was also furnished concerning him as obtained from Hedi Massing, who indicated that after leaving the Department of State, Field had worked with the League of Nations and that he had been used as a Soviet agent. (105-2175-X,X1,X2, 15)

CHARLES SIDNEY PLATO

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' INTERVIEWS

A Special Inquiry investigation was initiated on December 31, 1941, concerning Plato at the request of the Office for Emergency Management. Copies of reports reflecting the results of the investigation were furnished to the OMI during the first four months of 1942, the last report being furnished on April 14, 1942. The investigation reflected that one informant stated that Plato joined the Communist Party in Boston in 1934, but had since changed his views and was regarded as a Socialist. However, he was not known to have renounced his affiliation with the Communist Party. The investigation also reflected employment in a Communist Party book store in Boston in 1934. On April 24, 1943, a three-page summary of the results of the Special Inquiry investigation was furnished to Captain M. E. Pulesston, Secretary, Office of the Board of Economic Warfare, pursuant to the request of that organization on April 6, 1943.

A Hatch Act investigation was initiated on October 25, 1944, when it was ascertained that Plato was employed by the Office of Economic Warfare. This investigation was closed on February 14, 1945. This investigation disclosed the same information as had previously been obtained in the Special Inquiry. The file does not reflect that any distribution of the results of this investigation was made until April 12, 1948, at which time a copy of the report was submitted to the Division of Records. It is noted that a summary of the information in the Bureau files had previously been furnished to the Board of Economic Warfare on April 24, 1943.

During the investigation of the Gregory Case, it was reflected that Plato was in contact with numerous subjects of the Gregory Case. An Internal Security case was initiated concerning him in December, 1947. This investigation reflects that Plato is no longer connected with the Government. (77-14177)

II. CHAMBERS' INTERVIEWS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not refer to Plato or to an individual of the same description as Plato during the interview of May 13, 1942, by Agents of the New York Office.

III. CHAMBERS' INTERVIEWS BY [illegible] DURING MAY, 1943

Plato was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, Chambers, while discussing an individual by the name of Post, whom he identified as editor of the Foreign Service Journal in 1934, indicated that he had gone to Post's home in Alexandria, Virginia, at which time he was accompanied by a little hunchback who was then employed on a Farmer's Project in Washington, which was headed by Harry Hopkins. Chambers' purpose in going to Post's home was to address a small unit meeting of the Communist underground, of which Post was the leader. (100-25-24-36)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any specific investigation has been conducted concerning Chambers' allegation. It is noted, however, that his description of the person who accompanied him to this meeting fits the description of Charles Sidney Flato very closely, and it is believed the individuals are identical. As noted above, Flato was the subject of an investigation prior to Chambers' allegations.

ISAAC FOLKOFF, with aliases
Sam Falcoff, Sam Falconvitch,
Isaac Falclonoff, "Volkov," "Walkoff,"
"Dad," "Old Man"

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Active investigation of Isaac Folkoff, with aliases, was initiated at San Francisco, California, following receipt of a complaint on November 13, 1940, indicating that Folkoff was one of the leading Communists in San Francisco and was believed to be closely connected with financial affairs of the Communist Party. (100-19248-1)

This investigation indicated that Folkoff, of Russian origin, a naturalized United States citizen, was the proprietor of an embroidery and pleating company in San Francisco; was active in Communist Party affairs; and was constantly supplying amounts of money to Party members and officials. Inquiry showed him to be in close association with William Schneiderman, California State Secretary of the Communist Party. (100-19248-1)

On October 16, 1941, a dossier was forwarded to the Special Defense Unit of the Department of Justice outlining available information concerning Folkoff. (100-19248-6)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers, when interviewed on the above date by Bureau Agents, advised that an individual by the name of "Volkov" (phonetic) was said to have been in charge of the Underground on the West Coast with Headquarters in San Francisco, and that this individual's daughter was supposed to have been a courier between Moscow and the United States. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

By letter dated July 6, 1942, the Bureau advised the San Francisco Office of the information furnished by Chambers and indicated that the individual referred to by Chambers would appear to be identical with Isaac Folkoff, the subject of the then pending investigation by the San Francisco Office. The San Francisco Office was instructed to conduct a vigorous and continuous investigation concerning this matter in view of the allegations received from Chambers. (100-19248-17)

By report dated January 4, 1943, San Francisco submitted information concerning Folkoff indicating that he was running a successful business in San Francisco and that he was then a member of the Executive Committee of a local section of the Communist Party. Available sources reported that Folkoff was a financial agent for the Party and was believed to have received regularly funds dispatched from the Soviet Union by special couriers. Sources reported that Folkoff continued to be closely affiliated with financial affairs of the Party in both collecting and supplying money in the conduct of Communist affairs. Folkoff was reported by another source to have made a trip to the Soviet Union in 1935. (This report was furnished to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice and is noted to have contained the substance of Chambers' allegations.) (100-19248-49)

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The following reference was contained in the Berle notes obtained on the above-indicated date:

> West Coast - Head: "The Old Man" - Volkov is his real name - daughter a Comintern courier. He knows the West Coast underground - Residence: San Francisco or Oakland - (100-25824-27)

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear from the Bureau files that the information contained in the Berle notes was forwarded to the Field at this time. It is to be noted, however, that this information is practically identical with that previously furnished to the San Francisco Office.

The investigation of Isaac Folkoff was continuing in the Field and reflected that Folkoff in 1943 occupied the position of Communist Party auditor for the 13th District at San Francisco. Information was developed concerning the possible identity of a Russian agent who reportedly brought money to Folkoff from the Soviet Union in 1932. (100-19248-80) A check of State Department records in Washington, D. C., verified the fact that Folkoff had made a trip in 1935 to Europe, allegedly to Latvia. These records also indicated that Folkoff was born January 10, 1881, in Latvia (then Russia); arrived in the United States in January, 1904; and was naturalized at Brooklyn, New York, on April 9, 1912. (100-19248-82) At San Francisco it was determined that Folkoff, in addition to his previously described activities, had become an instructor in social theory at the Communist Party sponsored Tom Mooney Labor School. His close association with top functionaries continued. (100-19248-88)

Information developed at San Francisco in February, 1944, indicated that in addition to prominent Communist contacts, Folkoff was maintaining connections with Soviet representatives at the San Francisco Soviet Consulate, including Gregori Kheifets. (100-19248-102) The reported contact with Kheifets continued during June of 1944. (100-19248-111)

During the latter part of 1944 and early 1945, information was received that Folkoff was a charter member of the Communist Party in the United States and had been active in Communist affairs since 1919. There was no indication of further contacts with Soviet Consular officials following the departure of Kheifets in July, 1944. However, Folkoff continued regular contacts with an individual associated with the Soviet Government Purchasing Commission and was known to have had confidential conversations with Stirling Hayden of the U. S. Marine Corps then assigned to OSS. The informant reported that Folkoff had been the individual instrumental in interesting Hayden in Communism. (100-19248-130)

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

When interviewed by Bureau Agents on the above date Chambers stated that he had also met a man by the name of Volkov (phonetic) who was referred to by Peter (Alexander Stevens) as the "Old Man." He added that Peter had mentioned him many times as the leader of the Underground on the West Coast and pointed out that he had been located somewhere near San Francisco. Chambers added that Walkoff (as indicated in the text of New York letter of June 26, 1945, reflecting the results of the interview) gave the impression of being a very efficient businessman and he believed that he had conducted some kind of a successful business in the neighborhood of San Francisco. A story which he had been told by someone whose identity he could not recall was to the effect that Walkoff had sold all of his possessions and interests in the United States at one time and had gone to Russia for the purpose of living there but that he had been so disgusted with Russian living conditions that he had returned to the United States as soon as he could. Chambers described Walkoff as follows:

Age	Upper 50's in the 1930's
Height	5' 6"
Build	Slim
Characteristics	Good natured, joking, very smooth in conversation. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Following the 1945 interview as reflected above the Bureau by letter dated July 10, 1945, instructed the New York Office to recontact

Chambers regarding "Volkov" or "Walkoff" (phonetic), indicating that this individual was believed to be identical with Isaac Folkoff, the subject of a pending San Francisco investigation. New York was advised to exhibit a photograph of Folkoff to Chambers for positive identification purposes. (100-25824-36)

The New York Office by letter dated August 21, 1945, furnished a copy of the results of the Chambers interview of May 10, 1945, to the San Francisco Office for their information in connection with the Folkoff investigation and requested photographs of Folkoff from San Francisco for purposes of exhibition to Chambers, preferably photographs available of Folkoff taken during the early or middle 1930's. It does not appear from the Bureau files that such photographs were ever identified by Chambers. (100-25824-37)

Investigation of Folkoff was continuing and it was determined on June 12, 1945, that Folkoff met with Stepan Apresian, Soviet Vice Consul in San Francisco, which meeting took place on the street under suspicious circumstances. (100-19248) Through highly confidential sources the Communist registration of Folkoff was determined and in 1945 he was known to hold the positions of Secretary and Educational Director of the local Communist Political Association District. In addition he was known to be a member of the State Finance Committee of the Communist Political Association in California. Sources reported that Folkoff continued occasional contacts with the Soviet Consulate. However, this information was not further confirmed. (100-19248-149) (C)

As late as February, 1948, Folkoff continued to be very active in Communist Party affairs in the San Francisco area, particularly in the financial affairs of the Party. (100-19248-201)

Inasmuch as later reports of the investigation concerning Folkoff included references to then pending highly confidential Soviet espionage investigations, including the Comrap Case, these reports were apparently not distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice. Accordingly, on May 27, 1948, a letter was directed to the San Francisco Office instructing that Office to prepare a summary type report carefully protecting all sources of information and confidential informants in order that the full results of the Folkoff investigation might be distributed to the Division of Records. (100-19248-204)

Information concerning Folkoff as a person in contact with Gregori Markovich Kheifets, former Vice Consul of the USSR at San Francisco, as well as other connections of Folkoff, were contained in the summary entitled "Soviet Espionage in the U.S.", dated December 12, 1945. This summary was distributed to the White House, Attorney General, State Department, War Department, and the Treasury Department. (C)

Information concerning Folkoff's position as financial advisor of the Communist Party in California was included in a summary entitled "Comintern Apparatus", dated March 5, 1946, copies of which were distributed to the White House, Attorney General, State Department, and Navy Department.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Foster, who has for many years been one of the leading figures of the Communist movement in this country, was the subject of a periodic investigation from 1921 to 1942. An active investigation was instituted in April, 1942, and has continued to the present time. Copies of reports since that date have been furnished to the Division of Records as received. (61-330)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Foster was not mentioned in the interview held on May 13, 1942 with Chambers by New York Agents.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1945

Foster's name was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During Chambers' interview by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, while discussing his reasons for breaking with the Communist Party, Chambers pointed out that Browder, Bittelman, and Foster, to control the Party, instituted one of the worst minor reigns of terror he had ever known and that as a result of this he had resigned his editorship of the "Daily Worker" and had quit the Party. (100-25824-36)

IV (1). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the nature of Chambers' reference to Foster, no specific investigation concerning Chambers' reference was made.

BENJAMIN FRIEDMAN
([illegible])

I. [illegible]

Active investigation was initiated of an individual known as Benjamin Fields in June, 1941, on the basis of information contained in the Bureau files reflecting that Fields, who had numerous aliases, including: Isadore Friedman, Issac Friedman, Issadore Friedman Isachuk, Isadore Fredman, Wolfsohn Isadore, was an active member of the Communist Party and was considered the chief Communist leader on the Atlantic Coast. The information indicated that he resided in Baltimore and was listed in the Daily Worker of September 15, 1937 as a District Organizer of the Communist Party. The files also reflected that he had been arrested on several occasions and had contributed to Communist publications, including the anthology entitled "Proletarian Literature in the United States," published by the International Publishers Company in 1935.

The investigation was continued until October, 1946, at which time it was closed. It reflected that the true name of Fields was [illegible] Fragin, who was born in Russia in 1901. He received citizenship by virtue of his father's naturalization in 1917. He is alleged to have joined the Communist Party in 1923 and visited Russia in 1934, at which time he visited collective farms and attended a Writers' Congress held in Moscow. He was designated District Organizer for the Communist Party in the Baltimore and Washington District from 1937 to 1941. He has contributed to Communist publications, and his first novel "The Outside Leaf," had been completed as of October, 1943. Available sources indicate that the Communist Party considers him a good writer and he has had several of his short stories published in the Daily Worker. In 1946 he published a book entitled, "Piper Hopkins." He has resided in the New York and Connecticut areas since 1941. (100-24601)

II. [illegible] May 13, 1942

This individual was not referred to by Chambers during an interview with him conducted by New York Agents on May 13, 1942.

III ( ) [illegible], 1943

The notes of Mr. Berle, copies of which were made available to the Army, in June, 1943, included a reference to the above-captioned individual as follows:

"Wenc[illegible] Baltimore Party Organizer - Benjamin (Sandy) Friedman, alias Field - then California - then Russia - now organizer for Baltimore and Washington of Trade-Union Unity - Has Moscow connection.

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau do not reflect that any specific investigation was conducted as a result of Chambers' allegations.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, Chambers explained that Benjamin Friedman, who was nicknamed "Bundly," was a little fellow who had been hit on the head in a strike and had been sent to Russia for a rest cure. After his return to the United States he had been made cashier of the Communist Party cafeteria which had been run by the Party on Union Square in New York City. He related that one Peter had told him that Friedman had become District Organizer for Maryland and that in Baltimore he had taken the name of Field. He also recalled tht Field had originally come from California. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files do not reflect that any specific investigation was conducted as a result of Chambers' allegations in May, 1945. The Friedman referred to by Chambers is undoubtedly identical with Moses Bragin, and it should be noted that, as indicated above, an active investigation was instituted prior to the first interview with Chambers and the information furnished by him was already substantially available to the Bureau. A report dated January 7, 1944, setting out a summary of information available to the Bureau concerning Bragin was furnished to the Division of Records on January 29, 1944. Subsequent reports were furnished to the Division of Records as received from the field.

SENDER GARLIN

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Investigation of Garlin was initiated in July, 1941, on the basis of information in the Bureau files reflecting that Garlin was an elector of the Communist Party in the 1940 Presidential election, and that he was connected with the "Daily Worker." This investigation continued until May 12, 1947, at which time it was closed. The investigation reflected that Garlin was employed by the "Daily Worker" in 1932 and in 1946 was Feature Editor of that publication. He was the "Daily Worker" representative to Moscow in 1936, and was the Public Relations Director of the New York State Communist Political Association in 1944. He was Co-Chairman of the Education Committee of a New York City Club of the Communist Party in 1945 and has been a frequent speaker at various Communist Party functions. Copies of the reports submitted in this case were furnished to the Division of Records as received from the Field. (100-49101)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Garlin was not mentioned by Chambers during the May 13, 1942, interview.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Garlin was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945, by New York Agents, he advised that in the early part of 1924 he asked several acquaintances where he could get in touch with American Communists. He finally contacted a Jewish friend, Sender Garlin, who was then connected with Russian Relief. Garlin introduced him to a man by the name of Charles Krieger (phonetic), who took him to a small Communist Party meeting in the Hudson River District, where he registered as a member of the Communist Party. (100-25824-36)

As indicated above, Garlin has been the subject of an investigation since 1941, and no specific inquiries have been made as a result of Chambers' allegations in view of the nature of such allegations.

HARRISON GEORGE

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An active investigation concerning George was instituted on December 26, 1941, as a result of information contained in the Bureau files reflecting that George was an active member of the Communist Party. This investigation is still carried in a pending status. The investigation has reflected that he was a charter member of the Communist Party - USA, and is a brother-in-law of Earl Browder. He has been a member of the Central Committee, State Board, and State Committee of the Party in California. He was formerly Editor-in-Chief of the "Daily People's World" newspaper, but was relieved of this position in 1946 after criticism by Party leadership in California. He was tried by the Party on charges of factionalism, but William Z. Foster intervened and encouraged him to publicly announce his support of Party leadership. He complied and was not expelled from the Party. However, he was expelled from the Party on September 20, 1947, and has subsequently been in contact with other expelled members. (100-15155)

Copies of the reports of investigation of George were furnished to the Division of Records as received from the Field.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

When interviewed on May 13, 1942, by New York Agents, Chambers stated that Harrison George, Browder's brother-in-law, might be of interest. George married Margaret Browder, who was later one of Krivitsky's assistants in Paris. George was active in the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Secretariat and Chambers was told that George was in charge of all kinds of underground work in the Far East and Japan, and that he had headquarters in San Francisco and Los Angeles. (100-25024-22) It is noted that this information was already available to the Bureau.

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As noted above, George was already the subject of an investigation on the line of Chambers' allegations. The investigation has failed to reflect that George is engaged in underground or espionage activities.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN WORLD NOTES DATED JUNE, 1943

George was not mentioned in the World notes.

IV. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 14, 1945.

[illegible] (referred to by Chambers as Mr. Greenberg)

I. [illegible] CASE

The captioned individual first came to the attention of the Bureau in connection with the case of Nicholas Dozenberg, who was arrested in Oregon in December, 1939 in connection with a passport fraud case. You will recall that Dozenberg later testified for the Government in the passport fraud case against Earl Browder. In subsequent interviews with Bureau Agents he admitted acting as an agent for Soviet military intelligence in the United States. He furnished considerable information concerning Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, a dentist in New York City, whose office was used by Soviet agents for making contacts with their couriers. Rosenbliett departed from the United States in the early 1930's, presumably for Russia. Investigation in 1940 reflected that he had resided at 143 West 87th Street before his departure from this country and that this address as of 1940 was occupied by Mr. M. Greenberg as a residence and office. Greenberg was identified as Mr. Morris Greenberg, (wife: Clara) who graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University in 1917 and was a licensed pediatrician. He interned at Bellevue Hospital and received his diploma in June, 1919. (61-6671-24,26,29)

Further inquiry concerning Rosenbliett revealed that Alice Rosenbliett acquired title to property at 39 West 119th Street, New York City in 1935 from her husband, Philip, and Morris and Clara Greenberg. The only encumbrance existing on the property was a power of attorney dated April 24, 1935 (subsequent to departure of Rosenbliett and his wife from the United States), appointing Morris Greenberg, 143 West 87th Street, as attorney to manage the property at 39 West 119th Street. Selective Service records in New York reflect that Greenberg was born June 6, 1890 in Romania. In 1942 he was employed by the New York City Department of Health as epidemiologist, in charge of the Division of Epidemiology in the Bureau of Preventable Diseases. His duties consisted of supervising the investigation of all outbreaks of epidemics in New York City. Further inquiry reflected that he was naturalized February 1, 1914 in New York City and had been first employed by the City of New York in 1920. (61-3[illegible]-37)

Another associate of Dozenberg in the United Military Intelligence Service was Joseph Tow in, who was interviewed on April 13, 1942 by Agents of the Los Angeles Office. Tow in admitted contacts with Dozenberg, Rosenbliett and others, and acquaintance with [illegible], who was also involved in Soviet Intelligence activities. Tow in denied having acted as an agent for the Soviet Intelligence services or knowing that the other persons were acting as

ETT/de

[illegible]dist agents. He did state that Rosenbliett is his brother-in-law, having married his wife's sister, Ella Greenberg. He stated that the Rosenblietts had a daughter who died of cancer about 1930 at the age of twelve and shortly thereafter they went to Russia, where they presumably still reside. (100-[illegible]6737-13)

II CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS, MAY 13, 1942

Greenberg was not mentioned during the interview with Chambers on May 13, 1942.

III (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes of Mr. Berle, copies of which were made available to the Bureau, contained the following reference to Greenberg:

"London
(1) Dr. Philip Rosenbliett - formerly of (41st St. and 5th Ave., N.Y.)
Mr. Greenberg, 20 (East 70th, New York
Brother-in-law
American leader of British Underground .
Dead in America back [illegible] (alias Philipovich
- allegedly Yugoslav)
real name - ?

(100-[illegible]-17)

III (B). INVESTIGATION INITIATED

The Bureau files fail to reflect that any investigation was initiated as a result of Chambers' allegations as contained in Mr. Berle's notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS, MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, while discussing Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, he recalled that Rosenbliett had occasionally talked about his brother-in-law, Mr. Greenberg, N.Y., who resided on East 70th Street in New York City. He never met Greenberg, but assumed that perhaps Greenberg was engaged in Communist underground activities. (100-24[illegible]-30)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION INITIATED

No investigation has been conducted as a result of Chambers' allegations on May 10, 1945. The above information would indicate that Mr. Morris Greenberg is undoubtedly identical with the Greenberg, referred to by Chambers. It is noted that the Bureau conducted inquiries concerning Greenblatt prior to the receipt of information from Chambers. These inquiries were for the purpose of identifying him and ascertaining his connection with Mr. Philip Rosenbliett. The inquiries failed to reflect that he was acting as a Soviet agent.

Kisseloff-26202

A summary report dated June 2, 1943 was furnished to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special War Policies Unit of the Department of Justice on July 20, 1943. Subsequent reports in this investigation were furnished to Mr. Smith and/or the Division of Records as received from the Field. (65-5966)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

When interviewed by New York Agents on May 13, 1942, Chambers advised that the brother of Gertrude Hessler had been head of the "Federated Press" in Washington and was a very active Party (Communist Party) man. He indicated that the "Federated Press" was an organ filled with Communists and stated that Gertrude Hessler's brother as of 1942 was in the CIO. (100-25824-2)

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation has been conducted on the basis of the allegations of Chambers. It is to be noted, however, that as reflected above, the Bureau was cognizant of Haessler in 1923 and initiated an active investigation of him in 1939, prior to receipt of information from Chambers. The information furnished by Chambers was already available to the Bureau as of that time.

III CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN PERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

There is no reference to Haessler in the Perle notes, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943.

IV ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Haessler was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by New York Agents on May 10, 1945.

[illegible] UPHAM HARRIS

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Investigation of the captioned individual was initiated on March 10, 1941, on the basis of information received indicating that Harris was an active Communist and engaged in Communist activity. The investigation has continued to the present time and is still carried in a pending status. Investigation has disclosed that Harris has been an important member of the Communist Party for years and in June, 1946, was elected as permanent Secretary of the National Farm Commission of the Party. Confidential sources have advised that Harris was the treasurer of the secret funds of the Party, which can be used for undercover operations. He has been in contact with numerous national functionaries of the Party and with numerous known and suspected Soviet agents. From October, 1943, through January, 1944, pertinent reports were furnished to the Division of Records as they were submitted. The reports for the period of January, 1944, to July, 1947, were sent to the Division of Records on July 1, 1947, and subsequent reports were furnished as received. (100-15251)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not refer to Harris in the May 13, 1942, interview.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES DATED JUNE, 1943

Harris was not mentioned in the Berle Notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by Agents in the New York Office on May 10, 1945, he failed to identify the photograph of Harris, but when the name was mentioned to him, he readily recalled that Harold Ware had talked to him about Harris, indicating that Harris was a close friend of Ware. Chambers was unable to recall further details.

IV (B). INVESTIGATIVE CHECKED

No specific efforts have been made to verify the alleged friendship between Harold Ware and Harris.

ALGER HISS

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Alger Hiss was investigated in the latter part of 1941 and the early part of 1942 in accordance with the provisions of Public Law Number 135 (Hatch Act). At that time Hiss had been reported to be a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, according to the House Committee on Un-American activities. It was determined, however, that the name of Alger Hiss did not, in fact appear in the active indices of that organization, but that the name of his wife did. Since Hiss was then Assistant to the Advisor on Political Relations in the Department of State, a copy of the report on this investigation was furnished to the Secretary of State by letter dated March 24, 1942. This report set forth information furnished by a former fellow employee of Hiss' in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that Hiss and his associates in the AAA if not Communists were fellow travelers. No other unfavorable information was developed, and Hiss himself denied in a sworn statement that he had ever been a member of the Communist Party, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action or any other organization advocating the overthrow of the government.

The State Department on March 26, 1942, advised that the report furnished to them afforded no basis for administrative action against Hiss. (101-2668-5 &6, 65-56402-695)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On May 13, 1942, Chambers told Bureau agents that Alger Hiss and his brother Donald Hiss were members of the Communist Party underground organization in Washington which was headed by Harold Ware. Chambers described Alger Hiss as a former employee of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration who later served in the government's investigation of the munitions industry and subsequently became Assistant Solicitor General of the United States. After that position he became assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The Bureau's files do not disclose that any investigation was conducted in 1942 following Chambers allegations about Hiss.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The portion of the Berle notes which pertains to Alger Hiss reads as follows:

"Alger Hiss
Ass't to Sayre - CP - 1937
Member of the Underground Com. - Active

Baltimore Boys
Wife - Priscilla Hiss - Socialist -
Early days of New Deal"

There is no record of any additional information furnished by Mr. Berle when those notes were obtained from him in June, 1943.

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No indication has been found in the Bureau's files to show that inquiry was made concerning Hiss in the light of Chambers' information concerning him as furnished by Mr. Berle. However, on March 27, 1945, a summary memorandum covering Alger Hiss' background and activities and the allegations of Chambers concerning him were submitted to Frederick B. Lyon of the State Department. The substance of this memorandum had been furnished by Mr. E. A. Tamm on March 24, 1945, to Robert Lynch, Special Assistant to the Secretary of State. (101-2065-9 and 10 and 12)

IV. (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

When interviewed on May 10, 1945, Chambers said that Hiss, who in the meantime had become General Secretary of the United Nations Conference at San Francisco, had met on several occasions with Harold Ware's group and that he had usually attended meetings of the group when they were held at Henry Collins' house. He said that when Hiss went with the Senate (Nye) Committee investigating the munitions industry, he was segregated from the group and had no more official contacts with them. He said, however, that Hiss did meet socially with many of them and was particularly close to John Abt's sister, Marian Bechrack. Chambers further stated that he had no reason to believe that Hiss had broken away from the Communist Party. As a reason for this belief he explained that after he, Chambers, had broken with the Party he had made a special trip to Hiss' home in Georgetown Section, Washington, for the purpose of persuading Hiss to leave the Party. Chambers explained that when he arrived Hiss' wife Priscilla was the only one there, and that while Chambers momentarily excused himself to go to the bathroom he observed Hiss' wife going to the telephone "obviously to get in touch with Party members." Chambers immediately returned to the room and awaited the arrival of Alger Hiss. When Hiss arrived they had dinner together at his home following which Chambers says he talked with him all night in an endeavor to persuade him to leave the Party. Chambers said that with tears streaming down his face Hiss had refused to break with the Communists and had given as his reason for not breaking his loyalty to his friends and principles. Chambers pointed out that in his opinion one of the strongest reasons for Hiss' maintaining contact with the Communist Party was the fanatical loyalty to the Communist Party on the part of his wife.

Although no action was immediately taken concerning Chambers' additional information with respect to Hiss, it is to be noted that Hiss was also named by Elizabeth Terrill Bentley on November 7, 1945, as having been involved in a Soviet espionage ring.

Hiss, as a result, became the subject of intensive investigation in the development of the Silvermaster Case. In a memorandum dated November 30, 1945, the Attorney General was furnished information concerning Alger Hiss' alleged connection with a Communist underground group in Washington as furnished by Whittaker Chambers. (65-56402-94)

Since at that time Hiss was still employed in the Department of State information concerning him was again furnished on December 4, 1945, to the Secretary of State in a summary entitled Soviet Espionage in the United States, dated November 27, 1945. (61-3499-198,200)

Since that time numerous memoranda dealing with Soviet espionage activities in the United States furnishing the results of investigation of such activities and in which reference is made to Alger Hiss have been furnished to the White House, the Attorney General and to the interested agencies as will be noted in a memorandum briefing the Bureau's investigation of the Silvermaster Case.

It may be noted that Alger Hiss was interviewed at his request by a Bureau official (Mr. D. M. Ladd) on March 25, 1946. At that time Hiss explained that he wished to clear up any questions that might have arisen concerning his loyalty to the Government, since it had been brought to his attention by the then Secretary of State James F. Byrnes that his name had been mentioned in connection with subversive organizations. Hiss, on this occasion, denied that either he or his wife were ever members of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. He mentioned the possibility that his wife could have been a member of the League of Women Shoppers because he thought that some of her friends had been members of that organization. Hiss further emphatically stated that at no time had he been a member of the Communist Party or had any association with it. He further declared that he knew of no friends of his who were members of the Party. Asked whether he had any association with any person or persons who might be members of any subversive organizations which might have caused the belief to exist that he likewise was a member of such organizations, he stated that he knew of no association on his part with any persons which would lead to this conclusion. The results of this interview were made available to both the Attorney General and the Secretary of State on March 25, 1946.

It should also be noted that J D. Whittaker Chambers was interviewed on March 28, 1946, at New York City, with specific reference to Alger Hiss. On this occasion he said he was unable to elaborate on any of the information concerning Hiss' connection with the Communist Party which he had furnished at the time he was interviewed in 1942 and again in 1945 by Bureau Agents. He recalled that after 1937, being no longer actively associated with the Communist Party, he had lost all contact with Alger Hiss. He stated that, as a matter of fact, he had absolutely no information that would conclusively prove Hiss held a membership card in the Communist Party or that he was an actual dues-paying member of the Party even while he was active prior to 1937. He declared that he knew in 1937 Hiss was favorably impressed with the Communist movement and was of the belief that Hiss was then (1946) still of the same beliefs. He indicated he did not have any documentary or substantial proof on which to base this belief and based it solely on comments made by various Washington and New York newspaper writers at the time.

DONALD HISS

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

A Hatch Act investigation was instituted concerning Hiss on February 17, 1942, at which time Hiss was an employee of the Department of State. The investigation was initiated inasmuch as the Dies Committee had listed Hiss as a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. During the investigation, an informant advised that the name of Hiss did not, in fact, appear in the active indices of that organization; however, his wife was listed. The investigation disclosed no affiliation with the Communist Party or Communist front groups, and Hiss, in a sworn statement on February 16, 1942, denied that he was a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action and that he advocated overthrow of the Federal Government. The report of the investigation was furnished to the Secretary of State on March 4, 1942, and on March 9, G. Howland Shaw, Assistant Secretary, advised by letter, "Mr. Hiss is a valued employee of the Department and is well and favorably known by various of the higher officers of the Department. There is nothing in the report of investigation which warrants any administrative action and it is believed you will wish so to report to the Congress, exonerating Mr. Hiss from the charge preferred." (101-4300-2 and 3)

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers advised that Alger Hiss and Donald Hiss were also members of the underground organization as secured by Ware. He said these men also left the AAA but remained in the Government service. Donald Hiss was in the Labor Department and Miss Perkins thought a great deal of him. Chambers stated that the Party planned to have Donald Hiss handle the Bridges case in California in view of the influence which he might have. Hiss subsequently went to the Philippine Division of the Department of State. (100-25824-22, page 6)

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of this allegation.

III (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes, copies of which were obtained, are set out as follows:

Donald Hiss

(Philippine Adviser)

Member of Communist Party with Pressman and [illegible] -
Labor Department - Asst. to Frances Perkins - Party wanted him there - to send him as arbitrator - Bridges trial - brought along by brother -

(100-25524-27)

III (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any specific investigation was conducted on the basis of the allegation.

In response to a request by Mr. Fred Lyon of the State Department, a memorandum containing information in the Bureau files was furnished to him on March 31, 1945. This memorandum set forth Chambers' allegations concerning Hiss. (101-4300-4)

IV (A). [illegible] MAY 10, 1945 AND MARCH 28, 1946

During the May 10, 1945, interview with Chambers by New York Agents, Donald Hiss was mentioned as the brother of Alger Hiss, but otherwise was not identified. (100-25524-36) No additional information was furnished in the March 28, 1946, interview. (100-25524-38)

IV (B). [illegible]

Bureau files fail to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' allegations. However, inquiries concerning Donald Hiss were made in connection with the Gregory investigation. A memorandum dated November 27, 1945, entitled "Soviet Espionage in the United States" was furnished to Brigadier General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, the Secretary of State, and the Attorney General on December 4, 1945. This memorandum included the information that Chambers had stated that Donald Hiss, brother of Alger Hiss, was in the Labor Department. Chambers listed a group of persons known to him as being in the underground apparatus of the Communist Party, inasmuch as he had attended meetings where these persons were present. One of these persons named by Chambers was Donald Hiss, and he indicated that the Party wanted Hiss to stay in the Labor Department. (61-4[illegible]-1[illegible], 1[illegible]) (100-7[illegible]-3[illegible])

Memorandum captioned "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in Agencies of the United States Government" dated February 21, 1946, was furnished to General Vaughan, the Secretary of State, and the Attorney General on February 25, 1946. This memorandum contained all the information concerning Donald Hiss which had been furnished to the Bureau by Whittaker Chambers. (65-56402-573)

PRISCILLA HISS
(Mrs. Alger Hiss)

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was conducted concerning the captioned individual prior to the receipt of information from Whittaker Chambers.

II CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS MADE MAY 13, 1942

Priscilla Hiss was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS AS MADE AND OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes which were made available to the Bureau in June, 1943 reflected the following:

> Alger Hiss
> Assistant to Hayre-OT-1937
> Member of the underground Com.-active Baltimore boys-> wife-Priscilla Hiss-socialist-> early days of New Deal."
> (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION AS A RESULT

The files of the Bureau failed to reflect that any investigation was conducted concerning Priscilla Hiss on the basis of the reference to her in the Berle notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers during the interview with him by New York Agents on May 10, 1945 discussed his efforts to persuade Alger Hiss to break away from the Communist Party. He stated that after he, Chambers, had broken with the Party he visited the home of Alger Hiss to attempt to persuade Hiss to also break away. Hiss' wife, Priscilla, was the only one there when he arrived and while he momentarily excused himself to go to the bathroom he observed Mrs. Hiss immediately go to the telephone obviously to get in touch with Party members. He immediately returned to the room and awaited the arrival of Alger. Chambers expressed the opinion that one of the strongest reasons for Hiss maintaining contact with the Communist Party was the fanatic loyalty to the Communist Party on the part of his wife. (100-25824-36)

Kisseloff-26213

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau failed to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' allegations and there is no indication that the information furnished by Chambers was distributed to any outside agency prior to the interview with Elizabeth Bentley in the fall of 1945 in connection with the Gregory Case. It is noted that Mr. Berle of the State Department interviewed Chambers in 1939 and the State Department therefore was in possession of the information concerning Priscilla Hiss, the wife of Alger Hiss, a State Department employee.

A memorandum dated November 27, 1945 captioned, "Soviet Espionage in the United States" was furnished to Brigadier General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, to the Secretary of State and to the Attorney General on December 4, 1945. This memorandum included information furnished the Bureau by Chambers relating to Priscilla Hiss to the effect that in his opinion the strongest reason for Alger Hiss maintaining his status with the Party was the fanatic loyalty for the Communist Party on the part of his wife. This memorandum also included information obtained as a result of the Bureau's interview with Elizabeth Bentley in the Gregory Case. (61-3479-178-179; 100-7526-39)

A memorandum dated February 21, 1946 entitled, "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (CPUSA) in Agencies of the United States Government" was furnished to General Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, the Secretary of State and the Attorney General on February 25, 1946. This memorandum included, in addition to the information furnished by Elizabeth Bentley, all of the information concerning Priscilla Hiss which has been furnished to the Bureau by Whittaker Chambers. (65-56402-573)

No active investigation has been conducted of Priscilla Hiss besides the investigation conducted of Alger Hiss in connection with the Gregory Investigation which, of course, included inquiries relative to his wife.

GRACE HUTCHINS

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation concerning Hutchins was initiated in September, 1941, on the basis of information contained in the Bureau files reflecting that she was a Communist Party candidate for Lieutenant Governor of New York in 1938, had written several Communist Party pamphlets, had served as treasurer for the Communist Party National Campaign Fund, and had engaged in other Communist Party activities. The investigation was continued until January, 1943, at which time it was closed, but was reopened in August, 1943, and was thereafter continued until May, 1946, when it was again closed. However, a report setting forth additional information was submitted on March 12, 1947. The investigation reflected that Hutchins had an income from the Hutchins estate and that she was an active Communist Party member and had frequent contacts with Alexander Trachtenberg and other officials of the Party. Copies of the reports on the investigation were furnished to the Division of Records as received. (100-51757)

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 13, 1942, Chambers discussed the securing of money by GRPU agents. He stated that in his opinion they would usually be traveling with a great amount of money on their person, but that there were those in the Party who acted as financial agents and who supplied such members with money. One of these persons he mentioned as Grace Hutchins. He stated that she was an old Party member and that she was in the inner group of Communists, and that she, along with her colleague Anna Rochester, was a fanatical Communist and trusted members of the Party. Chambers advised that he was told that Grace Hutchins was the chief financial transactor for the Party. (100-25524-22)

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As noted above, Hutchins was the subject of investigation at the time of Chambers' allegations and the investigation has failed to reflect that she was the "chief financial transactor for the Party," although it did reflect that she served as treasurer for the Communist Party National Campaign Fund.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN HIS STATEMENT OF [illegible], 1945

Hutchins was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

JOHN [illegible] JOHNSTONE, was JACK JOHNSTONE and JOHN [illegible]

I [illegible]

The first information [illegible] in the Bureau's file regarding Johnstone is a letter from the State Department dated January 27, 1937, reporting that Johnstone [illegible] would be active in a paper called Labor Unity. Another letter dated September 1[illegible], 1938, from the State Department requested investigation to determine if John Wilson Johnstone was identical with Jack Johnstone of the Labor Unity paper. The Federal Bureau of Investigation then instituted an investigation which substantiated that the two men were identical and that Johnstone had been arrested in India on December 18, 192[illegible], where he was attending a Trade Union Congress. It was also revealed that Johnstone as a representative of the Red International of Labor Unions had pledged 25,000 shekels for organizational work in India. 61-6590-1,2,3,7

Johnstone, according to additional investigation, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, on November 21, 1881, and naturalized as a United States citizen on April 14, 1922. He was a District Organizer for the Communist Party in Pittsburgh in 1933. He ran for office as a Communist candidate for mayor in Chicago in 1938 and the Communist candidate for Illinois State Senator in 1940. Johnstone died in New York City on April 18, 1942. 61-6590-25

II (A) [illegible] of May 13, 1942

Chambers stated that Jack Johnston was a former Party Organizer in Pittsburgh and was arrested in 1928 or 1929 by the British in India as a Russian Agent.

II (B) [illegible]

No investigation was instituted on the basis of the above information, it being noted in the letter transmitting it is informative that Johnstone was known to be dead.

III (A) [illegible] June, 1943

No information regarding Johnston is set forth in Perle notes.

IV (A) [illegible] of May 10, 1945

Chambers did not mention Johnstone during this interview.

LEON JOSEPHSON

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

By letters dated February 23, March 11, and March 23, 1935, the Danish State Police requested the Federal Bureau of Investigation to conduct an investigation of Leon Josephson, George Mink, and Nicholas Sherman, who were then in custody in Denmark charged with espionage. An investigation was instituted concerning Josephson on the basis of the afore-mentioned letters. This investigation reflected Josephson was born June 17, 1898, at Libau, Latvia. Josephson entered the United States at New York City on July 14, 1900, and was naturalized as a United States citizen on April 25, 1921. Josephson was known to have been active in the American Communist movement as early as 1929 when he acted as an attorney for the International Labor Defense in behalf of the Gastonia Textile Strikers who were charged with violence during that strike.

In 1933 Josephson reportedly was in Mansau, France, where he assisted a Soviet agent who was travelling on an American passport. In June, 1934, Josephson was in the United States and assisted Gerhart Eisler in obtaining a false United States passport under the name of Samuel Liptzen. Josephson at a later date admitted obtaining false passports for numerous other individuals during the 1930's. Jay Lovestone in testifying before the House Committee on Un-American Affairs in 1939 stated that in July, 1938, Leon Josephson had been an OGPU Agent who had been behind the stealing of documents from Lovestone's home. In addition to the foregoing, Josephson is known to have remained active in Communist affairs up until his conviction for contempt of Congress on October 15, 1947, in the Southern District of New York. Josephson ispresently serving a one year sentence at the United States Penitentiary at Milan, Michigan. (100-14754-1,11,105,123)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

No information was received from Chambers regarding Josephson at this interview.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

No information concerning Josephson was reflected in Berle's notes which were obtained in June, 1943.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers furnished information concerning George Mink who had been arrested for espionage in Denmark according to Chambers in the early 1930's. Chambers also advised that he knew from responsible accounts that Leon Josephson, owner of Cafe Society, had been involved with Mink in the affair in Denmark. Chambers said that he did not have any knowledge of Josephson's Communist activities.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

The information about Kramer was furnished by Chambers during the interview with him on May 10, 1945 by New York agents. At that time Chambers related that in approximately 1931 he accepted the position of Editor of the New Masses. He explained he obtained that position mainly because of the Party's desire to "take out Kramer who had been the Editor and had not been going along smoothly with the Party". (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

A review of the Bureau files reflects that during 1930 and 1931 Walt Carmon (not Kramer) was Managing Editor of New Masses. In 1932 Walt Carmon was employed in Russia as Editor of "International Literature". Walt Carmon returned to the United States in 1936. An Internal Security investigation of Walt Carmon was first instituted by the Bureau in February 1943 and continued until January 1947. (100-189899-22,p.3;28)

CHARLES KRAMER, WITH ALIASES:
Charlie Kramer, Charles Krivitsky
Charles Kreviskey

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

In connection with the investigation of Alexander Stevens, who was later identified as "J. Peters," a collateral inquiry to identify Charles Kramer was conducted in March and April, 1943, based upon the known association of Kramer with Stevens.

b7D

This inquiry disclosed that Confidential Informant [redacted] in February, 1937 identified Charles Kramer as an investigator for the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee. (61-7559-1044)

The files of the Civil Service Commission reflected that Charles Kramer was born on December 14, 1906, and his legal residence was given as New York City, New York. An investigation conducted by the New York Field Division disclosed that from the period of November 1, 1941 to September 30, 1942, Charles and Mildred Kramer occupied Apartment 53, 61 Pierrepont Street, Brooklyn, New York. At that time Kramer was employed by the National Labor Relations Board, 120 Wall Street, New York City, and as of September 30, 1942, when Kramer vacated his apartment in Brooklyn he indicated that he was being transferred from New York City to the Office of Price Administration, Sixth and Independence Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D. C. (100-1[illegible]255-[illegible])

The Civil Service Commission files previously referred to disclosed that Kramer had been transferred on February 25, 1943, from the New York Office of the National Labor Relations Board to the Office of Price Administration in the capacity of a Principal Economist at a salary of $5600 per annum. On February 26, 1943, one day later, Kramer's status with the OPA was changed to that of Head Economist at $6500 per annum. As of April 16, 1943, Kramer was residing at Long View, Accokeek, Maryland, and daily commuted to Washington, D. C. (100-1.4255-90)

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN THE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes made by Berle at the time of his interview with Chambers in

AMK/de 9/4
RAC/de 9/7

September, 1939 were obtained from Perle in June, 1940, and disclosed that Chambers named Charles Krivitsky, whose alias he said was Charles Kramer, as a member of the Ware Underground Group. (100-25[illegible]24-27)

The Perle notes indicated that Kramer was connected with the CIO and that he worked for the Lafollette Committee.

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

None. Information continued to be received concerning Kramer during the course of the investigation of other Communists.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945 by New York Agents, he named Charles Krivitsky, alias Charles Kramer, John Abt, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlo (later identified by Chambers as Victor Perlo), Alger Hiss, Donald Hiss, _____ Post, Nathan Witt, and an unnamed man described as the husband of Alice Wendham, as members of the Ware Underground Group. Chambers stated that the members of the Ware Group were high-salaried Government employees who were Communist Party members, but that their activities with the Party had ceased when they were transferred to the Communist Party underground. (100-25[illegible]24-36)

During this same interview with Chambers he related that after Harold Ware's death, he attended a meeting at which John Abt was elected leader of the group. Chambers stated that there were about six men present at that meeting and that to the best of his recollection, they were: Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlo (later identified as Victor Perlo) and Peters (V. J. Peters, alias of Alexander Stevens).

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files at the Defense Homes Corporation, Federal Public Housing Administration, show that Kramer was employed by the Office of Price Administration as Head Economist in the Administrator's Office, and that he had been loaned by the Office of Price Administration to the Sub-Committee of the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Thomas Scott, a former Bureau Agent who was employed at the Capitol in 1945, advised that the name of Charles Kramer was carried on a list maintained by Senator Kilgore of people borrowed from other Agencies for work on the Kilgore Committee. Kramer's name was on the list for May and June, 1945. During November, 1945, according to Scott, Kramer was serving on Senator Claude Pepper's

Wartime Health and Education Sub-Committee. (Rpt of SA Floyd L. Jones, 11-29-45, at Wash., D.C., in the case Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, was, et al, Esp-W)

An anonymous letter in April, 1944, named Charles Kramer and his wife as members of the Communist underground in Washington. The writer of the letter was later identified as the ex-wife of Victor Perlo, under treatment for insanity, and in a subsequent interview she confirmed the information in the letter about Kramer, and she named Victor Perlo, John Abt, George Silverman, Harry White and Lauchlin Currie, all of whom have figured prominently in the statements of Elizabeth Terrill Bentley, as Communists. She stated that the underground group named by her was originally organized by Hal Ware in 1933. (100-3-60-339)

In addition, information furnished by Elizabeth Terrill Bentley in the Gregory case confirmed the information furnished by Chambers. Bentley recalled that during November, 1943, Jacob Golos stated that through Earl Browder he had recently been placed in contact with a group in Washington, D. C. Early in 1944, Browder arranged a meeting for Bentley with representatives of this group at the apartment of John Abt in New York City. According to Bentley, four individuals who were introduced as Victor Perlo, Charles Kramer, Harry Magdoff and Edward Fitzgerald, as well as John Abt, were in attendance. She stated there was a general discussion as to the type of information which these people, with the exception of John Abt, would be able to furnish. It was apparent to her that these individuals, including John Abt, had been associated together for some time and engaged in furnishing information to Earl Browder. Subsequent meetings were held by representatives of this group in the apartment of Mary Price in New York City and Charles Kramer attended approximately three of these meetings. (65-56402-220)

Investigation, including physical surveillances and technical sources, in the Gregory case disclosed that Kramer was acquainted with the various individuals alleged by Chambers to be members of the Ware underground group. (65-56402-220)

In the early part of 1946, Charles Kramer was in contact with Leon Josephson. Josephson is closely associated with numerous individuals engaged in Communist activity and associated with Communist organizations. In 1935 Josephson was arrested in Copenhagen, Denmark, and charged with espionage on behalf of the Soviet Union. (Technical Surveillance on Charles Kramer) (65-56402-1019)

On May 1, 1946, just before his departure for California to assist Representative Ellis G. Patterson in his primary election campaign there, Charles Kramer was observed to surreptitiously deposit in a refuse can in South Arlington, Virginia, a number of magazines and pamphlets, among which were noted the following: Copies of "New Masses"; Copies of the "Communist"; Issues of "Political Affairs" for May, 1945 and March, 1946 edited by Earl Browder; Copies of "Soviet Russia Today"; Pamphlets entitled, "Moscow, Cairo, Teheran" by Earl Browder; "The 16 Soviet Republics", being Molotov's report to the Soviet; "Talk About the Communist Party" by Earl Browder; "Stages in the History of the Communist Party," published by the Workers Library Publishers; "Policy for Victory" by Earl Browder; "Production for Victory" by Earl Browder; "A New Italy Arises" by Giusseppe Berti; "The Crisis in India" by James S. Allen; "Turning Point for the World" by R. Palme Dutt; "Wage Policy in War Production" by Earl Browder; and "Production Front" by Maurice Dobb, M. A.

(65-56402-1187)

A reliable source reported that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kramer received an invitation from the Soviet Embassy, Washington, D. C., in November, 1946, to attend a reception held annually on November 7th in celebration of the November, 1917 Revolution. (Mail cover on Kramer 65-56402-1918)

Charles Kramer was interviewed by Agents of the FBI on August 27, 1947, in Washington, D. C. When advised of the purpose of the interview he stated that he would rather not discuss it, and he remained extremely uncooperative. (65-56402-2777)

In connection with the Gregory investigation, information about Kramer was furnished at various times to the Attorney General, the White House and other interested Government agencies.

CHARLES KRIEGER

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

During the early 1920's, starting in March, 1920, a Charles Krieger was investigated by the Bureau as an I.W.W. leader. However, inasmuch as Chambers did not identify Charles Krieger, it is not known if the Charles Krieger mentioned by Chambers is identical with the Charles Krieger who was an I.W.W. leader. IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945 by New York Agents, he related how he had joined the Communist Party - that in the early part of 1924 he contacted a Jewish friend, Sender Garlin, who was then connected with the Russian-American Relief. Garlin introduced Chambers to a man by the name of Charles Krieger (phonetic), who took Chambers to a small Communist Party meeting in the Hudson River District, where Chambers registered as a member of the Communist Party. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

An old 1923 report entitled "Radical Activities - Philadelphia District," states that Charles Krieger, the well-known I.W.W. agitator, spoke at Philadelphia on December 9, 1923. In view of the activities of this Charles Krieger around the time that Chambers knew Charles Krieger in 1924, it is likely that they are identical. However, inasmuch as Chambers merely mentioned a Charles Krieger (phonetic) as the individual who originally took him to a Communist Party meeting in 1924, without furnishing any identifying data about him, and because Chambers did not indicate he had further contact with Charles Krieger, particularly during Chambers' underground activities, no specific investigation of Charles Krieger was instituted as a result of the allegations by Chambers. HARRY KWEIT

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No active investigation of Harry Kweit was conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation prior to the information received from Chambers.

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 13, 1942

In speaking of water front activities Chambers said he had little information but that first known member of the party connected with the waterfront was Harry Kweit whom Chambers believed was an OGPU or Comintern Agent. The first group organized by Kweit was known as the Seaman's Club.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On the basis of the information from Chambers an active investigation of Harry Kweit was instituted on July 7, 1942. The instructions for this investigation also set forth that Harry Kweit had witnessed a fraudulent passport investigation on November 21, 1929, for Alexander Bittleman, a prominent Communist. It was also noted that Kweit had been sentenced to one year and one day on April 21, 1936 for passport fraud. 100-132479-1

The investigation of Kweit which included a reinterview of Chambers reflected that Kweit was born April 8, 1897, in New York. He entered the United States Navy on April 17, 1918, and received an honorable discharge September 30, 1929. Former Communists have stated that Kweit served on special missions to the comintern in Russia and was active in Communist Party activities among seaman during 1920's. Kweit was ordered to leave India in 1930 by the authorities allegedly because of Communist activity. Kweit had traveled to India on a fraudulent passport obtained in 1929. Kweit had been separated from Amy Schechter, a well known New York Communist, since 1930. Kweit was a licensed radio operator and on November 10, 1942, went to sea as a radio operator on a merchant ship. He was reported lost at sea in the North Atlantic in May, 1943, after the ship he was on was bombed and sunk. 100-132479-10, 14

It might be noted that Gerhart Eisler testified before an Alien Hearing Board in March, 1947, that "Harry" was his contact in the United States who arranged for his fraudulent United States passport in 1934. Leon Josephson in later testimony stated that the Harry referred to by Eisler was Harry Kweit who was dead. 100-132479-22

No information was set forth in these notes concerning Kweit.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers advised that Kweit organized a Seaman's Club on the Waterfront in the twenties and that it was a very small affair and never got very far. He added following this that Kweit disappeared and nobody knew where he was or anything about his activities. He added, one day after his break with the Party when he was coming out of the Carnegie Movie House, Kweit came out at the same time. He stated that Kweit looked somewhat like Gerhart Eisler and that he had married a woman who was a Communist Party organizer in the South under the name of Amy Schechter.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted as a result of the above information inasmuch as when obtained Kweit was dead.

He explained that he did go to Buffalo as instructed and that he was contacted in the Statler Hotel by a man that he recalls very vaguely as about 5' 5" in height, in his thirties, with a ruddy complexion. Chambers added that this person did not impress him very favorably and appeared to be very nervous and over cautious. Chambers did not know what the envelope contained which was delivered to him.

RE: PAUL WILHELM MASSING, was Karl Billinger;
HEDI TUNE MASSING, wa
Hedi Gumperz

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No active investigation was conducted.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers stated that in Washington there was a man by the name of Laurence Duggin (Duggan) who was not connected with the Communist underground but who, he believed, was connected with the OGPU. Chambers stated that Hedda Gumpertz (phonetic), whom he was told was an Austrian, was a direct contact of Duggin. He stated that Hedda Gumpertz was married to Paul Massing, who had written the book "Fatherland." He stated that Mr. and Mrs. Massing were said to have broken with the Party and were said to be living near Quakertown, Pennsylvania. Chambers stated that he thought these two individuals were connected with the Russian terror apparatus of the OGPU and that in his opinion they did not really break with the party.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On the basis of Chambers' information, as active investigation of Paul and Hedi Massing was instituted on July 6, 1942. This investigation reflected that Hedi Tune Massing was formerly married to Gerhart Eisler, but divorced him in 1926 to become the wife of Julian Gumperz.

Paul Wilhelm Massing is a German alien who was born on August 30, 1902 at Grumbach, Germany. Paul Massing became a member of the Communist Party in 1928. In that year Hedi Massing left Julian Gumperz and is now the wife of Paul Massing. Hedi Massing was first active in Soviet espionage in Europe as early as 1930, later coming to the United States where she was active until 1936. Paul Massing, after coming out of a German concentration camp came to the U. S. in 1933. In November of 1935 he went to Europe to work in the Soviet intelligence under the former Soviet Agent Ignatz Reiss. After Reiss was murdered in 1937 by Soviet Agents, Paul and Hedi Massing were called to Moscow and were interviewed for seven months by the NKVD concerning their work in the Reiss apparatus. They then returned to the United States, having reportedly broken with Soviet intelligence.

Paul and Hedi Massing were extensively interviewed in March of 1947 by Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, at which time they gave a great deal of valuable information concerning Soviet espionage. They have both continued to be cooperative and valuable in identifying persons engaged in Soviet espionage in the 1930's, up to the present time.

(65-9940-97,100)

Copies of reports concerning the Massings have been sent to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice and dissemination of information received from the Massings has been made available to the other Government agencies.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Mr. Berle's notes reflect the following:

"West European Div'n - Field - still in - (Levine says he is out went into I.R.O.
Then in Committee for Repatriation
His leader was Hedda Gompertz."

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted based upon Mr. Berle's notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Chambers stated that Duggin had been a close associate of Hedda Gomperts who is presently married to Paul Massing, author of the book "Fatherland." Chambers stated that Duggin's association with Hedda Gomperts, whom he knew to be a Communist, indicated that Duggin might possibly have been a fellow traveler.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted based upon this information. Hedi Massing when interviewed in the Spring of 1947 stated that Duggin had never worked in Soviet Intelligence to her knowledge and was not a Communist insofar as she knew. (65-9940-94)

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

By letters dated February 23, March 11, and March 23, 1935, the Danish State Police requested the Federal Bureau of Investigation to conduct an investigation of George Link, Leon Josephson and Nicholas Sherman, who were then in custody in Denmark charged with Soviet espionage. The Danish authorities stated that Link had in his possession three American passports which were later found to be United States passports fraudulently obtained. Link allegedly had been born on April 2[illegible], 1899 at Scranton, Pennsylvania, although no such birth record has ever been located. It is believed that he was actually born in Russia. The investigation of Link reflected he was well known in waterfront and Communist circles, having been to Moscow and having acted as a representative of the Red International of Labor Unions (Profintern). Link was also reported to have been active during the Civil War in Spain as a Soviet Agent. (61-8648-20)

Link's whereabouts since 1940 are not known although he has been variously reported as in many cities in the United States, in Russia and most often in Mexico City. (61-8648-65)

II (a) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers stated that Link had been very active in a Seaman's Club which had been organized by the Communist Party and which had been under the leadership of Harry Hewit. Chambers said that Link later took over this organization which thereupon became more active. Chambers believes that Link was a member of the GPU terrorist group. He stated that Link was in this country in 1936 and 1937 and that he believed he was on a mission to assassinate Trotsky. He stated that there was evidence that Link was active in the GPU in Spain and had a hand in some murder. He said that Link was a close friend of Earl Browder and is a nephew of Alexander Losofsky, who was the organizer of the Profintern. He stated that Link was always a Stalinist which would certainly qualify him for the GPU. He said that Link had been one of the Soviet Agents arrested in Denmark in 1935 and that the arrest had been caused by Link's attempted rape of a chambermaid. He stated that as far as he knew Link then dropped out of the picture until he reappeared in the United States in connection with the Trotsky assignment.

II (b) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' information inasmuch as extensive investigation was already being conducted regarding Link.

III CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN THE [illegible] MEMORANDUM IN JUNE, 1943

No information is contained in the Berle notes regarding Link.

IV (a) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS MAY 16, 1945

Chambers stated that he was acquainted with George Link and had seen him several times around the offices of the Daily Worker and the Communist Party headquarters in the early 1930's before Link was arrested in Denmark for espionage. He advised that he had no definite information indicating that Link had returned to the United States as he had stated during the 1942 interview but observed that the rumor that Link had returned to the United States in 1938 was so persistent that he believed there must be some basis to it. He said that according to the best of his recollection the rumor was to the effect that Link had come to the United States in 1938 and had gone to Florida where he had taken a ship to Latin America.

IV (b) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' allegations as set forth above.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Eleanor Nelson, who is believed to be identical with Elinor Nelson, Eleanor Nelson Porter, and Eleanor Nelson Soyring, has been the subject of Bureau investigation since December, 1940, in connection with an Internal Security - C investigation. In March, 1941, the Attorney General authorized an investigation of Eleanor Nelson at the request of the Secretary of Labor. It was ascertained from the personnel files of the Department of Labor that Eleanor Nelson Porter had been employed by the Department of Labor from August, 1929, until June 30, 1937, when she had resigned as an assistant economic analyst. It was ascertained through discreet inquiry in October, 1941, at the offices of the United Federal Workers of America in Washington, D. C., that Eleanor Nelson was national secretary-treasurer of the UFWA at that time. As a result of this information, the Hatch Act investigation was discontinued. In 1941, Mr. Paul Porter, the husband of Eleanor Nelson from 1933 to 1934, described his former wife as being a Communist.

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers advised that Nathan Perlow was a member of the Harold Ware group of the Communist Party underground in approximately 1935. He described Perlow as being associated at that time with the Brookings Institute in Washington, D. C. Chambers also stated that after the death of Harold Ware a meeting was held and at this meeting John Abt was elected the new leader of the group. Chambers stated that he was present at this meeting which took place in the residence of Henry Collins and that to the best of his recollection the following persons were present at this meeting: Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlow, and J. Peters. Chambers further stated that Nathan Perlow had been the other candidate for leader and that he received only one vote. 100-25324-36 p. 11 and 14

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

A search of the Bureau files fails to reflect an individual with the name of Nathan Perlow answering the description set forth by Chambers. In November

Kisseloff-26238

1945 an intensive investigation was initiated concerning the activities of Victor Perlo as a result of information furnished by Elizabeth Terrill Bentley alleging that Perlo was a member of a Soviet espionage ring. 65-56402-220

This investigation reflected that on November 7, 1945, Victor Perlo was employed by the Research Coordinators Staff, Bureau of Progress and Statistics in the Office of the Director of the Civil Production Administration. On December 14, 1945, he transferred to the Division of Monetary Research in the Treasury Department. He resigned from the Treasury Department on or about March 31, 1947. 65-56402-219, 2477

As a result of the information which Elizabeth Bentley furnished in the fall of 1945, a memorandum dated February 21, 1946, captioned "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in Agencies of the United States Government" was furnished to General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, to the Secretary of State and the Attorney General. This memorandum was distributed on February 25, 1946, and contained a summary on Victor Perlo. The summary on Perlo included the information on Nathan Perlow as furnished by Whittaker Chambers. It was pointed out in this memorandum that Nathan Perlow may be identical with Victor Perlo. Chambers advised that Nathan Perlow was an economist and formerly associated with the Brookings Institute in Washington, D. C. The credit records in Washington, D. C., reflect that Victor Perlo was employed at Brookings Institute as a mathematician and reviewer. 65-56402-573

In 1947 Whittaker Chambers was shown the photograph of Victor Perlo and at the time identified Nathan Perlow as being identical with Victor Perlo. 65-56402-2260, page 73

Distribution of information developed through the case entitled "Nathan Gregory Silvermaster" has been furnished to the Attorney General, The White House and other government agencies. The complete listing of this distribution has been set forth previously in connection with the Nathan Gregory Silvermaster investigation. 65-56402-621

On May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers advised that there was a man by the name of Post, who was obtained to work in connection with the underground movement of the Communist Party. IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers identified Post as the editor in 1939 of the Foreign Service Journal of the State Department. He stated that he first met Post in his home in Alexandria, Virginia, when Chambers addressed a small unit meeting of the Communist underground, of which Post was the leader. He said that this group was one of the newer groups which had been created, and that it was considered very weak on doctrine, and that he had been assigned to give them an "indoctrination pep talk." Chambers stated that to the best of his recollection Post had been employed by the WPA on a project of measuring babies' heads. At the time of Chambers' visit to Post's home, he stated that he was very much surprised to find that Post, a leader of a Communist underground unit, was living in such a sumptuous home. He explained that Post's wife spoke a very rarified form of English, and that they had two negro maids as servants.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As a result of a State Department inquiry concerning Richard H. Post, that Department was orally furnished information concerning the allegations made by Whittaker Chambers concerning one Post on September 26, 1947. (121-63-1)

On December 29, 1947, a loyalty investigation was initiated on Richard Howell Post, foreign service official in the State Department. The request for report of loyalty data form signed by Richard Howell Post reflected that he was born January 17, 1904, in New York, New York. From May, 1937, to October, 1937, he was employed in the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. From October, 1937, to January, 1940, he stated that he was unemployed, but had a part-time job with the Foreign Service Journal. From January, 1940, to the date of the request (September 3, 1947) it was indicated that Post was employed in the Foreign Service Branch of the State Department. This form indicated that from May, 1937, to May, 1939, Richard Howell Post resided at 212 South Pitt Street, Alexandria, Virginia. (121-63-4)

In connection with the loyalty investigation, Whittaker Chambers was reinterviewed on February 7, 1948, when he again advised that he first met a Mr. Post in the latter's home in Alexandria, Virgina. He stated that this was in approximately 1936, and that he was introduced to Mr. Post at that time by J. Peters. During this interview, Whittaker Chambers was shown a photograph of Richard Howell Post and was asked to identify the photograph in connection with the Post he had previously described. Chambers then advised, "I am not able to recognize or deny that this photograph is a picture of the Post whom I knew to be associated with the State Department, and at whose home in Alexandria, Virginia, I addressed a Communist Party cell. It has been such a long period since I have seen Post that I don't feel able to state that this photograph is a picture of Post." (121-63-27, page 3; 121-63-33)

On May 1, 1948, four copies each of the investigative reports reflecting the results of the loyalty investigation were forwarded to the Civil Service Commission. (121-63-34)

Photostatic copies of these reports are presently being prepared for submission to the Department of Justice.

WEBSTER POWELL, WITH ALIAS:
WEB POWELL

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

In July, 1940 the Los Angeles Office advised that it had received a report from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office which disclosed that a Mrs. Webster Powel, nee Alice Mendham, and her husband, Webster Powel, were then employed by the Government on the Labor Relations Board. The report stated further that, according to Mrs. Carrie Greene, 820 South Cochran Avenue, Los Angeles, Alice Mendham became interested in Communism at Columbia University, New York City, and that upon completing her course there she inherited a small fortune and went to Moscow, Russia for instructions and training. According to Mrs. Greene, Alice Mendham, while en route to Russia met her husband, Webster Powel, who was en route to Russia for the same purpose. Mrs. Powel reportedly resided at Trotsky's home in Russia for more than a year. Mrs. Greene stated that Mr. and Mrs. Powel had recently passed through Los Angeles en route to San Diego, California, and that due to the Trotsky connection in Russia, she believed the purpose of their trip at that time was to enable Mrs. Powel to contact Trotsky at some nearby place. (61-10404-1)

Photostatic material obtained in 1942 from Walter Steele, of the National Republic Magazine, includes a letterhead of the National Committee to Aid Striking Miners Fighting Starvation, 799 Broadway, New York City, containing a form letter dated in November, 1931. The letterhead set forth the names of a number of individuals, apparently sponsors of the Committee, and one of the names was that of Webster Powell. (100-153571-1 Enc.)

In August, 1940, the San Diego Office advised that Alice Coe Mendham was listed as a Philadelphia member of the Philadelphia Committee of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners in 1934. (61-10404-2)

On November 4, 1941, a technical source disclosed that Miss Alice Mendham asked the Soviet Embassy in Washington for the name of the Washington agent who handled Soviet bonds. According to the source, the inquiry was on behalf of a friend who had such bonds. (65-30092-512)

A membership list of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action in 1941 contained the name, Miss Alice Coe Mendham, Green Acres School, Silver Spring, Maryland, SHephard-5138. (100-4590-9 Page 162)

In 1941 a highly confidential source furnished a list of persons connected with the Capital City Forum, an allegedly radical lecture group in the District of Columbia, which included the name Webster Powell, Macsfolly Farm, Silver Spring, Maryland, which indicated that his name was obtained from the contact list of the League of Industrial Democracy. (100-26255-1 P.82)

Copies of correspondence and other material of the United Spanish Aid Committee disclosed in June, 1942 the names of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Powell as persons who were believed to be in the Committee's active indices. (100-7061-124 P.21)

During an interview with Charles E. Persons, Trial Examiner, National Labor Relations Board, Washington, D. C., and Henry J. Kent, also of the NLRB, on January 9, 1943, by an Agent of the Washington Field Office, they referred to a Communist faction in the NLRB and named Webster Powell as one of the NLRB employees in that faction. (62-41918-96)

In January, 1947 a highly confidential source furnished the names in the address book of Henry Hill Collins, Jr. Under a heading of "Foreign" were included two names as follows:

"Web Powell

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945 by New York Agents Chambers stated that Harold Ware, now deceased, was the leader in 1935 of a group of high-salaried Government employees who were Communist Party members, but that their activities with the Party had ceased when they were transferred to the Communist Party underground. Chambers recalled the following individuals as members of the Ware Underground Group:

John Abt
Lee Pressman
Henry Collins
Nathan Perlo (later identified by Chambers as Victor Perlo)
Charles Kramer, also known as Charles Krivitsky
Alger Hiss
Donald Hiss
[illegible] Post
Nathan Witt
and an unnamed man who was described as the husband of Alice Wendham.

Concerning the latter individual, Chambers stated that he could not recall the name of this man, but remembered him to be a short fellow who was the husband of Alice Wendham, who ran a school on the Virginia side of Washington. He was unable to recall this man well enough to give any physical description of him. (100-25824-36)

During an interview with Alger Hiss on June 2, 1947 by Bureau Agents, he stated that he had known Alice Wendham since about 1933 or 1934 when she was running a children's school. He stated that her husband's last name was Powell, but that he could not recall his first name. (65-56402-2530, p.6)

From 1932 to 1937 Juliet Poyntz was active in Communist Party circles in the vicinity of New York and in 1937, the Communist candidate for Attorney General of New York. On June 3, 1937, Juliet Poyntz mysteriously disappeared from her quarters at the Jackson Heights Women's Republican Club, 373 East 77th Street, New York City. According to accounts appearing in New York papers at that time various reasons were assigned for explanation of why she might have disappeared. The first of these reasons was that she had broken with the Communist Party and was writing a book of memoirs in which she exposed Communism and the Intermarriage of the Russian Military Intelligence Service. Another reason why she may have disappeared, according to the New York World Telegram, was the fact that she was litigating the estate of her husband, Dr. Frederick Glaser, an economist connected with the German Consulate in New York City. The Daily Worker admitted that Juliet Poyntz had been a member of the Communist Party until 1934 but the Party did [illegible] any interest in her disappearance. (100-[illegible]-3 [illegible])

An investigation was instituted by the Bureau concerning the disappearance of Juliet Poyntz in 1934 to ascertain whether Juliet Poyntz's disappearance was a real disappearance or one manufactured by the NKVD with the purpose of enabling Juliet Poyntz to function more effectively in the service of the CPUSA. IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS OF MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers' attention was invited to the allegation that he had previously made concerning the disappearance of Juliet Poyntz. Whittaker Chambers stated, at that time, that he did not recall ever making any statement concerning the disappearance of Poyntz and advised that he had never had any information on which to base such a remark. He pointed out that in conversations with many different individuals he had discussed Poyntz's disappearance but that he had never run across any information which he would consider factual or which would constitute a logical lead as to her whereabouts. (100-25824-36 p. 16)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation concerning the disappearance of Juliet Poyntz continued until December 1945 after Elizabeth Terrill Bentley advised that she had never heard of Juliet Poyntz subsequent to her mysterious disappearance and that Jacob Golos had advised her that Juliet Poyntz had been "liquidated." (100-206603-15 p. 1)

The Bureau's files do not reflect that reports on its investigation of Juliet Poyntz were distributed outside the Bureau.

V. INVESTIGATION BY DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

An investigation of Lee Pressman, whose correct name is Leon Pressman, was initiated in 1941 upon a review of information in the files of the Metropolitan Police Department, Washington, D. C., indicating that Pressman was possibly a member of the Communist Party. 100-11820-1 p. 1

VI. (A) CHARGES OF ALLEGATIONS MADE MAY 13, 1942

On May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers advised that prior to 1937 he and Harold Ware began to organize the men in the New Deal and to make such individuals a part of the underground organization of the Communist Party. He stated that one of the converts at that time was Lee Pressman of the AAA who had since gone to the CIO on the direct advice of the party itself. Chambers advised that it was important that Pressman should be Lewis' right hand man. 100-25824-22 p. 2

VI. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The allegations made by Whittaker Chambers on May 13, 1942, were set forth in the report of Special Agent Russell A. White, New York, New York, dated 3-29-43, entitled "Leon Pressman, aka." A copy of this report was furnished to the Division of Records in the Department of Justice on April 12, 1943. 100-11820-1 p. 2

Investigation conducted as a result of the information furnished by Chambers reflects that the personnel file of Lee Pressman was examined at the Department of Agriculture. This file reflected that on July 13, 1933 Pressman was appointed as Chief Attorney in the AAA at six thousand dollars per annum in Washington, D. C. He resigned this position on February 2, 1935. From July 1, 1935 until June 30, 1937 he held various administrative positions in the Resettlement Administration and the Farm Security Administration. 100-11820-19 p. 3

Subsequent to his Government employment he was appointed General Counsel for the National CIO. 100-11820-31

The notes also reflected that Pressman was in the underground organized by the late Harold Ware. The notes further read as follows: "Pressman was in his group (1932-3?) Pressman then in the AAA," and also reflected that Donald Hiss was a member of the Communist Party with Pressman and Witt. 100-25824-27, p.1&4

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation concerning Pressman continued but the information set forth in the Berle notes was not included in the investigative reports covering the activities of Pressman.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers advised that Mark Moren was somewhat of a mythical underground character who was heard about in Communist circles during the Spanish Civil War. J. Peters had informed Chambers that Lee Pressman had accompanied Moren to Mexico late in 1936 and that a small Texas newspaper had reported both of their names in connection with an airplane accident near Brownsville, Texas. Chambers stated that Lee Pressman was a member of the Harold Ware underground group of the Communist Party and described Pressman as later becoming General Counsel of the National CIO. Chambers advised that after Harold Ware's death a meeting took place in the home of Henry Collins and that John Abt was elected leader of this group. Chambers stated that he was present at this meeting and to the best of his recollection the following persons were present at that time: Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlow, and J. Peters. 100-25824-36, p. 14

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On March 25, 1946, the Washington Field Office furnished the Bureau and New York a summary of the activities of Lee Pressman and this memorandum contained the allegations made by Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945. This summary was not furnished to any outside agencies and the allegations made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, have not been included in an investigative report concerning the activities of Pressman. 100-11820-62

The investigation concerning the activities of Lee Pressman is presently in a pending status. According to an article appearing in the February 9, 1948, issue of the CIO News, Pressman resigned as General Counsel of the CIO on February 6, 1948. 100-11820-419, p. 2

Re: FRANCIS VICTOR RENO, was

Lance Clark, "Ves"

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Francis Victor Reno was brought to the attention of the Bureau on December 20, 1939 when data was provided by the Intelligence Officer of the Third Corps Area, United States Army, reflecting that this individual was a civilian employee at the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland and was reported to have been an active Communist while in college. The Army Intelligence Officer advised that an investigation was then being conducted of Reno, based upon a request by the War Department.

The substance of this information indicated that Reno, while a student at the University of Virginia, had been active in a group known as the National Students League, which was allegedly a Communist organization. The Army had checked with representatives at the University and had been informed that Reno during his student days had been considered an active radical. The Army stated that their investigation had failed to indicate that Reno was engaged at that time in subversive activities and that a report of the investigation had been returned to the War Department without any recommendation.

It was noted that Reno had been employed as a civilian by the Army originally on July 26, 1937 as a mathematician and worked in the computing section of the Ballistic Research Laboratory. The Army file indicated that Reno was born at Salt Lake City on May 14, 1911 and attended the University of Virginia from 1932 to 1935, graduating with a Masters Degree. The information further indicated that the employee had previously worked for the NPA in Washington as an Assistant Statistical Clerk from September 1935 to March 1937. (Victor Reno, according to Army records, had a brother named Philip Reno who was employed by the Social Security Board.) The Army Intelligence officer requested that no investigation be made of Reno by the FBI. No investigation was made of Reno by the Bureau based upon this information.

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear from the Bureau files that investigation was conducted of this individual based upon the reference in the Berle notes.

However, in the report of the Intelligence Division, Third Service Command, Baltimore, Maryland dated December 15, 1943, a copy of which was furnished the Bureau, the Army set forth the results of its investigation of Francis Victor Reno which in substance disclosed that while taking his Masters Degree at the University of Virginia from 1932 to 1935, Reno was involved in the National Students' League, created considerable agitation on the campus and evidenced general Communistic tendencies. The Army report reflected, however, that during his employment at the Aberdeen Proving Ground from 1935 to the date of the report, there had been no indication of any such tendencies on his part. A recommendation was made in the report to place Reno under further observation and to develop fully his background from 1935 to 1937.

It is to be noted that the Army was provided with a copy of the report prepared by the Baltimore office of the FBI dated November 1, 1943 reflecting an investigation of Philip Reno, brother of Francis Victor Reno, and indicating that Philip Reno had reportedly been brought to Baltimore, Maryland by Dr. Blumberg to work for the Communist Party. This report also reflected that Philip Reno was associating with known Communists in his position as editor of the official organ of a local labor organization, which had been reported by informants to be Communist dominated. This report also contained information concerning Francis Victor Reno.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

This invididual was not mentioned in the Chambers interview on the above date.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Information was provided by the Baltimore Office on March 1, 1948 concerning Francis Victor Reno in connection with the investigation of loyalty of Government employees. This information indicated that data was available concerning this individual to the Baltimore Office indicating that he was at one time employed by the Aberdeen Proving Ground and making reference to information previously furnished by Army Intelligence. The Baltimore Office also indicated that information had been received on July 21, 1947 indicating that one Lance Clark, whose real name was Reno, had in August, 1936 recruited a confidential informant of the Baltimore Office into the Farmers Labor Party at Cumberland, Maryland. The source stated that a meeting of this party had taken place in the month of September, 1936 at which time the informant learned for the first time that he had in fact joined the Communist Party. Lance Clark upon being questioned concerning this by the informant reportedly stated that the Communists were the spark plugs of the Farmers Labor Party and "what is the difference in a name if the program and aims are identical?"

(121-1765-1

The Baltimore Office was instructed on March 12, 1948 by the Bureau to ascertain immediately whether or not Francis Victor Reno was still an employee of the Government at the Aberdeen Proving Ground.

(121-1765-1)

The Baltimore Office advised on March 20, 1948 that it had determined from Army authorities that on July 16, 1947 Reno had become ill and had subsequently been moved to a hospital in Baltimore, Maryland. The last report had indicated that his condition was extremely critical and his recovery was questionable.

(121-1765-2)

On March 31, 1948, the Bureau advised the Baltimore Office that in view of these circumstances, no further investigation should be conducted but that arrangements should be made with the Army Intelligence authorities at the Aberdeen Proving Ground to advise immediately in the event Reno returned to active service with the Government.

Re: PHILIP RENO, alias Phil Reno

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

On August 13, 1941 the Washington Field Office advised the Bureau in connection with the Hatch Act that Philip Reno, an employee of the Social Security Board, had reportedly appeared on the mailing or membership lists of the American Peace Mobilization, Washington, D. C.

(101-1634-1)

On August 27, 1941 a memorandum was forwarded to Mr. Matthew F. McGuire, Assistant to the Attorney General, setting forth available information concerning Reno in accordance with the existing Congressional instructions and requesting whether investigation should be conducted. It is noted that the information provided in addition to the data concerning possible affiliation with the American Peace Mobilization that in August, 1936, information was submitted to the effect that Philip Reno, Social Security Board Lodge No. 245, was reportedly a Communist or a sympathizer of that movement. In addition, it was reported that one Philip Reno, according to a confidential source, employed by the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C., was a close associate in the Communist activities of one Sam Dean, who was described as being a Communist. Also included was a report by a confidential source received during December, 1940, that Philip Reno, employed by the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C., was allegedly the Communist Party organizer for the Federal employees in Washington, D. C. This same source stated that Reno addressed a Communist meeting at the Rubber Workers Hall, Cumberland, Maryland during the summer of 1939 and that the meeting was allegedly for members and perspective members of the Communist Party. The informant advised that Reno's presence at such a meeting would definitely indicate his membership in the Party although he had not definitely stated he was a Communist.

(101-1634-1)

On November 12, 1941, available information was likewise forwarded to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special Defense Unit, Department of Justice.

(101-1634-2)

Investigation in connection with the Hatch Act as reported by the Washington Field Office on February 9, 1942, indicated that Philip Reno was employed by the Social Security Board of the Federal Security Agency from April 27, 1936 to that date. His name appeared on the Dies Committee list as a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. It was also confidentially reported that the name of his wife, Ruth Reno, appeared on the active indices of this organization and that the names of both Reno and his wife appeared on the active indices of the American Peace Mobilization, later known as the American Peoples Mobilization. The auto registered to Reno was observed in the vicinity of an anti-conscription meeting of the American Peace Mobilization on September 4, 1940. Informants further revealed that the intimates of Reno are also identified with either one or both of the aforenamed organizations and among these are two individuals reported to be known Communists. Ruth Reno, wife of Philip Reno, was reportedly employed until May, 1941 as the private secretary of Sidney M. Katz, who was allegedly one of the leaders of the Communist movement in the District of Columbia.

(101-1634-9)

Further investigation by the Denver, Colorado Office indicated that Reno had been transferred to the Social Security Board, Denver Regional Office on February 3, 1941. Available informants advised that it was not definitely known whether Reno was a member of the Communist Party but was reported at least sympathetic with its views.

In accordance with the established procedure for conducting Hatch Act investigations, Reno was interviewed by a Bureau agent at Denver, Colorado on March 16, 1942. Under oath he denied past or present membership in the Communist Party, but declined to answer questions on whether he was a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, American Youth Congress, American Peoples Mobilization or the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties.

(101-1634-11)

Reno also denied having addressed a Communist Party meeting at Cumberland, Maryland or a Communist meeting anywhere at any time and further denied attending an anti-conscription meeting of the American Peace Mobilization.

(101-1634-11)

On April 24, 1942, the results of the investigation conducted concerning Philip Reno were forwarded to the Honorable Paul V. McNutt, Administrator, Federal Security Agency, Washington, D. C., requesting advice as to the ultimate disposition of this case.

(101-1634-12)

Kisseloff-26253

By letter dated July 7, 1942, the Bureau was informed by the Federal Security Agency that the employee, Philip Reno, had been exonerated and no further action was being taken.

(101-1634-14)

On September 1, 1942, copies of reports in connection with the Hatch Act investigation were forwarded to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special War Policies Unit of the Department of Justice.

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

This individual was not mentioned in the Chambers interview on the above date.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

These notes contain the following references to Philip Reno:

"Philip Reno - in Social Security (??) -
was head of Underground Trade Union Group
Political leader.

"Reno connected with Baltimore Party
organizer - Benjamin (Bundey) Friedman
alias Field - then California - then Russia
- now organizer for Baltimore & Washington
of Above-Ground Party - Underground connections."

"Philip Reno - used to be."

(It would appear that the information set forth above concerning Reno's connection with the Baltimore Party organizer, Friedman and the ensuing information concerning California, Russia, etc., refers to the activities of Friedman rather than Reno. See another section of this memorandum relative to Benjamin Friedman).

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Although it appears that no specific investigation was made

Kisseloff-26254

based upon references in the Berle notes concerning Philip Reno, active investigation was re-instituted concerning this individual in May, 1943 when Reno was reported to have left the Government service in Denver, Colorado and obtained employment with a labor organization in Baltimore, Maryland. Investigation by the Baltimore office indicated that Reno was closely associated with a number of prominent Communist figures in the Baltimore area and Reno himself was reported by informants to be believed to be a Communist due to his adherence to the Communist line and association with known members of the Party.

(61-1634-22)

A report in November, 1943 indicated that information had been received reflecting that Reno had been brought to Baltimore by Albert Blumberg, National Legislative Representative of the Communist Party and was continuing his association with known Communists in the Baltimore area.

(101-1634-28)

Reno returned to Denver, Colorado from Baltimore in October, 1943. In Denver, Reno obtained employment with the Denver CIO Council and was reported to be in frequent contact with officials at the Communist Political Association Headquarters in Denver.

(101-1634-29, 34, 35)

While in Denver he was known to have been contacted by two prominent National Communist figures, John Williamson and Lem Harris.

(101-1634-39)

During 1945 and early 1946 Reno held a number of non-governmental positions, primarily with labor organizations and continued his close contact with Communist Party officials in Denver, Colorado.

(101-1634-52)

It was reported that Reno attended the Communist Party State Convention on May 18, 1946 and the Communist Party State Board meeting on July 5, 1946 at Denver, Colorado. He continued, according to information received, to meet with Communist Party functionaries.

(101-1634-53)

A summary of evidence concerning the Communist activities of Reno was submitted on February 6, 1947 indicating that information had been received reflecting that Reno was then a member of the State Executive Committee of the Communist Party of Colorado and outlined further his

Communist Party associations and affiliations, including information which was developed showing that Reno had endeavored to recruit an individual to join the Communist Party in December, 1942.

(101-1634-56)

Reno attended the Rocky Mountain Conference of the Communist Party on October 11, 1947 at Denver, Colorado. He was reported to have left Denver for New Mexico. Information was developed indicating that Reno was being criticized by Communist Party officials in Denver for possible factionalism.

(101-1634-61)

Investigation verified Reno's residence in Santa Fe, New Mexico and Albuquerque, New Mexico and return to Denver, Colorado in April, 1948. Informants reported that Reno had been expelled from the Communist Party at Denver, Colorado on June 28, 1948 for factional activities.

(101-1634-66)

In this connection it has been reported that possibly Reno has joined a nation-wide group of former members of the Communist Party who were expelled from the Party for so-called factionalism and who are believed to have been planning the ouster of present leadership of the Communist Party. These individuals included such former prominent Communist members as Lyle Dowling, Vern Smith and Harrison George.

(101-1634-63)

Pertinent reports reflecting the results of the investigation of Philip Reno have been currently made available to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

II. (B) INVESTIGATIVE REPORTS

On August 4, 1947, the Bureau instructed the New York Office to reopen the investigation concerning Jean Rochester and it was specifically pointed out in this letter that Jean Rochester was referred to by Whittaker Chambers as a fanatical Communist and trusted member of the Party. It was subsequently ascertained by New York that Jean Rochester was born [illegible] 10, 1888, in New York City, according to the New York Department of Health. From 1916 to 1918 Jean Rochester was publications secretary of the National Child Labor Committee and from 1918 to 1919, she was a publications worker for the U.S. Children's Bureau. In 1937 she was a joint author with Grace Hutchins of "Jesus Christ and the World Today." Subsequent to 1938 she was a regular contributor to the Labor Research Association. Re: DR. PHILIP ROSENBLIETT

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Initial inquiry concerning Dr. Philip Rosenbliett was made by the Bureau in connection with the investigation of Moische (Maurice) Stern, was, etal, Espionage. It was reported in connection with this investigation that on August 3, 1935, Lydia Stahl, a Soviet Espionage Agent who was convicted in Paris, France, had sent Ingrid Bostrom to see a Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, a dentist whose office was then on the sixteenth floor at 1440 Broadway, New York City, residence, 143 West 87th Street, New York City, for the purpose of informing him that Lydia Stahl wanted to leave the United States.

Investigation in the same case indicated that on the afternoon of September 8, 1931, on the day which subject, Stern obtensibly obtained secret plans from an informant in the case was observed while under surveillance to go to an office on the sixteenth floor at 1440 Broadway, New York City.
(61-6670-19, page 21)

Later, in connection with the investigation of Nicholas Dozenberg, an admitted Soviet Espionage Agent, Dozenberg was interviewed on February 26, 1940, and stated that in 1929 or 1930 there was a doctor's office in New York City where money was brought in from Russia by German seaman couriers. This money was to be used by Soviet Espionage Agents in the United States. According to Dozenberg, this office of the dentist was also a place where people coming to the United States could be met and where they received assignments. Dozenberg was first taken to this office by Alfred Milton whom Dozenberg understood was then in charge of operations in the United States.

During an interview with Dozenberg at the Lewisburg Penitentiary in June, 1940, by a Bureau agent it was learned from Dozenberg that the dentist referred to was named Rosenbliett. (61-6670-19)

Dozenberg further alleged that Rosenbliett was a financial agent for Espionage Agents in the United States. Investigation of Rosenbliett determined that his full name was Dr. Philip Rosenbliett and that he had been practicing dentistry in New York City since October 1, 1917, and that his license had been renewed annually until 1936. Inquiry further reflected that Rosenbliett was born in Russia, November 3, 1895, and had received his degree in dentistry from the New York College of Dental and Oral Surgery in 1917.
(61-6670-24)

A check of the building at 1440 Broadway indicated that Rosenbliett had maintained an office in room 1657 from May 1, 1930 to April 19, 1935, at which time he informed the rental agent that he was returning to Russia to attend to business. He left no forwarding address. It was further determined that Rosenbliett is still the owner of a rooming house at 89 West 118th Street, Harlem, New York, and his affairs in the United States were being managed by Harold Klein, 342 Madison Avenue, an attorney, and his brother-in-law, Dr. Morris Greenberg. (61-6670-26)

Further information developed that Rosenbliett had immigrated to the United States in September, 1905, and was naturalized at New York City on May 3, 1910. On June 18, 1936, Rosenbliett obtained an American passport to include his wife for the professed purpose of visiting England, France, and Austria. The exact whereabouts of Rosenbliett were not determined. (61-6670-30)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On the above date Chambers advised Bureau agents in discussing Isidore Miller who was a chemist and connected with the Picatiny Arsenal in New Jersey that Miller was evidently in Russian circles because a common friend, Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, who was formerly a dentist on Broadway, was an old member of the Party and judging from the things he told Chambers was in the OGPU for many years. Chambers advised that Dr. Rosenbliett went back to Moscow and he has heard nothing about him since. (100-25824-26)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted in connection with Rosenbliett based upon the above statement by Chambers inasmuch as information of a more specific character had originally been received by the Bureau in connection with the Dozenberg and Stern cases, concerning which inquiry had indicated that Rosenbliett had departed from the United States.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN June, 1943

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Investigation was not made of Rosenbliett based upon the information of Berle notes by reason of previous investigation as cited above. However, the investigation of his connections with Soviet Intelligence in the United States were again instituted and were being handled at the time of the receipt of the Berle notes based upon information received in March, 1941, from [redacted] in connection with the case of Ernst Czuczka, was, etal, Espionage - R. This case developed when one Rubin Glucksmann was interned by the [redacted] authorities in England in May, 1940, and an examination was made of his books and records based upon operations of a firm known as the Far Eastern Fur Trading Co., of London. This examination reflected that this firm had close connections with a firm in Germany, Nostwag, Berlin, which was known to be a cover organization utilized by Soviet Intelligence. The London company also had connections with a known Soviet Espionage cover firm in France. Among the papers of the firm were found references to the name of Ernst Czuczka. The [redacted] advised that Czuczka and his brother had departed for the United States in the fall of 1940. (65-35048-2) b7D

Investigation in connection with this case reflected that Czuczka's brother advised that the former had himself been formerly associated with Nostwag, Berlin. Glucksmann who was further interviewed by the [redacted] admitted that he had been in contact with Dr. Philip Rosenbliett in Paris in 1937 and that Rosenbliett was one of the directors of Nostwag, Berlin. (65-35048-23)

Investigation at New York looking toward the possible location and connections of Rosenbliett in this country was again negative, it being determined that he had reportedly departed from the United States in 1936 and left his business affairs in the hands of his brother-in-law, Dr. Morris Greenberg, 143 West 87th Street, New York City. (65-35048-35) U

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 10, 1945

Chambers when interviewed by Bureau agents on the above date recalled that on an occasion when he needed dental work in the middle thirties he U received a recommendation from "Peter" (Alexander Stevens) to Dr. Philip Rosenbliett who maintained offices at Broadway and 41st Street, New York City. Chambers added that he gained the impression that Rosenbliett was the regular Communist Party dentist in New York and from conversation with "Peters" understood him to be an old reliable party man who might be connected with the underground apparatus and also with Russian Intelligence. He added that he did not believe that Rosenbliett was actually a participant in Espionage activity but that he did furnish his office as a meeting place for individuals who desired to converse secretly. In fact, he told Chambers on several occasions that the Russians referred to his office as "Rafka", meaning a roof of shelter for clandestine meetings. Chambers said he visited Rosenbliett's office on numerous occasions and became very friendly with him. In connection with their conversation Rosenbliett talked about his brother-in-law, Dr. Greenberg, and also mentioned connections with Dr. Isidore Miller. Chambers further recalled that Rosenbliett had occasionally mentioned some very intimate friends of his who at that time were teaching in a college at Tientsin, China. He recalled from the manner in which Rosenbliett talked about them that it was his impression that they also might be engaged in Communist underground activities. In this connection he stated that he had learned from various sources which he could not recall that Rosenbliett left the United States to return to Russia sometime in 1936 or 1937 and that he had never heard from him or about him since and supposed that he had been liquidated.

Chambers described Rosenbliett as follows: age, 50 in middle 30's; height, 5'9", build, slim; weight, 160 pounds; hair - was unable to recall; characteristics, very vain, talkative, indiscreet.

(100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted of Rosenbliett based upon the information given by Chambers in the above interview. More specific data had previously been received concerning Rosenbliett and investigation of his activities in connection with other pending Soviet Espionage investigation was then being conducted. It will be noted in this connection that the Bureau investigation showed more conclusively that Rosenbliett was in fact deeply implicated in espionage activities in this country.

AMY SCHECHTER

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

Active investigation of Amy Schechter, whose complete name is Amy Esther Schechter Safford, was initiated by the New York Office in November, 1942. The subject, commonly known as Amy Schechter, was determined to have been the former wife of Harry Kweit, a known Communist agent, (now deceased) and the investigation of Schechter grew out of the Kweit inquiry. (100-134371-1x)

Investigation determined that Schechter was born at Cambridge, England on August 4, 1898, of Rumanian-German parentage and entered the United States at New York City in 1902, and claimed citizenship by reason of the naturalization of her father. She was educated in the public schools, at Barnard College in New York City, married Harry Kweit in 1924, and was separated from him in 1930. Schechter visited the Soviet Union from June, 1930, to June, 1932, reportedly as a writer and teacher of English but allegedly at the same time attended the Lenin School in Moscow. (100-134371)

Continued investigation reflected that Schechter had been active in the Communist Party movement since the early 1920's and received notoriety as an active member of the National Textile Workers Union at Gastonia, North Carolina. She was indicted for inspiring a strike during the spring and summer of 1929, which resulted in the fatal shooting of the Chief of Police of Gastonia on June 7, 1929. This indictment against Schechter was subsequently dismissed. Schechter was then associated with Fred Erwin Beal, leader of the Gastonia strike, who was convicted of second degree murder in connection with the foregoing incident and who escaped to the Soviet Union. Beal has subsequently testified, after breaking with the Communist Party and returning to the United States, of the Communist inspiration and conspiracy in connection with this incident. (100-134371-22)

Schechter is presently a member of the Communist Party at San Francisco, California. Investigation indicates that she is still closely associated with a number of prominent figures in the Communist Party movement in the United States. (100-134371-28)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Amy Schechter was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview on the above date.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

Schechter's name was not included in the Berle notes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Chambers, when interviewed on the above date in discussing the activities of Harry Kweit (see section on Kweit in another part of this memorandum)

Kisseloff-26263

stated that Kweit married a woman who was a Communist Party organizer in the South under the name of Amy Schechter. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted on the basis of the Chambers allegations concerning Amy Schechter inasmuch as there was already an intensive investigation being conducted by the Bureau of this individual and this information had already been developed.

The case on Amy Schechter was closed in a report by the San Francisco Office on March 14, 1946, inasmuch as the subject's Communist Party activity was not believed sufficient to warrant a continued investigation. (100-134371-28)

Reports in the Schechter case have been distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

RE: WILLY SCHLAMM

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

[redacted] Information was furnished to the Bureau by Confidential Informant of the New York Office concerning Willy Schlamm in a report dated February 6, 1943. This report indicated that Schlamm had written a book entitled "Die Diktatur Der Luege" (Dictatorship of the Lie), which was a 158 page volume published in Germany at Zurich, Switzerland in 1937. Informant stated he had reviewed the book and found it to be a passionate anti-Soviet polemic reflecting Schlamm's violent reaction to the first Moscow Purge trial of 1936. The informant pointed out that Schlamm defended himself against being called a Trotzkyite but did not mention his former Communist connections. The informant observed that previous reports on Schlamm's former promotions of the Communist line were based upon the contents of magazines he edited in Europe during the 1920's and 1930's. The present book, reviewed by the informant, indicated a close familiarity with Communist activities which the informant observed, while not being conclusive proof of former Communist affiliation, indicates a question as to where he acquired his intimate, inside knowledge. b7D

The informant suggested the possibility that Schlamm would make a good source on Communist activities by reason of his knowledge of the situation. (100-88151-2)

The New York Office, by letter dated February 12, 1943, with reference to Willy Schlamm, observed, with respect to the information provided by Confidential Informant [redacted], that the New York Office had been aware of Schlamm's possibility as a source of information since January 31, 1941, at which time he was contacted by Special Agent George J. Starr at the residence of Benjamin Gitlow. [redacted] (100-88151-2) b7D

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Willy Schlamm was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview by Bureau agents on the above date.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

Willy Schlamm was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (a) [illegible] ON MAY 10, 1945.

In discussing Gerhard Eisler who was known to Chambers as "Edwards" Chambers stated in the interview by Bureau agents on May 10, 1945, that he did not know Eisler's true identity until approximately a year before that date. He stated that while talking to Billy Schlamm, an editor of Fortune Magazine who had formerly been a Communist Party leader in Austria and who had known Eisler very well in Europe, Schlamm remarked to Chambers that he had met Eisler about a year before in Grand Central Station. He told Chambers about this meeting with Eisler and informed him that Eisler's Communist Party name was "Edwards". (100-25824-36)

IV (b) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was made of Billy Schlamm by reason of the reference to him in the Chambers interview of May 10, 1945. It will be noted that Chambers merely cited Schlamm as a source of information in identifying Eisler as "Edwards". [redacted] b7D

Re: AGNES SMEDLEY, was.,
Agnes Brundin, Marie Rogers,
M. A. Rogers, Alice Bird, Mrs. Petroikos

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Bureau's files reflect that Agnes Smedley, an American citizen, has for many years been well known by reason of her championship of the Communist cause in the Far East. Smedley has written a number of books which have received wide circulation supporting the Chinese Red Army, and the building of the Chinese Soviet territories in North China. Bureau files indicate that information has been received from various sources dating back to 1918 when Smedley and others were indicted in New York City for a violation of the espionage statutes in connection with her activities in supporting British Indian insurrectionist groups. These indictments were subsequently dismissed.

(61-6580-9)

Active investigation of Smedley was instituted by the Bureau by instructions to the field on October 25, 1944, based upon information received from censorship intercepts, indicating that Smedley, then residing at Saratoga, New York, was in communication with a number of known German Communists associated with the Free Germany Movement in Mexico City.

(61-6580-2)

The investigation of Smedley since 1944 has continued until the present time.

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

No mention was made of Agnes Smedley in connection with the interview of Chambers on the above date.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

The name of Agnes Smedley was not contained in the Berle notes.

discussing his knowledge of Gerhart Eisler, who was known to Chambers at the time as "Edwards," stated that he recalled that some time during 1936 he had learned that Agnes Smedley, well-known writer and author of the "Battle Hymn of China" and other works, was in New York City. Chambers stated that he had advised "Peter" (Alexander Stevens, was.,) that he would like to meet her. Chambers stated that "Peter" had advised him that he could arrange a meeting for him with Smedley and told him to go to an automat somewhere in the east 70's. Chambers advised that Agnes Smedley had arrived at the automat before him and was sitting at a table and that when he introduced himself to her she refused to speak to him. Chambers explained that he identified himself to her as a Communist and she then consented to talk with him but first made the remark: "I thought I was going to meet Edwards."

Chambers was asked whether or not he had any knowledge of Communist Party affiliation on the part of Smedley and he pointed out that he did not have any actual evidence, but everybody knows she is a Communist. He stated, "There is absolutely no question about it."

He recalled that "Peter" had close contact with her and that she was always "hanging around" the ninth floor of Communist Party Headquarters. He added that she may never have held a Communist Party membership book, but that if she did not, it would merely be because the officials of the Communist Party had believed her to be of more value to them if her party affiliations were not definitely established.

With regard to Smedley, Chambers recalled that at the time that Browder was sent out to the Far East, there was a story current in Communist Party circles in New York City to the effect that Browder had carried numerous large denomination bills and that when he arrived in Manila he had been forced to cash a $1,000 bill and that the officials at the bank had tipped off the proper people who had placed Browder under surveillance after he left Manila for China. He stated that the rumor indicated was to the effect that in Canton or Hanking Browder gathered together a group of high Communist Party officials at a most secret meeting and that one of the participants at this meeting was Agnes Smedley's Chinese husband. He added that the Hanking police surrounded the house and raided it and arrested the whole group. Chambers could not recall the source of his story.

(100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear from a review of the files that any specific investigation was conducted concerning the activities of Smedley, based upon the allegations received in the aforeoutlined interview of Whittaker Chambers. It will be noted, however, that an analysis of the information furnished by Chambers indicating the general acceptance of Smedley as a Communist Party tool was well known by reason of information available to the Bureau prior to the receipt of these data.

The continuing investigation of Agnes Smedley indicated her to be active in propaganda work in the United States , for the most part in lecturing and publishing books and articles supporting the Chinese Communist movement. Investigation also indicated that Smedley was contacted by Dr. Tung Ti-Li, Chinese Communist Delegate to the San Francisco Conference of the United Nations, at Saratoga Springs.

(61-6580-16)

In October, 1947, information was received from Military Intelligence Division indicating that Agnes Smedley was closely implicated in the so-called Sorge Red Army espionage network in Japan and China during the period of 1933 to 1941. Dr. Richard Sorge, together with other principals in the network were executed or given long prison sentences by the Japanese courts. It was noted that Smedley, who was during this period an American Journalist and correspondent in China and Japan, was believed to have been active in the network and is reported to have recruited one of Sorge's principal Japanese agents. This information would indicate that Smedley was active in Red Army Intelligence from approximately 1930 to at least 1934.

(61-6580-32)

[redacted] who has broken with the Soviets and is now a confidential informant of the Bureau, has indicated that she met Smedley in Moscow in 1931 and suspected that Smedley was then being prepared for an assignment in China for the Comintern. Although the informant had no specific information as to whether in fact Smedley knew she was being used by the Comintern, she was certain that Comintern representatives and/or Soviet intelligence used her for her contacts and knowledge of the Far East. [redacted] likewise stated that to her personal knowledge, Dr. Richard Sorge, Red Army Intelligence agent in China and Japan, was acquainted with Smedley. b7D

(61-6580-35)

Further information concerning Smedley's implication in the Sorge espionage ring have been requested of the Intelligence Division of the Army.

Reports reflecting Bureau investigation of Smedley have been distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

Re: JESSICA SMITH, wa.,
Mrs. John Abt

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Active investigation of Jessica Smith, who is the wife of John Abt, was instituted, based upon a complaint received on June 27, 1941 from [redacted] alleging that the subject was a Communist. b7D

(65-44184-X)

Since that date, active investigation has been made of Jessica Smith which has continued to the present time. The New York Office is the office of origin in this investigation.

This investigation has reflected that she is the former wife of Harold Ware, and is presently President of SRT Publications and Editor of the magazine "Soviet Russia Today," which has consistently followed Communist policies and has been a principal pro-Soviet propaganda medium. Investigation further indicates that the subject maintains close contact with prominent Communist Party officials, as well as representatives of official Soviet diplomatic missions in the United States. It is to be noted that Smith has made several trips to the Soviet Union since the early 1920's, returning on the last occasion to the United States in January, 1946.

(65-44184)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not mention Jessica Smith in connection with his interview by Bureau agents on this date.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

An examination of a copy of the notes made by Adolf Berle, based upon his interview with Chambers in 1939, indicates a notation of the name of Jessica Smith in two places, both of which appear to be collateral references to notations concerning John Abt. The notations are referring to the underground organized by Harold Ware in Washington, D. C. The notations referred to are set out as follows:

(100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

While no specific investigation was made of Jessica Smith, based upon the notations concerning her in the Berle notes, the information contained therein was subsequently forwarded to the New York Office on January 29, 1945. It was known at the time of the receipt of the information in the Berle notes that Jessica Smith was the wife of John Abt. In the continuing investigation which was being made of the activities of Jessica Smith, the Berle notes were set forth in a report of the New York Office dated July 17, 1945.

In supporting the implications of Jessica Smith's possible connections with the Communist underground in Washington, D. C. in the early 1930's, information was developed by the New York Office confirming the fact that she had been married to Harold Ware, the alleged organizer of this underground movement and subsequently married John Abt, who was likewise allegedly a member of the group. Investigation reflects that at the time Jessica Smith was associated with the Russian Information Bureau in Washington and following the recognition of the Soviet Union, became a member of the Press Staff of the Soviet Embassy in Washington. Information was also developed indicating Jessica Smith's connections with other members allegedly belonging to the underground group.
(65-44184-23, 31)

The investigation made by the Bureau in connection with Alexander Stevens, who has been identified as J. Peters, who according to Whittaker Chambers was the underground leader, likewise reflects that Jessica Smith and her husband, John Abt, have been in close contact with Stevens.
(100-184255-180)

The investigative reports concerning Jessica Smith, as well as those concerning Stevens showing the connection between these individuals have been furnished to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice. The investigation of this subject is continuing by the Bureau.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

The name of Jessica Smith was not mentioned by Chambers in connection with his interview by Bureau agents on this date.

RE: VERN SMITH

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

There is information contained in the Bureau files dating back to the early 1920's concerning the activities of Vern Smith as being active in the IWW as editor of the organization's newspaper "Solidarity." Other information reflects connections of Smith and collaborations with such known Communists during the 1920's as James Cannon, William Z. Foster, Robert Minor and others. (61-2241-45, p.4)

Other information reflects that Smith, who was then active in the IWW, joined the Communist Party around 1922. (39-915-1109, p. 7)

Active investigation of Vern Smith was initiated by the San Francisco Office in February, 1941, by reason of his activities in San Francisco with the Communist Party movement and by reason of the fact that he was then Labor Editor of the "Daily People's World." The investigation at that time indicated that Vern Smith had been former Managing Editor of the "Daily Worker" at New York City in 1932. (100-17082-1)

Further inquiries reflected that Smith had been formerly a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party as well as correspondent of the "Daily Worker" in the Soviet Union from the summer of 1933 to about August, 1935. Records (available to the State Department) of World Tourists, Incorporated, reflected that Smith's transportation to the Soviet Union had been charged in part to the Communist Party and in part to the "Daily Worker." (100-17082-13)

II. (a) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

In the interview conducted by Bureau agents on the above date, Whittaker Chambers stated that Verne Smith, who was former editor of the IWW "Solidarity", was one of the oldest party members and knows the business inside and out. It is noted that in connection with this part of the interview that Chambers had been asked concerning his knowledge of various Communists whom he had known to be important persons in the Party at the time of his association with the movement. (100-25824-22)

Kisseloff-26274

II. (b) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted on the basis of the Chambers allegations inasmuch as an active investigation had already been instituted of Vern Smith who was undoubtedly identical with the individual named by Chambers.

The investigation, which continued, reflected that Smith remained very active in Communist Party activities in San Francisco and became the foreign editor of the "Daily People's World." (100-17082-32)

In a report dated November 21, 1946, the San Francisco Office advised that Smith was then still residing in San Francisco with Sue Paxton as man and wife, the latter likewise a member of the Communist Party. Smith was associate editor of the "Daily People's World" until August 15, 1946, at which time he was expelled from the Communist Party for basic disagreement with the Communist Party line and for sympathizing and supporting so-called factional groups. Sources reported that prior to being publicly expelled from the Party, William C. Foster had given Smith his first membership card and that they were old friends. (100-17082-36)

Investigation has continued, notwithstanding the expulsion of Smith from the Party, inasmuch as it is known from investigation that Smith and a number of other persons who were similarly expelled are continuing their activities apparently aimed at dislodging the leadership of the Communist Party through direct intervention and connections with contacts in the Soviet Union. It has likewise been suggested that it is not at all impossible that this may be a tactic for placing Smith and others in an underground position and divorcing themselves from the above ground Communist Party. (100-17082-41)

A news item published in the New York Journal American on April 27, 1948, datelined at Oakland, California, indicated that Vern Smith, expelled Communist and ex-foreign editor of the "Communists People's World," was convicted in a Justice Court on April 26, 1948, at Oakland, California, for contempt of the California State Un-American Activities Committee. The news item indicated that Smith had been immediately sentenced to pay a fine of $3,000. (100-17082-A-Journal American 42748)

Copies of investigative reports in this investigation have been distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice. In addition, a dossier showing information then available in the files of the Bureau regarding Vern Smith was furnished to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special Defense Unit, Department of Justice, on December 1, 1941. (100-17082-11)

A prosecutive summary report, prepared by the San Francisco Office dated December 13, 1946, was forwarded to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice on February 14, 1947. (100-17082-38)

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

Vern Smith was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Vern Smith was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview conducted by Bureau agents on the above date.

ALEXANDER STEVENS, with aliases
Alexander Goldberger, J Peters,
Peter, J. V. Peters, Steven Lapin,
Pete Stevens, Steve Miller, Isador
Bookstein, Silver or Silvers

1. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

For purposes of clarification it is pointed out that Alexander Stevens has been determined to be identical with all of the above names. In this connection, prior to the Chambers' allegations in 1942, separate investigations had already been instituted by the Bureau on Stevens under the names of J. Peters, J V. Peters, Alexander Stevens and Alexander Goldberger. The name J. Peters was known to the Bureau in connection with Communist Party activities in the United States based upon the publication of "The Communist Party, A Manual of Organization," which was authored by one J. Peters in 1935. The investigation of the subject as Alexander Stevens arose in early 1942, when he was in contact in Los Angeles with prominent Communist Party members in that city. Information available in our files concerning J. Peters was furnished to the Department of Justice on April 1, 1941.

Alexander Stevens was born on August 11, 1894, at Kop, Czechoslovakia, and used the name Alexander Goldberger. He was the son of Martin Goldberger and Rosalie Deutch. He served in the Hungarian army from 1914 until 1918. He first entered the United States on February 10, 1924, as Alexander Goldberger. He again entered the United States on September 5, 1928, under this name. He has endeavored to become a citizen on two occasions, the first time being in February, 1924, but allowed his application to lapse, and again filed for citizenship on July 20, 1939. He registered under the name of Alexander Stevens as an alien on December 5, 1940. Stevens received a divorce from Franciska Goldberger at Reno, Nevada, April 29, 1942, and has for some time been residing as man and wife with one Anne Silver. The latter is a naturalized U S. citizen who has been reportedly engaged in setting up Communist underground activities in this country. She is likewise the subject of a Bureau investigation. (100-184255-158 & 122) b7D

Stevens has been identified with his various aliases through exhibiting photographs to a number of confidential informants, including [redacted] of the Communist Party of the United States; [redacted] (100-184255-158); Confidential

RCG:mpd

Informant [redacted] former member of the Communist Party (100-184255-198); Confidential Informant [redacted] a former member of the Communist Party who saw Stevens in Moscow in 1931 (100-184255-198); and many others who were acquainted with the Communist movement at the time subject was known under his various aliases. b7D

II. (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Upon being interviewed on the above date, Chambers advised Bureau Agents that a man named "Peter", whose last name he never knew, was the head of the Communist underground movement and stated he had seen Peter only from time to time; that although his connection with this man was more that of a personal friendship than of a formal Party relationship, he never learned much about Peter. He stated he did know that Peter lived once at Woodside, Long Island, at which time he went under the name of Silver or Silvers. Chambers gathered from Peter that he had previously been treasurer of the Hungarian paper "Uj Elore" and that Peter was likely in the United States without a passport or on a false passport. He said that Peter had connections with the OGPU because he had met members of the OGPU in Peter's presence. Although he did not know these men by name, he had later checked with Krivitsky and had ascertained such individuals were OGPU men. It is to be noted in this conversation that Peter was the source of much of the information furnished by Chambers (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It is to be noted that the Bureau was already conducting investigation in two cases concerning individuals who were later determined to be identical with the "Peter" mentioned in the Chambers' interview. However, on the basis of the Chambers' allegations, the New York office was requested by letter, on June 11, 1942, to immediately conduct necessary investigation to determine the identity, location and activities of the individual known to Chambers as "Peter," alias Silver or Silvers. (100-25824-22)

Investigation was made by the New York office, based upon the information furnished by Chambers; however, the identity of "Peter," with alias Silver or Silvers, was not established at that time. It was pointed out, however, that it appeared that this individual was identical with the subject of a separate investigation in New York of J. Peters, with alias Steve Tupin by reason of the information developed and these two investigations were consolidated. (100-25824-25)

Further investigation in the J. Peters inquiry, as well as the concurrent investigation which was made separately of Alexander Stevens, alias Alexander Goldberger, resulted in a consolidation of these investigations, based upon an identification of the photograph of Stevens as J. Peters by Benjamin Gitlow and James F. Glaser. This was reported by the New York Office in a letter dated March 6, 1943. (100-184255-74)

Subsequently, the photograph of Alexander Stevens was further identified as J. Peters by William Odell Rowell, a confidential informant who said he was acquainted with the subject in Moscow, Russia, in 1932. (100-184255-59)

On March 5, 1943, a photograph of Alexander Stevens was identified by Whittaker Chambers as being the individual known to him as Peters, head of the Communist underground movement in the United States. (100-184255-67)

The investigation continued of subject's activities following the consolidation of the previous investigations under the various aliases of the subject.

III (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes contained references to the individual identified as Stevens under the name "Peters" and were as follows:

"Known from Peters - formerly in Bela Kun
Govt. Agricultural Commissariat - called Gandosz (?)
Then to Russia - then here, in Business Office of Communist paper 'Uj Elori' - then, after 1929 -
Head of CP Underground, lived in Hamilton Ap'ts.
Woodside, L.I. - under alias 'Silver' - & lectured in Communist camps -
Friend: 'Plake' of 'Freiheit' - Real name -
Weiner - American: Polish Jew -
Peters was responsible for Washington Sector
Went to Moscow - where is he now? -

"Wife - a Comintern courier - West Coast - Head: 'The Old Man' - Volkov is his real name - daughter a Comintern courier. He knows the West Coast underground - Residence: San Francisco or Oakland - " (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It is noted that no specific further investigation was conducted based upon Berle's notes inasmuch as Peters had then been identified and an active investigation was being made of him by the Bureau. The investigation which was continuing indicated close associations by Stevens with individuals prominent in the Communist Party. (100-184255-101)

IV (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers, when interviewed on the above date, gave further details concerning his association with the individual then known to him as J. Peters. (It is noted in this interview that Chambers apparently referred to Stevens as both J. Peters and Peter.) He stated that while in the position of editor of "New Masses," in approximately 1932, he, Chambers, was called into the offices of Max Bedacht in Communist Party headquarters in New York and advised he was to be given a special assignment. At a second meeting with Bedacht he was introduced on the street to an individual known to him as "Arthur." "Arthur", in turn, made an appointment for the following evening on a street corner and introduced him, at another place, to an individual known to him as "Peter." Chambers said he recognized this man as the former treasurer of the Hungarian Communist newspaper "Uj Elore" (phonetic) who had also published numerous articles on Communism under the name of J. Peters. He was told by Peters that he would act as a courier between him and "Arthur" until he received further instructions. For the next two or three years, until approximately 1935, he was a paid courier and this was his sole occupation. He engaged in carrying envelopes and messages between Arthur and Peter in New York City. He related that he never learned much about the identities of these men and never knew their residences other than that Peter lived somewhere in Woodside, Long Island, under the name of Silver. Chambers stated in this interview that most of his knowledge of the underground and Russian courier activities was derived from conversations with Arthur and Peter who became very friendly with him and often talked about their activities rather freely. In the interview he mentioned the OGPU connections of Peter. In 1935, his courier activities ceased and he was told by Peter that he would act as a connecting link between Harold Ware in Washington and himself in New York City and, in addition to his courier activities, he would also serve as a sort of morale officer, giving pep talks and indoctrination talks to the Communist group headed by Ware in Washington. Based upon this assignment from Peter, Chambers became acquainted with the Communist underground in Washington. He mentioned that Peter himself attended some of the underground meetings in Washington when he felt the group needed a pep talk or required special instructions regarding some particular problem. (100-25824-36)

Inasmuch as the major portion of the information contained in this interview relates to data furnished to Chambers by Alexander Stevens, known to him as Peter, detailed references are not being set out in this section but are contained in the individual write-ups of the various individuals mentioned as hereinafter set forth in this memorandum.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation of Alexander Stevens, based upon the Chambers interview above, continued, it being noted that Peters was already identified as Stevens.

During the course of this subsequent investigation, Stevens was further identified with an individual who, during the latter part of 1945 and 1946, and early 1947, was employed at Communist Party headquarters as Steve Miller.

During the course of the investigation, it was determined that State Department files contained information indicating that an individual by the name of Isador Boorstein had been issued a U. S. passport for travel to Germany, France and England on October 8, 1931. This forgery was not discovered until a Bureau Agent viewed the subject's photograph in the State Department files on June 6, 1946, and recognized Boorstein as being identical with Alexander Stevens. In view of the lapse of time, any violation of passport regulations would be barred by the Statute of Limitations. (100-184255-222)

On February 14, 1947, in a memorandum to the Assistant Attorney General T. L. Caudle all reports concerning Alexander Stevens, including those reflecting investigation of the subject under his various aliases, were forwarded to the Criminal Division. (100-184255-199 and 200)

Further reports relating to the Alexander Stevens investigation were forwarded to Assistant Attorney General T. L. Caudle on March 21, 1947, pursuant to his request, including reports on related investigations. (100-184255-202)

A prosecutive summary report dated February 17, 1947, was forwarded to the Division of Records of the Department on March 24, 1947. (100-184255-198)

On September 18, 1947, a summary memorandum was furnished to the Immigration and Naturalization Service and a copy of the prosecutive summary report of the New York Office dated February 17, 1947, was included. (100-184255-223)

In a memorandum dated September 26, 1947, which was forwarded on September 27, 1947, a summary on this subject was transmitted to the Attorney General reflecting Stevens' activities, including references to the passport fraud of 1941 and his alien status. (100-184255-222)

On September 30, 1947, the Attorney General telephoned the Director and expressed his appreciation for this memorandum on Stevens and stated he throught subject could be deported, although the Statute of Limitations barred action on the passport fraud. (100-184255-221)

It is to be noted that the memorandum to the Attorney General contained a summary of the allegations received from Whittaker Chambers concerning Stevens'connections with the Government underground. It is further to be noted that the summary report of February 17, 1947, which was forwarded to the Division of Records and to the Immigration and Naturalization Service,contained information furnished by Whittaker Chambers, set out under a confidential informant symbol, indicating Stevens, under the name of Peters, as being the head of the Communist underground movement in the United States prior to 1937.

Alexander Stevens was arrested by the Immigration and Naturalization Service on a deportation warrant at Peekskill, New York, on October 8, 1947. He was later released on $5000 bail. (100-184255-230)

As you are aware, the House Committee on Un-American Activities has been in contact with INS in the interim, endeavoring to obtain information as to Stevens' whereabouts in order that they could serve a subpoena for his appearance before the Committee. This matter was referred by INS to the Criminal Division of the Department.

The Washington "Times-Herald" for August 25, 1948, reflected that Stevens would be served with a subpoena by the House Un-American Activities Committee, if present at the scheduled deportation hearing which was held on August 30, 1948.

The Washington "Times-Herald" for August 31, 1948, revealed that Stevens appeared at the INS hearing on August 30, 1948, and was served with a subpoena to appear before a hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to be held in New York on August 30, 1948. According to the article, Stevens appeared but declined to answer questions on the grounds that to do so might incriminate him. Members of the House Committee announced that Stevens might be charged with contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions.

In addition to the distribution made of the Chambers information re Alexander Stevens, with aliases, specifically in connection with his case, the following distribution of summaries containing information concerning Alexander Stevens, with alias J. Peters, either as a separate section of the report or incidental to the write-ups on certain named individuals, was made. This information, in all cases, included the data concerning Stevens which was received from Whittaker Chambers and in certain cases was specifically attributed to Chambers by name:

TASS NEWS AGENCY

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Tass News Agency is the official news agency of the Soviet Government and was registered on January 6, 1938, with the Attorney General under the Foreign Agents Registration Act. The New York Bureau of Tass was created in 1925 succeeding the New York Bureau of Rosta which had been established about January 1923. (100-183386-217 p. 1)

An investigation to ascertain if Tass employees were acting outside the scope of their authority was initiated on April 25, 1941. (100-183886-X)

However, prior to 1941 investigations were conducted on individuals employed by the Tass News Agency and in this connection an investigation was conducted concerning the activities of Kenneth Durant, Manager of Tass until 1944. (65-2299-11)

In this connection it is to be noted that in 1939 it was alleged by Mr. Frank H. Bartholomew, Vice-President of the United Press, San Francisco, California, that Durant was an espionage agent on behalf of the Soviet Government. (65-2299-5)

The investigation of Tass revealed that the majority of American employees had Communist Party backgrounds and some of the employees had been in contact with suspected Soviet agents. (65-2299)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers advised on May 13, 1942, that there was an OGPU organization during the period of time when he was associated with the Communist Party and that he presumed that there was also such an organization at the time of the interview. He advised that he did not know the identity of the head of such an organization but suspected that it was connected with the Amtorg Trading Corporation and the Tass newspaper. (100-25824-22 p. 2)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Instant file fails to reflect specific investigation of Tass as a result of the Chambers' interview. It is noted that Chambers only speculated that Tass was being used as a cover for Espionage. Similar allegations had been previously received and instant investigation was instituted in 1941 to determine if Tass employees were acting outside the scope of their authority. Chambers' speculative allegations did not add to the Bureau's knowledge of the Tass News Agency. (65-2299)

ALEXANDER LEO TRACHTENBERG

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

As is well known, Alexander Trachtenberg is one of the foremost figures in the Communist Party movement in the United States. Information concerning his Communist activities, as reported in connection with the investigation of the movement, is contained in the Bureau files dating back as early as 1920.

In view of the voluminous information available to the Bureau as reported in investigations of this individual, for purposes of brevity the following short summary concerning Trachtenberg is being set forth.

Trachtenberg was born November 23, 1885, at Odessa, Russia; entered the United States, August, 1906; attended Trinity College and Yale University; was naturalized at New Haven, February 28, 1914; and for the most part has resided in or around New York, New York. He is presently General Manager of the International Publishers Company, Inc., New York City, which for many years has published the majority of the Marxist literature in the United States. He has occupied numerous high positions in the Communist Party in the United States and reportedly was a member of the National Control Commission of the Party since its early days. Trachtenberg himself has admitted trips to Europe and Russia on numerous occasions since the early 1920's, allegedly for the promotion of his publishing business. He was until recently a National Committeeman of the Communist Party. Benjamin Gitlow, former General Secretary of the Communist Party in the United States, who broke with the Party, testified in 1939 before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that the publishing firm of Trachtenberg was taken over by the Communist International. He further stated that Trachtenberg was among the persons cooperating with Russian OGPU agents in the United States.

Also in October, 1939, Maurice L. Malkin, a member of the Communist Party from 1919 to 1936, testified in hearings before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Trachtenberg was a member of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party in the United States; that in Russia the Central Control Commission members are part of the OGPU; that in every country members of such Commission send its agents to gather information which they forward to the Soviet Union; and that Anna Louise Strong, a member of the Russian Communist Party and a member of the OGPU for years, usually reported to Trachtenberg. Trachtenberg still figures prominently in the affairs of the Communist Party in the United States and is still the subject of continuing investigation by the Bureau. (Summary prosecutive report 61-2115-341)

L.J.Godfrey:mer

Of further interest concerning Trachtenberg are the results of investigation by the Bureau in connection with the Red Army Intelligence Ring exposed in Canada by the statements of Igor Gouzenko, which investigation reflected close association between Trachtenberg and Sam Carr prior to the breaking of this case both in the United States and at the Third National Assembly of the Communist Party of Cuba which was held from January 24 to 28, 1946. (Summary memorandum dated September 3, 1946, entitled "Soviet Activities in the United States.")

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers when interviewed by Bureau Agents on the above date, in discussing activities of the OGPU in the United States, indicated that some of the OGPU parallels have for their purposes the guidance of the Party so that it follows the Moscow line. He stated that these agents are in close touch with the Central Control Commission of the Party. He stated that Charles Dirba, the head of the Central Control Commission for years, and Alexander Trachtenberg, also a member for many years, operated under the National Minorities which are duplicated in Russia and he, Chambers, had always heard that Dirba was connected with the OGPU. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear that this information as such was acted upon with reference to Trachtenberg, it being noted, however, that these data had already been received in more specific form and were the subject of investigation based upon previous allegations. It will further be noted that these allegations concerning Trachtenberg were made at the hearings of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1939 as set forth in the summary above.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN DE LA BOYES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes obtained on the above date contained the following reference to Alexander Trachtenberg:

Alexander Trachtenberg - Politburo -
Member of the Exec. Committee
Head of GPU in U. S.
Works with Peters -

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear that any specific investigation was conducted based upon the reference to Trachtenberg in the Berle notes. However the same observation as previously set forth applies to this information and was known to the New York Office where Trachtenberg was the subject of a continuing and vigorous investigation.

IV. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

No reference was made to Trachtenberg by Chambers in the interview conducted on the above date.

It is to be noted that reports concerning Trachtenberg, including a prosecutive summary dated March 22, 1947, (61-2115-341) have been furnished to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

JULIEN WADLEIGH (WADLEY)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was made of Wadleigh prior to 1942.

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Wadleigh was not mentioned by name by Chambers in the interview conducted by Bureau Agents on the above date.

(However, in reviewing the results of the 1942 interview, together with the Berle notes received by the Bureau in 1943 (see below), it will be noted that in the 1942 interview Chambers advised that there was another individual, whose name he did not recall, connected with the underground movement who was in the Trade Agreement Section of the State Department and was sent to Turkey to negotiate a trade agreement. This individual was a protege of Ed Minster of the Department of Agriculture.)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any investigation was conducted based upon information furnished concerning this unknown individual.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS CONTAINED IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Contained in the Berle notes, which were received in June, 1943, and which were based upon information furnished by Chambers in 1939, there is a notation of an individual by the name of Wadley or Wadleigh:

"State
Post - Editorship, Foreign Service Journal
Was in Alexandria Unit of CP - in 'Underground Apparatus' - Duggan - Laurence - (Member CP??)

"?
(Wadleigh) Wadley - Trade Agreement Section
Lovell - " " "
Communist Shop Group
Elinor Nelson - Laurence Duggan - Julien Wadleigh -
West European Div'n - Field - still in -
(Levine says he is out went into I.E.O.
Then in Committee for Repatriation
His leader was Hedda Gompertz."

RCG:ola:mer

While it is not entirely clear from the notes as to the exact allegation made by Chambers concerning Wadleigh or Wadley, it would appear that he was an alleged member of the Communist group in the State Department.

(100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear that any investigation was conducted of Wadleigh based upon the Berle notes at the time of their receipt. However, in connection with the Cogog investigation (Communist Political Association Government Group), a letter was sent to the Washington Field Office on May 4, 1945 directing that a separate investigation of the reported secret Communist Government Group be opened. At this time the Washington Field Office was informed of the allegations made in the Chambers' interview of 1942 concerning the existence of a Communist underground in the Government and at the same time furnished a copy of the Berle notes.

(100-3-65-1)

A review of the Bureau files indicates that one Julian Wadleigh and his wife Mariam at 4019 - 18th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. and later 124 Quincy Street, Chevy Chase, Maryland, were subscribers to Socialist party publications.

(61-626-198[illegible]1, p. 24
100-26255-1)

Bureau files also indicate that on May 27, 1943 a highly confidential source advised that Julian Wadley (phonetic) of the State Department apparently was associated in a "car pool" with (Hoyt) Haddock of the CIO Maritime Committee in Washington, D. C.

(100-203-268-75[illegible]3)

By letter dated March 11, 1948, the Washington Field Office advised that pursuant to the instructions of the Bureau of December 2, 1947, to review the files of the Cogog case to determine the most prominent members of the Communist underground group, a review had been made and 131 names were submitted to the Civil Service Commission to ascertain if they were ever employed or are still employed by the Government. As a result of this check of Civil Service records, there was forwarded to the Bureau on the previously mentioned date a list of persons previously reported in connection with the Gogog investigation who were reportedly still employed in the Government. Included in this list was the name of Julias Wadleigh, a transferee from F.E.A. to the State Department. (100-3-65-941)

The foregoing named individuals may be identical with the person named in the Berle Notes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

In the interview of Chambers conducted by Bureau Agents on the above date, Chambers did not specifically refer to an individual by the name of Wadleigh or Wadley.

Re: HAROLD M. WARE

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The first investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of Harold Ware was an investigation conducted in 1921 which reflected that on December 27, 1921 the National Convention of the Workers Party of America held in New York City, elected Harold Ware as an alternate member of the Executive Committee of that organization. At the same convention on January 12, 1922, Ware was appointed as agrarian organizer of the Workers Party of America. On February 5, 1922, he was appointed as business manager of the "Worker."

(61-23-66, 89
61-228-38)

Ware sailed for Russia on the SS "Latvia" on May 10, 1922. He was accompanied by his wife, Chris, and Ware was taking tractors to Russia and reportedly was to represent the Communist Party of America in Russia on the agrarian question.

(61-443-98)

In November of 1922 the Friends of Soviet Russia received a communication from Lenin lauding the work of the United States tractor group in the Ukraine headed by Harold Ware. Lenin stated that he was suggesting that the group farm be used as a model for all Russia.

(61-181-216)

On June 22, 1923, Harold Ware sailed for Russia on the SS "Westphalia" giving as his address 1223 United Trust Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He had United States passport No. 160968. He reportedly was to be the delegate of the United Farmers Educational League of North Dakota to the All-Russian Agricultural Exposition in Moscow. It was reported that on August 28, 1923, officials of the Communist Party were contemplating sending a message to Ware on board the SS "Westphalia" informing him that his wife was dead.

(61-231243
61-167-1930)

According to an informant, on November 24, 1923 information had been received by the Communist Party from Harold M. Ware to the effect that the subject Government had granted a concession of 27,000 acres of agricultural land on the Donetz River, Ukrain. Ware had agreed to develop this land with American agricultural equipment which was to go to Russia before February 15, 1924.

(61-23-269 p. 19)

On July 17, 1924, Ware sailed for Russia representing the Ukrainian Farm and Machinery Corporation which had been formed in the United States to develop agricultural land for the Soviet Government. Ware as managing director of this corporation was to sign the final contract with the Soviet Government.

(61-223-296

In 1925 Ware reportedly made another trip to Moscow, accompanied by his second wife, Jessica Smith, who later married John Abt. He organized a Russian-American State Farm in the Caucasus and was later one of the organizers and Assistant Director of "Verblud."

(Biographical Sketch of Jessica Smith in files of Soviet Russia Today)
(61-5381-2071)

The investigation also reflected that Harold Ware was the son of Ella Reeve Bloor by her first husband, Lucien Ware. Ella Reeve Bloor is a famous figure in the Communist Party, USA, reportedly living with Earl Browder in the early days of the movement. It was also reported that Harold Ware was a graduate from an agricultural college and had been active during War World I in large scale farming activity. According to information received in 1941, Harold Ware with the aid of Jay Lovestone in 1930 and later with the support of Foster and Browder was in charge of an agricultural Communist Research Bureau in Washington, D. C. that had for its purpose the preparing of Communist Party material for dissemination among farmers. b7D

The hearing of the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, 77th Congress, First Session, reports the testimony of Mr. J. B. Matthews to the effect that Hal Ware was employed by the Department of Agriculture until 1935 when he was killed by a street car in Washington. It might be noted at this point that a report from another informant reflects that he was killed in an automobile crash near Harrisburg, Pennsylvania in 1935. According to the files of the Public Relations Division of the Metropolitan Police, Hal Ware was at one time Assistant Research Director for Farm Research, Incorporated, Washington, D. C.

(101-142-6, 16)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers stated that when he became associated with the underground movement of the Communist Party, they sent him to Washington to assist Harold Ware, who was associated with the son of Mother Bloor (Carl Reeve) to develop the very fertile field which was Washington, D. C. in the early and middle days of the New Deal. Chambers stated that Ware had been a courier prior to this time who had carried American currency from Russia to the United States for investment here. Chambers stated that the underground work in Washington was ostensibly in the farm field and that they established underground quarters in the violin studios of Ware's sister, located above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle.

He stated that they began to organize the men in the New Deal and to make such individuals a part of the underground organization of the Communist Party.

Further identifying his position in this movement, Whittaker Chambers advised that he was the assistant to Ware who was the organizer and that he, Chambers, was kind of a morale officer inasmuch as the recruits had to be guided in the Party's policies at all times.

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No active investigation of Harold Ware was instituted at this time inasmuch as he was known to be dead. An investigation at the violin studio of Helen Ware was instituted on February 5, 1943, which reflected that she had maintained a studio in 1932 at 1501 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. (100-12997-28; 100-197163-2130)

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Mr. Berle's notes reflected the following notation:

"Underground organized by the late Harold Ware;
Pressman was in his group - (1932-37?) Pressman
then in the A.A.A."

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation of Ware was conducted on the basis of Mr. Berle's notes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers stated that after he was recruited for underground activities in Washington, D. C., he was told by J. Peters that he would act as a connecting link between Harold Ware and Peters in New York and that he would also serve as sort of a morale officer, giving pep talks and indoctrination talks to the Communist group headed by Harold Ware in Washington. Peters explained that Ware was the leader of a group of men composed of Government employees in high-salaried positions who were Communist Party members, but whose activities with the Party as such had ceased when they were transferred to the underground of the Communist Party. Chambers pointed out that Ware's group was composed of approximately eight individual members and that almost everyone of these members was himself a leader of another underground unit operating in Washington which consisted of from six to eight members; that the members of each of these underground units were not aware of the identity or composition of any of the other units.

Chambers stated that one of the meeting places was the violin studio belonging to Helen Ware, Harold Ware's sister above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle. He explained that this was more or less Ware's headquarters and that the members did not meet there as a group. Chambers recalled that after Harold Ware died a meeting took place at which John Abt was elected as the new leader of the group.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation of Harold Ware was conducted as a result of the above allegations.

The Chambers allegations concerning Harold Ware were included in a summary of Communist activities in the United States Government given distribution to the White House, State Department, the Attorney General and other agencies in February, 1946. (65-56402-573)

Re: HELEN WARE CAPPEL, aka HELEN WARE

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation of Harold Ware was conducted in 1921 and 1922 which reflected that Helen Ware was the daughter of Ella Reeve Bloor, famous Communist propagandist. In 1921, Helen Ware was reportedly married but was using her maiden name. One informant reported that she was employed on the "Toiler". Other information reflects this report may have been erroneous as it was stated her only Communist activity was to attend meetings where her mother spoke and on occasion play her violin at these meetings.

(61-71-18; 61-167-171; 61-440-40)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers stated that after he became associated with the underground movement, the Communist Party sent him down to assist Harold Ware, who was ostensibly working in Washington in the farm field. Chambers said they established underground quarters in the violin studio of Ware's sister, located above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle.

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On February 5, 1943, an investigation was instituted to locate the violin studio of Helen Ware at Dupont Circle, Washington, D. C. It was learned that in 1932 Helen Ware rented a studio at 1501 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. It was reported that she occupied this studio until about 1937. It was noted that a flower shop of the J. H. Small and Sons had been located at that address under the studio since prior to 1932. In further verification, a search of Boyd's District of Columbia Directory for 1932 gave the address of Helen Ware, a music instructor at 1501 Connecticut Avenue, N. W. Helen Ware's residence address in the Directories was given as 3264 S Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

An investigation at 3264 S Street in 1943 reflected that the entire house was occupied by the family of C. C. Cappel and that Helen Ware was the wife of C. C. Cappel. It was determined that Mr. Cappel was a well-known orchestra leader in the Washington area but had moved to Baltimore. An investigation in Baltimore reflected that the Cappel's were residing at 1614 Park Avenue, Baltimore and that Mr. Cappel was the Business Manager of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

(100-12997-28
100-197163-2130)

According to an informant interviewed in 1944, Helen Ware had been married to an Austrian before marrying Cappel. According to this informant she was reported to be anti-Communist.

[redacted] b7D
100-316282-1)

The Chambers allegations concerning Helen Ware insofar as they included the location of the violin studio, were included in a summary of Communist activities in the United States Government, which was given distribution to the White House, State Department, the Attorney General and other agencies in February, 1946.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BLUE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

There is no mention of Helen Ware in these notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN MAY 10, 1945

Whittaker Chambers in 1945 advised that the violin studio which was used as a meeting place belonged to Helen Ware, Harold Ware's sister. This studio was located above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle. Chambers explained that this was more or less Ware's headquarters and that the members did not meet there as a group.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted on the basis of this information.

Harzgower (better known as William Weiner) had [illegible] close contact of Edwards (Herbert Eisler) in the middle thirties in the United States. He stated that he had known Weiner under the name of Blake when he was an editor of the "Freiheit". He could not recall the source of his information as to this contact between Eisler and Harzgower.

No investigation was conducted based upon Chambers' allegations listed above. Documentary evidence was later established in the Eisler Investigation reflecting that Eisler's passage to Europe in 1935 and 1936 was paid for by Blake of Communist Party Headquarters who has been identified as Weiner.

NATHAN WITT, WITH ALIASES:
Nat Witt, Nathan Witkowsky, Nathan Witkowski

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Nathan Witt has been under investigation by the Bureau since January, 1941. (100-16886-2)

He resigned his position as Secretary of the National Labor Relations Board on November 19, 1940. (100-16886-3, P.4) Since that time he has been practicing law in New York City, representing many large Communist-infiltrated unions in New York City. (100-16886-3-27)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

None.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The Bureau continued the investigation started in January, 1941.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes made by Berle at the time of his interview with Chambers in September, 1939 were obtained from Berle in June, 1943. With regard to Witt, Berle's notes are as follows:

> "Nathan Witt - Secretary of the NLRB - Head of the underground group after Harold Ware."

On the last page of the Berle notes it is stated that Donald Hiss was a "member of C.P. with Pressman & Witt." (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As indicated under Item I, an investigation of Witt was commenced in January, 1941. Also, as indicated under Item III (A), Chambers' allegations were not obtained by the Bureau until June, 1943, which was approximately one and one-half years after Witt had resigned as Secretary of the National Labor Relations Board and had gone to New York City. Chambers' allegations against Witt were investigated in connection with the continuing investigation of Witt, previously started, and in connection with the Gregory investigation.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Group with whom he, Chambers, had dealt directly. Chambers stated that the members of the Ware Group were high-salaried Government employees who were Communist Party members, but that their activities with the Party had ceased when they were transferred to the Communist Party underground. Chambers recalled the following individuals as members of the Ware Group: John Abt, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perle (later identified by Chambers as Victor Perlo), Charles Kramer, also known as Charles Krivitsky, Alger Hiss, Donald Hiss, ____ Post, Nathan Witt and an unnamed man who was described as the husband of Alice Wendham. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation of Witt, which was started in January, 1941, was continued into 1947. The closing report from the New York Office is dated October 1, 1947. (100-16886-23)

In addition to continuing the individual investigation on Witt, the information about him in the Berle notes, together with the information from Chambers, was furnished to the Washington Field Office in May, 1945, in connection with the COGOG investigation. (100-3-65-1)

The investigation of Witt confirmed his acquaintance with Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, John Abt, Victor Perlo, Alger Hiss and Alexander Stevens (J. V. Peters), all of whom were named by Chambers as members of the Ware Underground Group; and showed that Witt has been in contact with several of the most outstanding national figures in the Communist Party - USA. (100-16886-11,21,23; 65-56402-2586)

During October, 1947, Witt's conversations with Communist contacts disclosed that he had a definite knowledge of and interest in developments in the Gregory case, and that he admittedly was a "coordinator" - at least of information and developments on behalf of other subjects in the Gregory case. (65-56402-2966)

Investigation did not disclose that Witt is a card-carrying member of the Communist Party. As an underground member, he would not, of course, be a card-carrying member. (100-16886-12) b7D

However, Confidential Informant [redacted] advised the Washington Field Office on February 3, 1948, that during the late summer of 1940 she, the informant, was present at a small gathering in the apartment of Marian Bachrach (sister of John Abt), Washington, D. C. when Nathan Witt disclosed his affiliation with the Communist Party. (100-16886-24)

Copies of investigative reports have been furnished to the Army and Navy Intelligence agencies and to the Division of Records in the Department.

(100-16886)

In connection with the Gregory investigation, information about Witt was furnished at various times to the Attorney General, the White House and other interested Government agencies.

CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS CONCERNING ALGER HISS

When Whittaker Chambers was interviewed by Bureau Agents on May 13, 1942, he described a Communist underground movement in Washington, D. C., of which he had been a member for approximately four years, ending in the Spring of 1937. Chambers declared that this group was headed by Harold Ware and that a number of its members were Government employees. He said that one of the members of this group, which was a part of the underground organization of the Communist Party, was Alger Hiss.

In the copy of the notes obtained from Adolf A. Berle, Jr., then Assistant Secretary of State, in June, 1943, and which had been set down by Mr. Berle during an interview in 1939 with Chambers concerning this same Communist underground Government group, Alger Hiss was described as follows:

"Alger Hiss

Ass't. to Sayre - CP - 1937
Members of the underground Com. - Active
Baltimore boys -
Wife - Priscilla Hiss - Socialist -
Early days of the New Deal"

When Chambers was again interviewed by Bureau Agents in May, 1945, he again stated that Hiss was a member of a Communist underground group headed by Harold Ware. He specifically stated that Hiss, while he was in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, had met on several occasions with Harold Ware's group and that he had usually been in attendance when meetings of this group were held at Henry Collins' home. He said that when Hiss went with the Senate (Nye) Committee investigating the munitions industry, he was segregated from the group and had no more official contacts with them but would meet socially with a number of them and was particularly close to Marian Bachrack, the sister of John J. Abt who, according to Chambers, was also a member of the same Communist group and was elected its leader upon the death of Harold Ware.

CONFIDENTIAL

Asked whether or not he believed Hiss might have broken with the Communist Party, Chambers stated that he had no reason to believe that he had "dropped out." As a reason for this belief, Chambers explained that after he, Chambers, had broken away from the Communist Party, he had made a special trip to Hiss' home in the Georgetown section of Washington for the purpose of talking Hiss into breaking away from the Party also. Chambers said that when he arrived there, Hiss' wife, Priscilla, was the only one present and that while Chambers momentarily excused himself to go to the bathroom, he observed Mrs. Hiss immediately go to the telephone, obviously to get in touch with Party members. Chambers said he immediately returned to the room and awaited the arrival of Alger Hiss. When Hiss came, they had dinner together at Hiss' home. Chambers said that he then talked with Hiss all night in an effort to persuade him to leave the Party. He said that Hiss with tears streaming down his face had refused to break with the Communists and that he had given as his reason for not breaking away his loyalty to his friends and principles.

Chambers further declared that he had endeavored to persuade Hiss to leave the Communist Party because he personally had great regard for Hiss and considered him an intelligent and decent young man whose better judgment should have led him to break with the Communist Party. Chambers pointed out that in his opinion one of the strongest reasons for Hiss' maintaining contact with the Communist Party was the fanatic loyalty to the Party on the part of his wife.

Chambers was again interviewed specifically concerning Hiss on March 28, 1946, at which time he declared that he was unable to elaborate on the information concerning Hiss' connection with the Communist Party which he had furnished in 1942 and 1945. He stated that he had absolutely no information that would conclusively prove that Hiss held a membership card in the Communist Party or that he was an actual dues paying member of the Communist Party even while he was active prior to 1937. He volunteered that he knew that in 1937 Hiss was favorably impressed with the Communist movement and was of the present opinion that Hiss still had the same beliefs.

ALGER HISS INTERVIEWED IN SILVERMASTER CASE
ON JUNE 2, 1947

In November, 1945, Elizabeth Terrill Bentley indicated that Alger Hiss had been connected with a Soviet espionage group in Washington. As a result, Hiss was interviewed by Bureau agents on June 2, 1947. On that occasion, he denied having any connection with the Communist Party or that he had engaged in any kind of espionage activity. He further stated that he was not acquainted with an individual by the name of Whittaker Chambers.

CONFIDENTIAL

He added that at least he could recall no one by that name as being one of his acquaintances. He further stated that as far as he could recall no individual by that name had ever visited his home on any occasion. He did acknowledge in a signed statement that, among others, he knew Charles Kramer, Leon Pressman, Henry Collins, John J. Abt since the early 1930's, mentioning that he could not recall Perlo too well. It is noted that all of these individuals were stated by Chambers to have been members of the Communist underground government group in Washington of which Hiss was alleged by Chambers to have been a member.

NO INDICATION FOUND IN BUREAU FILES
THAT HISS KNEW CHAMBERS

A search of the Bureau files has disclosed no indication that Alger Hiss knew J. D. Whittaker Chambers at any time prior to his admission to the House Committee on Un-American Activities on August 25, 1948, upon being confronted with Chambers that he had known Chambers but only as George Crosley, a free lance writer, whom he had known in 1935 in Washington.

OTHERS WHO MAY BE ABLE TO STATE THAT HISS KNEW CHAMBERS IN COMMUNIST UNDERGROUND GOVERNMENT GROUP AT WASHINGTON IN 1930's

When J. D. Whittaker Chambers was interviewed by Bureau Agents on May 10, 1945, Chambers explained that after he was assigned to work with Harold Ware, who was the head of a Communist underground government group, he came to learn the identities of its members inasmuch as he met them on numerous occasions. Among those he could readily recall as having attended group meetings were: John J. Abt, Leon Pressman, Henry H. Collins Jr., Victor Perlo (Chambers virst referred to him as Nathan Perlow but subsequently identified him as Victor Perlo), Nathan Witt, ----- Post (Chambers described him as editor in 1939 of the State Department's Foreign Service Journal. Consequently this is believed to be Richard Howell Post who is known to have served in that capacity)., Charles Kramer, Donald Hiss, Alger Hiss.

Chambers said he recalled that Alger Hiss while employed by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration had, on several occasions, met with Harold Ware's group and that he had usually attended the group meetings when they were held at Henry Collins' house.

Chambers further mentioned that the members of the group would also meet, although not as a group, at the violin studio in Washington belonging to Helen Ware, which was generally regarded by them to be the headquarters of the group leader Harold Ware.

Chambers also said that Peter (subsequently identified as Alexander Stevens) frequently came to Washington to attend meetings of the underground group whenever he felt the group needed a pep talk or required special instructions.

Consequently, it would appear from the above information that Abt, Pressman, Collins, Perlo, Kramer, Post, Witt, Donald Hiss and possibly Helen Ware may be able to state from personal knowledge that Alger Hiss knew Whittaker Chambers as a member of the Communist underground group at sometime during the period from 1933 to 1937 when Chambers has admitted he had worked for the Communist Party in Washington. (100-25824-36)

CHAMBERS EMPLOYED BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IN 1937-38

Chambers was interviewed in 1942 and again in 1945 concerning the operations of a Communist underground organization in Washington among government employees. There is no reference in the Bureau's files that he mentioned on either of these occasions that he had been employed by the Federal Government while still a member of the Communist underground group.

CONFIDENTIAL

Kisseloff-26313

However, in testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on August 30, 1948, Chambers stated that he had worked on a "boondoggling" job in the Research Department of the Railroad Retirement Board at six thousand dollars per year (this was later corrected to two thousand dollars per year).

Inquiry by the Washington Field and Chicago Offices on September 1, 1948, disclosed that Jay V. David Chambers, who at the time gave his address as 3310 Auchentoraly Terrace, Baltimore, Maryland, had worked on a WPA research project for the Railroad Retirement Board at Washington from October 18, 1937 until January 31, 1938. Since the record of this Chambers shows he was born in Philadelphia in 1901 and studied at the University of Brussels, Belgium, and had been in Germany, it is probable that he is identical with the man who, up until now, has been known as Whittaker Chambers inasmuch as this information corresponds with data previously known to the Bureau concerning the latter.

BUREAU'S FILES SEARCHED FOR REFERENCES TO JAY V. DAVID CHAMBERS

No previous references to Chambers have been found in the Bureau's files under the name of Jay V. David Chambers nor as Jay David Whittaker Chambers.

ACTION TAKEN BY FBI CONCERNING CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The information which follows is intended to show what allegations were made by Chambers when interviewed by Bureau agents on May 13, 1942, and May 10, 1945, concerning various individuals mentioned by him as being members of a Communist underground government group in Washington or connected with the Communist Party in other ways as will be shown below.

Set forth below under the names of the individuals listed are the allegations of Chambers as outlined in the notes set down by Adolph A. Berle, Jr., former Assistant Secretary of State, when he interviewed Chambers in 1939 on substantially the same material later furnished by Chambers to the FBI. A copy of these notes were obtained from Mr. Berle in June 1943.

When Chambers was interviewed in 1942 he advised that he had been a member of the Communist Party from 1924 until 1937 at which time he severed his connections with the Party. During approximately four years before his exit from the Party he was a member, he said, of an underground movement of the Communist Party in Washington, D. C. Chambers declared that his particular interest at the time was the organization of the Communist Party in the United States Government at a time when the "New Deal" was flourishing. Chambers stated that there was an OGPU organization during the period when he was associated with the Communist Party but said that he was not directly connected with it but that on the contrary his real position was with the underground movement of the Communist Party. He said that occasionally the underground movement would check the activities and personal behavior of an individual in whom the OGPU was interested. However, he said that thereafter if the individual became a member of the OGPU he was segregated from the Party proper. Chambers advised that he served as an assistant to Harold Ware, the leader of the underground group, members of which will be individually referred to below. Chambers' duties, he stated, were those of a morale officer inasmuch as recruits had to be guided in the Party's policies at all times and that such was his responsibility.

When interviewed in 1945, Chambers further explained that the underground organization which he said had existed in Washington had been set up for the purpose of enabling Communist Party members to conceal their Party activities in cases where the nature of their occupations required it. Chambers related that for several years until about 1935 he had also acted as a courier at $30 a week between one Arthur _____ and J. Peters who was later identified as Alexander Stevens. His duties in this connection consisted of carrying messages, envelopes, or packages between them in New York City, meeting one or the other at pre-arranged places. He said this was done to "throw off" any one who might be following. Chambers said that to avoid being distrusted, he never inquired as the contents of what he carried between Arther and Peters. He said that he did not at any time suspect that he was participating in the activities of a Russian espionage ring. He declared that he had no reason to believe that his activities in connection with the underground movement were concerned with other then the regular promotion of the Communist movement. He pointed out furthermore, that he did not at any time consider himself a Comintern agent or an agent of the OGPU. (100-25284-22, 36)

SPECIFIC ALLEGATIONS MADE BY CHAMBERS CONCERNING INDIVIDUALS NAMED BY HIM AND PRIOR AND SUBSEQUENT FBI INVESTIGATION

There follow the specific allegations made by Chambers concerning the individuals mentioned by him as having been connected with Communist activity. Also set forth are summaries of what investigations were conducted by the FBI before and after these individuals' names were brought to its attention by Chambers.

CONFIDENTIAL

JOHN JACOB ABT
Also known as "Sidney"

CONFIDENTIAL

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No active investigation was being conducted by the Bureau concerning John Jacob Abt prior to the first allegations made by Chambers on May 13, 1942.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Under date of May 14, 1942, the New York Office submitted a letter setting forth the results of an interview conducted with Whittaker Chambers the previous day. This letter revealed that Chambers made no allegations at that time concerning John Jacob Abt. (100-25824-22)

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

There was no investigation instituted concerning Abt after the allegations made by Chambers on May 13, 1942, inasmuch as Chambers did not make any mention of Abt. However, Abt came to the attention of the Bureau on July 23, 1942, when Alexander Stevens, who was then being investigated by the Bureau, contacted Abt at his home in Jackson Heights, Long Island, New York. (100-236194-1, page 4)

At about the same time that Stevens contacted Abt, it was ascertained that Abt and his wife, Jessica Smith Abt, were in contact with various known Communists in New York City. It was ascertained that Abt frequently associated with Roy Hudson and Robert Minor, prominent Communists in New York City, and it was indicated at that time that Abt had been in contact with Eugene Dennis. It was also ascertained that on January 28, 1943, Abt was in contact with John Williamson, a functionary in the Communist Party in New York City. During this period of time, John Abt was General Counsel for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, CIO, in New York City. This information was furnished on February 4, 1947, to Mr. Theron L. Caudle, Assistant Attorney General, in the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated at New York May 9, 1944. (100-236194-6)

III (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

In June of 1943, Mr. A. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State, made available to the Bureau original notes which he had made at the time Whittaker Chambers furnished him information in 1939 concerning the underground Communist group in Washington, D. C. On page one of Mr. Berle's notes, there is set out the following comment:

CONFIDENTIAL

John Abt - following Witt in that group -
Tax Div'n - Dep't of Justice & now in CIO (M. Ware's widow - Jessica Smith Ed. Soviet Russia).

* * * * * *

Meeting place: John Abt's house - 15th St.

(100-25824-27)

III (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As noted above, an active investigation was being conducted concerning Abt due to his frequent contact with prominent active Communists in New York City, and the information obtained from Berle's notes served as a substantiation of Abt's connections with individuals who had previously been reported by Chambers in his allegations on May 13, 1942. (100-236194-5)

This investigation reflected that between the time the Berle notes were obtained and the second allegations made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, Abt remained in contact with Roy Hudson, John Williamson, Lee Pressman, "Mother" Bloor, Alexander Stevens, and Ann Silver, the wife of Alexander Stevens, all active Communists in New York City. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle, Assistant Attorney General, on February 4, 1947.

It was also determined that Abt had not been connected in any way with the Federal Government since November 30, 1938. Abt originally became connected with the Government when he served with the Department of Agriculture from 1933 to 1935, with the Federal Emergency Reconstruction Administration during 1935, with the Works Progress Administration from December, 1935, to 1937, and with the Justice Department from 1937 to 1938. On July 16, 1938, Abt was transferred to the New York Office of the Department of Justice's Antitrust Division, where he served until his resignation on November 30, 1938. (100-236194-6)

Abt, during 1944, continued to be in contact with key figures of the Communist Party in New York City, including Matthew and Phyllis Silverman, Alexander Stevens, Carl Reeve, a son of "Mother" Bloor, Alexander Trachtenberg, and Roy Hudson. (100-236194-22)

This information was submitted to the Division of Records on October 10, 1944, in a report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated at New York, New York on August 2, 1944.

Kisseloff-26317 CONFIDENTIAL

It was also ascertained at this time that Abt had married Jessica Smith, who was the widow of Harold Ware, who Chambers had named as head of the underground organization in Washington, D. C. This marriage took place on March 14, 1937.

In November of 1944 it was ascertained that Abt was in contact with Roy Hudson, Eugene Dennis, and Bella V. Dodd, known Communists in New York City. This information was furnished by report dated November 16, 1944, to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947.

Early in 1945, Abt maintained contact with Eugene Dennis, Alexander Stevens, Alexander Trachtenberg, and Eugene Kisselev, USSR Consul General in New York City. This contact with Kisselev was made on November 29, 1944, at the home of Abt, and prior to Abt's departure for London, England, where he attended a labor conference. Immediately upon his return, Abt was again in contact with Kisselev. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947, by report dated January 13, 1945. (100-236194-56)

Investigation further reflected that Abt made a second trip to London for the World Trade Union Conference as a representative of the CIO, leaving the United States on February 5, 1945, and returning on March 3, 1945. Abt was in contact with Kisselev prior to and subsequent to his trip to London. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947, by report dated March 10, 1945.

During early 1945 Abt maintained contact with Roy Hudson and Eugene Dennis and was very active in the World Trade Union Conference in the United Nations Conference in San Francisco. It was also determined that Abt was in contact with Pavel Mikhailov of the USSR Consul General's Office in New York City on April 10, 1945. This information was furnished to Mr. Theron L. Caudle on February 4, 1947, in a report dated May 17, 1945.

IV (A). CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers was interviewed by Bureau Agents of the New York Office. At that time Chambers advised that one of the organizations in Washington, D. C., was headed by Harold Ware, with whom he had been assigned to work; that John Abt was a member of this organization headed by Ware; that Abt was formerly in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration; Assistant Attorney General, Antitrust Division, Department of Justice; Counsel with the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee; and presently Counsel for the CIO Political Action Committee and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

The New York Office advised at this time that they were conducting an extensive investigation converning John Abt, who is the husband of Jessica Smith, Editor of "Soviet Russia Today."

CONFIDENTIAL

Chambers also advised that John Abt's house on 15th Street was one of the places used by this group for meetings. Chambers stated that as a courier for this group he transmitted funds between the individual known as Peter and Harold Ware, Nathan Witt, and John Abt, who were successively the leaders of this group. He advised that after Harold Ware's death, he recalled that a meeting had taken place, at which time he had been present, and at this meeting a vote had been taken in which John Abt had been elected leader of the group. He advised that there were about six men present at that meeting and that to the best of his recollection they were Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlo, and Peter. He advised that this meeting took place at the home of Henry Collins, which was then right off Connecticut Avenue, in St. Matthew's Court, over a garage.

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Inasmuch as the Bureau was conducting an active investigation of Abt and this investigation reflected that Abt was in contact with several of the individuals mentioned by Whittaker Chambers, the allegations made by Chambers were used to further the investigation concerning Abt. This investigation reflected that after the allegations were made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, Abt continued contacts with Alexander Stevens, Lee Pressman, Eugene Dennis, Marion Bachrach, his sister, Lem Harris, Michael Quill, Nathan Witt, and various other lesser functionaries of the Communist Party in New York City.

Investigation further reflected that Abt was born on May 1, 1904, in Chicago, Illinois. He obtained a law degree from the University of Chicago. He married Jessica Smith, the former wife of Harold Ware, in 1937, at which time Jessica Smith was reportedly a secretarial employee of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D. C. As of September, 1945, Jessica Smith was the President of Soviet Russia Today publications and Editor of the magazine "Soviet Russia Today." It is noted that Harold Ware was the son of Ella Reeve Bloor.

In October, 1945, it was ascertained that Abt was a member of an eleven-man CIO delegation from the United States who were on a tour of Moscow for a week's visit, and the eleven-man delegation had been in attendance at the World Trade Union Conference at Paris. This information was furnished to the Division of Records on January 24, 1946, in the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated October 31, 1945. (100-236194-106)

The activities of Abt and his continued association with known Communist Party members in New York from October, 1945, until October 22, 1946, were furnished to the Division of Records on March 18, 1946, in the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated January 28, 1946; on February 25, 1946, in the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated December 12, 1945; on January 16, 1947, in the report of Special Agent

Bennett Willis, Jr., dated September 18, 1946; and on January 17, 1947, in the report of Special Agent Bennett Willis, Jr., dated October 22, 1946. (100-236194-112,118, 129,135)

It should be noted that the Bureau has been conducting an active investigation of John Abt since July 23, 1942, not only to substantiate the information which was furnished by Whittaker Chambers in the Berle notes obtained in June, 1943, and in Chambers' allegations on May 10, 1945, but for the purpose of determining any espionage activities on the part of John Abt.

This investigation was reported in a separate file maintained on Abt; however, his activities were reported in the Silvermaster case after November, 1945. Copies of such summary reports in the Silvermaster case have been furnished to the White House, the Department of Justice, and other Government agencies. On February 4, 1947, Mr. Theron L. Caudle was furnished a copy of the report of Special Agent G. Earl Jennings dated May 17, 1945, at New York, New York, which contained the allegations made by Chambers against Abt on being interviewed on May 10, 1945.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

A review of the Bureau's indices has failed to reflect that there was a main file on the above-captioned individual prior to the time that the allegations concerning him made by Whittaker Chambers were received.

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Under date of May 14, 1942, the New York Office submitted a letter setting forth the results of an interview conducted with Whittaker Chambers the previous day. This letter revealed that Chambers made no allegations at that time concerning captioned individual.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

In June of 1943, Mr. A. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State made available to the Bureau original notes which he had made at the time Whittaker Chambers furnished him information in 1939 concerning the underground Communist group in Washington, D. C. Page three of Mr. Berle's notes set forth the following comment: "Schlomer Adler (Sol Adler?), Counsels Office, sends immediately reports to C.P. (Gen. Counsel's Office)." 100-25824-27

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It has been determined that at the time that Mr. Berle made available his notes pertaining to the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers, Adler was in China where he served as the American representative to the Chinese Currency Stabilization Board. Therefore, no investigation was undertaken at that time in a effort to determine Adler's activities and contacts.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the Bureau with the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers conducted by agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945. This letter from the New York Office contained the following statement on page 21:

> "It will be recalled that Chambers mentioned this name (Schlomer Adler, Sol Adler) to Assistant Secretary of State Berle in his conversations with him in 1939. He explained that Adler is definitely a Communist and was employed at that time in the Treasury Department. He added that he knows him to have been in close contact with Peter and to have made reports of a financial nature to Peter. He stated he suspected the Communist Party was playing the stock market, and that they utilized his financial information in this connection."

You will recall that the individual named above as "Peter" was Whittaker Chambers' contact in New York City. Chambers advised that he gained the impression that Peter was the leader of the entire underground for the Eastern part of the country and he suspected for the whole country. 100-25824-36 page 21

At the time that Chambers made the above allegation concerning Adler on May 10, 1945, Adler was in China where he was assigned to the American Embassy as the United States Treasury Attache. There is an indication in the file that Adler was in the United States between the time that the Berle notes were received and the time that Chambers made his statements with respect to Adler on May 10, 1945. There is no indication that Adler was investigated actively during that period he was probably in the United States.

The investigation concerning Adler originally was undertaken in the Gregory case in view of the fact that Elizabeth T. Bentley, the informant, made certain allegations concerning Adler. These allegations of the informant were to the effect that during the latter part of 1942 and through the early part of 1943, mention was made by individuals connected with the Gregory case of Sol Adler. The informant in the Gregory case also related that she had seen in the Nathan G. Silvermaster home certain official letters written by Sol Adler from Chungking, China to the United States Treasury Department in Washington, D. C. Gregory stated that presumably these official documents had found their way to the Silvermaster home through Harry Dexter White, an official in the Treasury Department and a prominent figure in the Gregory case. The informant reported that Silvermaster had characterized Sol Adler as an opportunist, but further indicated that he would like to place him in some strategic location in the United States Government. The informant also stated that Sol Adler was a member of the Communist Party and that his dues were collected by Silvermaster and turned over to the informant.

From the time of the receipt of the allegation by Chambers on May 10, 1945 and until July 14, 1946, Adler was continuously in China serving as United States Treasury Attache to the United States Embassy. From July 14 to August 6, 1946, Adler was in Washington, D. C., except for short trips he made to New York City and Boston, Massachusetts. During the time that he was in Washington, his activities were extensively investigated. Physical surveillance was maintained on Adler and the services of highly confidential informants were utilized.

As a result of this investigation it was learned that Adler obtained a position with the National Research Project, WPA through the efforts of Irving Kaplan, a Gregory case subject. This investigation concerning Adler also revealed that he had worked on or been associated with the following individuals, all of whom were subjects of the Gregory case: William Ludwig Ullmann, Virginius Frank Coe, Harry Dexter White, William Henry Taylor, Harold Glasser, Dr. Lauchlin Currie and Abraham George Silverman.

Complete background information was developed during the investigation of Sol Adler. Such information indicated he was born August 6, 1909 at Leeds, England, that he immigrated to the United States from England on February 20, 1935 and that he was naturalized as a citizen of the United States on September 3, 1940 in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. It may be noted that in securing his naturalization Adler used the name of Lauchlin Currie, one of the Gregory case subjects as a reference.

The investigation further revealed that Adler first became connected with the United States Government as an employee on February 26, 1936. He continued this connection until September 30, 1942. He resigned from his position with the Treasury Department on the latter date but was carried on annual leave until February 19, 1943. Upon his resignation Adler became the American representative to the Chinese Currency Stabilization Board. This latter position terminated February 29, 1944. Adler thereupon immediately re-entered the Government service in the United States Treasury Department and has continued this employment to the present date. 65-56402-2450

By letter dated March 4, 1946 a summary dated February 21, 1946 entitled, "Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in Agencies of the U. S. Government" wherein the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers about Adler was made available to the Secretary of the Treasury.

In view of the fact that Adler was one of the subjects of the Gregory case, his background, activities and contacts were thoroughly developed during the investigation of this case. You will recall that the results attained in the Gregory case were summarized and disseminated to the White House, the Department of Justice and other interested governmental agencies. Such results included the information developed pertaining to Adler.

It may be of further interest to note that a loyalty of Government employees investigation has been conducted concerning Adler. Copies of the reports prepared in this investigation were made available to the Civil Service Commission. 121-4089

AMTORG TRADING CORPORATION

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Amtorg Trading Corporation was incorporated in the State of New York on May 27, 1924, and functions generally as an importer and exporter on the North American Continent dealing with official trusts of the USSR. (61-5381-3016, page 2)

An investigation concerning instant organization was initiated in 1939 to ascertain if Amtorg was being utilized by the Soviet Government for any purposes other than legitimate trade activities. The investigation was particularly directed towards discovering NKVD operations within Amtorg. (61-5381-3016, page 35)

In this connection it is to be noted that Mikhail Nikolaevich Gorin, known espionage agent, first entered the United States in 1936 and was destined to Amtorg at that time. Gorin was arrested on December 12, 1938, for violation of the Espionage Statute and was sentenced to serve six years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. The investigation reflected that Gorin had been obtaining information from the files of the Office of Naval Intelligence from Hafis Salich. (61-7574-743)

Gaik Badalovich Ovakimian, known espionage agent, first entered the United States on August 15, 1932, and was also destined to Amtorg. Ovakimian was arrested by Agents of the FBI on May 5, 1941, and was charged with violation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act. Under an agreement with the Soviet Government and the United States State Department, Ovakimian was permitted to leave the United States for the Soviet Union. Investigation reflected that Ovakimian was an active Soviet agent. Continued Bureau surveillance revealed that he was constantly getting information from individual contacts on the streets.

The State Department and the Attorney General were cognizant of the facts in the Gorin and Ovakimian cases and were advised of the connection of these Soviet espionage agents and the Amtorg Trading Corporation. (61-7574-743)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers advised on May 13, 1942, that there was an OGPU organization during the period of time when he was associated with the Communist Party and that he presumed that there was also such an organization at the time of the interview. He advised he did not know the identity of the head of such an organization but suspects that the organization is connected with the

Amtorg Trading Corporation and the Tass newspaper. He further advised that there was a group of Russians here studying and teaching at the Ford Plant in Detroit sometime during the 1930's and that unquestionably one or more of these individuals were members of the OGPU. (100-25824-22, page 2)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Inasmuch as previous allegations had been received concerning the possible connection of the OGPU and the Amtorg Trading Corporation, this investigation continued to ascertain the identities of Soviet agents within Amtorg. Inasmuch as Chambers only suspected that Amtorg was being used by the OGPU and since the State Department and the Attorney General had previously been advised of the actual connection between Amtorg and the Soviet Intelligence System in such investigations as GORIN and OVAKIMIAN, this information was not furnished to the State Department and the Department of Justice. (61-5381-1541)

Chambers related that around 1932, Max Bedacht told him there was a "must" assignment (the beginning of Chambers' underground activities) and gave him over-night to think about it. At the second meeting with Bedacht, according to Chambers, they met a man at the 14th Street subway station in New York City, who was introduced simply as "Arthur," from whom Chambers was told to take orders. Arthur made an appointment with Chambers for the following evening, when Arthur introduced Chambers to J. Peters, later identified as Alexander Stevens, who outlined the courrier activities in which Chambers was to engage. Chambers stated that he saw Arthur a number of times up to about 1935, when his courrier activities between Arthur and Peters ceased, and that he has not seen Arthur since. Chambers advised that he never learned Arthur's full name or identity. (100-25824-36)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

There was no investigation of the above-captioned individual prior to Chambers' allegations on May 13, 1942.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

In an interview with Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers advised that there was a man named Azimov (phonetic) who was a metallurgist, who had been specializing in steel at the University of California. He stated that this individual was born in Russia and came to the United States when very young, and that he had made a discovery in the chemical side of his studies, (Chambers was told) which he turned over to the Russian Consul. Chambers stated that although he did not check on this information, Azimov reportedly became the head of research in U.S. Steel in Chicago, and that he knows for sure that Azimov was definitely tied in with the Russian apparatus. Chambers stated that he met Azimov once.

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The New York Office was unable to identify Azimov, and by letter dated August 22, 1945, the New York Office forwarded a letter to the San Francisco Office, furnishing the information obtained from Whittaker Chambers and requesting the San Francisco Office to attempt to identify Azimov through records at the University of California. However, no identification of Azimov was ever made. (100-25824-37)

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

There were no allegations concerning Azimov in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, at the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office, he again stated that he had met Azimov (phonetic) in the company of Peter. He advised that Azimov was a young metallurgist who had been working in the laboratories of the University of California at Berkeley, California, and who had later been employed in the Research Department of U.S. Steel. Chambers advised that Azimov had been a specialist in mathematics of some kind and that on one occasion he had been told by Peter that Azimov had developed some discovery on the chemical side of his studies, which discovery he had offered to Peter to be transmitted to Russia. He stated that Peter advised Azimov to go to the Russian Consul in California and that the Consul had immediately accepted the discovery for transmission to Russia. Chambers advised that he had seen Azimov only once and furnished

Marian Bachrach

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Bureau's files concerning Marion Bachrach, which date from October, 1940, initially indicated that in a "document" published in the July 12, 1940 issue of "PM" newspaper, she was characterized as a member of the Communist Party. She was further reflected as Washington correspondent in the "News For Living" department of the "PM" newspaper. She was also reflected as one of the sponsors of the "conference on Constitutional Liberties in America" in Washington, D. C. June 7 - 9, 1940. (100-3255-1)

Subsequent investigation revealed that Marion Bachrach was Executive Secretary of the Council for Pan-American Democracy and served as Secretary to Vincente Lombardo Toledano, Mexican Labor Leader, who visited the United States.

In April, 1943 it was determined that Marion Bachrach was the sister of John Abt, the husband of Jessica Smith of "Soviet Russia Today," which information was made available to the Department of State, ONI, G-2 and the Department. (100-3255-13)

Subject has been separated from her husband, Arthur Bachrach since approximately 1941. As of 1942 Arthur Bachrach was employed as an Administrator for the Farm Security Administration. (100-3255-9)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

No allegations concerning Marion Bachrach were made by Whittaker Chambers on May 13, 1942.

As a result of the information furnished by Mr. Berle, no investigation based specifically thereon was conducted inasmuch as the investigation concerning Marion Bachrach was continuing and the fact of her relationship to Abt had already been determined.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945, on page 11 of which Whittaker Chambers alleged that Alger Hiss was particularly close to John Abt's sister, Marion Bachrach.

(100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Since the investigation concerning Marion Bachrach has been continued to date, no additional investigation was instituted as a result of the allegation made by Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945. The allegation made by Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945 was incorporated in the report of Special Agent Chester A. Reilly dated September 15, 1947 at New York entitled "Marion Bachrach, Internal Security - C," a copy of which report was furnished to the Division of Records on September 25, 1947.

Since January, 1948 to the present, investigation concerning Marion Bachrach has included a technical surveillance of her activities. III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

In the copies of the Berle notes made available to the Bureau in June, 1943, no reference is made to Mrs. Barnes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the Bureau with the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers conducted by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945. This letter from the New York Office reflected that Whittaker Chambers advised that Peters had on one occasion told him that Frederick Vanderbilt Field's mother or Joseph Fels Barnes' mother had turned over her apartment on Central Park West to be used as a headquarters of the underground group.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Bureau files fail to reflect that any inquiries have been made concerning Mrs. Barnes as a result of Chambers' allegations.

Joseph Fels Barnes

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Barnes has been the subject of an internal security investigation by the Bureau since August of 1941 at which time a complaint was received by the New York Office that Barnes, who was then Foreign News Editor of the New York Herald Tribune in New York City, was formerly a Tribune correspondent in Moscow and was strongly suspected of being a member of the Communist Party and in close cooperation with the Communist Party in the United States. As a result of this complaint an internal security investigation was immediately instituted.

On December 11, 1941, a request for an investigation of Barnes was received from the Office of Coordinator of Information which request was based upon an application that Barnes had made with that agency for a position with that agency. It was later discovered that he had been employed by the Office of Coordinator since September, 1941.

Upon the receipt of the request for investigation by the Office of Coordinator of Information, this investigation was conducted in conjunction with the internal security investigation and in February of 1942, based on derogatory information previously obtained, investigation was also conducted under the provision of Public Law 135, 77th Congress. (Hatch Act investigation)

This investigation failed to link Barnes with the Communist Party; however, considerable information concerning Barnes' activities through Communist channels was developed.

During this investigation it was ascertained that Barnes was born in Montclair, New Jersey, on July 21, 1907. He received an A.B. degree from Harvard University in 1927 and was also a student at the University of Grenoble and the University of London, both in England. He married Elizabeth G. Brown in 1930 and divorced her in 1935, and in 1936 he married the former wife of Frederick Vanderbilt Field.

It was determined that in 1927 and 1928 he traveled in England and Russia. He was employed with the Equitable Trust Company in New York City from 1929 to 1931. In an interview with Barnes' first wife, Elizabeth Brown, she advised that she and Barnes sailed for Russia in January, 1931. She and Barnes traveled through Russia studying and in the Fall of that year Barnes attended a conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations in Shanghai and returned to the United States around Thanksgiving in 1931. He then did research work for the American Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations until the Fall of 1933 when he was elected Secretary of the American Council.

CONFIDENTIAL
Kisseloff-26334

Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes further advised that in 1934 she and Barnes made a second trip to Russia on business of the Institute of Pacific Relations. She advised that this was a two-months' trip and they returned to the United States in July, 1934.

Mrs. Barnes further stated that after Barnes' return from Russia he then resigned from the Institute of Pacific Relations and then began working on a project for Henry Luce of Time and Fortune Magazines. She advised that he worked on this project for several months and in the Spring of 1935 he joined the New York Herald Tribune as a reporter and in the early part of 1937 he was sent to Moscow by the Herald Tribune as a foreign correspondent. She advised that he remained in Moscow until 1939 when he returned for a visit home. He was then transferred to Berlin where he remained a short time and then returned to New York in late 1939 to work in the home office of the New York Herald Tribune.

It is noted that Barnes then became Foreign Editor of the Herald Tribune and remained in that capacity until becoming employed with the Office of Coordinator of Information around September of 1941, when he became Deputy Director of the Overseas Branch of the Office of War Information where he remained until 1944. He accompanied Wendell Wilkie on his trip to Russia and China in 1942. His home address at the present time is at 430 West 22nd Street, New York, New York, and his office is located at 230 West 41st Street, New York City.

The investigation that was conducted by the Bureau from August, 1941, up until February 9, 1942, resulted in obtaining information from various individuals who classified Barnes as being pro-Communist; however, there were others who classified him as being in sympathy with Russia but not un-American and some of his associates classified him as being strictly American with no pro-Russian tendencies. It was ascertained that he had heavily supported the Communist faction in the Newspaper Guild, had been a Director of the Open Road, Incorporated, and to have written articles for "New Masses." One confidential informant described Barnes as an individual who would like to see the United States Government evolve into a government more along socialistic and Communistic lines and of a less capitalistic nature than our present form of government; however, this informant advised that Barnes did not advocate a government in conformity with Marxist principles nor a change in government by revolutionary means.

In an interview with Mrs. Ogden Reid, then the publisher of the New York Herald Tribune, in January of 1942, Mrs. Reid advised that Barnes was not a Communist, that he had never been associated with Communists or Communist-controlled organizations, that Barnes is an individual who thinks that this country in the future will continue a trend to the left.

At the time that Barnes was interviewed by a representative of the Civil Service Commission, he advised that he had married Elizabeth Field, who was the former wife of Frederick Vanderbilt Field, on November 1, 1936. He advised that Frederick Vanderbilt Field was an officer of the American Peace Mobilization and was interested in the Friends of Soviet Russia. Barnes told the Civil Service Commission that he had never been a member of the Communist Party but that he was convinced of the need for cooperation between the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States, and that he had been sympathetic with the Spanish Loyalist cause, that he did not believe that the Loyalist Government in Spain was Communistic.

Another confidential informant advised that Barnes always defended Communism and was never known to oppose any of the Communistic policies or beliefs in his dispatches from Moscow and he apologized for and defended the Soviet Government. The same informant advised that Barnes was so sympathetic with the Communists that he always followed the Communist Party line and this informant advised that Barnes would be loyal to the United States only so far as the United States Government's policies were continued in the interest of the Soviet Government. Another informant advised that Barnes was definitely a Communist sympathizer.

On June 1, 1942, copies of two Hatch Act reports together with five reports written as the results of our investigation and containing all of the information in the Bureau files concerning Barnes were forwarded to William J. Donovan, Coordinator of Information, Washington, D. C.

On September 11, 1942, Mr. Donovan advised that Barnes had transferred to the Office of War Information and as a result, copies of these seven reports were forwarded to Mr. Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information.

On December 18, 1942, Mr. Davis wrote the Bureau that he had received the copies of these reports of the investigation of Barnes and after having studied these reports it appeared to him that the overwhelming weight of evidence completely exonerated Mr. Barnes of the charges against him, that the Office of War Information had no reason whatsoever to doubt Mr. Barnes' loyalty to the United States, and that the identity of the informants giving unfavorable reports is in almost all cases confidential, and that he is unable to evaluate their evidence adequately but that he knew from his own knowledge that some of the statements that have been made are false and he has considerable reason to doubt some of the others.

The Bureau's files reflect that Barnes became Deputy Director of the Office of War Information and served with that agency until 1944. (76-13677-41X3, 41, 42, 43, 47, 49)

In the Spring of 1948, it was announced that Barnes together with Bartley C. Crum had taken over the New York City newspaper "P.M." (now known as the New York Sun) with the support of Marshall Field, III.

II.(A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Under date of May 14, 1942, the New York Office submitted a letter setting forth the results of an interview conducted with Whittaker Chambers the previous date. This letter reflects that Whittaker Chambers advised, "Although this was only hearsay, Fred Field, then a Captain in the Naval Intelligence, was the center of another underground apparatus." According to Whittaker Chambers, Field, his wife, his mother and Joseph Barnes, were the chief members of this apparatus. Chambers stated that he was told that a house on Central Park West, owned by one of the female Field's, was supposed to have been the center for this particular underground movement. Whittaker Chambers said that Peters, head of the Communist underground movement, had told him this. (100-25824-22)

II.(B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

There was no separate investigation instituted in connection with the allegations made by Chambers on May 13, 1942, inasmuch as the Bureau was conducting an investigation of Barnes as the result of the complaint received in August of 1941.

However, on March 27, 1943, a summary of the information appearing in the reports previously furnished Colonel William J. Donovan, Coordinator of Information, and the information obtained from Chambers on May 13, 1942, was prepared and on March 28, 1943, a copy was forwarded to Mr. Fred Lyon, State Department, and on August 23, 1943, a copy was sent to the Military Intelligence Service and on April 14, 1947, a copy was sent to the Central Intelligence Group.

On May 13, 1943, a memorandum was sent to the Interdepartmental Committee on Employee Investigations containing the information furnished by Chambers on May 13, 1942, and enclosing seven reports previously mentioned. (77-13677-43, 46)

III.(A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

A review of the Berle notes fails to reflect that Chambers furnished any information to Berle concerning Joseph Barnes.

IV.(A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the Bureau with the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers conducted by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945. This letter from the New York Office reflects that Whittaker Chambers stated that there was a marriage tie between Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Joseph Fels Barnes, and that Barnes had associated to some extent with Communist Party members but he was unable to state definitely that Barnes was or had ever been a member of the Communist Party.

IV.(B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Kisseloff-26337

Inasmuch as the allegations made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, were in accord with information previously developed by the Bureau, no active investigation was conducted in connection with these allegations; however, the Bureau, since the internal security investigation was instituted in August of 1941, continued to obtain information concerning Barnes.

During February of 1944, the San Francisco Office advised that Professor J. Robert Oppenheimer, atomic energy scientist, named Haakon M. Chevalier as the individual who had contacted three employees of the Radiation Laboratory at the University of California for restricted information on behalf of George Charles Eltenton, who in turn was to deliver this information to an official of the San Francisco Consulate of the USSR. Chevalier contacted Joseph Barnes in New York during February of 1944, apparently in connection with his efforts to secure employment in some Government agency. (100-203581-1647)

Paul Massing, a former Communist espionage agent and husband of Heidi Massing, also a Soviet agent from 1931 to 1937, advised that he knew Barnes when Barnes was Moscow correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune. Barnes seemed to have outstanding contacts in Moscow and to enjoy privileges usually denied the average correspondent. Massing stated that he saw Barnes in Moscow playing tennis on the NKVD courts where Massing himself played with Vassili Zubilin. (65-9940-30)

It is noted that at the time Joseph Barnes applied for a job with the Foreign Economic Administration he listed as a character reference Herman Habicht. It is noted that Habicht was a contact of Vassili Zubilin, who was at one time secretary of the Russian Embassy in Washington and reportedly the head of personnel of the NKVD. (100-203581-3702, page 341)

In the report of Special Agent William A. Branigan in the case entitled "Comintern Apparatus - Internal Security - R" dated August 14, 1945, the name and address of Joseph Barnes are set out which appeared in the address book of George Henri Anton Ivens along with the name of Harry Freeman, who is a brother of Joe Freeman, a contact of Vassili Zubilin. Ivens is described in the report as a revolutionary Communist. It was also stated that during the months prior to August of 1945, Joseph Barnes had been in touch with Max Yergen, Louise Bransten, Joseph North and Steve Fisher, all known Communists and of interest in the Comrap investigation. (100-203581-4723, page 138)

The name and address of Joseph Barnes was found in the effects of Ursula Wasserman, a subject in the Gregory case. (65-56402-758)

Re: MAX BEDACHT, with aliases
MAX BEDOCK, MAX BECHT,
JOHN MARSHALL, CHARLES MARSHALL,
JOHN BRAUM, JOHN M. BRAUM,
H. M. SABATH

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

A review of the Bureau file concerning Max Bedacht reflects that investigation of his activities was first instituted in the year 1919 and has been continuous to date. During the period 1927 to 1941, the file indicates very little investigative activity. Max Bedacht was born in Germany on October 13, 1883, came to the United States in 1908, and was naturalized in Superior Court of San Francisco, California, in April, 1915. In testifying before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities on October 16, 1939, he stated that he had been a member of the Communist Party in the United States since the Party's inception; that he was a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party; and that he has been the executive secretary of the International Workers Order (IWO) since 1933.
(100-18830-25)

Bedacht has been very active in Communist Party work in the United States, and was reported by a confidential informant as having acted as an intermediary for the G. P. U. This information was distributed to ONI and G-2 under date of November 4, 1943.
(100-18830-19)

Bedacht has been active in or associated with numerous Communist Party organizations, has contributed many articles to the "Daily Worker", and is considered a Communist Party key figure.
(100-18830-27)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers made no allegations concerning Max Bedacht.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes of Mr. A. A. Berle made available in June, 1943, which contained information furnished by Whittaker Chambers to Mr. Berle reflected no allegations concerning Max Bedacht.

Kisselloff-26339 CONFIDENTIAL

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945, on page 2 of which the following information was reflected:

> Whittaker Chambers related that in about 1931 he became editor of the "New Masses", and about a year later he was called into the offices of Max Bedacht, the Communist Party headquarters in New York City. He stated that Bedacht told him he had a "must" assignment which would require a great deal of discretion and gave him overnight to think it over. On the next day, Whittaker Chambers agreed to carry out this assignment. Whittaker Chambers pointed out that at no time did Bedacht explain to him the nature of the work he was to be given, but impressed upon him its serious and confidential nature. On the second meeting with Bedacht, Whittaker Chambers was introduced to a man known only to him (Whittaker Chambers) by the name of Arthur, which introduction occurred in a 14th Street subway station in New York City. Bedacht admonished Whittaker Chambers to do whatever Arthur told him. It was Arthur who subsequently introduced Whittaker Chambers to a man by the name of Peter who was recognized by Whittaker Chambers as a former treasurer of the Hungarian Communist newspaper "Uj Elore" (phonetic), and who had also published numerous articles on Communism under the name of J. Peters
> (100-25824-36, Pages 2 and 3)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the continuing nature of the investigation concerning Max Bedacht, the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers concerning activity which took place in about the year 1932 provoked no additional investigative effort. Investigations subsequent to May 10, 1945, reflect that according to the records of the United States District Court, Southern District of New York, in the case entitled "U. S. vs. Earl Browder - World Tourists, Inc.",

Kisseloff-26340 ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Max Bedacht testified that he had known Browder since 1920 or 1921 and had seen him on the streets of Moscow in 1931 and 1933 while he (Bedacht) was in Moscow.
(100-18830-28)

According to a confidential informant, Bedacht was removed from his position of general secretary of the I. W. O. during 1947 as a result of a dispute over the National Group Policy of the organization.
(100-18830-35)

A confidential informant has advised under date of August 9, 1948, that Max Bedacht was unseated as a delegate to the state convention of the New Jersey Communist Party for the reason that he allegedly falsified his position in the Mercer County, New Jersey, convention in order to be elected a state convention delegate.
(100-18830-40)

All pertinent reports concerning Max Bedacht have been forwarded to the Division of Records.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Bureau's main file concerning Alexander Bittelman, reflects that active investigation of his activities was begun in 1941 and has continued to date.

Bittelman was born January 19, 1890, at Berdicher, Kiev, Russia, and entered the United States at the Port of New York on January 2, 1912, aboard the SS Vaderland. He filed a Declaration of Intention to become a United States citizen in 1935, but he has taken no further action in this regard up to the present time. In 1943, he advised his Selective Service Board that he was not a citizen of any country and that he possessed Alien Registration No. 5289346. He has been employed as the General Secretary of the Morning Freiheit Association, 50 East 13th Street, New York City, and has served as a member of the Editorial Board of "Jewish Life" and "Political Affairs". He has been active in the Communist Party since 1921, according to the "New York Times", and, according to William Z. Foster, National Chairman of the Communist Party, USA, Bittelman has been active in the Communist Party since 1922. He is known as one of the theoreticians and dialecticians of the Communist Party, has contributed frequently to many Communist Party publications, has been the author of numerous pamphlets and books setting forth the political theory of Communism, and is a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party, USA. (100-57691-12 and 72)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On interview on May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers made no allegations concerning Alexander Bittelman.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

In June, 1943, Mr. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State, made available to the Bureau original notes which he had made at the time Whittaker Chambers furnished him information in 1939 concerning the underground Communist group in Washington, D. C. These notes contained no allegations concerning Alexander Bittelman.

Kisseloff-26342 CONFIDENTIAL

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Under date of June 26, 1945, the New York Office furnished the results of an interview with Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945, on page two of which the following is reflected:

Chambers related that in 1926 he was made Editor of the "Daily Worker", which position he held until 1929 when he broke with the Party. He gave as his reason for breaking with the Party that he was disgusted with the strong-arm tactics of the Stalinist group which came into power as a result of the split with Jay Lovestone. He pointed out that "Browder, Bittelman, and Foster in their fight to consolidate and control the Party instituted one of the worst minor reigns of terror . . . ." As a result of this he (Whittaker Chambers) had resigned his Editorship and quit the Party. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the fact that as of 1945 the Bureau's investigation concerning Alexander Bittelman was then extensive, the information furnished by Whittaker Chambers did not constitute any contribution of information that had not already been obtained. It is also noted that the information furnished by Chambers pertaining to Bittelman related to events which occurred in 1929 and did not in any way connect Bittelman with any Communist group operating within the Government during the time that he (Chambers) was a member of the underground, and in view of the fact that the information furnished by Chambers was already in the possession of the Bureau, no active investigation was conducted concerning this allegation.

In the report of Special Agent James J. McCarthy dated December 4, 1947, at New York, New York, in the case entitled, "Alexander Bittelman, was; Internal Security - C", the information concerning the split in the Communist Party in 1929 as appeared in the "New York Times" issue of July 5, 1929, and which is the same information furnished by Chambers, was set out. A copy of this report was forwarded to the Division of Records on January 6, 1948, and a copy was sent to the Immigration and Naturalization Service on January 6, 1948. (100-57691-87)

The subject is presently free on bond as a result of deportation proceedings instituted by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Since his arrest by the Immigration and Naturalization Service for deportation proceedings on January 15, 1948, considerable activities have taken place within the Communist Party to bar his deportation.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Considerable information has been obtained by the Bureau concerning the steps being taken by members of the Communist Party to prevent deportation of the subject, and this information has been furnished by the Bureau to the Immigration and Naturalization Service and to the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. (100-57691-124 and 125)

RALPH BOWMAN, was
Rudolph Blum; Ruddy Blum;
Rudy Baker

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The first information appearing in the Bureau's files concerning this individual is a reference to Rudolph Blum. This is in letter dated April 6, 1918, which furnished to the U. S. Attorney in Pittsburgh a summary of Blum's activity in the IWW. Blum at that time was in jail as a draft dodger for refusing to enter the Army. Later a search of Blum's home in January, 1920, reflected a membership card in the Communist Party of America. Active investigation of Bowman was again instituted in 1943, following the receipt of information that one "Al" was the head of the East Coast section of an underground Communist Espionage Organization. Al was subsequently identified as Ralph Bowman who had used the name of Rudy Baker and whose true name was Rudolph Blum. The investigation of Bowman thereafter reflected that he had been trained in the Lenin School from 1928 to 1930 and had thereafter served as a Comintern Representative in the Far East possibly in Korea. During the 1930's Bowman using the name of Rudy Baker was an important figure in the Communist Party, USA, attending National Committee meetings up until about 1939 at which time he apparently went underground. 100-258542-125

Bowman's whereabouts at the present time are unknown inasmuch as in July of 1948 he disappeared from New York City. His wife left the United States from New York City on the Yugoslav Ship, SS Radnik, on August 18, 1948. She was going to Hungary at that time and it is surmised that she will join her husband in the Balkans. 100-258542-140, 149, 150

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers stated that Rudolph Baker was a Communist Party organizer in Michigan at one time and was once either a Comintern Agent or an OGPU Agent in Korea. According to Chambers, Baker was still active in Party circles in 1942. Chambers revealed that an investigation of Baker would probably lead to "better things".

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No active investigation of Baker was conducted based on the May 13, 1942 interview with Chambers.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

There is no information concerning this matter in Berle notes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers' advised that he had no knowledge of Baker's activities as an organizer in the New York area and that all that he knew concerning Baker was that articles in liberal newspapers and magazines referred to him as a Communist Party organizer in Detroit in the late twenties. He recalled that Peters told him Baker had been a Comintern Agent in Korea and made the remard "Rudy Baker is in the business of exporting dried cuttle fish in Korea". He stated that he does not recall ever having seen Baker but knows Peters referred to him as a "little guy" and from this he assumed him to be small in stature. Chambers was unable to identify a photograph of Ralph Bowman who is known to be identical with Baker when it was shown to him.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

While the information from Chambers was of interest concerning Bowman and was accurate insofar as was known from the investigation, we did not conduct additional investigation based on Chambers' information and we already were conducting an extremely active investigation of Bowman which included all of the ramifications of Bowman's Communist and Espionage activity.

EARL RUSSELL BROWDER, WAS. GEORGE MORRIS,
NICHOLAS DOZENBERG, ALBERT HARRY RICHARDS

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

Browder has been a member of the Communist Party since 1919, the date of the formation of the Communist Party in the USA. Extensive investigation has been conducted by the Bureau with regard to Browder's activities in the Communist Party since 1921. Browder was sentenced on January 22, 1940, to four years in the Federal Penitentiary and fined $2000 for unlawful use of a passport obtained by false statements. On May 16, 1942, the sentence was commuted by President Roosevelt. At the time of his incarceration and again after his release, Browder was Executive Secretary of the Communist Party of the USA. He has, on occasions, been granted personal interviews by Joseph Stalin. In 1945, Browder was banned from the Communist Party but recent information indicates that he may be on his return to power in the Communist Party, USA. (40-3798-243, 525)

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that the OGPU operated in the United States under the supervision of one Charles Dirba rather than under the supervision of Earl Browder. (100-25824-22)

II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No specific investigation concerning Browder was made as a result of the above allegation. The active investigation of Browder continued. (40-3798)

III (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

There is no reference to Browder in the Berle notes, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943.

IV (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, at which time he pointed out that Browder, Bittleman, and

Foster, in their fight to consolidate the Party, instituted one of the worst minor reigns of terror that he had ever known and that as a result of the above, Chambers indicated that he had resigned his editorship of the Daily Worker and quit the Communist Party.

He advised that Browder was sent to the Far East and that Browder carried with him numerous large denomination bills. Chambers indicated that either in Canton or Nanking, China, Browder gathered together several well known Communist leaders for a convention. Chambers advised that the Chinese Police surrounded the meeting place and arrested all of those present. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No specific investigation was conducted with regard to the above allegations. The active investigation concerning Browder was continued and full information pertaining to his activities in the Communist Party were obtained. Copies of pertinent reports in this investigation have been furnished to the Department of State, Office of Naval Intelligence, Intelligence Department of the Army, and to the Division of Records. (40-3798)

Information regarding Browder's activities in the Far East already appeared in the Bureau's files in more detailed form than Chambers was able to furnish.

GLADYS BRODER, MRS. EARL RAISSA I. BROWDER

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

There has been no separate investigation conducted with regard to Mrs. Earl Browder. During the course of the investigation of her husband, Earl Russell Browder, considerable information has come to the attention of the Bureau from confidential and reliable sources indicating that Mrs. Browder was a high functionary of the Communist Party. She was observed in attendance at the Lenin School at Moscow, Russia in the early 1930's. (40-58735-5)

She is said to have been a practicing attorney in Russia and to have held a commission in the Red Army. (39-878-8) She is alleged to have been a judge in Russia prior to her departure and to have been an active official of the Soviet Union and a member of the Communist Party in Russia. (39-878-1 USIS) Mrs. Browder has worked on "The Communist" at the Daily Worker Building and in connection with her duties there, maintained regular office hours daily. She is alleged to have held numerous meetings in her office at the Daily Worker, at which time various instructions were issued which all present obeyed. It is said that Mrs. Browder does more effective work than her husband, Earl Browder. (100-184255) Mrs. Browder is known to have attended closed meetings of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, USA at 35 East 12th Street, New York City. She has been introduced at various Communist Party meetings as "Comrade Irene Browder". It was also alleged that the Daily Worker staff regarded Mrs. Browder as a higher authority than her husband. It was also stated that Mrs. Browder was a personal friend of Joseph Stalin and was actually a GPU representative. In 1938, Mrs. Browder had her office on the ninth floor of the Communist Party Headquarters, 35 East 12th Street, New York City, located at the same place as the offices of the other Central Committee members of the Communist Party. (39-878-29) Mrs. Browder was a speaker at the New York State Communist Party Convention on May 22, 1938. In March of 1939, a confidential informant [redacted] b7D furnished copies of reports which he had prepared relating to the Tenth Annual Convention of the Communist Party of USA. It was stated in the report that the Central Committee of the Communist Party made selections of Committee Officers. Mrs. Browder was listed therein as Secretary. (40-58735-1)

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that Earl Browder did not handle operations of the OGPU in the USA, and that it was his understanding that Earl's wife was a member of the OGPU and kept Earl straight on Party policies. (100-25824-22)

II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No specific investigation was made to prove or disprove the above allegations. Information available to the Bureau at that time indicated that Mrs. Browder was at one time a member of the OGPU and a member of the Communist Party. The active and extensive investigation conducted with regard to Mrs. Browder's husband, Earl, revealed considerable information pertaining to Mrs. Browder and her activities in the Communist Party. (40-58735; 39-878; 100-2278)

III (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

IV (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Whittaker Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Field Office on May 10, 1945, and during this interview he furnished no information relative to Mrs. Browder. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No investigation was conducted with regard to Mrs. Browder, however, considerable information is being obtained from time to time in connection with the active investigation of her husband. Information regarding Mrs. Browder was disseminated to the Department of State by summary memorandum dated May 27, 1944, and to the Immigration and Naturalization Service by summary memorandum dated September 11, 1946. During the interview with Chambers on May 13, 1942, by Agents of the New York Office, Chambers stated that Harrison George, Browder's brother-in-law, might be of interest. George married Margaret Browder, who was one of Krivitsky's assistants in Paris. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files fail to reflect that any investigation was initiated as a result of Chambers' allegations, since no data showed she was here.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Investigation was initiated on March 13, 1944, on one Jean Montgomery, who appeared as a suspect in the Alto Case. Inasmuch as it was known that Jean Montgomery was an alias formerly utilized by Margaret Browder, an investigation was instituted to ascertain if the Jean Montgomery in the Alto Case was identical with Margaret Browder. It was determined that the two were not identical, but investigation was conducted to attempt to locate Margaret Browder in the United States, inasmuch as information had been received indicating that she had returned to this country. She was finally located in New York in September, 1946, at which time she was utilizing the name Ann Meadows. The investigation is still in a pending status and copies of pertinent reports were furnished to the Division of Records on May 7, 1948. (100-287645)

Chambers described Boris Bykoff as a short, red-headed Russian. (100-25824-36)

SAMUEL CARP, was.
Sam Carp, Isay Karponsky

CONFIDENTIAL

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation of Samuel Carp was instituted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on July 29, 1940, on the basis of a report that Carp was endeavoring to send $5,000 to Russia, and that Carp had a sister who was married to Vyachesloff Molotov, the Soviet Foreign Minister.

Carp was born at Yakaturra, Russia, on March 30, 1888. He arrived in the United States at Baltimore, Maryland, on February 16, 1911, and was naturalized as a United States citizen at Bridgeport, Connecticut, on February 7, 1917. He started business as a house painter and subsequently engaged in the junk business. Thereafter, he became successful in promoting various activities in Bridgeport, Connecticut, dealing particularly in gasoline, fuel oil, and real estate. He reportedly, in 1936, organized the Carp Export and Import Company of New York to arrange for exports to Russia from this country. He allegedly received instructions from the Russian Government to purchase battleships in the United States. He was reported to have spent $100,000 in an effort to secure contracts in this regard. Carp testified on one occasion that he had paid Scott Ferris, a former Congressman and Democratic National Committee member from Oklahoma, $32,000 in Soviet funds in order to get assistance in making purchases for the Russian Government in the United States. Carp's attempts in this regard were fruitless. Carp testified before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities in 1939, and before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1945, with considerable resulting publicity based upon his relationship to Molotov, and his attempts to purchase battleships in the United States. The results of investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reflected in investigative reports, were referred to the Criminal Division, Department of Justice, on September 24, 1946, with a request for instructions as to what further investigation was warranted. The Criminal Division replied on October 17, 1946, to the effect that they had no specific request for any particular action, but that they desired to be kept advised of any new information concerning Carp. Chambers advised that it was his understanding that Robert belonged to one of the small units of the Washington Underground. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation has been conducted with regard to this individual. A review of the files of the Bureau fails to reveal that Virginius Frank Coe has a brother by the name of Robert Coe. Coe, Bob Coe, was investigated by the Bureau in November, 1944, at which time it was ascertained that he was the editor of "Facts For Farmers", a pamphlet published by Farm Research, Incorporated, New York City. Information obtained during this investigation indicated that the publication "Facts For Farmers" followed the Communist Party line and the Farm Research, Incorporated was alleged to be a Communist front organization. No investigation was conducted as a result of the above allegations made by Chambers. Investigation was conducted, however, in connection with the Gregory case, and the following is a brief summary of the information available concerning Coe. He has admitted being friendly with Lauchlin Currie. (65-56402-1655) During a physical surveillance conducted on Currie, it was ascertained that Coe had dinner with Currie on January 8, 1946. Currie was allegedly a member of the Silvermaster group. (65-56402-466) Investigation also disclosed that Coe was closely associated with Irving Kaplan, the Silvermasters, Harry Dexter White, George Silverman, Harry Magdoff, Allen Rosenberg, and William Ludwig Ullman. When interviewed by Agents of the Bureau on May 29, 1947, he advised that he was not closely associated with the Silvermasters but only met them occasionaly while traveling in "Economic Circles". Re: HENRY HILL COLLINS, Jr.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

During the winter of 1941 - 1942, the Washington Field Office conducted an investigation of Collins under the title "Henry H. Collins, Jr., Senior Exemptions Examiner, Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor, Internal Security, Hatch Act", the results of which are briefly set forth as follows:

> The name of Henry H. Collins, Jr., was alleged to have been on the active indices of the American Peace Mobilization, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, and the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties. Confidential informants disclosed that Collins had been very active in the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, serving as a member of the Executive Committee and as chairman of various other committees; that he advised and urged other members of the Department of Labor where he was employed to join this organization and that he solicited and accepted contributions from them.
> An informant stated that Collins kept much Communist literature about his house as well as printed matter from the American Peace Mobilization, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, and the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties. He was said to associate with known Communists and to have signed a letter petitioning Governor Olson of California to free Samuel Adams Darcy, Secretary of the Communist Party of Pennsylvania.
> Collins' wife, Suzan B. Anthony, II, was reported to have been prominently associated with the American Peace Mobilization, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, and the American League for Peace and Democracy, and was named by a Dies Committee investigator as being a radical.
>
> In a Hatch Act interview with agents of the Washington Field Office, Henry Collins admitted that he was a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, that he attended meetings, that he served as the Chairman of the Committee of the Co-operatives, and that he may have solicited employees of the Department of Labor for membership in that organization. He denied that he was ever a member of the American Peace Mobilization, of the Communist Party, or of any organization which advocated the overthrow of the Federal Government. He stated that he may have attended meetings of the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, but that he was uncertain as to whether or not he had been a member of this organization. After this Hatch Act investigation had been completed and reports submitted to the Department of Labor, it was learned that that Department took no administrative action against Collins.

Kisseloff-26359

(65-56402-1473)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

No information was submitted by Whittaker Chambers pertaining to Henry Hill Collins, Jr., during the interview conducted on May 13, 1942, by agents of our New York Office.
(100-25824-22)

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

No reference appeared in the notes furnished this Bureau in June, 1943, by Mr. A. A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State, covering his interview with Whittaker Chambers in 1939.
(100-25824-27)

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, agents of our New York Office interviewed Whittaker Chambers. During this interview, Chambers advised that he was a courier in what he believed to be the Communist movement, and that around 1935 he operated between Alexander Stevens (who was known to him as Peter) in New York City, and Harold Ware, leader of a group of men composed of Government employees in high salaried positions who were Communist Party members.

Chambers explained that there were approximately eight individual members in the organization headed by Ware, and that almost every one of these members was himself a leader of another underground unit operating in Washington, D. C., which consisted of some six to eight members; that the members of each of these underground units were not aware of the identity or composition of any of the other units.

Kisseloff-26360 ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Chambers said that Henry Collins, at that time in the Forestry Department of the Department of Agriculture, was one of the persons who attended meetings of the Ware group. Others who attended these meetings were John Abt, Lee Pressman, Nathan Perlow, Charles Krivitsky with alias Charles Kramer, Alger Hiss, Donald Hiss, - - - - Post, Nathan Witt, and an unknown man who was the husband of Alice Mendham. Chambers advised that the Ware group met in various places in Washington, D. C., but that the principal meeting place was the apartment of Henry Collins on St. Matthews Court over a garage. Collins, according to Chambers, was the treasurer of the group and apparently collected a percentage of the salary of each member which was then transmitted to Peter in New York City. He added that Collins had some regular way of sending money to New York which was unknown to Chambers, but on several occasions when this system had broken down, he, Chambers, was instructed by Collins to deliver a package which he was told contained money to Peter. He explained in this connection that he never at any time knew what was actually in any of the packages or envelopes which he transmitted and that he never tried to inquire as to their contents on the assumption that such inquiry would arouse the distrust of his correspondents.

Chambers related that after Harold Ware's death, a meeting was held in Collins' apartment at which the latter was present for the purpose of electing a new leader for the group. John Abt was elected as the new leader at this meeting.
(65-56402-1473)

IV(B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

At the time that Whittaker Chambers furnished the above information, Henry Collins was in the Army. He had entered active service November 30, 1943, as a Captain. He was separated from service on May 6, 1946, at which time he held the rank of Major. During a portion of the time he was enlisted in the Army, he served overseas in the European Theater of Operations.
(65-56402-1473)

Following his separation from service, Collins took a position with the Department of State. In November, 1946, he was released from his position with the Department of State actually for security purposes, but ostensibly because of reduction in force. An investigation was undertaken of Collins immediately upon his release from service. This investigation reflected that he was a close friend of Alger Hiss and his wife, and of Bela and Sonia Gold, both of whom are subjects in the Silvermaster Case.
(65-56402, Serial 1673)

Kisseloff-26361

The investigation developed that Collins held Government positions almost continuously from 1933 until November, 1946, with the exception of the period during which he was an officer in the United States Army.

At the present time a separate case file has been opened on Collins whereas the results of the investigation of his activities previous to March, 1948, were set forth in the Silvermaster Case file. This investigation is in a pending status. The information furnished by Whittaker Chambers concerning Henry Collins was set forth in the Silvermaster Case. Summaries prepared in this case have been furnished to the White House, the Department of Justice, and other Governmental agencies. Under date of March 9, 1948, the Washington Field Office submitted a report setting forth a summary of all information revealed in the Field Office files relating to Collins and showing that the investigation is continuing. A copy of this report was forwarded to Colonel Forney, Intelligence Division, Department of the Army, on May 21, 1948. A copy was also furnished to the Division of Records on June 14, 1948.

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was conducted concerning the captioned individual prior to the receipt of information concerning him from Whittaker Chambers.

II CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

The name of Currie was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes of Mr. Berle of the State Department concerning his original interview with Chambers in September, 1939, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943, reflect the following: Laughlin Currie was a "Fellow Traveler" - helped various Communists - never went the whole way. (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau failed to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of the reference to Currie in the Berle notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Currie's name was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by New York Agents on May 10, 1945.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Bureau files fail to reflect that any investigation was initiated concerning Currie on the basis of the reference to him in the Berle notes. There is also no indication in the files that the information contained in the Berle notes concerning Currie was distributed outside of the Bureau prior to the interview with Elizabeth Bentley in the Gregory Case in the fall of 1945. As a result of the information which she furnished, a letter was sent to Brigadier General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President on November 8, 1945 advising him that a highly confidential source had furnished information indicating a number of persons employed in the government had been furnishing data and information to persons outside of the federal government, who were in turn transmitting this information to agents of the Soviet government. A list of individuals who participated in this operation or were utilized by the principals in the ring was set out. This list included Laughlin Currie, former administrative advisor to the late President Roosevelt. (61-3499-192)

Subsequently on February 25, 1946 a memorandum dated February 21, 1946 and captioned, "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in agencies of the United States Government" was furnished to General Vaughan, the Secretary of State and the Attorney General. This memorandum in addition to information received from Elizabeth Bentley, contained information in the Bureau files concerning Currie, including the information submitted by Whittaker Chambers as contained in the Berle notes. (65-56402-573)

No investigation of Currie has been conducted except that conducted in connection with the Gregory Case with which you are familiar.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Charles Dirba first came to the attention of the Bureau in August, 1919, at which time he was Secretary of the State Socialist Party of the State of Minnesota. From that time until the present, Dirba has received active investigation by Agents of this Bureau. Dirba signed the charter of the Communist Party of America on December 30, 1919, at Chicago, Illinois, as Executive Secretary. Dirba became a member of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party, USA in 1927. He went on missions to the Soviet Union in 1928, 1930, 1934, 1935, and 1938. Maurice Malkin indicated to the Dies Committee in 1939 that Dirba was an OGPU representative in the United States and a member of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party, USA. Jan Valtin, author of "Out Of The Night," in 1941 informed that Dirba was considered an Agent of the GPU in the United States at the time he, Valtin, left the Communist Party in 1937. Ben Gitlow testified before the Dies Committee that it was his understanding that Dirba was an OGPU Agent. At the present time Dirba is active in the ordinary affairs of the Communist Party, having transferred his membership from New York City to Los Angeles in 1947, but there is no indication that he is a functionary in the Party. (61-1651-1, 91)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that Charles Dirba, head of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party for years, was understood by Chambers to be connected with the OGPU. Chambers also indicated that it was his understanding that the OGPU operated through Dirba rather than through Browder. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Extensive investigation conducted with regard to Charles Dirba failed to definitely establish his connection with the OGPU. Various informants from time to time have indicated his connection with the OGPU. (61-1651-91)

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

No reference to Dirba was found in the copy of the Berle notes furnished the Bureau in June, 1943.

CONFIDENTIAL

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Field Office on May 10, 1945, at which time no mention was made of Charles Dirba.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation indicated. The active investigation with regard to Charles Dirba has continued up to the present time, although his case file is carried in a closed status as of January 27, 1948. All pertinent information obtained by the Los Angeles Field Office is currently being furnished to the Bureau. Information relative to Charles Dirba has been furnished from time to time in the form of investigative reports to the Division of Records. (61-1651)

LAURENCE DUGGAN, also known as:
Laurence Duggin, Laurence H. Duggan

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was conducted with regard to Duggan. However, the Bureau files reveal the following information concerning him. His name appeared on the mailing list of the United American Spanish Aid Committee in 1941. His name and address were found on the person of Joris Ivens, an active Communist Party member from Berlin and Moscow. Ivens was a suspected member of the Soviet Secret Intelligence Service (NKVD). (100-251233-25)

On May 6, 1942, Duggan wrote a letter to Richard Sommers, the subject of an extensive Espionage - G investigation by the Bureau, on the letterhead of Advisor of Public Relations, Department of State, in which he indicated that he had known Sommers for a number of years. On June 29, 1942, Sommers wrote a letter to Duggan which indicated that they were close friends, and thanked Duggan for making it possible for his wife, Olga Sommers, to come to the United States. Duggan was later interviewed by representatives of the Military Intelligence Division of the Department of the Army, relative to this matter, at which time he advised these representatives that he had never heard of Richard Sommers. (100-251233-25)

The name Laurence H. Duggan appeared on the letterhead of the "Open Road, Inc." as a member of the Board of Directors of that organization. Frederick V. Field, reported to be a Communist Party member and sponsor of many Communist front organizations, was listed as President of this organization. (100-31230-2)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers advised Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, that Laurence Duggin, who was then Chief of the Latin-American Section of the Department of State, was not a Party member and was not connected with the Communist underground group, but was presumably with the OGPU, because of his contacts with Hedda Gomperts, whom he knew to be a Communist Party member. (100-25824-22)

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation conducted with regard to Duggan. However, an active investigation was conducted in order to ascertain the activities of Hedda Gomperts (Hedi Massing).

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Copies of the Berle notes which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943, indicate that Berle was advised by Chambers that there was considerable doubt in his mind as to whether or not Duggan was a member of the Communist Party. Chambers indicated that Duggan might be a member of the Communist Shop Group of the Department of State. (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted with regard to Duggan. However, the active investigation of Hedi Gomperts was continued during this period. It was ascertained that Duggan resigned from the State Department in the latter part of July, 1944. (65-9940-94)

A summary memorandum of available information concerning Duggan's activities was furnished to the Department of State on September 29, 1944. (100-251233-25)

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers advised Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, that Duggan associated with Hedda Gomperts, whom he knew to be a Communist and that he suspected Duggan of at least being a fellow traveler. Chambers had no information indicating Communist Party membership on the part of Duggan. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted. However, at the conclusion of the Hedi Massing investigation, she was interviewed, at which time she stated that to the best of her knowledge, Duggan was not a member of the Communist Party nor an agent of the OGPU. She stated that she had attempted to recruit Duggan into the Soviet Intelligence Service but had been unsuccessful. The following is a brief summary of other available information contained in the files of the Bureau concerning Duggan:

It was reported that Duggan was friendly with Enrique de Lozada, a South American Communist. (100-251233-25)

Duggan participated in a conference on "U.S. Policy Toward Argentina," sponsored by the Council for the Pan-American Democracy on March 25, 1944. (100-13361-23)

CONFIDENTIAL

Duggan is reported to be on friendly terms with Frederick V. Field, a reported Communist, and to have had considerable correspondence with him. (64-200-224-8)

During another investigation it was ascertained that Duggan was friendly with Joseph Starobin, Foreign Editor of the Daily Worker. (65-52109-514, Page 41)

The name Laurence Duggan appeared on the letterhead of the Americans United for World Organization, Inc. as a member of the Board of Trustees in July of 1945. (100-90431-19)

Sir Bernard Pares completed a speaking tour of the Middle West in October of 1947, during which time he maintained that the objectives of the Soviet Union are peaceful, and he indicated further that there was little likelihood of war. Among other things, Sir Bernard also stated that the Russians "have a right to the Dardanelles" and, also: "They should have a chance at the Mediterranean." His speaking tour was sponsored by the Institute of International Education, New York City, and was arranged by Laurence Duggan, Director of the Institute.

GERHART EISLER
was., Edwards, Hans Berger
Samuel Liptzen

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation of Gerhart Eisler was instituted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation upon Eisler's arrival in the United States on July 13, 1941. This investigation, which is still continuing, resulted in the conviction of Gerhart Eisler on August 15, 1947 in the District Court, District of Columbia for fraud in obtaining an exit visa (Title 22, Section 223). Evidence was produced at the trial based upon the investigation conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation proving Eisler had operated as a Comintern Agent in the United States under the names of Edwards and Hans Berger. It was also proved that he had obtained a false United States passport in 1934 under the name of Samuel Liptzen. Eisler was sentenced to one year on a contempt of Congress charge on March 24, 1948 and sentenced to a term of one to three years on exit visa fraud on June 27, 1947. Eisler at the present time is on bond pending appeals in both cases. (100-32520-625)

II CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not mention Eisler during this interview.

III CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Eisler is not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers furnished information on May 10, 1945 to the effect that he knew that the name Edwards was an alias of Gerhart Eisler. He pointed out that J. Peters, his Soviet superior, was a very close friend of Eisler and at one time shared a summer cottage with him at an unknown location. Chambers stated that the many conversations he had with J. Peters, he heard Eisler spoken of only as Edwards and he had learned Eisler's true identity from Willi Schlamm, Editor of Fortune magazine and a former Communist in Austria. According to Chambers, J. Peters, in discussing Edwards, always considered him very highly and stated that Edwards had fallen into disrepute at one time over the question of internal policies in Germany, as punishment for which he was sent to China as a Comintern representative in the early 1930's. Chambers also learned from J. Peters that Edwards later came to the United States as a Comintern representative. Chambers stated that Eisler counsels the leaders of the Communist Party, U. S. A. in order to maintain the Party line for Moscow. Chambers stated that he also understood that Eisler wrote for the Daily Worker under the alias of Hans Berger.

Chambers recalled that sometime in 1936 Agnes Smedley, who had been an important pro-Soviet propagandist in China, returned to the United States and he told Peters he would like to meet her. Later Peters arranged the meeting and upon seeing Chambers she stated, "I thought I was going to meet Edwards." Chambers also recalled that William Weiner, an important Party functionary, was a close contact of Edwards.

(100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On the basis of the information from Chambers no specific additional investigation was conducted as there was already an extremely active investigation of Eisler; however, Chambers' information did substantiate information from other sources and proved to be accurate in so far as it could be verified.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Information available in the files of the Bureau indicate that Sam Carp, Russian-born naturalized American citizen and brother-in-law of Molotov, testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on September 18, 1939, at which time he advised the Committee that he had engaged the services of Scott Ferris, a former Congressman and then Democratic National Committeeman from Oklahoma, to represent him in their negotiations to purchase two U. S. battleships for the USSR. He indicated to the Committee that he had paid Scott Ferris $32,000 for his services. (100-5193-A and 40)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

At the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, no mention was made of Scott Ferris.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Chambers indicated to Mr. A. A. Berle, the then Assistant Secretary of the Department of State, at the time Mr. Berle interviewed Chambers, that one "Karp", brother-in-law of Molotov, was said to be working with Scott Ferris to obtain plans for two super battleships in 1937. (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the above known information concerning former Congressman Ferris, no investigation was deemed necessary.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

At the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 10, 1945, no mention was made of Scott Ferris.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

Field has been the subject of an intensive investigation by the Bureau since February, 1941. Considerable information has been developed relative to his association with various Communist front and Communist organizations. Former confidential informant [redacted] former member of the Communist Party, discontinued) furnished information indicating that Field was a member of the Communist Party and extremely active in numerous Communist front groups. Investigation has revealed that he is Managing Editor of New Masses, a writer for the Daily Worker and Political Affairs, a Director on the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson School of Social Science, and is affiliated with numerous organizations including the Committee for Democratic Far Eastern Policy, of which he is a Director. Field is known to make regular contributions to many Communist front organizations, the more prominent being American Youth for Democracy, Spanish Refugee Appeal, Committee for Democratic Far Eastern Policy, Soviet Russia Today, National Council of American Soviet Friendship, and American Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born. Field attended Communist Party National Convention and Communist Political Association Rally, both in New York City in 1944. Investigation in this case indicates that Field is presently active in his Communist front associations and activities. (100-2278-73, 35, 42, 46) b7D

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a former official of the Institute for Pacific Relations, was believed by him to be the center of a Communist underground apparatus. Chambers indicated that Field, his wife Edith, his mother Lila, and one Joseph Barnes were the chief members of this apparatus. Chambers advised that one Peter, last name unknown to him, had related the above information to him. Chambers indicated that either Field's wife or his mother had furnished a home on Central Park West, New York City, for the use of this underground movement. Chambers also indicated that it was his belief that Peter had recruited Field into the Communist Party. (100-25824-22)

II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

As a result of Chambers' information, the investigation in this case was intensified in the early part of 1943. Information relative to Field's connection with the Communist Party was obtained as a result of the intensive investigation. There was no information obtained indicating that Field's wife or mother were connected with the Communist Party. There was no information developed indicating that Field had organized a Communist underground apparatus. There was no separate investigation conducted with regard to Field's wife or mother. The investigation did reveal, however, that Field's mother, Mrs. Lila Vanderbilt Field, died in Lenox, Massachusetts, in 1935. (100-2278-35)

III (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

At the time Mr. A. A. Berle, the then Assistant Secretary of the Department of State, interviewed Chambers, no reference was made to Frederick Vanderbilt Field. (100-35824)

III (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No investigation indicated.

IV (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Whittaker Chambers was again interviewed by Agents of the New York Field Office on May 10, 1945, at which time he furnished virtually the same information as set forth above. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

The active investigation of Frederick Vanderbilt Field continued but no information developed indicating his membership in a Communist underground group. Field is presently carried as a key figure by the New York Field Office and all information of a pertinent nature is promptly furnished to the Bureau. Copies of all reports of a pertinent nature have been forwarded to the Division of Records. Information relative to Field has also been disseminated to the Office of Naval Intelligence, Intelligence Department of the Army, and to the Department of State. MRS. FREDERICK VANDERBILT FIELD,
AKA MRS. EDITH CHAMBERLIN FIELD

I - INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

The Bureau has not conducted a separate investigation with regard to Mrs. Field. Through the intensive investigation conducted on her husband, Frederick Vanderbilt Field, very little information has been developed indicating Communist activity on the part of Mrs. Field. On January 5, 1944, Frederick Vanderbilt Field, Max Yergan and Edith Chamberlin Field took title to the premises located at 23 West 26th Street, New York City. This building has, since its acquisition by Field, Yergan and Field, been occupied by various organizations including the Council on African Affairs, Council for Pan-American Democracy, American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born, Institute for International Democracy, Hungarian American Committee for Democracy, Indonesian Committee, and the Voice of Fighting Spain. There has been no information developed indicating that Mrs. Field took part in the activities of these organizations. It is known, however, that Mrs. Field's home, 16 West 12th Street, New York City, has been used as a meeting place for prominent Communists for special meetings. It is also known that her husband leased an apartment located at 1116 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C., on September 9, 1940, for the use of the American Peace Mobilization. (100-2278-35, 73)

II (A) - CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, at which time he indicated that Frederick Vanderbilt Field, his wife and his mother, were the chief members of a Communist underground apparatus. Chambers also indicated that either Field's wife or his mother furnished a home on Central Park West, New York City, for use as a headquarters for this underground apparatus. (100-25824-22)

II (B) - INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED.

No investigation was conducted with respect to Chambers' allegations regarding the activities of Mrs. Edith Chamberlin Field. As pointed out above, however, considerable information was developed concerning Mrs. Field during the investigation of her husband. To date no information has been received indicating that Mrs. Field was a member of a Communist underground movement. During the investigation of Field, it was determined that his home had been made available for prominent Communists in New York City. (100-2278-35)

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO WHITTAKER CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

During the investigation of Frederick Vanderbilt Field, it was ascertained that, his mother, Mrs. Lila Vanderbilt Field, died in Lenox, Massachusetts, in 1935. (100-2278-35)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers on May 13, 1942 advised FBI Agents in New York City that Frederick Vanderbilt Field of the Institute for Pacific Relations was the center of another (Communist) underground apparatus. He said that Field, his wife, his mother and Joseph Barnes were the chief members of this aparatus and that he had been told that a house on Central Park West in New York City owned by one of the female Fields was supposed to have been the center for this particular underground movement.

NOEL HAVILAND FIELD

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Field's activities were first called to the Bureau's attention in 1926 by the Industrial Defense Association, Inc., Boston, Massachusetts, which furnished information reflecting that he was a member of the "Disloyal Fellowship of Youth for Peace." It was also indicated that his mother and wife were members of the Red Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. These data were furnished the State Department on November 23, 1926. (105-2175-X, X1)

In 1928 Field was employed by the Department of State and continued this employment until approximately 1940 or 1941. (105-2175-15)

J. B. Matthews testified before the Dies Committee on November 7, 1938, at which time he related that, according to his personal knowledge, Noel Field, who was at that time employed by the Department of State, was a member of the Communist Party. (105-2175-15)

Addition information was furnished to the Department of State by letter dated October 29, 1940. By letter dated March 27, 1941, the Department of State was further advised that Field was reliably reported as a member of the Communist Party.

Information received July 28, 1941, indicated that the name Noel H. Field, 419 Fourth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., appeared on the mailing list of Friends of the Soviet Union. (100-7045-95 x2)

In 1941 or 1942, while in Europe, Field became a representative of the Unitarian Service Committee. (100-2175-4)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

At the time Chambers was interviewed by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942, no mention was made of Noel Haviland Field.

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation indicated.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

At the time Mr. A. A. Berle, the then Assistant Secretary of the Department of State, interviewed Chambers, he was advised by Chambers that an individual named Field (FNU) was believed to be a member of the Communist Party. It was indicated that Field was employed in the Western European Section of the Department of State at that time. No further identification was made of this individual at that time. However, he has since been identified by Dr. Paul Wilhelm Massing and his wife, Hedi, as Noel Haviland Field.

(100-25824-27

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation conducted.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Field's name was not mentioned during the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted with regard to this individual at that time, as he was out of the United States. In November, 1947 an active investigation was undertaken on the basis of other data to the effect he was an espionage agent.

On March 3, 1948, a 15-page summary memorandum containing information available in the Bureau's files concerning Field was furnished to the Central Intelligence Agency. This memorandum reflects that Field, who has for some years been employed in Europe by the Unitarian Service Committee in the direction of their reflief program, was employed by the Department of State from 1928 until about 1940 or 1941. Field's pro-Communist activities were reflected in this memorandum. Considerable information was also furnished concerning him as obtained from Hedi Massing, who indicated that after leaving the Department of State, Field had worked with the League of Nations and that he had been used as a Soviet agent. (105-2175-X,X1,X2, 15)

CHARLES SIDNEY FLATO

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

A Special Inquiry investigation was initiated on December 31, 1941, concerning Flato at the request of the Office for Emergency Management. Copies of reports reflecting the results of the investigation were furnished to the OEM during the first four months of 1942, the last report being furnished on April 14, 1942. The investigation reflected that one informant stated that Flato joined the Communist Party in Boston in 1934, but had since changed his views and was regarded as a Socialist. However, he was not known to have renounced his affiliation with the Communist Party. The investigation also reflected employment in a Communist Party book store in Boston in 1934. On April 24, 1943, a three-page summary of the results of the Special Inquiry investigation was furnished to Captain W. D. Puleston, Secretary, Office of the Board of Economic Warfare, pursuant to the request of that organization on April 6, 1943.

A Hatch Act investigation was initiated on October 25, 1944, when it was ascertained that Flato was employed by the Office of Economic Warfare. This investigation was closed on February 14, 1945. This investigation disclosed the same information as had previously been obtained in the Special Inquiry. The file does not reflect that any distribution of the results of this investigation was made until April 12, 1948, at which time a copy of the report was submitted to the Division of Records. It is noted that a summary of the information in the Bureau files had previously been furnished to the Board of Economic Warfare on April 24, 1943.

During the investigation of the Gregory Case, it was reflected that Flato was in contact with numerous subjects of the Gregory Case. An Internal Security case was initiated concerning him in December, 1947. This investigation reflects that Flato is no longer connected with the Government. (77-14177)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not refer to Flato or to an individual of the same description as Flato during the interview of May 13, 1942, by Agents of the New York Office.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Flato was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, Chambers, while discussing an individual by the name of Post, whom he identified as Editor of the Foreign Service Journal in 1939, indicated that he had gone to Post's home in Alexandria, Virginia, at which time he was accompanied by a little hunchback who was then employed on a WPA Writer's Project in Washington, which was headed by Henry Alsberg. Chambers' purpose in going to Post's home was to address a small unit meeting of the Communist underground, of which Post was the leader. (100-25824-36)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any specific investigation has been conducted concerning Chambers' allegation. It is noted, however, that his description of the person who accompanied him to this meeting fits the description of Charles Sidney Flato very closely, and it is believed the individuals are identical. As noted above, Flato was the subject of an investigation prior to Chambers' allegations.

CONFIDENTIAL

ISAAC FOLKOFF, with aliases
Sam Falcoff, Sam Falconvitch,
Isaac Falclonoff, "Volkov," "Walkoff,"
"Dad," "Old Man"

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Active investigation of Isaac Folkoff, with aliases, was initiated at San Francisco, California, following receipt of a complaint on November 13, 1940, indicating that Folkoff was one of the leading Communists in San Francisco and was believed to be closely connected with financial affairs of the Communist Party. (100-19248-1)

This investigation indicated that Folkoff, of Russian origin, a naturalized United States citizen, was the proprietor of an embroidery and pleating company in San Francisco; was active in Communist Party affairs; and was constantly supplying amounts of money to Party members and officials. Inquiry showed him to be in close association with William Schneiderman, California State Secretary of the Communist Party. (100-19248-1)

On October 16, 1941, a dossier was forwarded to the Special Defense Unit of the Department of Justice outlining available information concerning Folkoff. (100-19248-6)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers, when interviewed on the above date by Bureau Agents, advised that an individual by the name of "Volkov" (phonetic) was said to have been in charge of the Underground on the West Coast with Headquarters in San Francisco, and that this individual's daughter was supposed to have been a courier between Moscow and the United States. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

By letter dated July 6, 1942, the Bureau advised the San Francisco Office of the information furnished by Chambers and indicated that the individual referred to by Chambers would appear to be identical with Isaac Folkoff, the subject of the then pending investigation by the San Francisco Office. The San Francisco Office was instructed to conduct a vigorous and continuous investigation concerning this matter in view of the allegations received from Chambers. (100-19248-17)

By report dated January 4, 1943, San Francisco submitted information concerning Folkoff indicating that he was running a successful business in San Francisco and that he was then a member of the Executive Committee of a local section of the Communist Party. Available sources reported that Folkoff was a financial agent for the Party and was believed to have received regularly funds dispatched from the Soviet Union by special couriers. Sources reported that Folkoff continued to be closely affiliated with financial affairs of the Party in both collecting and supplying money in the conduct of Communist affairs. Folkoff was reported by another source to have made a trip to the Soviet Union in 1935. (This report was furnished to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice and is noted to have contained the substance of Chambers' allegations.) (100-19248-49)

 ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The following reference was contained in the Berle notes obtained on the above-indicated date:

> West Coast - Head: "The Old Man" - Volkov is his real name - daughter a Comintern courier. He knows the West Coast underground - Residence: San Francisco or Oakland - (100-25824-27)

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear from the Bureau files that the information contained in the Berle notes was forwarded to the Field at this time. It is to be noted, however, that this information is practically identical with that previously furnished to the San Francisco Office.

The investigation of Isaac Folkoff was continuing in the Field and reflected that Folkoff in 1943 occupied the position of Communist Party auditor for the 13th District at San Francisco. Information was developed concerning the possible identity of a Russian agent who reportedly brought money to Folkoff from the Soviet Union in 1932. (100-19248-80) A check of State Department records in Washington, D. C., verified the fact that Folkoff had made a trip in 1935 to Europe, allegedly to Latvia. These records also indicated that Folkoff was born January 10, 1881, in Latvia (then Russia); arrived in the United States in January, 1904; and was naturalized at Brooklyn, New York, on April 9, 1912. (100-19248-82) At San Francisco it was determined that Folkoff, in addition to his previously described activities, had become an instructor in social theory at the Communist Party sponsored Tom Mooney Labor School. His close association with top functionaries continued. (100-19248-88)

Information developed at San Francisco in February, 1944, indicated that in addition to prominent Communist contacts, Folkoff was maintaining connections with Soviet representatives at the San Francisco Soviet Consulate, including Gregori Kheifets. (100-19248-102) The reported contact with Kheifets continued during June of 1944. (100-19248-111)

During the latter part of 1944 and early 1945, information was received that Folkoff was a charter member of the Communist Party in the United States and had been active in Communist affairs since 1919. There was no indication of further contacts with Soviet Consular officials following the departure of Kheifets in July, 1944. However, Folkoff continued regular contacts with an individual associated with the Soviet Government Purchasing Commission and was known to have had confidential conversations with Stirling Hayden of the U. S. Marine Corps then assigned to OSS. The informant reported that Folkoff had been the individual instrumental in interesting Hayden in Communism. (100-19248-130)

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

When interviewed by Bureau Agents on the above date Chambers stated that he had also met a man by the name of Volkov (phonetic) who was referred to by Peter (Alexander Stevens) as the "Old Man." He added that Peter had mentioned him many times as the leader of the Underground on the West Coast and pointed out that he had been located somewhere near San Francisco. Chambers added that Walkoff (as indicated in the text of New York letter of June 26, 1945, reflecting the results of the interview) gave the impression of being a very efficient businessman and he believed that he had conducted some kind of a successful business in the neighborhood of San Francisco. A story which he had been told by someone whose identity he could not recall was to the effect that Walkoff had sold all of his possessions and interests in the United States at one time and had gone to Russia for the purpose of living there but that he had been so disgusted with Russian living conditions that he had returned to the United States as soon as he could. Chambers described Walkoff as follows:

Age	Upper 50's in the 1930's
Height	5' 6"
Build	Slim
Characteristics	Good natured, joking, very smooth in conversation. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Following the 1945 interview as reflected above the Bureau by letter dated July 10, 1945, instructed the New York Office to recontact

Chambers regarding "Volkov" or "Walkoff" (phonetic), indicating that this individual was believed to be identical with Isaac Folkoff, the subject of a pending San Francisco investigation. New York was advised to exhibit a photograph of Folkoff to Chambers for positive identification purposes. (100-25824-36)

The New York Office by letter dated August 21, 1945, furnished a copy of the results of the Chambers interview of May 10, 1945, to the San Francisco Office for their information in connection with the Folkoff investigation and requested photographs of Folkoff from San Francisco for purposes of exhibition to Chambers, preferably photographs available of Folkoff taken during the early or middle 1930's. It does not appear from the Bureau files that such photographs were ever identified by Chambers. (100-25824-37)

Investigation of Folkoff was continuing and it was determined on June 12, 1945, that Folkoff met with Stepan Apresian, Soviet Vice Consul in San Francisco, which meeting took place on the street under suspicious circumstances. (100-19248) Through highly confidential sources the Communist registration of Folkoff was determined and in 1945 he was known to hold the positions of Secretary and Educational Director of the local Communist Political Association District. In addition he was known to be a member of the State Finance Committee of the Communist Political Association in California. Sources reported that Folkoff continued occasional contacts with the Soviet Consulate. However, this information was not further confirmed. (100-19248-149)

As late as February, 1948, Folkoff continued to be very active in Communist Party affairs in the San Francisco area, particularly in the financial affairs of the Party. (100-19248-201)

Inasmuch as later reports of the investigation concerning Folkoff included references to then pending highly confidential Soviet espionage investigations, including the Comrap Case, these reports were apparently not distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice. Accordingly, on May 27, 1948, a letter was directed to the San Francisco Office instructing that Office to prepare a summary type report carefully protecting all sources of information and confidential informants in order that the full results of the Folkoff investigation might be distributed to the Division of Records. (100-19248-204)

Information concerning Folkoff as a person in contact with Gregori Markovich Kheifets, former Vice Consul of the USSR at San Francisco, as well as other connections of Folkoff, were contained in the summary entitled "Soviet Espionage in the U.S.", dated December 12, 1945. This summary was distributed to the White House, Attorney General, State Department, War Department, and the Treasury Department.

Information concerning Folkoff's position as financial advisor of the Communist Party in California was included in a summary entitled "Comintern Apparatus", dated March 5, 1946, copies of which were distributed to the White House, Attorney General, State Department, and Navy Department.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Foster, who has for many years been one of the leading figures of the Communist movement in this country, was the subject of a periodic investigation from 1921 to 1942. An active investigation was instituted in April, 1942, and has continued to the present time. Copies of reports since that date have been furnished to the Division of Records as received. (61-330)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Foster was not mentioned in the interview held on May 13, 1942, with Chambers by New York Agents.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Foster's name was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During Chambers' interview by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, while discussing his reasons for breaking with the Communist Party, Chambers pointed out that Browder, Bittelman, and Foster, to control the Party, instituted one of the worst minor reigns of terror he had ever known and that as a result of this he had resigned his editorship of the "Daily Worker" and had quit the Party. (100-25824-36)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

In view of the nature of Chambers' reference to Foster, no specific investigation concerning Chambers' reference was made.

BENJAMIN FRIEDMAN
(MOSES M. BRAGIN, WITH ALIASES)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Active investigation was initiated of an individual known as Benjamin Fields in June, 1941, on the basis of information contained in the Bureau files reflecting that Fields, who had numerous aliases, including: Isadore Friedman, Issac Friedman, Issadore Friedman Osachuk, Isadore Fredman, and Benny Isadore, was an active member of the Communist Party and was considered the chief Communist leader on the Atlantic Coast. The information indicated that he resided in Baltimore and was listed in the Daily Worker of September 15, 1937 as a District Organizer of the Communist Party. The files also reflected that he had been arrested on several occasions and had contributed to Communist publications, including the anthology entitled "Proletarian Literature in the United States," published by the International Publishers Company in 1935.

The investigation was continued until October, 1946, at which time it was closed. It reflected that the true name of Fields was Moses M. Bragin, who was born in Russia in 1901. He received citizenship by virtue of his father's naturalization in 1917. He is alleged to have joined the Communist Party in 1923 and visited Russia in 1934, at which time he visited collective farms and attended a Writers' Congress held in Moscow. He was designated District Organizer for the Communist Party in the Baltimore and Washington District from 1937 to 1940. He has contributed to Communist publications, and his first novel "The Outside Leaf," had been completed as of October, 1943. Available sources indicate that the Communist Party considers him a good writer and he has had several of his short stories published in the Daily Worker. In 1946 he published a book entitled, "Piper Tompkins." He has resided in the New York and Connecticut areas since 1941. (100-24601)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

This individual was not referred to by Chambers during an interview with him conducted by New York Agents on May 13, 1942.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes of Mr. Berle, copies of which were made available to the Bureau, in June, 1943, included a reference to the above-captioned individual as follows:

"Reno Connected with Baltimore Party Organizer - Benjamin (Bundey) Friedman, alias Field - then California - then Russia - now organizer for Baltimore and Washington of Above-Ground Party - Underground connection. (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau do not reflect that any specific investigation was conducted as a result of Chambers' allegations.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, Chambers explained that Benjamin Friedman, who was nicknamed "Bundly," was a little fellow who had been hit on the head in a strike and had been sent to Russia for a rest cure. After his return to the United States he had been made cashier of the Communist Party cafeteria which had been run by the Party on Union Square in New York City. He related that one Peter had told him that Friedman had become District Organizer for Maryland and that in Baltimore he had taken the name of Field. He also recalled tht Field had originally come from California. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files do not reflect that any specific investigation was conducted as a result of Chambers' allegations in May, 1945. The Friedman referred to by Chambers is undoubtedly identical with Moses Bragin, and it should be noted that, as indicated above, an active investigation was instituted prior to the first interview with Chambers and the information furnished by him was already substantially available to the Bureau. A report dated January 7, 1944, setting out a summary of information available to the Bureau concerning Bragin was furnished to the Division of Records on January 29, 1944. Subsequent reports were furnished to the Division of Records as received from the field.

SENDER GARLIN

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Investigation of Garlin was initiated in July, 1941, on the basis of information in the Bureau files reflecting that Garlin was an Elector of the Communist Party in the 1940 Presidential election, and that he was connected with the "Daily Worker." This investigation continued until May 12, 1947, at which time it was closed. The investigation reflected that Garlin was employed by the "Daily Worker" in 1932 and in 1946 was Feature Editor of that publication. He was the "Daily Worker" representative to Moscow in 1936, and was the Public Relations Director of the New York State Communist Political Association in 1944. He was Co-Chairman of the Education Committee of a New York City Club of the Communist Party in 1945 and has been a frequent speaker at various Communist Party functions. Copies of the reports submitted in this case were furnished to the Division of Records as received from the Field. (100-49101)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Garlin was not mentioned by Chambers during the May 13, 1942, interview.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Garlin was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945, by New York Agents, he advised that in the early part of 1924 he asked several acquaintances where he could get in touch with American Communists. He finally contacted a Jewish friend, Sender Garlin, who was then connected with Russian Relief. Garlin introduced him to a man by the name of Charles Krieger (phonetic), who took him to a small Communist Party meeting in the Hudson River District, where he registered as a member of the Communist Party. (100-25824-36)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As indicated above, Garlin has been the subject of an investigation since 1941, and no specific inquiries have been made as a result of Chambers' allegations in view of the nature of such allegations.

HARRISON GEORGE

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An active investigation concerning George was instituted on December 26, 1941, as a result of information contained in the Bureau files reflecting that George was an active member of the Communist Party. This investigation is still carried in a pending status. The investigation has reflected that he was a charter member of the Communist Party - USA, and is a brother-in-law of Earl Browder. He has been a member of the Central Committee, State Board, and State Committee of the Party in California. He was formerly Editor-in-Chief of the "Daily People's World" newspaper, but was relieved of this position in 1946 after criticism by Party leadership in California. He was tried by the Party on charges of factionalism, but William Z. Foster intervened and encouraged him to publicly announce his support of Party leadership. He complied and was not expelled from the Party. However, he was expelled from the Party on September 20, 1947, and has subsequently been in contact with other expelled members. (100-18155)

Copies of the reports of investigation of George were furnished to the Division of Records as received from the Field.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

When interviewed on May 13, 1942, by New York Agents, Chambers stated that Harrison George, Browder's brother-in-law, might be of interest. George married Margaret Browder, who was later one of Krivitsky's assistants in Paris. George was active in the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Secretariat and Chambers was told that George was in charge of all kinds of underground work in the Far East and Japan, and that he had headquarters in San Francisco and Los Angeles. (100-25824-22) It is noted that this information was already available to the Bureau.

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As noted above, George was already the subject of an investigation at the time of Chambers' allegations. The investigation has failed to reflect that George is engaged in underground or espionage activities.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

George was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

George was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by New York Agents on May 10, 1945.

DR. MORRIS GREENBERG (Referred to by Chambers as Dr. Greenberg)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The captioned individual first came to the attention of the Bureau in connection with the case of Nicholas Dozenberg, who was arrested in Oregon in December, 1939 in connection with a passport fraud case. You will recall that Dozenberg later testified for the Government in the passport fraud case against Earl Browder. In subsequent interviews with Bureau Agents he admitted acting as an agent for Soviet military intelligence in the United States. He furnished considerable information concerning Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, a dentist in New York City, whose office was used by Soviet agents for making contacts with their couriers. Rosenbliett departed from the United States in the early 1930's, presumably for Russia. Investigation in 1940 reflected that he had resided at 143 West 87th Street before his departure from this country and that this address as of 1940 was occupied by Dr. M. Greenberg as a residence and office. Greenberg was identified as Dr. Morris Greenberg; (wife: Clara,) who graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University in 1917 and was a licensed pediatrician. He interned at Bellevue Hospital and received his diploma in June, 1919. (61-6670-24,26,29)

Further inquiry concerning Rosenbliett reflected that Alla Rosenbliett acquired title to property at 89 West 119th Street, New York City in 1925 from her husband, Philip, and Morris and Clara Greenberg. The only encumbrance existing on the property was a power of attorney dated April 24, 1935 (subsequent to departure of Rosenbliett and his wife from the United States), appointing Morris Greenberg, 143 West 87th Street, as attorney to manage the property at 89 West 119th Street. Selective Service records in New York reflect that Greenberg was born June 6, 1890 in Romania. In 1942 he was employed by the New York City Department of Health as Epidemiologist, in charge of the Division of Epidemiology in the Bureau of Preventable Diseases. His duties consisted of supervising the investigation of all outbreaks of epidemics in New York City. Further inquiry reflected that he was naturalized February 1, 1912 in New York City and had been first employed by the City of New York in 1920. (65-35048-37)

Another associate of Dozenberg in the Soviet Military Intelligence Service was Joseph Tourin, who was interviewed on April 13, 1948 by Agents of the Los Angeles Office. Tourin admitted contacts with Dozenberg, Rosenbliett and others, and acquaintanceship with Lydia Stahl, who was also involved in Soviet intelligence activities. He denied having acted as an agent for the Soviet intelligence services or knowing that the other persons were acting as

Soviet agents. He did state that Rosenbliett is his brother-in-law, having married his wife's sister, Alla Greenberg. He stated that the Rosenblietts had a daughter who died of cancer about 1930 at the age of twelve and shortly thereafter they went to Russia, where they presumably still reside. (100-336737-13)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Greenberg was not mentioned during the interview with Chambers on May 13, 1942.

III (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes of Mr. Berle, copies of which were made available to the Bureau, contained the following reference to Greenberg:

"London
(I) Dr. Philip Rosenbliett - Formerly of (41st St. and B'way, N.E.)
Dr. Greenberg, MD (West 70th, New York
Brother-in-law
American leader of British Underground C.
Head in America Mack Moren (alias Philipovich
- allegedly Yugoslav) real name - ?"

(100-25824-27)

III (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The Bureau files fail to reflect that any investigation was initiated as a result of Chambers' allegations as contained in Mr. Berle's notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 10, 1945, while discussing Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, he recalled that Rosenbliett had occasionally talked about his brother-in-law, Dr. Greenberg, M.D., who resided on West 70th Street in New York City. He never met Greenberg, but assumed that perhaps Greenberg was engaged in Communist underground activities. (100-25824-36)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation has been conducted as a result of Chambers' allegations on May 10, 1945. The above information would indicate that Dr. Morris Greenberg is undoubtedly identical with the Greenberg referred to by Chambers. It is noted that the Bureau conducted inquiries concerning Greenberg prior to the receipt of information from Chambers. These inquiries were for the purpose of identifying him and ascertaining his connection with Dr. Philip Rosenbliett. The inquiries failed to reflect that he was acting as a Soviet agent.

Kisseloff-26392

CARL HERMAN HAESSLER, WAS.
(Brother of Gertrude Haessler)

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The captioned individual first came to the attention of the Bureau in May, 1923 when it was ascertained that he was the principal speaker at a meeting held by the Workers Party, 3201 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois on May 17, 1923. During the speech, the title of which was "The Negro and the Press", he advised the audience to boycott the Negro Press unless it took a more decided stand against capital. He suggested that everyone become affiliated with the Workers Party and stated that the AF of L was too strong for the Workers Party to fight in the open and that the Party members should join the AF of L and destroy the organization from the inside by creating general unrest and causing AF of L members to disagree among themselves.
(61-4016-1)

An active investigation was initiated concerning Haessler in September, 1939 as a result of information in the Bureau files indicating that he was an active Communist. This investigation was closed on May 6,1942,reopened 3/3/43 and continued until January 31, 1947, at which time it was again closed. The investigation reflected that Haessler was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin on August 5, 1888. Newspaper articles during 1917 and 1918 indicated that he was a Socialist connected with a Socialist paper in Wisconsin. He was a Rhodes scholar and a Phi Beta Kappa. In 1918 he was sentenced to serve twelve years at hard labor for refusing to serve in the Army. He actually served two years of this sentence. He was an assistant professor at the University of Illinois from 1914 to 1917 and taught at Commonwealth College, Mena, Arkansas and at Brookwood Labor College, Catonah, New York in 1932. He was reported to be a charter member of the "Federated Press" and employed as a correspondent-editor for this syndicate from 1922 to this date. According to "Editor and Publisher", a reference book containing information about newspaper personnel, the "Federated Press" is a syndicate for the dissemination of labor news, pictures, maps and cartoons. The central bureau of the "Federated Press" has been located at Haessler's residence in Highland Park, Michigan at least from 1943 to 1947. Haessler was said to have handled the publicity for the United Auto Workers during the 1937 Flint sit-down strike. He also was reported to have been active in connection with various union publications. He was a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party in 1943 and has been active in the Communist faction of the CIO United Automobile Workers. He has also been active in the American Newspaper Guild. In 1944 he was a member of the executive board of the Detroit Council for American Soviet Friendship and was editor of the "CIO Councilor", a bi-monthly publication of the Greater Detroit and Wayne County CIO Council.

CONFIDENTIAL

A summary report dated June 2, 1943 was furnished to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special War Policies Unit of the Department of Justice on July 20, 1943. Subsequent reports in this investigation were furnished to Mr. Smith and/or the Division of Records as received from the Field. (65-5966)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

When interviewed by New York Agents on May 13, 1942, Chambers advised that the brother of Gertrude Hessler had been head of the "Federated Press" in Washington and was a very active Party (Communist Party) man. He indicated that the "Federated Press" was an organ filled with Communists and stated that Gertrude Hessler's brother as of 1942 was in the CIO. (100-25824-22)

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation has been conducted on the basis of the allegations of Chambers. It is to be noted, however, that as reflected above, the Bureau was cognizant of Haessler in 1923 and initiated an active investigation of him in 1939, prior to receipt of information from Chambers. The information furnished by Chambers was already available to the Bureau as of that time.

III CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

There is no reference to Haessler in the Berle notes, copies of which were furnished the Bureau in June, 1943.

IV ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Haessler was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by New York Agents on May 10, 1945.

LEMENT UPHAM HARRIS

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Investigation of the captioned individual was initiated on March 18, 1941, on the basis of information received indicating that Harris was an active Communist and engaged in Communist activity. The investigation has continued to the present time and is still carried in a pending status. Investigation has disclosed that Harris has been an important member of the Communist Party for years and in June, 1946, was elected as permanent Secretary of the National Farm Commission of the Party. Confidential sources have advised that Harris was the treasurer of the secret funds of the Party, which can be used for undercover operations. He has been in contact with numerous national functionaries of the Party and with numerous known and suspected Soviet agents. From October, 1943, through January, 1944, pertinent reports were furnished to the Division of Records as they were submitted. The reports for the period of January, 1944, to July, 1947, were sent to the Division of Records on July 1, 1947, and subsequent reports were furnished as received. (100-15251)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not refer to Harris in the May 13, 1942, interview.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Harris was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers by Agents in the New York Office on May 10, 1945, he failed to identify the photograph of Harris, but when the name was mentioned to him, he readily recalled that Harold Ware had talked to him about Harris, indicating that Harris was a close friend of Ware. Chambers was unable to recall further details.

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific efforts have been made to verify the alleged friendship between Harold Ware and Harris.

ALGER HISS

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

CONFIDENTIAL

Alger Hiss was investigated in the latter part of 1941 and the early part of 1942 in accordance with the provisions of Public Law Number 135 (Hatch Act). At that time Hiss had been reported to be a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, according to the House Committee on Un-American activities. It was determined, however, that the name of Alger Hiss did not, in fact appear in the active indices of that organization, but that the name of his wife did. Since Hiss was then Assistant to the Advisor on Political Relations in the Department of State, a copy of the report on this investigation was furnished to the Secretary of State by letter dated March 24, 1942. This report set forth information furnished by a former fellow employee of Hiss' in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that Hiss and his associates in the AAA if not Communists were fellow travelers. No other unfavorable information was developed, and Hiss himself denied in a sworn statement that he had ever been a member of the Communist Party, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action or any other organization advocating the overthrow of the government.

The State Department on March 26, 1942, advised that the report furnished to them afforded no basis for administrative action against Hiss. (101-2668-5 &6, 65-56402-695)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On May 13, 1942, Chambers told Bureau agents that Alger Hiss and his brother Donald Hiss were members of the Communist Party underground organization in Washington which was headed by Harold Ware. Chambers described Alger Hiss as a former employee of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration who later served in the government's investigation of the munitions industry and subsequently became Assistant Solicitor General of the United States. After that position he became assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The Bureau's files do not disclose that any investigation was conducted in 1942 following Chambers allegations about Hiss.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The portion of the Berle notes which pertains to Alger Hiss reads as follows:

"Alger Hiss
Ass't to Sayre - CP - 1937
Member of the Underground Com. - Active

Kisseloff-26397

Baltimore Boys
Wife - Priscilla Hiss - Socialist -
Early days of New Deal"

There is no record of any additional information furnished by Mr. Berle when these notes were obtained from him in June, 1943.

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No indication has been found in the Bureau's files to show that inquiry was made concerning Hiss in the light of Chambers' information concerning him as furnished by Mr. Berle. However, on March 27, 1945, a summary memorandum covering Alger Hiss' background and activities and the allegations of Chambers concerning him were submitted to Frederic B. Lyon of the State Department. The substance of this memorandum had been furnished by Mr. E. A. Tamm on March 24, 1945, to Robert Lynch, Special Assistant to the Secretary of State. (101-2668-9 and 10 and 12)

IV. (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

When interviewed on May 10, 1945, Chambers said that Hiss, who in the meantime had become General Secretary of the United Nations Conference at San Francisco, had met on several occasions with Harold Ware's group and that he had usually attended meetings of the group when they were held at Henry Collins' house. He said that when Hiss went with the Senate (Nye) Committee investigating the munitions industry, he was segregated from the group and had no more official contacts with them. He said, however, that Hiss did meet socially with many of them and was particularly close to John Abt's sister, Marian Bachrack. Chambers further stated that he had no reason to believe that Hiss had broken away from the Communist Party. As a reason for this belief he explained that after he, Chambers, had broken with the Party he had made a special trip to Hiss' home in Georgetown Section, Washington, for the purpose of persuading Hiss to leave the Party. Chambers explained that when he arrived Hiss' wife Priscilla was the only one there, and that while Chambers momentarily excused himself to go to the bathroom he observed Hiss' wife going to the telephone "obviously to get in touch with Party members." Chambers immediately returned to the room and awaited the arrival of Alger Hiss. When Hiss arrived they had dinner together at his home following which Chambers says he talked with him all night in an endeavor to persuade him to leave the Party. Chambers said that with tears streaming down his face Hiss had refused to break with the Communists and had given as his reason for not breaking his loyalty to his friends and principles. Chambers pointed out that in his opinion one of the strongest reasons for Hiss' maintaining contact with the Communist Party was the fanatical loyalty to the Communist Party on the part of his wife.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

CONFIDENTIAL

Although no action was immediately taken concerning Chambers' additional information with respect to Hiss, it is to be noted that Hiss was also named by Elizabeth Terrill Bentley on November 7, 1945, as having been involved in a Soviet espionage ring.

Hiss, as a result, became the subject of intensive investigation in the development of the Silvermaster Case. In a memorandum dated November 30, 1945, the Attorney General was furnished information concerning Alger Hiss' alleged connection with a Communist underground group in Washington as furnished by Whittaker Chambers. (65-56402-94)

Since at that time Hiss was still employed in the Department of State information concerning him was again furnished on December 4, 1945, to the Secretary of State in a summary entitled Soviet Espionage in the United States, dated November 27, 1945. (61-3499-198,200)

Since that time numerous memoranda dealing with Soviet espionage activities in the United States furnishing the results of investigation of such activities and in which reference is made to Alger Hiss have been furnished to the White House, the Attorney General and to the interested agencies as will be noted in a memorandum briefing the Bureau's investigation of the Silvermaster Case.

It may be noted that Alger Hiss was interviewed at his request by a Bureau official (Mr. D. M. Ladd) on March 25, 1946. At that time Hiss explained that he wished to clear up any questions that might have arisen concerning his loyalty to the Government, since it had been brought to his attention by the then Secretary of State James F. Byrnes that his name had been mentioned in connection with subversive organizations. Hiss, on this occasion, denied that either he or his wife were ever members of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. He mentioned the possibility that his wife could have been a member of the League of Women's Shoppers because he thought that some of her friends had been members of that organization. Hiss further emphatically stated that at no time had he been a member of the Communist Party or had any association with it. He further declared that he knew of no friends of his who were members of the Party. Asked whether he had any association with any person or persons who might be members of any subversive organizations which might have caused the belief to exist that he likewise was a member of such organizations, he stated that he knew of no association on his part with any persons which would lead to this conclusion. The results of this interview were made available to both the Attorney General and the Secretary of State on March 25, 1946. (65-56402-1128X)

It should also be noted that J. D. Whittaker Chambers was interviewed on March 28, 1946, at New York City, with specific reference to Alger Hiss. On this occasion he said he was unable to elaborate on any of the information concerning Hiss' connection with the Communist Party which he had furnished at the time he was interviewed in 1942 and again in 1945 by Bureau Agents. He recalled that after 1937, being no longer actively associated with the Communist Party, he had lost all contact with Alger Hiss. He stated that, as a matter of fact, he had absolutely no information that would conclusively prove Hiss held a membership card in the Communist Party or that he was an actual dues-paying member of the Party even while he was active prior to 1937. He declared that he knew in 1937 Hiss was favorably impressed with the Communist movement and was of the belief that Hiss was then (1946) still of the same beliefs. He indicated he did not have any documentary or substantial proof on which to base this belief and based it solely on comments made by various Washington and New York newspaper writers at the time.

DONALD HISS

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

A Hatch Act investigation was instituted concerning Hiss on February 17, 1942, at which time Hiss was an employee of the Department of State. The investigation was initiated inasmuch as the Dies Committee had listed Hiss as a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. During the investigation, an informant advised that the name of Hiss did not, in fact, appear in the active indices of that organization; however, his wife was listed. The investigation disclosed no affiliation with the Communist Party or Communist front groups, and Hiss, in a sworn statement on February 16, 1942, denied that he was a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action and that he advocated overthrow of the Federal Government. The report of the investigation was furnished to the Secretary of State on March 4, 1942, and on March 9, G. Howland Shaw, Assistant Secretary, advised by letter, "Mr. Hiss is a valued employee of the Department and is well and favorably known by various of the higher officers of the Department. There is nothing in the report of investigation which warrants any administrative action and it is believed you will wish so to report to the Congress, exonerating Mr. Hiss from the charge preferred." (101-4300-2 and 3)

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers advised that Alger Hiss and Donald Hiss were also members of the underground organization as secured by Ware. He said these men also left the AAA but remained in the Government service. Donald Hiss was in the Labor Department and Miss Perkins thought a great deal of him. Chambers stated that the Party planned to have Donald Hiss handle the Bridges case in California in view of the influence which he might have. Hiss subsequently went to the Philippine Division of the Department of State. (100-25824-22, page 6)

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of this allegation.

III (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes, copies of which were obtained, are set out as follows:

Kisseloff-26400 ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

III (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any specific investigation was conducted on the basis of the allegation.

In response to a request by Mr. Fred Lyon of the State Department, a memorandum containing information in the Bureau files was furnished to him on March 31, 1945. This memorandum set forth Chambers' allegations concerning Hiss. (101-4300-4)

IV (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS OF MAY 10, 1945, AND MARCH 28, 1946

During the May 10, 1945, interview with Chambers by New York Agents, Donald Hiss was mentioned as the brother of Alger Hiss, but otherwise was not identified. (100-25824-36) No additional information was furnished in the March 28, 1946, interview. (100-25824-38)

IV (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Bureau files fail to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' allegations. However, inquiries concerning Donald Hiss were made in connection with the Gregory investigation. A memorandum dated November 27, 1945, entitled "Soviet Espionage in the United States" was furnished to Brigadier General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, the Secretary of State, and the Attorney General on December 4, 1945. This memorandum included the information that Chambers had stated that Donald Hiss, brother of Alger Hiss, was in the Labor Department. Chambers listed a group of persons known to him as being in the underground apparatus of the Communist Party, inasmuch as he had attended meetings where these persons were present. One of these persons named by Chambers was Donald Hiss, and he indicated that the Party wanted Hiss to stay in the Labor Department. (61-3499-198,199) (100-7826-39)

A memorandum captioned "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in Agencies of the United States Government" dated February 21, 1946, was furnished to General Vaughan, the Secretary of State, and the Attorney General on February 25, 1946. This memorandum contained all the information concerning Donald Hiss which had been furnished to the Bureau by Whittaker Chambers. (65-56402-573)

PRISCILLA HISS
(Mrs. Alger Hiss)

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was conducted concerning the captioned individual prior to the receipt of information from Whittaker Chambers.

II CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Priscilla Hiss was not mentioned by Chambers during the interview with him by Agents of the New York Office on May 13, 1942.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes which were made available to the Bureau in June, 1943 reflected the following:

"Alger Hiss
Assistant to Sayre-CP-1937
Member of the underground Com.-active Baltimore boys-wife-Priscilla Hiss-socialist-
early days of New Deal."
(100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau failed to reflect that any investigation was conducted concerning Priscilla Hiss on the basis of the reference to her in the Berle notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers during the interview with him by New York Agents on May 10, 1945 discussed his efforts to persuade Alger Hiss to break away from the Communist Party. He stated that after he, Chambers, had broken with the Party he visited the home of Alger Hiss to attempt to persuade Hiss to also break away. Hiss' wife, Priscilla, was the only one there when he arrived and while he momentarily excused himself to go to the bathroom he observed Mrs. Hiss immediately go to the telephone obviously to get in touch with Party members. He immediately returned to the room and awaited the arrival of Alger. Chambers expressed the opinion that one of the strongest reasons for Hiss maintaining contact with the Communist Party was the fanatic loyalty to the Communist Party on the part of his wife. (100-25824-36)

CONFIDENTIAL

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau failed to reflect that any investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' allegations and there is no indication that the information furnished by Chambers was distributed to any outside agency prior to the interview with Elizabeth Bentley in the fall of 1945 in connection with the Gregory Case. It is noted that Mr. Berle of the State Department interviewed Chambers in 1939 and the State Department therefore was in possession of the information concerning Priscilla Hiss, the wife of Alger Hiss, a State Department employee.

A memorandum dated November 27, 1945 captioned, "Soviet Espionage in the United States" was furnished to Brigadier General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, to the Secretary of State and to the Attorney General on December 4, 1945. This memorandum included information furnished the Bureau by Chambers relating to Priscilla Hiss to the effect that in his opinion the strongest reason for Alger Hiss maintaining his status with the Party was the fanatic loyalty for the Communist Party on the part of his wife. This memorandum also included information obtained as a result of the Bureau's interview with Elizabeth Bentley in the Gregory Case. (61-3499-198-199; 100-7826-39)

A memorandum dated February 21, 1946 entitled, "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in agencies of the United States Government" was furnished to General Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, the Secretary of State and the Attorney General on February 25, 1946. This memorandum included, in addition to the information furnished by Elizabeth Bentley, all of the information concerning Priscilla Hiss which has been furnished to the Bureau by Whittaker Chambers. (65-56402-573)

No active investigation has been conducted of Priscilla Hiss besides the investigation conducted of Alger Hiss in connection with the Gregory investigation which, of course, included inquiries relative to his wife.

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation concerning Hutchins was initiated in September, 1941, on the basis of information contained in the Bureau files reflecting that she was a Communist Party candidate for Lieutenant Governor of New York in 1938, had written several Communist Party pamphlets, had served as Treasurer for the Communist Party National Campaign Fund, and had engaged in other Communist Party activities. The investigation was continued until January, 1943, at which time it was closed, but was reopened in August, 1943, and was thereafter continued until May, 1946, when it was again closed. However, a report setting forth additional information was submitted on March 12, 1947. The investigation reflected that Hutchins had an income from the Hutchins estate and that she was an active Communist Party member and had frequent contacts with Alexander Trachtenberg and other officials of the Party. Copies of the reports of the investigation were furnished to the Division of Records as received. (100-51757)

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

During the interview with Chambers by New York Agents on May 13, 1942, Chambers discussed the securing of money by OGPU agents. He stated that in his opinion they would usually be traveling with a great amount of money on their person, but that there were those in the Party who acted as financial agents and who supplied such members with money. One of these persons he mentioned as Grace Hutchins. He stated that she was an old Party member and that she was in the inner group of Communists, and that she, along with her colleague Anna Rochester, was a fanatical Communist and trusted members of the Party. Chambers advised that he was told that Grace Hutchins was the chief financial transactor for the Party. (100-25824-22)

II (B). INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As noted above, Hutchins was the subject of investigation at the time of Chambers' allegations and the investigation has failed to reflect that she was the "chief financial transactor for the Party," although it did reflect that she served as Treasurer for the Communist Party National Campaign Fund.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Hutchins was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Hutchins was not mentioned during the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945.

JOHN WILSON JOHNSTONE, was JACK JOHNSTONE and JOHNSTON

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The first information appearing in the Bureau's files regarding Johnstone is a letter from the State Department dated January 27, 1927, reporting that Johnstone and Earl Browder would be active in a paper called Labor Unity. Another letter dated September 12, 1928, from the State Department requesting investigation to determine if John Wilson Johnstone was identical with Jack Johnstone of the Labor Unity paper. The Federal Bureau of Investigation then instituted an investigation which substantiated that the two men were identical and that Johnstone had been arrested in India on December 18, 1928, where he was attending a Trade Union Congress. It was also revealed that Johnstone as a representative of the Red International of Labor Unions had pledged 25,000 chervontze for organizational work in India. 61-6590-1,2,3,7

Johnstone, according to additional investigation, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, on November 21, 1881, and naturalized as a United States citizen on April 14, 1922. He was a District Organizer for the Communist Party in Pittsburgh in 1933. He ran for office as a Communist candidate for mayor in Chicago in 1938 and the Communist candidate for Illinois State Senator in 1940. Johnstone died in New York City on April 18, 1942. 61-6590-25

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 13, 1942

Chambers stated that Jack Johnston was a former Party Organizer in Pittsburgh and was arrested in 1938 or 1929 by the British in India as a Russian Agent.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was instituted on the basis of the above information, it being noted in the letter transmitting this information that Johnstone was known to be dead.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN June, 1943

No information regarding Johnstone is set forth in Berle notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 10, 1945

Chambers did not mention Johnstone during this interview.

LEON JOSEPHSON

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

By letters dated February 23, March 11, and March 23, 1935, the Danish State Police requested the Federal Bureau of Investigation to conduct an investigation of Leon Josephson, George Mink, and Nicholas Sherman, who were then in custody in Denmark charged with expionage. An investigation was instituted concerning Josephson on the basis of the afore-mentioned letters. This investigation reflected Josephson was born June 17, 1898, at Libau, Latvia. Josephson entered the United States at New York City on July 14, 1900, and was naturalized as a United States citizen on April 25, 1921. Josephson was known to have been active in the American Communist movement as early as 1929 when he acted as an attorney for the International Labor Defense in behalf of the Gastonia Textile Strikers who were charged with violence during that strike.

In 1933 Josephson reportedly was in Mansau, France, where he assisted a Soviet agent who was travelling on an American passport. In June, 1934, Josephson was in the United States and assisted Gerhart Eisler in obtaining a false United States passport under the name of Samuel Liptzen. Josephson at a later date admitted obtaining false passports for numerous other individuals during the 1930's. Jay Lovestone in testifying before the House Committee on Un-American Affairs in 1939 stated that in July, 1938, Leon Josephson had been an OGPU Agent who had been behind the stealing of documents from Lovestone's home. In addition to the foregoing, Josephson is known to have remained active in Communist affairs up until his conviction for contempt for Congress on October 15, 1947, in the Southern District of New York. Josephson is presently serving a one year sentence at the United States Penitentiary at Milan, Michigan. 100-48754-1,11,105,123

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 13, 1942

No information was received from Chambers regarding Josephson at this interview.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN June, 1943

No information concerning Josephson was reflected in Berle's notes which were obtained in June, 1943.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 10, 1945

Chambers furnished information concerning George Mink who had been arrested for espionage in Denmark according to Chambers in the early 1930's. Chambers also advised that he knew from responsible accounts that Leon Josephson, owner of Cafe Society, had been involved with Mink in the affair in Denmark. Chambers said that he did not have any knowledge of Josephson's Communist activities.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No active investigation was conducted based upon Chambers' allegations inasmuch as this information was already well known to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

The information about Kramer was furnished by Chambers during the interview with him on May 10, 1945 by New York agents. At that time Chambers related that in approximately 1931 he accepted the position of Editor of the New Masses. He explained he obtained that position mainly because of the Party's desire to "take out Kramer who had been the Editor and had not been going along smoothly with the Party". (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

A review of the Bureau files reflects that during 1930 and 1931 Walt Carmon (not Kramer) was Managing Editor of New Masses. In 1932 Walt Carmon was employed in Russia as Editor of "International Literature". Walt Carmon returned to the United States in 1936. An Internal Security investigation of Walt Carmon was first instituted by the Bureau in February 1943 and continued until January 1947. (100-189899-22,p.3;28)

CHARLES KRAMER, WITH ALIASES:

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

In connection with the investigation of Alexander Stevens, who was later identified as "J. Peters," a collateral inquiry to identify Charles Kramer was conducted in March and April, 1943, based upon the known association of Kramer with Stevens.

b7D

This inquiry disclosed that Confidential Informant [redacted] in February, 1937 identified Charles Kramer as an investigator for the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee. (61-7559-1044)

The files of the Civil Service Commission reflected that Charles Kramer was born on December 14, 1906, and his legal residence was given as New York City, New York. An investigation conducted by the New York Field Division disclosed that from the period of November 1, 1941 to September 30, 1942, Charles and Mildred Kramer occupied Apartment 53, 61 Pierrepont Street, Brooklyn, New York. At that time Kramer was employed by the National Labor Relations Board, 120 Wall Street, New York City, and as of September 30, 1942, when Kramer vacated his apartment in Brooklyn he indicated that he was being transferred from New York City to the Office of Price Administration, Sixth and Independence Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D. C. (100-184255-82)

The Civil Service Commission files previously referred to disclosed that Kramer had been transferred on February 25, 1943, from the New York Office of the National Labor Relations Board to the Office of Price Administration in the capacity of a Principal Economist at a salary of $5600 per annum. On February 26, 1943, one day later, Kramer's status with the OPA was changed to that of Head Economist at $6500 per annum. As of April 16, 1943, Kramer was residing at Long View, Accokeek, Maryland, and daily commuted to Washington, D. C. (100-184255-90)

The notes made by Berle at the time of his interview with Chambers in September, 1939 were obtained from Berle in June, 1943, and disclosed that Chambers named Charles Krivitsky, whose alias he said was Charles Kramer, as a member of the Ware Underground Group. (100-25824-27)

The Berle notes indicated that Kramer was connected with the CIO and that he worked for the LaFollette Committee.

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

None. Information continued to be received concerning Kramer during the course of the investigation of other Communists.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945 by New York Agents, he named Charles Krivitsky, alias Charles Kramer, John Abt, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlo (later identified by Chambers as Victor Perlo), Alger Hiss, Donald Hiss, _____ Post, Nathan Witt, and an unnamed man described as the husband of Alice Mendham, as members of the Ware Underground Group. Chambers stated that the members of the Ware Group were high-salaried Government employees who were Communist Party members, but that their activities with the Party had ceased when they were transferred to the Communist Party underground. (100-25824-36)

During this same interview with Chambers he related that after Harold Ware's death, he attended a meeting at which John Abt was elected leader of the group. Chambers stated that there were about six men present at that meeting and that to the best of his recollection, they were: Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlo (later identified as Victor Perlo) and Peters (V. J. Peters, alias of Alexander Stevens).

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files at the Defense Homes Corporation, Federal Public Housing Administration, show that Kramer was employed by the Office of Price Administration as Head Economist in the Administrator's Office, and that he had been loaned by the Office of Price Administration to the Sub-Committee of the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Thomas Scott, a former Bureau Agent who was employed at the Capitol in 1945, advised that the name of Charles Kramer was carried on a list maintained by Senator Kilgore of people borrowed from other Agencies for work on the Kilgore Committee. Kramer's name was on the list for May and June, 1945. During November, 1945, according to Scott, Kramer was serving on Senator Claude Pepper's

Wartime Health and Education Sub-Committee. (Rpt of SA Floyd L. Jones, 11-29-45, at Wash., D.C., in the case "Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, was, et al, Esp-R")

An anonymous letter in April, 1944, named Charles Kramer and his wife as members of the Communist underground in Washington. The writer of the letter was later identified as the ex-wife of Victor Perlo, under treatment for insanity, and in a subsequent interview she confirmed the information in the letter about Kramer, and she named Victor Perlo, John Abt, George Silverman, Harry White and Lauchlin Currie, all of whom have figured prominently in the statements of Elizabeth Terrill Bentley, as Communists. She stated that the underground group named by her was originally organized by Hal Ware in 1933. (100-3-60-339)

In addition, information furnished by Elizabeth Terrill Bentley in the Gregory case confirmed the information furnished by Chambers. Bentley recalled that during November, 1943, Jacob Golos stated that through Earl Browder he had recently been placed in contact with a group in Washington, D. C. Early in 1944, Browder arranged a meeting for Bentley with representatives of this group at the apartment of John Abt in New York City. According to Bentley, four individuals who were introduced as Victor Perlo, Charles Kramer, Harry Magdoff and Edward Fitzgerald, as well as John Abt, were in attendance. She stated there was a general discussion as to the type of information which these people, with the exception of John Abt, would be able to furnish. It was apparent to her that these individuals, including John Abt, had been associated together for some time and engaged in furnishing information to Earl Browder. Subsequent meetings were held by representatives of this group in the apartment of Mary Price in New York City and Charles Kramer attended approximately three of these meetings. (65-56402-220)

Investigation, including physical surveillances and technical sources, in the Gregory case disclosed that Kramer was acquainted with the various individuals alleged by Chambers to be members of the Ware underground group. (65-56402-220)

In the early part of 1946, Charles Kramer was in contact with Leon Josephson. Josephson is closely associated with numerous individuals engaged in Communist activity and associated with Communist organizations. In 1935 Josephson was arrested in Copenhagen, Denmark, and charged with espionage on behalf of the Soviet Union. (Technical Surveillance on Charles Kramer) (65-56402-1019)

On May 1, 1946, just before his departure for California to assist Representative Ellis D. Patterson in his primary election campaign there, Charles Kramer was observed to surreptitiously deposit in a refuse can in South Arlington, Virginia, a number of magazines and pamphlets, among which were noted the following: Copies of "New Masses"; Copies of the "Communist"; Issues of "Political Affairs" for May, 1945 and March, 1946 edited by Earl Browder; Copies of "Soviet Russia Today"; Pamphlets entitled, "Moscow, Cairo, Teheran" by Earl Browder; "The 16 Soviet Republics", being Molotov's report to the Soviet; "Talk About the Communist Party" by Earl Browder; "Stages in the History of the Communist Party," published by the Workers Library Publishers; "Policy for Victory" by Earl Browder; "Production for Victory" by Earl Browder; "A New Italy Arises" by Giusseppe Berti; "The Crisis in India" by James S. Allen; "Turning Point for the World" by R. Palme Dutt; "Wage Policy in War Production" by Earl Browder; and "Production Front" by Maurice Dobb, M. A. (65-56402-1187)

A reliable source reported that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kramer received an invitation from the Soviet Embassy, Washington, D. C., in November, 1946, to attend a reception held annually on November 7th in celebration of the November, 1917 Revolution. (Mail cover on Kramer 65-56402-1918)

Charles Kramer was interviewed by Agents of the FBI on August 27, 1947, in Washington, D. C. When advised of the purpose of the interview he stated that he would rather not discuss it, and he remained extremely uncooperative. (65-56402-2777)

In connection with the Gregory investigation, information about Kramer was furnished at various times to the Attorney General, the White House and other interested Government agencies.

CHARLES KRIEGER

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

During the early 1920's, starting in March, 1920, a Charles Krieger was investigated by the Bureau as an I.W.W. leader. However, inasmuch as Chambers did not identify Charles Krieger, it is not known if the Charles Krieger mentioned by Chambers is identical with the Charles Krieger who was an I.W.W. leader. IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945 by New York Agents, he related how he had joined the Communist Party - that in the early part of 1924 he contacted a Jewish friend, Sender Garlin, who was then connected with the Russian-American Relief. Garlin introduced Chambers to a man by the name of Charles Krieger (phonetic), who took Chambers to a small Communist Party meeting in the Hudson River District, where Chambers registered as a member of the Communist Party. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

An old 1923 report entitled "Radical Activities - Philadelphia District," states that Charles Krieger, the well-known I.W.W. agitator, spoke at Philadelphia on December 9, 1923. In view of the activities of this Charles Krieger around the time that Chambers knew Charles Krieger in 1924, it is likely that they are identical. However, inasmuch as Chambers merely mentioned a Charles Krieger (phonetic) as the individual who originally took him to a Communist Party meeting in 1924, without furnishing any identifying data about him, and because Chambers did not indicate he had further contact with Charles Krieger, particularly during Chambers' underground activities, no specific investigation of Charles Krieger was instituted as a result of the allegations by Chambers. (61-71-119, P.1)

HARRY KWEIT

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No active investigation of Harry Kweit was conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation prior to the information received from Chambers.

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 13, 1942

In speaking of water front activities Chambers said he had little information but that first known member of the party connected with the waterfront was Harry Kweit whom Chambers believed was an OGPU or Comintern Agent. The first group organized by Kweit was known as the Seamah's Club.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On the basis of the information from Chambers an active investigation of Harry Kweit was instituted on July 7, 1942. The instructions for this investigation also set forth that Harry Kweit had witnessed a fraudulent passport investigation on November 21, 1929, for Alexander Bittleman, a prominent Communist. It was also noted that Kweit had been sentenced to one year and one day on April 21, 1936 for passport fraud. 100-132479-1

The investigation of Kweit which included a reinterview of Chambers reflected that Kweit was born April 8, 1897, in New York. He entered the United States Navy on April 17, 1918, and received an honorable discharge September 30, 1929. Former Communists have stated that Kweit served on special missions to the comintern in Russia and was active in Communist Party activities among seaman during 1920's. Kweit was ordered to leave India in 1930 by the authorities allegedly because of Communist activity. Kweit had traveled to India on a fraudulent passport obtained in 1929. Kweit had been separated from Amy Schechter, a well known New York Communist, since 1930. Kweit was a licensed radio operator and on November 10, 1942, went to sea as a radio operator on a merchant ship. He was reported lost at sea in the North Atlantic in May, 1943, after the ship he was on was bombed and sunk. 100-132479-10, 14

It might be noted that Gerhart Eisler testified before an Alien Hearing Board in March, 1947, that "Harry" was his contact in the United States who arranged for his fraudulent United States passport in 1934. Leon Josephson in later testimony stated that the Harry referred to by Eisler was Harry Kweit who was dead. 100-132479-22

No information was set forth in these notes concerning Kweit.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers advised that Kweit organized a Seaman's Club on the Waterfront in the twenties and that it was a very small affair and never got very far. He added following this that Kweit disappeared and nobody knew where he was or anything about his activities. He added, one day after his break with the Party when he was coming out of the Carnegie Movie House, Kweit came out at the same time. He stated that Kweit looked somewhat like Gerhart Eisler and that he had married a woman who was a Communist Party organizer in the South under the name of Amy Schechter.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted as a result of the above information inasmuch as when obtained Kweit was dead.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 10, 1945

In connection with his activities as a courier Chambers was asked if he ever contacted other individuals besides those that he had previously mentioned. In connection with Peters, Chambers recalled that on one occasion he was instructed by Peters to proceed to Buffalo, New York, and to take a room in the Statler Hotel and he was told that he would be contacted by a man from Canada who would give him a package which he was to deliver to Peters in New York. He explained that he did go to Buffalo as instructed and that he was contacted in the Statler Hotel by a man that he recalls very vaguely as about 5' 5" in height, in his thirties, with a ruddy complexion. Chambers added that this person did not impress him very favorably and appeared to be very nervous and over cautious. Chambers did not know what the envelope contained which was delivered to him.

No investigation was conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to identify the above described person.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No active investigation was conducted.

II (A). CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers stated that in Washington there was a man by the name of Laurence Duggin (Duggan) who was not connected with the Communist underground but who, he believed, was connected with the OGPU. Chambers stated that Hedda Gumpertz (phonetic), whom he was told was an Austrian, was a direct contact of Duggin. He stated that Hedda Gumpertz was married to Paul Massing, who had written the book "Fatherland." He stated that Mr. and Mrs. Massing were said to have broken with the Party and were said to be living near Quakertown, Pennsylvania. Chambers stated that he thought these two individuals were connected with the Russian terror apparatus of the OGPU and that in his opinion they did not really break with the party.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On the basis of Chambers' information, as active investigation of Paul and Hedi Massing was instituted on July 6, 1942. This investigation reflected that Hedi Tune Massing was formerly married to Gerhart Eisler, but divorced him in 1926 to become the wife of Julian Gumperz.

Paul Wilhelm Massing is a German alien who was born on August 30, 1902 at Grumbach, Germany. Paul Massing became a member of the Communist Party in 1928. In that year Hedi Massing left Julian Gumperz and is now the wife of Paul Massing. Hedi Massing was first active in Soviet espionage in Europe as early as 1930, later coming to the United States where she was active until 1936. Paul Massing, after coming out of a German concentration camp came to the U. S. in 1933. In November of 1935 he went to Europe to work in the Soviet intelligence under the former Soviet Agent Ignatz Reiss. After Reiss was murdered in 1937 by Soviet Agents, Paul and Hedi Massing were called to Moscow and were interviewed for seven months by the NKVD concerning their work in the Reiss apparatus. They then returned to the United States, having reportedly broken with Soviet intelligence.

Paul and Hedi Massing were extensively interviewed in March of 1947 by Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, at which time they gave a great deal of valuable information concerning Soviet espionage. They have both continued to be cooperative and valuable in identifying persons engaged in Soviet espionage in the 1930's, up to the present time.

(65-9940-97,100)

Copies of reports concerning the Massings have been sent to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice and dissemination of information received from the Massings has been made available to the other Government agencies.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Mr. Berle's notes reflect the following:

"West European Div'n - Field - still in - (Levine says he is out went into I.E.O.
Then in Committee for Repatriation
His leader was Hedda Gompertz."

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted based upon Mr. Berle's notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Chambers stated that Duggin had been a close associate of Hedda Gomperts who is presently married to Paul Massing, author of the book "Fatherland." Chambers stated that Duggin's association with Hedda Gomperts, whom he knew to be a Communist, indicated that Duggin might possibly have been a fellow traveler.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted based upon this information. Hedi Massing when interviewed in the Spring of 1947 stated that Duggin had never worked in Soviet Intelligence to her knowledge and was not a Communist insofar as she knew. (65-9940-94)

GEORGE MINK

CONFIDENTIAL

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

By letters dated February 23, March 11, and March 23, 1935, the Danish State Police requested the Federal Bureau of Investigation to conduct an investigation of George Mink, Leon Josephson and Nicholas Sherman, who were then in custody in Denmark charged with Soviet espionage. The Danish authorities stated that Mink had in his possession three American passports which were later found to be United States passports fraudulently obtained. Mink allegedly had been born on April 23, 1899 at Scranton, Pennsylvania, although no such birth record has ever been located. It is believed that he was actually born in Russia. The investigation of Mink reflected he was well known in waterfront and Communist circles, having been to Moscow and having acted as a representative of the Red International of Labor Unions (Profintern). Mink was also reported to have been active during the Civil War in Spain as a Soviet Agent. (61-8648-20)

Mink's whereabouts since 1940 are not known although he has been variously reported as in many cities in the United States, in Russia and most often in Mexico City. (61-8648-65)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers stated that Mink had been very active in a Seaman's Club which had been organized by the Communist Party and which had been under the leadership of Harry Kweit. Chambers said that Mink later took over this organization which thereupon became more active. Chambers believes that Mink was a member of the OGPU terrorist group. He stated that Mink was in this country in 1938 and 1939 and that he believed he was on a mission to assassinate Trotsky. He stated that there was evidence that Mink was active in the OGPU in Spain and had a hand in some murder. He said that Mink was a close friend of Earl Browder and is a nephew of Alexander Losofsky, who was the organizer of the Profintern. He stated that Mink was always a Stalinist which would certainly qualify him for the OGPU. He said that Mink had been one of the Soviet Agents arrested in Denmark in 1935 and that the arrest had been caused by Mink's attempted rape of a chambermaid. He stated that as far as he knew Mink then dropped out of the picture until he reappeared in the United States in connection with the Trotsky assignment.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' information inasmuch as extensive investigation was already being conducted regarding Mink.

III CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

No information is contained in the Berle Notes regarding Mink.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers stated that he was acquainted with George Mink and had seen him several times around the offices of the Daily Worker and the Communist Party headquarters in the early 1930's before Mink was arrested in Denmark for espionage. He advised that he had no definite information indicating that Mink had returned to the United States as he had stated during the 1942 interview but observed that the rumor that Mink had returned to the United States in 1938 was so persistent that he believed there must be some basis to it. He said that according to the best of his recollection the rumor was to the effect that Mink had come to the United States in 1938 and had gone to Florida where he had taken a ship to Latin America.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted on the basis of Chambers' allegations as set forth above.

Peters told him about the activities of Moren and had explained to him that he was purchasing arms

Peters had further advised that Lee Pressman had been accompanied by Moren to Mexico late in 1936 and that a small Texas newspaper had reported both of their names in connection with an airplane accident near Brownsville, Texas. Chambers could not furnish any additional information concerning Moren and stated that he did not believe that Moren had an alias of Philipovitch as had been set forth in the notes of the conversation between Berle and Chambers. Eleanor Nelson, who is believed to be identical with Elinor Nelson, Eleanor Nelson Porter, and Eleanor Nelson Soyring, has been the subject of Bureau investigation since December, 1940, in connection with an Internal Security - C investigation. In March, 1941, the Attorney General authorized an investigation of Eleanor Nelson at the request of the Secretary of Labor. It was ascertained from the personnel files of the Department of Labor that Eleanor Nelson Porter had been employed by the Department of Labor from August, 1929, until June 30, 1937, when she had resigned as an assistant economic analyst. It was ascertained through discreet inquiry in October, 1941, at the offices of the United Federal Workers of America in Washington, D. C., that Eleanor Nelson was national secretary-treasurer of the UFWA at that time. As a result of this information, the Hatch Act investigation was discontinued. In 1941, Mr. Paul Porter, the husband of Eleanor Nelson from 1933 to 1934, described his former wife as being a Communist.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers advised that Nathan Perlow was a member of the Harold Ware group of the Communist Party underground in approximately 1935. He described Perlow as being associated at that time with the Brookings Institute in Washington, D. C. Chambers also stated that after the death of Harold Ware a meeting was held and at this meeting John Abt was elected the new leader of the group. Chambers stated that he was present at this meeting which took place in the residence of Henry Collins and that to the best of his recollection the following persons were present at this meeting: Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlow, and J. Peters. Chambers further stated that Nathan Perlow had been the other candidate for leader and that he received only one vote. 100-25824-36 p. 11 and 14

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

A search of the Bureau files fails to reflect an individual with the name of Nathan Perlow answering the description set forth by Chambers. In November

CONFIDENTIAL

1945 an intensive investigation was initiated concerning the activities of Victor Perlo as a result of information furnished by Elizabeth Terrill Bentley alleging that Perlo was a member of a Soviet espionage ring. 65-56402-220

This investigation reflected that on November 7, 1945, Victor Perlo was employed by the Research Coordinators Staff, Bureau of Progress and Statistics in the Office of the Director of the Civil Production Administration. On December 14, 1945, he transferred to the Division of Monetary Research in the Treasury Department. He resigned from the Treasury Department on or about March 31, 1947. 65-56402-219, 2477

As a result of the information which Elizabeth Bentley furnished in the fall of 1945, a memorandum dated February 21, 1946, captioned "Underground Soviet Espionage Organization (NKVD) in Agencies of the United States Government" was furnished to General Harry H. Vaughan, Military Aide to the President, to the Secretary of State and the Attorney General. This memorandum was distributed on February 25, 1946, and contained a summary on Victor Perlo. The summary on Perlo included the information on Nathan Perlow as furnished by Whittaker Chambers. It was pointed out in this memorandum that Nathan Perlow may be identical with Victor Perlo. Chambers advised that Nathan Perlow was an economist and formerly associated with the Brookings Institute in Washington, D. C. The credit records in Washington, D. C., reflect that Victor Perlo was employed at Brookings Institute as a mathematician and reviewer. 65-56402-573

In 1947 Whittaker Chambers was shown the photograph of Victor Perlo and at the time identified Nathan Perlow as being identical with Victor Perlo. 65-56402-2260, page 73

Distribution of information developed through the case entitled "Nathan Gregory Silvermaster" has been furnished to the Attorney General, The White House and other government agencies. On May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers advised that there was a man by the name of Post, who was obtained to work in connection with the underground movement of the Communist Party. Chambers described Post as an anthropologist connected with skull measurements in the WPA and later became co-editor of the State Department's house organ (State Department's publication). III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

In the notes furnished to the Bureau in June, 1943, by Mr. Berle, there appeared the name of Post under the heading "State". Post was described as having the editorship of the Foreign Service Journal and was in the Alexandria Unit of the Communist Party, and was in the "underground apparatus." (100-25824-27 page 2)

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

None.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers identified Post as the editor in 1939 of the Foreign Service Journal of the State Department. He stated that he first met Post in his home in Alexandria, Virginia, when Chambers addressed a small unit meeting of the Communist underground, of which Post was the leader. He said that this group was one of the newer groups which had been created, and that it was considered very weak on doctrine, and that he had been assigned to give them an "indoctrination pep talk." Chambers stated that to the best of his recollection Post had been employed by the WPA on a project of measuring babies' heads. At the time of Chambers' visit to Post's home, he stated that he was very much surprised to find that Post, a leader of a Communist underground unit, was living in such a sumptuous home. He explained that Post's wife spoke a very rarified form of English, and that they had two negro maids as servants.
(100-2582-36 page 12)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As a result of a State Department inquiry concerning Richard H. Post, that Department was orally furnished information concerning the allegations made by Whittaker Chambers concerning one Post on September 26, 1947. (121-63-1)

On December 29, 1947, a loyalty investigation was initiated on Richard Howell Post, foreign service official in the State Department. The request for report of loyalty data form signed by Richard Howell Post reflected that he was born January 17, 1904, in New York, New York. From May, 1937, to October, 1937, he was employed in the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. From October, 1937, to January, 1940, he stated that he was unemployed, but had a part-time job with the Foreign Service Journal. From January, 1940, to the date of the request (September 3, 1947) it was indicated that Post was employed in the Foreign Service Branch of the State Department. This form indicated that from May, 1937, to May, 1939, Richard Howell Post resided at 212 South Pitt Street, Alexandria, Virginia. (121-63-4)

In connection with the loyalty investigation, Whittaker Chambers was reinterviewed on February 7, 1948, when he again advised that he first met a Mr. Post in the latter's home in Alexandria, Virgina. He stated that this was in approximately 1936, and that he was introduced to Mr. Post at that time by J. Peters. During this interview, Whittaker Chambers was shown a photograph of Richard Howell Post and was asked to identify the photograph in connection with the Post he had previously described. Chambers then advised, "I am not able to recognize or deny that this photograph is a picture of the Post whom I knew to be associated with the State Department, and at whose home in Alexandria, Virginia, I addressed a Communist Party cell. It has been such a long period since I have seen Post that I don't feel able to state that this photograph is a picture of Post." (121-63-27, page 3; 121-63-33)

On May 1, 1948, four copies each of the investigative reports reflecting the results of the loyalty investigation were forwarded to the Civil Service Commission. (121-63-34)

Photostatic copies of these reports are presently being prepared for submission to the Department of Justice.

WEBSTER POWELL, WITH ALIAS:
WEB POWELL

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

In July, 1940 the Los Angeles Office advised that it had received a report from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office which disclosed that a Mrs. Webster Powel, nee Alice Mendham, and her husband, Webster Powel, were then employed by the Government on the Labor Relations Board. The report stated further that, according to Mrs. Carrie Greene, 820 South Cochran Avenue, Los Angeles, Alice Mendham became interested in Communism at Columbia University, New York City, and that upon completing her course there she inherited a small fortune and went to Moscow, Russia for instructions and training. According to Mrs. Greene, Alice Mendham, while en route to Russia met her husband, Webster Powel, who was en route to Russia for the same purpose. Mrs. Powel reportedly resided at Trotsky's home in Russia for more than a year. Mrs. Greene stated that Mr. and Mrs. Powel had recently passed through Los Angeles en route to San Diego, California, and that due to the Trotsky connection in Russia, she believed the purpose of their trip at that time was to enable Mrs. Powel to contact Trotsky at some nearby place. (61-10404-1)

Photostatic material obtained in 1942 from Walter Steele, of the National Republic Magazine, includes a letterhead of the National Committee to Aid Striking Miners Fighting Starvation, 799 Broadway, New York City, containing a form letter dated in November, 1931. The letterhead set forth the names of a number of individuals, apparently sponsors of the Committee, and one of the names was that of Webster Powell. (100-153571-1 Enc.)

In August, 1940, the San Diego Office advised that Alice Coe Mendham was listed as a Philadelphia member of the Philadelphia Committee of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners in 1934. (61-10404-2)

On November 4, 1941, a technical source disclosed that Miss Alice Mendham asked the Soviet Embassy in Washington for the name of the Washington agent who handled Soviet bonds. According to the source, the inquiry was on behalf of a friend who had such bonds. (65-30092-512)

A membership list of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action in 1941 contained the name, Miss Alice Coe Mendham, Green Acres School, Silver Spring, Maryland, SHephard-5138. (100-4590-9 Page 162)

In 1941 a highly confidential source furnished a list of persons connected with the Capital City Forum, an allegedly radical lecture group in the District of Columbia, which included the name Webster Powell, Macsfolly Farm, Silver Spring, Maryland, which indicated that his name was obtained from the contact list of the League of Industrial Democracy. (100-26255-1 P.82)

Copies of correspondence and other material of the United Spanish Aid Committee disclosed in June, 1942 the names of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Powell as persons who were believed to be in the Committee's active indices. (100-7061-124 P.21)

During an interview with Charles E. Persons, Trial Examiner, National Labor Relations Board, Washington, D. C., and Henry J. Kent, also of the NLRB, on January 9, 1943, by an Agent of the Washington Field Office, they referred to a Communist faction in the NLRB and named Webster Powell as one of the NLRB employees in that faction. (62-41918-96)

In January, 1947 a highly confidential source furnished the names in the address book of Henry Hill Collins, Jr. Under a heading of "Foreign" were included two names as follows:

Kisseloff-26437

but that their activities with the Party had ceased when they were transferred to the Communist Party underground. Chambers recalled the following individuals as members of the Ware Underground Group:

John Abt
Lee Pressman
Henry Collins
Nathan Perlo (later identified by Chambers as Victor Perlo)
Charles Kramer, also known as Charles Krivitsky
Alger Hiss
Donald Hiss
_____ Post
Nathan Witt
and an unnamed man who was described as the husband of Alice Mendham.

Concerning the latter individual, Chambers stated that he could not recall the name of this man, but remembered him to be a short fellow who was the husband of Alice Mendham, who ran a school on the Virginia side of Washington. He was unable to recall this man well enough to give any physical description of him. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

During an interview with Alger Hiss on June 2, 1947 by Bureau Agents, he stated that he had known Alice Mendham since about 1933 or 1934 when she was running a children's school. He stated that her husband's last name was Powell, but that he could not recall his first name. (65-56402-2530, P.6)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Juliet Stuart Poyntz was born November 25, 1886 at Omaha, Nebraska, and married Frederick Franz Ludwig Glaser on October 8, 1913. (100-206603-7 p.2)

From 1928 to 1934 Juliet Poyntz was active in Communist Party circles in the vicinity of New York and in 1928 was the Communist candidate for Attorney General of New York. On June 3, 1937, Juliet Poyntz mysteriously disappeared from her quarters at the American Women's Association Club, 353 West 57th Street, New York City. According to accounts appearing in New York papers at that time various reasons were assigned as explanation of why she might have disappeared. The first of these reasons was that she had broken with the Communist Party and was writing a book of memoirs in which she exposed Communism and the inter-working of the Russian Military Intelligence Service. Another reason why she may have disappeared, according to the New York World Telegram, was the fact that she was litigating the estate of her husband, Dr. Frederick Glaser, an economist connected with the German Consulate in New York City. The Daily Worker admitted that Juliet Poyntz had been a member of the Communist Party until 1934 but the Party disavowed any entanglement in her disappearance. (100-206603-3 p. 2)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

An investigation was instituted by the Bureau concerning the disappearance of Juliet Poyntz in 1944 to ascertain whether Juliet Poyntz's disappearance was a real disappearance or one manufactured by the NKVD with the purpose of enabling Juliet Poyntz to function more effectively in the ranks of the NKVD. IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS OF MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers' attention was invited to the allegation that he had previously made concerning the disappearance of Juliet Poyntz. Whittaker Chambers stated, at that time, that he did not recall ever making any statement concerning the disappearance of Poyntz and advised that he had never had any information onwhich to base such a remark. He pointed out that in conversations with many different individuals he had discussed Poyntz's disappearance but that he had never run across any information which he would consider factual or which would constitute a logical lead as to her whereabouts. (100-25824-36 p. 16)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation concerning the disappearance of Juliet Poyntz continued until December 1945 after Elizabeth Terrill Bentley advised that she had never heard of Juliet Poyntz subsequent to her mysterious disappearance and that Jacob Golos had advised her that Juliet Poyntz had been "liquidated." (100-206603-15 p. 1)

The Bureau's files do not reflect that reports on its investigation of Juliet Poyntz were distributed outside the Bureau.

LEE PRESSMAN
ALIAS LEON PRESSMAN

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation of Lee Pressman, whose correct name is Leon Pressman, was initiated in 1941 upon a review of information in the files of the Metropolitan Police Department, Washington, D. C., indicating that Pressman was possibly a member of the Communist Party. 100-11820-1 p. 1

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On May 13, 1942, Whittaker Chambers advised that prior to 1937 he and Harold Ware began to organize the men in the New Deal and to make such individuals a part of the underground organization of the Communist Party. He stated that one of the converts at that time was Lee Pressman of the AAA who had since gone to the CIO on the direct advice of the Party itself. Chambers advised that it was important that Pressman should be Lewis' right hand man. 100-25824-22 p. 3

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The allegations made by Whittaker Chambers on May 13, 1942, were set forth in the report of Special Agent Russell E. White, New York, New York, dated 3-29-43, entitled "Leon Pressman, wa.". A copy of this report was furnished to the Division of Records in the Department of Justice on April 12, 1943. 100-11820-31 p. 2

Investigation conducted as a result of the information furnished by Chambers reflects that the personnel file of Lee Pressman was examined at the Department of Agriculture. This file reflected that on July 13, 1933 Pressman was appointed as Chief Attorney in the AAA at six thousand dollars per annum in Washington, D. C. He resigned this position on February 2, 1935. From July 1, 1935 until June 30, 1939 he held various administrative positions in the Resettlement Administration and the Farm Security Administration. 100-11820-19 p. 3

Subsequent to his government employment he was appointed General Counsel for the National CIO. 100-11820-31

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

The notes obtained from Mr. Berle in June 1943 contained the following

Kisseloff-26441 ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

notations:

> "Rosenbliett - in U.S. was 'front' behind Mack Moren - existed in Miller's employ - knew Pressman - his alias was 'Cole Phillips' - Introduced him to Mack Moren, buying arms for Spanish (Loyalist) Government -- Pressman - as counsel - helped Moren -- made a flight to Mexico with him; forced down at Brownsville, Texas, in late 1936 or early 1937 -- probably fall of 1936."

The notes also reflected that Pressman was in the underground organized by the late Harold Ware. The notes further read as follows: "Pressman was in his group (1932-3?) Pressman then in the AAA," and also reflected that Donald Hiss was a member of the Communist Party with Pressman and Witt. 100-25824-27, p.1&4

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation concerning Pressman continued but the information set forth in the Berle notes was not included in the investigative reports covering the activities of Pressman.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

On May 10, 1945, Whittaker Chambers advised that Mark Moren was somewhat of a mythical underground character who was heard about in Communist circles during the Spanish Civil War. J. Peters had informed Chambers that Lee Pressman had accompanied Moren to Mexico late in 1936 and that a small Texas newspaper had reported both of their names in connection with an airplane accident near Brownsville, Texas. Chambers stated that Lee Pressman was a member of the Harold Ware underground group of the Communist Party and described Pressman as later becoming General Counsel of the National CIO. Chambers advised that after Harold Ware's death a meeting took place in the home of Henry Collins and that John Abt was elected leader of this group. Chambers stated that he was present at this meeting and to the best of his recollection the following persons were present at that time: Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlow, and J. Peters. 100-25824-36, p. 14

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On March 25, 1946, the Washington Field Office furnished the Bureau and New York a summary of the activities of Lee Pressman and this memorandum contained the allegations made by Whittaker Chambers on May 10, 1945. This summary was not furnished to any outside agencies and the allegations made by Chambers on May 10, 1945, have not been included in an investigative report concerning the activities of Pressman. 100-11820-62

The investigation concerning the activities of Lee Pressman is presently in a pending status. According to an article appearing in the February 9, 1948, issue of the CIO News, Pressman resigned as General Counsel of the CIO on February 6, 1948. 100-11820-419, p. 2

Re: FRANCIS VICTOR RENO, was Victor Reno, Vincent Reno,
Lance Clark, "Ves".

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Francis Victor Reno was brought to the attention of the Bureau on December 20, 1939 when data was provided by the Intelligence Officer of the Third Corps Area, United States Army, reflecting that this individual was a civilian employee at the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland and was reported to have been an active Communist while in college. The Army Intelligence Officer advised that an investigation was then being conducted of Reno, based upon a request by the War Department.

The substance of this information indicated that Reno, while a student at the University of Virginia, had been active in a group known as the National Students League, which was allegedly a Communist organization. The Army had checked with representatives at the University and had been informed that Reno during his student days had been considered an active radical. The Army stated that their investigation had failed to indicate that Reno was engaged at that time in subversive activities and that a report of the investigation had been returned to the War Department without any recommendation.

It was noted that Reno had been employed as a civilian by the Army originally on July 26, 1937 as a mathematician and worked in the computing section of the Ballistic Research Laboratory. The Army file indicated that Reno was born at Salt Lake City on May 14, 1911 and attended the University of Virginia from 1932 to 1935, graduating with a Masters Degree. The information further indicated that the employee had previously worked for the WPA in Washington as an Assistant Statistical Clerk from September 1935 to March 1937. (Victor Reno, according to Army records, had a brother named Philip Reno who was employed by the Social Security Board.) The Army Intelligence officer requested that no investigation be made of Reno by the FBI. No investigation was made of Reno by the Bureau based upon this information.

II CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

This individual was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview on the above date.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes, based upon an interview of Chambers in 1939, contain the following reference to one Vincent Reno, who is apparently identical with Francis Victor Reno:

"Vincent Reno - Now at Aberdeen Proving Grounds -
Computer - Math. Assist. to Col. Zornig
(Aerial bomb sight Detectors)
Formerly CP organizer under alias 'Lance Clark'."
(100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear from the Bureau files that investigation was conducted of this individual based upon the reference in the Berle notes.

However, in the report of the Intelligence Division, Third Service Command, Baltimore, Maryland dated December 15, 1943, a copy of which was furnished the Bureau, the Army set forth the results of its investigation of Francis Victor Reno which in substance disclosed that while taking his Masters Degree at the University of Virginia from 1932 to 1935, Reno was involved in the National Students League, created considerable agitation on the campus and evidenced general Communistic tendencies. The Army report reflected, however, that during his employment at the Aberdeen Proving Ground from 1935 to the date of the report, there had been no indication of any such tendencies on his part. A recommendation was made in the report to place Reno under further observation and to develop fully his background from 1935 to 1937.

It is to be noted that the Army was provided with a copy of the report prepared by the Baltimore Office of the FBI dated November 1, 1943 reflecting an investigation of Philip Reno, brother of Francis Victor Reno, and indicating that Philip Reno had reportedly been brought to Baltimore, Maryland by Dr. Blumberg to work for the Communist Party. This report also reflected that Philip Reno was associating with known Communists in his position as editor of the official organ of a local labor organization, which had been reported by informants to be Communist dominated. This report also contained information concerning Francis Victor Reno.

Kisselloff-26444 CONFIDENTI

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

This invididual was not mentioned in the Chambers interview on the above date.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Information was provided by the Baltimore Office on March 1, 1948 concerning Francis Victor Reno in connection with the investigation of loyalty of Government employees. This information indicated that data was available concerning this individual to the Baltimore Office indicating that he was at one time employed by the Aberdeen Proving Ground and making reference to information previously furnished by Army Intelligence. The Baltimore Office also indicated that information had been received on July 21, 1947 indicating that one Lance Clark, whose real name was Reno, had in August, 1936 recruited a confidential informant of the Baltimore Office into the Farmers Labor Party at Cumberland, Maryland. The source stated that a meeting of this party had taken place in the month of September, 1936 at which time the informant learned for the first time that he had in fact joined the Communist Party. Lance Clark upon being questioned concerning this by the informant reportedly stated that the Communists were the spark plugs of the Farmers Labor Party and "what is the difference in a name if the program and aims are identical?"

(121-1765-1

The Baltimore Office was instructed on March 12, 1948 by the Bureau to ascertain immediately whether or not Francis Victor Reno was still an employee of the Government at the Aberdeen Proving Ground.

(121-1765-1)

The Baltimore Office advised on March 20, 1948 that it had determined from Army authorities that on July 16, 1947 Reno had become ill and had subsequently been moved to a hospital in Baltimore, Maryland. The last report had indicated that his condition was extremely critical and his recovery was questionable.

(121-1765-2)

On March 31, 1948, the Bureau advised the Baltimore Office that in view of these circumstances, no further investigation should be conducted but that arrangements should be made with the Army Intelligence authorities at the Aberdeen Proving Ground to advise immediately in the event Reno returned to active service with the Government.

Re: PHILIP RENO, alias Phil Reno

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

On August 13, 1941 the Washington Field Office advised the Bureau in connection with the Hatch Act that Philip Reno, an employee of the Social Security Board, had reportedly appeared on the mailing or membership lists of the American Peace Mobilization, Washington, D. C.

(101-1634-1)

On August 27, 1941 a memorandum was forwarded to Mr. Matthew F. McGuire, Assistant to the Attorney General, setting forth available information concerning Reno in accordance with the existing Congressional instructions and requesting whether investigation should be conducted. It is noted that the information provided in addition to the data concerning possible affiliation with the American Peace Mobilization that in August, 1936, information was submitted to the effect that Philip Reno, Social Security Board Lodge No. 245, was reportedly a Communist or a sympathizer of that movement. In addition, it was reported that one Philip Reno, according to a confidential source, employed by the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C., was a close associate in the Communist activities of one Sam Dean, who was described as being a Communist. Also included was a report by a confidential source received during December, 1940, that Philip Reno, employed by the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C., was allegedly the Communist Party organizer for the Federal employees in Washington, D. C. This same source stated that Reno addressed a Communist meeting at the Rubber Workers Hall, Cumberland, Maryland during the summer of 1939 and that the meeting was allegedly for members and perspective members of the Communist Party. The informant advised that Reno's presence at such a meeting would definitely indicate his membership in the Party although he had not definitely stated he was a Communist.

(101-1634-1)

On November 12, 1941, available information was likewise forwarded to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special Defense Unit, Department of Justice.

(101-1634-2)

Investigation in connection with the Hatch Act as reported by the Washington Field Office on February 9, 1942, indicated that Philip Reno was employed by the Social Security Board of the Federal Security

Agency from April 27, 1936 to that date. His name appeared on the Dies Committee list as a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. It was also confidentially reported that the name of his wife, Ruth Reno, appeared on the active indices of this organization and that the names of both Reno and his wife appeared on the active indices of the American Peace Mobilization, later known as the American Peoples Mobilization. The auto registered to Reno was observed in the vicinity of an anti-conscription meeting of the American Peace Mobilization on September 4, 1940. Informants further revealed that the intimates of Reno are also identified with either one or both of the aforenamed organizations and among these are two individuals reported to be known Communists. Ruth Reno, wife of Philip Reno, was reportedly employed until May, 1941 as the private secretary of Sidney R. Katz, who was allegedly one of the leaders of the Communist movement in the District of Columbia.

(101-1634-9)

Further investigation by the Denver, Colorado Office indicated that Reno had been transferred to the Social Security Board, Denver Regional Office on February 3, 1941. Available informants advised that it was not definitely known whether Reno was a member of the Communist Party but was reported at least sympathetic with its views.

In accordance with the established procedure for conducting Hatch Act investigations, Reno was interviewed by a Bureau agent at Denver, Colorado on March 16, 1942. Under oath he denied past or present membership in the Communist Party, but declined to answer questions on whether he was a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, American Youth Congress, American Peoples Mobilization or the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties.

(101-1634-11)

Reno also denied having addressed a Communist Party meeting at Cumberland, Maryland or a Communist meeting anywhere at any time and further denied attending an anti-conscription meeting of the American Peace Mobilization.

(101-1634-11)

On April 24, 1942, the results of the investigation conducted concerning Philip Reno were forwarded to the Honorable Paul V. McNutt, Administrator, Federal Security Agency, Washington, D. C., requesting advice as to the ultimate disposition of this case.

(101-1634-12)

By letter dated July 7, 1942, the Bureau was informed by the Federal Security Agency that the employee, Philip Reno, had been exonerated and no further action was being taken.

(101-1634-14)

On September 1, 1942, copies of reports in connection with the Hatch Act investigation were forwarded to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special War Policies Unit of the Department of Justice.

(101-1634-16)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

This individual was not mentioned in the Chambers interview on the above date.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

These notes contain the following references to Philip Reno:

"Philip Reno - in Social Security (??) -
was head of Underground Trade Union Group
Political leader.

"Reno connected with Baltimore Party
organizer - Benjamin (Bundey) Friedman
alias Field - then California - then Russia
- now organizer for Baltimore & Washington
of Above-Ground Party - Underground connections."

"Philip Reno - used to be."

(It would appear that the information set forth above concerning Reno's connection with the Baltimore Party organizer, Friedman and the ensuing information concerning California, Russia, etc., refers to the activities of Friedman rather than Reno. See another section of this memorandum relative to Benjamin Friedman).

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Although it appears that no specific investigation was made

CONFIDENTIAL

based upon references in the Berle notes concerning Philip Reno, active investigation was re-instituted concerning this individual in May, 1943 when Reno was reported to have left the Government service in Denver, Colorado and obtained employment with a labor organization in Baltimore, Maryland. Investigation by the Baltimore Office indicated that Reno was closely associated with a number of prominent Communist figures in the Baltimore area and Reno himself was reported by informants to be believed to be a Communist due to his adherence to the Communist line and association with known members of the Party.

(61-1634-22)

A report in November, 1943 indicated that information had been received reflecting that Reno had been brought to Baltimore by Albert Blumberg, National Legislative Representative of the Communist Party and was continuing his association with known Communists in the Baltimore area.

(101-1634-28)

Reno returned to Denver, Colorado from Baltimore in October, 1943. In Denver, Reno obtained employment with the Denver CIO Council and was reported to be in frequent contact with officials at the Communist Political Association Headquarters in Denver.

(101-1634-29, 34, 35)

While in Denver he was known to have been contacted by two prominent National Communist figures, John Williamson and Lem Harris.

(101-1634-39)

During 1945 and early 1946 Reno held a number of non-governmental positions, primarily with labor organizations and continued his close contact with Communist Party officials in Denver, Colorado.

(101-1634-52)

It was reported that Reno attended the Communist Party State Convention on May 18, 1946 and the Communist Party State Board meeting on July 5, 1946 at Denver, Colorado. He continued, according to information received, to meet with Communist Party functionaries.

(101-1634-53)

A summary of evidence concerning the Communist activities of Reno was submitted on February 6, 1947 indicating that information had been received reflecting that Reno was then a member of the State Executive Committee of the Communist Party of Colorado and outlined further his

Kisseloff-26449 CONFIDENTIAL

Communist Party associations and affiliations, including information which was developed showing that Reno had endeavored to recruit an individual to join the Communist Party in December, 1942.

(101-1634-56)

Reno attended the Rocky Mountain Conference of the Communist Party on October 11, 1947 at Denver, Colorado. He was reported to have left Denver for New Mexico. Information was developed indicating that Reno was being criticized by Communist Party officials in Denver for possible factionalism.

(101-1634-61)

Investigation verified Reno's residence in Santa Fe, New Mexico and Albuquerque, New Mexico and return to Denver, Colorado in April, 1948. Informants reported that Reno had been expelled from the Communist Party at Denver, Colorado on June 28, 1948 for factional activities.

(101-1634-66)

In this connection it has been reported that possibly Reno has joined a nation-wide group of former members of the Communist Party who were expelled from the Party for so-called factionalism and who are believed to have been planning the ouster of present leadership of the Communist Party. These individuals included such former prominent Communist members as Lyle Dowling, Vern Smith and Harrison George.

(101-1634-63)

Pertinent reports reflecting the results of the investigation of Philip Reno have been currently made available to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

IV CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Philip Reno was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview conducted on the above date.

ANNA ROCHESTER

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation was initiated by the New York Office in April 1941 concerning Anna Rochester, 85 Bedford Street, New York City, as she was being considered for custodial detention. This investigation reflected that the Daily Worker for May 8, 1940, page 4, reflected that Anna Rochester was a member of the Communist Party. (100-12805-4 p. 2)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers advised on May 13, 1942, that in his opinion OGPU agents would definitely be traveling with a great amount of money on their person but that there were those in the Party who acted as financial agents and who supplied such members with money. He mentioned one of these members was Grace Hutchins. He described her as being an old Party member and was in the inner group of Communists. He stated that Grace Hutchins along with her colleague Anna Rochester were fanatical Communists and trusted members of the Party. Chambers advised that he was told that Grace Hutchins was the chief financial transactor for the Party. (100-25824-22 p. 6)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On August 4, 1942, the Bureau instructed the New York Office to reopen the investigation concerning Anna Rochester and it was specifically pointed out in this letter that Anna Rochester was referred to by Whittaker Chambers as a fanatical Communist and trusted member of the Party. It was subsequently ascertained by New York that Anna Rochester was born March 30, 1880, in New York City, according to the New York Board of Health. From 1912 to 1915 Anna Rochester was publications secretary of the National Child Labor Committee and from 1915 to 1919, she was a publications worker for the U.S. Children's Bureau. In 1922 she was a joint author with Grace Hutchins of "Jesus Christ and the World Today." Subsequent to 1928 she was a research worker and writer with the Labor Research Association. Her Party membership was designated as "Communist." Anna Rochester has not been employed by the U.S. Government since 1919. (100-12805-10 p. 2) (100-12805-8)

[redacted] apartment of Anna Rochester advised that she resided with Grace Hutchins and that Rochester and Hutchins maintained a very extensive library with books of interest to the Communist Party. Re: DR. PHILIP ROSENBLIETT

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Initial inquiry concerning Dr. Philip Rosenbliett was made by the Bureau in connection with the investigation of Moische (Maurice) Stern, was, etal, Espionage. It was reported in connection with this investigation that on August 3, 1935, Lydia Stahl, a Soviet Espionage Agent who was convicted in Paris, France, had sent Ingrid Bostrom to see a Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, a dentist whose office was then on the sixteenth floor at 1440 Broadway, New York City, residence, 143 West 87th Street, New York City, for the purpose of informing him that Lydia Stahl wanted to leave the United States.

Investigation in the same case indicated that on the afternoon of September 8, 1931, on the day which subject, Stern obtensibly obtained secret plans from an informant in the case was observed while under surveillance to go to an office on the sixteenth floor at 1440 Broadway, New York City.
(61-6670-19, page 21)

Later, in connection with the investigation of Nicholas Dozenberg, an admitted Soviet Espionage Agent, Dozenberg was interviewed on February 26, 1940, and stated that in 1929 or 1930 there was a doctor's office in New York City where money was brought in from Russia by German seaman couriers. This money was to be used by Soviet Espionage Agents in the United States. According to Dozenberg, this office of the dentist was also a place where people coming to the United States could be met and where they received assignments. Dozenberg was first taken to this office by Alfred Tilton whom Dozenberg understood was then in charge of operations in the United States.

During an interview with Dozenberg at the Lewisburg Penitentiary in June, 1940, by a Bureau agent it was learned from Dozenberg that the dentist referred to was named Rosenbliett. (61-6670-19)

Dozenberg further alleged that Rosenbliett was a financial agent for Expionage Agents in the United States. Investigation of Rosenbliett determined that his full name was Dr. Philip Rosenbliett and that he had been practicing dentistry in New York City since October 1, 1917, and that his license had been renewed annually until 1936. Inquiry further reflected that Rosenbliett was born in Russia, November 3, 1895, and had received his degree in dentistry from the New York College of Dental and Oral Surgery in 1917.
(61-6670-24)

A check of the building at 1440 Broadway indicated that Rosenbliett had maintained an office in room 1657 from May 1, 1930 to April 19, 1935, at which time he informed the rental agent that he was returning to Russia to attend to business. He left no forwarding address. It was further determined that Rosenbliett is still the owner of a rooming house at 89 West 118th Street, Harlem, New York, and his affairs in the United States were being managed by Harold Klein, 342 Madison Avenue, an attorney, and his brother-in-law, Dr. Morris Greenberg. (61-6670-26)

Further information developed that Rosenbliett had immigrated to the United States in September, 1905, and was naturalized at New York City on May 3, 1910. On June 18, 1936, Rosenbliett obtained an American passport to include his wife for the professed purpose of visiting England, France, and Austria. The exact whereabouts of Rosenbliett were not determined. (61-6670-30)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On the above date Chambers advised Bureau agents in discussing Isidore Miller who was a chemist and connected with the Picatiny Arsenal in New Jersey that Miller was evidently in Russian circles because a common friend, Dr. Philip Rosenbliett, who was formerly a dentist on Broadway, was an old member of the Party and judging from the things he told Chambers was in the OGPU for many years. Chambers advised that Dr. Rosenbliett went back to Moscow and he has heard nothing about him since. (100-25824-26)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted in connection with Rosenbliett based upon the above statement by Chambers inasmuch as information of a more specific character had originally been received by the Bureau in connection with the Dozenberg and Stern cases, concerning which inquiry had indicated that Rosenbliett had departed from the United States.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN June, 1943

The following is an exact copy of information set forth concerning Rosenbliett in the Berle notes based upon the interview with Chambers in 1939.

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Investigation was not made of Rosenbliett based upon the information of Berle notes by reason of previous investigation as cited above. However, the investigation of his connections with Soviet Intelligence in the United States were again instituted and were being handled at the time of the receipt of the Berle notes based upon information received in March, 1941, from [redacted] in connection with the case of Ernst Czuczka, was, etal, Espionage R. This case developed when one Rubin Glucksmann was interned by the [redacted] authorities in England in May, 1940, and an examination was made of his books and records based upon operations of a firm known as the Far Eastern Fur Trading Co., of London. This examination reflected that this firm had close connections with a firm in Germany, Wostwag, Berlin, which was known to be a cover organization utilized by Soviet Intelligence. The London company also had connections with a known Soviet Espionage cover firm in France. Among the papers of the firm were found references to the name of Ernst Czuczka. The [redacted] advised that Czuczka and his brother had departed for the United States in the fall of 1940. (65-35048-2)

b7D

Investigation in connection with this case reflected that Czuczka's brother advised that the former had himself been formerly associated with Wostwag, Berlin. Glucksmann who was further interviewed by the [redacted] admitted that he had been in contact with Dr. Philip Rosenbliett in Paris in 1937 and that Rosenbliett was one of the directors of Wostwag, Berlin. (65-35048-23)

Investigation at New York looking toward the possible location and connections of Rosenbliett in this country was again negative, it being determined that he had reportedly departed from the United States in 1936 and left his business affairs in the hands of his brother-in-law, Dr. Morris Greenberg, 143 West 87th Street, New York City. (65-35048-35)

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 10, 1945

Chambers when interviewed by Bureau agents on the above date recalled that on an occasion when he needed dental work in the middle thirties he received a recommendation from "Peter" (Alexander Stevens) to Dr. Philip Rosenbliett who maintained offices at Broadway and 41st Street, New York City. Chambers added that he gained the impression that Rosenbliett was the regular Communist Party dentist in New York and from conversation with "Peters" understood him to be an old reliable party man who might be connected with the underground apparatus and also with Russian Intelligence. He added that he did not believe that Rosenbliett was actually a participant in Espionage activity but that he did furnish his office as a meeting place for individuals who desired to converse secretly. In fact, he told Chambers on several occasions that the Russians referred to his office as "Rafka", meaning a roof of shelter for clandestine meetings. Chambers said he visited Rosenbliett's office on numerous occasions and became very friendly with him. In connection with their conversation Rosenbliett talked about his brother-in-law, Dr. Greenberg, and also mentioned connections with Dr. Isidore Miller. Chambers further recalled that Rosenbliett had occasionally mentioned some very intimate friends of his who at that time were teaching in a college at Tientsin, China. He recalled from the manner in which Rosenbliett talked about them that it was his impression that they also might be engaged in Communist underground activities. In this connection he stated that he had learned from various sources which he could not recall that Rosenbliett left the United States to return to Russia sometime in 1936 or 1937 and that he had never heard from him or about him since and supposed that he had been liquidated.

Chambers described Rosenbliett as follows: age, 50 in middle 30's; height, 5'9", build, slim; weight, 160 pounds; hair - was unable to recall; characteristics, very vain, talkative, indiscreet.

(100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted of Rosenbliett based upon the information given by Chambers in the above interview. More specific data had previously been received concerning Rosenbliett and investigation of his activities in connection with other pending Soviet Espionage investigation was then being conducted. It will be noted in this connection that the Bureau investigation showed more conclusively that Rosenbliett was in fact deeply implicated in espionage activities in this country.

AMY SCHECHTER

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS.

Active investigation of Amy Schechter, whose complete name is Amy Esther Schechter Safford, was initiated by the New York Office in November, 1942. The subject, commonly known as Amy Schechter, was determined to have been the former wife of Harry Kweit, a known Communist agent, (now deceased) and the investigation of Schechter grew out of the Kweit inquiry. (100-134371-1x)

Investigation determined that Schechter was born at Cambridge, England on August 4, 1898, of Rumanian-German parentage and entered the United States at New York City in 1902, and claimed citizenship by reason of the naturalization of her father. She was educated in the public schools, at Barnard College in New York City, married Harry Kweit in 1924, and was separated from him in 1930. Schechter visited the Soviet Union from June, 1930, to June, 1932, reportedly as a writer and teacher of English but allegedly at the same time attended the Lenin School in Moscow. (100-134371)

Continued investigation reflected that Schechter had been active in the Communist Party movement since the early 1920's and received notoriety as an active member of the National Textile Workers Union at Gastonia, North Carolina. She was indicted for inspiring a strike during the spring and summer of 1929, which resulted in the fatal shooting of the Chief of Police of Gastonia on June 7, 1929. This indictment against Schechter was subsequently dismissed. Schechter was then associated with Fred Erwin Beal, leader of the Gastonia strike, who was convicted of second degree murder in connection with the foregoing incident and who escaped to the Soviet Union. Beal has subsequently testified, after breaking with the Communist Party and returning to the United States, of the Communist inspiration and conspiracy in connection with this incident. (100-134371-22)

Schechter is presently a member of the Communist Party at San Francisco, California. Investigation indicates that she is still closely associated with a number of prominent figures in the Communist Party movement in the United States. (100-134371-28)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942.

Amy Schechter was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview on the above date.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943.

Schechter's name was not included in the Berle notes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

Chambers, when interviewed on the above date in discussing the activities of Harry Kweit (see section on Kweit in another part of this memorandum)

stated that Kweit married a woman who was a Communist Party organizer in the South under the name of Amy Schechter. (100-25824-36)

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted on the basis of the Chambers allegations concerning Amy Schechter inasmuch as there was already an intensive investigation being conducted by the Bureau of this individual and this information had already been developed.

The case on Amy Schechter was closed in a report by the San Francisco Office on March 14, 1946, inasmuch as the subject's Communist Party activity was not believed sufficient to warrant a continued investigation. (100-134371-28)

Reports in the Schechter case have been distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

GERTRUDE SCHILBACH, was

Neugebauer, Gertrude Neugenbauer

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No active investigation of Gertrude Schilbach was conducted prior to Chambers' allegations.

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 13, 1942

Chambers in speaking of what he termed an OGPU Terrorist Group stated that an agent by the name of Rice who broke with the Party and was denounced by them was murdered in Lausanne. According to Chambers this murder was carried out by means of a girl who had been a member of the Rice family for years and had thereafter become a member of the Terrorist Group when she brought him into ambush. Chambers advised that he does not know the name of this woman but that she was in the United States in 1939 ostensibly on her way to China.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No active investigation was conducted based upon Chambers' allegations. He is referring in speaking of Rice to Ignace Reiss, a former Chief of the Soviet Intelligence Service, who was machine gunned to death on a highway near Lausanne, Switzerland, on September 4, 1937. The Soviet Agents found to be responsible for the actual murder by the French and Swiss Police were Gertrude Schilbach and Roland Abbiate. Gertrude Schilbach is apparently the girl of the Rice family of whom Chambers speaks. According to [redacted] Gertrude Schilbach was born June 23, 1894, in Strasbourg, Germany. She was the former mistress of Reiss. No information has been received verifying that she was ever in the United States in 1939 ostensibly on her way to China. 100-342424-38; 100-35015-14 b7D

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

No information concerning this matter was set forth in the Berle notes obtained in June, 1943.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON May 10, 1945

No information concerning this woman was received from Chambers on May 10, 1945.

RE: WILLY SCHLAMM

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

[redacted] Information was furnished to the Bureau by Confidential Informant of the New York Office concerning Willy Schlamm in a report dated February 6, 1943. This report indicated that Schlamm had written a book entitled "Die Diktatur Der Luege" (Dictatorship of the Lie), which was a 158 page volume published in Germany at Zurich, Switzerland in 1937. Informant stated he had reviewed the book and found it to be a passionate anti-Soviet polemic reflecting Schlamm's violent reaction to the first Moscow Purge trial of 1936. The informant pointed out that Schlamm defended himself against being called a Trotzkyite but did not mention his former Communist connections. The informant observed that previous reports on Schlamm's former promotions of the Communist line were based upon the contents of magazines he edited in Europe during the 1920's and 1930's. The present book, reviewed by the informant, indicated a close familiarity with Communist activities which the informant observed, while not being conclusive proof of former Communist affiliation, indicates a question as to where he acquired his intimate, inside knowledge. b7D

The informant suggested the possibility that Schlamm would make a good source on Communist activities by reason of his knowledge of the situation. (100-88151-2)

The New York Office, by letter dated February 12, 1943, with reference to Willy Schlamm, observed, with respect to the information provided by Confidential Informant [redacted] that the New York Office had been aware of Schlamm's possibility as a source of information since January 31, 1941, at which time he was contacted by Special Agent George J. Starr at the residence of Benjamin Gitlow. [redacted] (100-88151-2)

II. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Willy Schlamm was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview by Bureau agents on the above date.

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

Willy Schlamm was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV (a) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945.

In discussing Gerhard Eisler who was known to Chambers as "Edwards" Chambers stated in the interview by Bureau agents on May 10, 1945, that he did not know Eisler's true identity until approximately a year before that date. He stated that while talking to Willy Schlamm, an editor of Fortune Magazine who had formerly been a Communist Party leader in Austria and who had known Eisler very well in Europe, Schlamm remarked to Chambers that he had met Eisler about a year before in Grand Central Station. He told Chambers about this meeting with Eisler and informed him that Eisler's Communist Party name was "Edwards". (100-25824-36)

IV (b) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was made of Willy Schlamm by reason of the reference to him in the Chambers interview of May 10, 1945. It will be noted that Chambers merely cited Schlamm as a source of information in identifying Eisler as "Edwards". [redacted] b7D no investigation was believed justified.

Re: AGNES SMEDLEY, was.,
Agnes Brundin, Marie Rogers,
M. A. Rogers, Alice Bird, Mrs. Petroikos

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Bureau's files reflect that Agnes Smedley, an American citizen, has for many years been well known by reason of her championship of the Communist cause in the Far East. Smedley has written a number of books which have received wide circulation supporting the Chinese Red Army, and the building of the Chinese Soviet territories in North China. Bureau files indicate that information has been received from various sources dating back to 1918 when Smedley and others were indicted in New York City for a violation of the espionage statutes in connection with her activities in supporting British Indian insurrectionist groups. These indictments were subsequently dismissed.

(61-6580-9)

Active investigation of Smedley was instituted by the Bureau by instructions to the field on October 25, 1944, based upon information received from censorship intercepts, indicating that Smedley, then residing at Saratoga, New York, was in communication with a number of known German Communists associated with the Free Germany Movement in Mexico City.

(61-6580-2)

The investigation of Smedley since 1944 has continued until the present time.

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

No mention was made of Agnes Smedley in connection with the interview of Chambers on the above date.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

The name of Agnes Smedley was not contained in the Berle notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

When interviewed on the above date by Bureau agents, Chambers in discussing his knowledge of Gerhart Eisler, who was known to Chambers at the time as "Edwards," stated that he recalled that some time during 1936 he had learned that Agnes Smedley, well-known writer and author of the "Battle Hymn of China" and other works, was in New York City. Chambers stated that he had advised "Peter" (Alexander Stevens, was.,) that he would like to meet her. Chambers stated that "Peter" had advised him that he could arrange a meeting for him with Smedley and told him to go to an automat somewhere in the East 70's. Chambers advised that Agnes Smedley had arrived at the automat before him and was sitting at a table and that when he introduced himself to her she refused to speak to him. Chambers explained that he identified himself to her as a Communist and she then consented to talk with him but first made the remark: "I thought I was going to meet Edwards."

CONFIDENTIAL

Chambers was asked whether or not he had any knowledge of Communist Party affiliation on the part of Smedley and he pointed out that he did not have any actual evidence, but everybody knows she is a Communist. He stated, "There is absolutely no question about it."

He recalled that "Peter" had close contact with her and that she was always "hanging around" the ninth floor of Communist Party Headquarters. He added that she may never have held a Communist Party membership book, but that if she did not, it would merely be because the officials of the Communist Party had believed her to be of more value to them if her party affiliations were not definitely established.

With regard to Smedley, Chambers recalled that at the time that Browder was sent out to the Far East, there was a story current in Communist Party circles in New York City to the effect that Browder had carried numerous large denomination bills and that when he arrived in Manila he had been forced to cash a $1,000 bill and that the officials at the bank had tipped off the proper people who had placed Browder under surveillance after he left Manila for China. He stated that the rumor indicated was to the effect that in Canton or Nanking Browder gathered together a group of high Communist Party officials at a most secret meeting and that one of the participants at this meeting was Agnes Smedley's Chinese husband. He added that the Nanking police surrounded the house and raised it and arrested the whole group. Chambers could not recall the source of his story.

(100-258244-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear from a review of the files that any specific investigation was conducted concerning the activities of Smedley, based upon the allegations received in the aforeoutlined interview of Whittaker Chambers. It will be noted, however, that an analysis of the information furnished by Chambers indicating the general acceptance of Smedley as a Communist Party tool was well known by reason of information available to the Bureau prior to the receipt of these data.

Kisseloff-26463 CONFIDENTIAL

The continuing investigation of Agnes Smedley indicated her to be active in propaganda work in the United States , for the most part in lecturing and publishing books and articles supporting the Chinese Communist movement. Investigation also indicated that Smedley was contacted by Dr. Tung Ti-Wi, Chinese Communist Delegate to the San Francisco Conference of the United Nations, at Saratoga Springs.
(61-6580-16)

In October, 1947, information was received from Military Intelligence Division indicating that Agnes Smedley was closely implicated in the so-called Sorge Red Army espionage network in Japan and China during the period of 1933 to 1941. Dr. Richard Sorge, together with other principals in the network were executed or given long prison sentences by the Japanese courts. It was noted that Smedley, who was during this period an American Journalist and correspondent in China and Japan, was believed to have been active in the network and is reported to have recruited one of Sorge's principal Japanese agents. This information would indicate that Smedley was active in Red Army Intelligence from approximately 1930 to at least 1934.
(61-6580-32)

b7D

[redacted] who has broken with the Soviets and is now a confidential informant of the Bureau, has indicated that she met Smedley in Moscow in 1931 and suspected that Smedley was then being prepared for an assignment in China for the Comintern. Although the informant had no specific information as to whether in fact Smedley knew she was being used by the Comintern, she was certain that Comintern representatives and/or Soviet intelligence used her for her contacts and knowledge of the Far East. [redacted] likewise stated that to her personal knowledge, Dr. Richard Sorge, Red Army Intelligence agent in China and Japan, was acquainted with Smedley.
(61-6580-35)

Further information concerning Smedley's implication in the Sorge espionage ring have been requested of the Intelligence Division of the Army.

Reports reflecting Bureau investigation of Smedley have been distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

Re: JESSICA SMITH, wa.,
Mrs. John Abt

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Active investigation of Jessica Smith, who is the wife of John Abt, was instituted, based upon a complaint received on June 27, 1941 from [redacted] alleging that the subject was a Communist. b7D

(65-44184-X)

Since that date, active investigation has been made of Jessica Smith which has continued to the present time. The New York Office is the office of origin in this investigation.

This investigation has reflected that she is the former wife of Harold M. Ware, and is presently President of SRT Publications and Editor of the magazine "Soviet Russia Today," which has consistently followed Communist policies and has been a principal pro-Soviet propaganda medium. Investigation further indicates that the subject maintains close contact with prominent Communist Party officials, as well as representatives of official Soviet diplomatic missions in the United States. It is to be noted that Smith has made several trips to the Soviet Union since the early 1920's, returning on the last occasion to the United States in January, 1946.

(65-44184)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers did not mention Jessica Smith in connection with his interview by Bureau agents on this date.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

An examination of a copy of the notes made by Adolf Berle, based upon his interview with Chambers in 1939, indicates a notation of the name of Jessica Smith in two places, both of which appear to be collateral references to notations concerning John Abt. The notations are referring to the underground organized by Harold Ware in Washington, D. C. The notations referred to are set out as follows:

Kisseloff-26465 CONFIDENTIAL

"John Abt - followed Witt in that group -
Tax Div'n - Dep't. of Justice & now - CIO
(M. Ware's widow - Jessica Smith Ed. Soviet Russia).

"Mr. Abt - Sister: Marion Bacharach - Secretary - Communist from Minnesota. (Jessica Smith: with Rauters in 1926 - friend of Louis Fischer."
(100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

While no specific investigation was made of Jessica Smith, based upon the notations concerning her in the Berle notes, the information contained therein was subsequently forwarded to the New York Office on January 29, 1945. It was known at the time of the receipt of the information in the Berle notes that Jessica Smith was the wife of John Abt. In the continuing investigation which was being made of the activities of Jessica Smith, the Berle notes were set forth in a report of the New York Office dated July 17, 1945.

In supporting the implications of Jessica Smith's possible connections with the Communist underground in Washington, D. C. in the early 1930's, information was developed by the New York Office confirming the fact that she had been married to Harold Ware, the alleged organizer of this underground movement and subsequently married John Abt, who was likewise allegedly a member of the group. Investigation reflects that at the time Jessica Smith was associated with the Russian Information Bureau in Washington and following the recognition of the Soviet Union, became a member of the Press Staff of the Soviet Embassy in Washington. Information was also developed indicating Jessica Smith's connections with other members allegedly belonging to the underground group.
(65-44184-23, 31)

The investigation made by the Bureau in connection with Alexander Stevens, who has been identified as J. Peters, who according to Whittaker Chambers was the underground leader, likewise reflects that Jessica Smith and her husband, John Abt, have been in close contact with Stevens.

The investigative reports concerning Jessica Smith, as well as those concerning Stevens showing the connection between these individuals have been furnished to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice. The investigation of this subject is continuing by the Bureau.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

The name of Jessica Smith was not mentioned by Chambers in connection with his interview by Bureau agents on this date.

RE: VERN SMITH

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

There is information contained in the Bureau files dating back to the early 1920's concerning the activities of Vern Smith as being active in the IWW as editor of the organization's newspaper "Solidarity." Other information reflects connections of Smith and collaborations with such known Communists during the 1920's as James Cannon, William Z. Foster, Robert Minor and others. (61-2241-45, p.4)

Other information reflects that Smith, who was then active in the IWW, joined the Communist Party around 1922. (39-915-1109, p. 7)

Active investigation of Vern Smith was initiated by the San Francisco Office in February, 1941, by reason of his activities in San Francisco with the Communist Party movement and by reason of the fact that he was then Labor Editor of the "Daily People's World." The investigation at that time indicated that Vern Smith had been former Managing Editor of the "Daily Worker" at New York City in 1932. (100-17082-1)

Further inquiries reflected that Smith had been formerly a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party as well as correspondent of the "Daily Worker" in the Soviet Union from the summer of 1933 to about August, 1935. Records (available to the State Department) of World Tourists, Incorporated, reflected that Smith's transportation to the Soviet Union had been charged in part to the Communist Party and in part to the "Daily Worker." (100-17082-13)

II. (a) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

In the interview conducted by Bureau agents on the above date, Whittaker Chambers stated that Verne Smith, who was former editor of the IWW "Solidarity", was one of the oldest party members and knows the business inside and out. It is noted that in connection with this part of the interview that Chambers had been asked concerning his knowledge of various Communists whom he had known to be important persons in the Party at the time of his association with the movement. (100-25824-22)

Kisseloff-26468 CONFIDENTIAL

II. (b) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No specific investigation was conducted on the basis of the Chambers allegations inasmuch as an active investigation had already been instituted of Vern Smith who was undoubtedly identical with the individual named by Chambers.

The investigation, which continued, reflected that Smith remained very active in Communist Party activities in San Francisco and became the foreign editor of the "Daily People's World." (100-17082-32)

In a report dated November 21, 1946, the San Francisco Office advised that Smith was then still residing in San Francisco with Sue Paxton as man and wife, the latter likewise a member of the Communist Party. Smith was associate editor of the "Daily People's World" until August 15, 1946, at which time he was expelled from the Communist Party for basic disagreement with the Communist Party line and for sympathizing and supporting so-called factional groups. Sources reported that prior to being publicly expelled from the Party, William C. Foster had given Smith his first membership card and that they were old friends. (100-17082-36)

Investigation has continued, notwithstanding the expulsion of Smith from the Party, inasmuch as it is known from investigation that Smith and a number of other persons who were similarly expelled are continuing their activities apparently aimed at dislodging the leadership of the Communist Party through direct intervention and connections with contacts in the Soviet Union. It has likewise been suggested that it is not at all impossible that this may be a tactic for placing Smith and others in an underground position and divorcing themselves from the above ground Communist Party. (100-17082-41)

A news item published in the New York Journal American on April 27, 1948, datelined at Oakland, California, indicated that Vern Smith, expelled Communist and ex-foreign editor of the "Communists People's World," was convicted in a Justice Court on April 26, 1948, at Oakland, California, for contempt of the California State Un-American Activities Committee. The news item indicated that Smith had been immediately sentenced to pay a fine of $3,000. (100-17082-A-Journal American 42748)

Copies of investigative reports in this investigation have been distributed to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice. In addition, a dossier showing information then available in the files of the Bureau regarding Vern Smith was furnished to Mr. L. M. C. Smith, Chief of the Special Defense Unit, Department of Justice, on December 1, 1941. (100-17082-11)

Kisseloff-26469 CONFIDENTIAL

A prosecutive summary report, prepared by the San Francisco Office dated December 13, 1946, was forwarded to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice on February 14, 1947. (100-17082-38)

III. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

Vern Smith was not mentioned in the Berle notes.

IV. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Vern Smith was not mentioned by Chambers in the interview conducted by Bureau agents on the above date.

ALEXANDER STEVENS, with aliases
Alexander Goldberger, J. Peters,
Peter, J. V. Peters, Steven Lapin,
Pete Stevens, Steve Miller, Isador
Boorstein, Silver or Silvers

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

For purposes of clarification it is pointed out that Alexander Stevens has been determined to be identical with all of the above names. In this connection, prior to the Chambers' allegations in 1942, separate investigations had already been instituted by the Bureau on Stevens under the names of J. Peters, J V. Peters, Alexander Stevens and Alexander Goldberger. The name J. Peters was known to the Bureau in connection with Communist Party activities in the United States based upon the publication of "The Communist Party, A Manual of Organization," which was authored by one J. Peters in 1935. The investigation of the subject as Alexander Stevens arose in early 1942, when he was in contact in Los Angeles with prominent Communist Party members in that city. Information available in our files concerning J. Peters was furnished to the Department of Justice on April 1, 1941.

Alexander Stevens was born on August 11, 1894, at Kop, Czechoslovakia, and used the name Alexander Goldberger. He was the son of Martin Goldberger and Rosalie Deutch. He served in the Hungarian army from 1914 until 1918. He first entered the United States on February 10, 1924, as Alexander Goldberger. He again entered the United States on September 5, 1928, under this name. He has endeavored to become a citizen on two occasions, the first time being in February, 1924, but allowed his application to lapse, and again filed for citizenship on July 20, 1939. He registered under the name of Alexander Stevens as an alien on December 5, 1940. Stevens received a divorce from Franciska Goldberger at Reno, Nevada, April 29, 1942, and has for some time been residing as man and wife with one Anne Silver. The latter is a naturalized U. S. citizen who has been reportedly engaged in setting up Communist underground activities in this country. She is likewise the subject of a Bureau investigation. (100-184255-198 & 122)

Stevens has been identified with his various aliases through exhibiting photographs to a number of confidential informants, including [redacted] of the Communist Party of the United States; [redacted] (100-184255-198); Confidential

Confidential Informant [redacted] a former member of the Communist Party who saw Stevens in Moscow in 1931 (100-184255-198); and many others who were acquainted with the Communist movement at the time subject was known under his various aliases.

II. (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Upon being interviewed on the above date, Chambers advised Bureau Agents that a man named "Peter", whose last name he never knew, was the head of the Communist underground movement and stated he had seen Peter only from time to time; that although his connection with this man was more that of a personal friendship than of a formal Party relationship, he never learned much about Peter. He stated he did know that Peter lived once at Woodside, Lond Island, at which time he went under the name of Silver or Silvers. Chambers gathered from Peter that he had previously been treasurer of the Hungarian paper "Uj Elore" and that Peter was likely in the United States without a passport or on a false passport. He said that Peter had connections with the OGPU because he had met members of the OGPU in Peter's presence. Although he did not know these men by name, he had later checked with Krivitsky and had ascertained such individuals were OGPU men. It is to be noted in this conversation that Peter was the source of much of the information furnished by Chambers. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It is to be noted that the Bureau was already conducting investigation in two cases concerning individuals who were later determined to be identical with the "Peter" mentioned in the Chambers' interview. However, on the basis of the Chambers' allegations, the New York Office was requested by letter, on June 11, 1942, to immediately conduct necessary investigation to determine the identity, location and activities of the individual known to Chambers as "Peter," alias Silver or Silvers. (100-25824-22)

Investigation was made by the New York Office, based upon the information furnished by Chambers; however, the identity of "Peter," with alias Silver or Silvers, was not established at that time. It was pointed out, however, that it appeared that this individual was identical with the subject of a separate investigation in New York of J. Peters, with alias Steve Lapin

by reason of the information developed and these two investigations were consolidated. (100-25824-25)

Further investigation in the J. Peters inquiry, as well as the concurrent investigation which was made separately of Alexander Stevens, alias Alexander Goldberger, resulted in a consolidation of these investigations, based upon an identification of the photograph of Stevens as J. Peters by Benjamin Gitlow and James S. Glaser. This was reported by the New York Office in a letter dated March 6, 1943. (100-184255-74)

Subsequently, the photograph of Alexander Stevens was further identified as J. Peters by [redacted] a confidential informant who said he was acquainted with the subject in Moscow, Russia, in 1932. (100-184255-99) b7D

On March 5, 1943, a photograph of Alexander Stevens was identified by Whittaker Chambers as being the individual known to him as Peters, head of the Communist underground movement in the United States. (100-184255-67)

The investigation continued of subject's activities following the consolidation of the previous investigations under the various aliases of the subject.

III (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes contained references to the individual identified as Stevens under the name "Peters" and were as follows:

"Known from Peters - formerly in Bela Kun

Communist paper 'Uj Elori' - then, after 1929 -

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It is noted that no specific further investigation was conducted based upon Berle's notes inasmuch as Peters had then been identified and an active investigation was being made of him by the Bureau. The investigation which was continuing indicated close associations by Stevens with individuals prominent in the Communist Party. (100-184255-101)

IV (A) CHAMBERS ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers, when interviewed on the above date, gave further details concerning his association with the individual then known to him as J. Peters. (It is noted in this interview that Chambers apparently referred to Stevens as both J. Peters and Peter.) He stated that while in the position of editor of "New Masses," in approximately 1932, he, Chambers, was called into the offices of Max Bedacht in Communist Party headquarters in New York and advised he was to be given a special assignment. At a second meeting with Bedacht he was introduced on the street to an individual known to him as "Arthur." "Arthur", in turn, made an appointment for the following evening on a street corner and introduced him, at another place, to an individual known to him as "Peter." Chambers said he recognized this man as the formesr treasurer of the Hungarian Communist newspaper "Uj Elore' (phonetic) who had also published numerous articles on Communism under the name of J. Peters. He was told by Peters that he would act as a courier between him and "Arthur" until he received further instructions. For the next two or three years, until approximately 1935, he was a paid courier and this was his sole occupation. He engaged in carrying envelopes and messages between Arthur and Peter in New York City. He related that he never learned much about the identities of these men and never knew their residences other than that Peter lived somewhere in Woodside, Lond Island, under the name of Silver. Chambers stated in this interview that most of his knowledge of the underground and Russian courier activities was derived from conversations with Arthur and Peter who became very friendly with him and often talked about their activities rather freely. In the interview he mentioned the OGPU connections of Peter. In 1935, his courier activities ceased and he was told by Peter that he would act as a connecting link between Harold Ware in Washington and himself in New York City and, in addition to his courier activities, he would also serve as a sort of morale officer, giving pep talks and indoctrination talks to the Communist group headed by Ware in Washington. Based upon this assignemnt from Peter, Chambers became acquainted with the Communist underground in Washington. He mentioned that Peter himself attended some of the underground meetings in Washington when he felt the group needed a pep talk or required special instructions regarding some particular problem. (100-25824-36)

Inasmuch as the major portion of the information contained in this interview relates to data furnished to Chambers by Alexander Stevens, known to him as Peter, detailed references are not being set out in this section but are contained in the individual write-ups of the various individuals mentioned as hereinafter set forth in this memorandum.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation of Alexander Stevens, based upon the Chambers interview above, continued, it being noted that Peters was already identified as Stevens.

During the course of this subsequent investigation, Stevens was further identified with an individual who, during the latter part of 1945 and 1946, and early 1947, was employed at Communist Party headquarters as Steve Miller.

During the course of the investigation, it was determined that State Department files contained information indicating that an individual by the name of Isador Boorstein had been issued a U. S. passport for travel to Germany, France and England on October 8, 1931. This forgery was not discovered until a Bureau Agent viewed the subject's photograph in the State Department files on June 6, 1946, and recognized Boorstein as being identical with Alexander Stevens. In view of the lapse of time, any violation of passport regulations would be barred by the Statute of Limitations. (100-184255-222)

On February 14, 1947, in a memorandum to the Assistant Attorney General T. L. Caudle all reports concerning Alexander Stevens, including those reflecting investigation of the subject under his various aliases, were forwarded to the Criminal Division. (100-184255-199 and 200)

Further reports relating to the Alexander Stevens investigation were forwarded to Assistant Attorney General T. L. Caudle on March 21, 1947, pursuant to his request, including reports on related investigations. (100-184255-202)

A prosecutive summary report dated February 17, 1947, was forwarded to the Division of Records of the Department on March 24, 1947. (100-184255-198)

On September 18, 1947, a summary memorandum was furnished to the Immigration and Naturalization Service and a copy of the prosecutive summary report of the New York Office dated February 17, 1947, was included. (100-184255-223)

In a memorandum dated September 26, 1947, which was forwarded on September 27, 1947, a summary on this subject was transmitted to the Attorney General reflecting Stevens' activities, including references to the passport fraud of 1941 and his alien status. (100-184255-222)

On September 30, 1947, the Attorney General telephoned the Director and expressed his appreciation for this memorandum on Stevens and stated he throught subject could be deported, although the Statute of Limitations barred action on the passport fraud. (100-184255-221)

It is to be noted that the memorandum to the Attorney General contained a summary of the allegations received from Whittaker Chambers concerning Stevens' connections with the Government underground. It is further to be noted that the summary report of February 17, 1947, which was forwarded to the Division of Records and to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, contained information furnished by Whittaker Chambers, set out under a confidential informant symbol, indicating Stevens, under the name of Peters, as being the head of the Communist underground movement in the United States prior to 1937.

Alexander Stevens was arrested by the Immigration and Naturalization Service on a deportation warrant at Peekskill, New York, on October 8, 1947. He was later released on $5000 bail. (100-184255-230)

CONFIDENTIAL

As you are aware, the House Committee on Un-American Activities has been in contact with INS in the interim, endeavoring to obtain information as to Stevens' whereabouts in order that they could serve a subpoena for his appearance before the Committee. This matter was referred by INS to the Criminal Division of the Department.

The Washington "Times-Herald" for August 25, 1948, reflected that Stevens would be served with a subpoena by the House Un-American Activities Committee, if present at the scheduled deportation hearing which was held on August 30, 1948.

The Washington "Times-Herald" for August 31, 1948, revealed that Stevens appeared at the INS hearing on August 30, 1948, and was served with a subpoena to appear before a hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to be held in New York on August 30, 1948. According to the article, Stevens appeared but declined to answer questions on the grounds that to do so might incriminate him. Members of the House Committee announced that Stevens might be charged with contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions.

In addition to the distribution made of the Chambers information re Alexander Stevens, with aliases, specifically in connection with his case, the following distribution of summaries containing information concerning Alexander Stevens, with alias J. Peters, either as a separate section of the report or incidental to the write-ups on certain named individuals, was made. This information, in all cases, included the data concerning Stevens which was received from Whittaker Chambers and in certain cases was specifically attributed to Chambers by name:

TASS NEWS AGENCY

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The Tass News Agency is the official news agency of the Soviet Government and was registered on January 6, 1938, with the Attorney General under the Foreign Agents Registration Act. The New York Bureau of Tass was created in 1925 succeeding the New York Bureau of Rosta which had been established about January 1923. (100-183386-217 p. 1)

An investigation to ascertain if Tass employees were acting outside the scope of their authority was initiated on April 25, 1941. (100-183886-X)

However, prior to 1941 investigations were conducted on individuals employed by the Tass News Agency and in this connection an investigation was conducted concerning the activities of Kenneth Durant, Manager of Tass until 1944. (65-2299-11)

In this connection it is to be noted that in 1939 it was alleged by Mr. Frank H. Bartholomew, Vice-President of the United Press, San Francisco, California, that Durant was an espionage agent on behalf of the Soviet Government. (65-2299-5)

The investigation of Tass revealed that the majority of American employees had Communist Party backgrounds and some of the employees had been in contact with suspected Soviet agents. (65-2299)

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers advised on May 13, 1942, that there was an OGPU organization during the period of time when he was associated with the Communist Party and that he presumed that there was also such an organization at the time of the interview. He advised that he did not know the identity of the head of such an organization but suspected that it was connected with the Amtorg Trading Corporation and the Tass newspaper. (100-25824-22 p. 2)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Instant file fails to reflect specific investigation of Tass as a result of the Chambers' interview. It is noted that Chambers only speculated that Tass was being used as a cover for Espionage. Similar allegations had been previously received and instant investigation was instituted in 1941 to determine if Tass employees were acting outside the scope of their authority. Chambers' speculative allegations did not add to the Bureau's knowledge of the Tass News Agency. (65-2299)

ALEXANDER LEO TRACHTENBERG

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

As is well known, Alexander Trachtenberg is one of the foremost figures in the Communist Party movement in the United States. Information concerning his Communist activities, as reported in connection with the investigation of the movement, is contained in the Bureau files dating back as early as 1920.

In view of the voluminous information available to the Bureau as reported in investigations of this individual, for purposes of brevity the following short summary concerning Trachtenberg is being set forth.

Trachtenberg was born November 23, 1885, at Odessa, Russia; entered the United States, August, 1906; attended Trinity College and Yale University; was naturalized at New Haven, February 28, 1914; and for the most part has resided in or around New York, New York. He is presently General Manager of the International Publishers Company, Inc., New York City, which for many years has published the majority of the Marxist literature in the United States. He has occupied numerous high positions in the Communist Party in the United States and reportedly was a member of the National Control Commission of the Party since its early days. Trachtenberg himself has admitted trips to Europe and Russia on numerous occasions since the early 1920's, allegedly for the promotion of his publishing business. He was until recently a National Committeeman of the Communist Party. Benjamin Gitlow, former General Secretary of the Communist Party in the United States, who broke with the Party, testified in 1939 before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that the publishing firm of Trachtenberg was taken over by the Communist International. He further stated that Trachtenberg was among the persons cooperating with Russian OGPU agents in the United States.

Also in October, 1939, Maurice L. Malkin, a member of the Communist Party from 1919 to 1936, testified in hearings before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Trachtenberg was a member of the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party in the United States; that in Russia the Central Control Commission members are part of the OGPU; that in every country members of such Commission send its agents to gather information which they forward to the Soviet Union; and that Anna Louise Strong, a member of the Russian Communist Party and a member of the OGPU for years, usually reported to Trachtenberg. Trachtenberg still figures prominently in the affairs of the Communist Party in the United States and is still the subject of continuing investigation by the Bureau. (Summary prosecutive report 61-2115-341)

Kisseloff-26482 CONFIDENTIAL

Of further interest concerning Trachtenberg are the results of investigation by the Bureau in connection with the Red Army Intelligence Ring exposed in Canada by the statements of Igor Gouzenko, which investigation reflected close association between Trachtenberg and Sam Carr prior to the breaking of this case both in the United States and at the Third National Assembly of the Communist Party of Cuba which was held from January 24 to 28, 1946. (Summary memorandum dated September 3, 1946, entitled "Soviet Activities in the United States.")

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers when interviewed by Bureau Agents on the above date, in duscussing activities of the OGPU in the United States, indicated that some of the OGPU parallels have for their purposes the guidance of the Party so that it follows the Moscow line. He stated that these agents are in close touch with the Central Control Commission of the Party. He stated that Charles Dirba, the head of the Central Control Commission for years, and Alexander Trachtenberg, also a member for many years, operated under the National Minorities which are duplicated in Russia and he, Chambers, had always heard that Dirba was connected with the OGPU. (100-25824-22)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear that this information as such was acted upon with reference to Trachtenberg, it being noted, however, that these data had already been received in more specific form and were the subject of investigation based upon previous allegations. It will further be noted that these allegations concerning Trachtenberg were made at the hearings of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1939 as set forth in the summary above.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The Berle notes obtained on the above date contained the following reference to Alexander Trachtenberg:

Alexander Trachtenberg - Politburo -
Member of the Exec. Committee
Head of GPU in U. S.
Works with Peters -

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear that any specific investigation was conducted based upon the reference to Trachtenberg in the Berle notes. However the same observation as previously set forth applies to this information and was known to the New York Office where Trachtenberg was the subject of a continuing and vigorous investigation.

Kisseloff-26483 CONFIDENTIAL

IV. CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

No reference was made to Trachtenberg by Chambers in the interview conducted on the above date.

It is to be noted that reports concerning Trachtenberg, including a prosecutive summary dated March 22, 1947, (61-2115-341) have been furnished to the Division of Records of the Department of Justice.

JULIEN WADLEIGH (WADLEY)

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

No investigation was made of Wadleigh prior to 1942.

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Wadleigh was not mentioned by name by Chambers in the interview conducted by Bureau Agents on the above date.

(However, in reviewing the results of the 1942 interview, together with the Berle notes received by the Bureau in 1943 (see below), it will be noted that in the 1942 interview Chambers advised that there was another individual, whose name he did not recall, connected with the underground movement who was in the Trade Agreement Section of the State Department and was sent to Turkey to negotiate a trade agreement. This individual was a protege of Ed Minster of the Department of Agriculture.)

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The files of the Bureau fail to reflect that any investigation was conducted based upon information furnished concerning this unknown individual.

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS CONTAINED IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Contained in the Berle notes, which were received in June, 1943, and which were based upon information furnished by Chambers in 1939, there is a notation of an individual by the name of Wadley or Wadleigh:

"State

His leader was Hedda Gompertz."

CONFIDENTIAL

While it is not entirely clear from the notes as to the exact allegation made by Chambers concerning Wadleigh or Wadley, it would appear that he was an alleged member of the Communist group in the State Department.

(100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

It does not appear that any investigation was conducted of Wadleigh based upon the Berle notes at the time of their receipt. However, in connection with the Cogog investigation (Communist Political Association Government Group), a letter was sent to the Washington Field Office on May 4, 1945 directing that a separate investigation of the reported secret Communist Government Group be opened. At this time the Washington Field Office was informed of the allegations made in the Chambers' interview of 1942 concerning the existence of a Communist underground in the Government and at the same time furnished a copy of the Berle notes.

(100-3-65-1)

A review of the Bureau files indicates that one Julian Wadleigh and his wife Mariam at 4019 - 18th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. and later 124 Quincy Street, Chevy Chase, Maryland, were subscribers to Socialist party publications.

(61-626-198X1, p. 24
100-26255-1)

Bureau files also indicate that on May 27, 1943 a highly confidential source advised that Julian Wadley (phonetic) of the State Department apparently was associated in a "car pool" with (Hoyt) Haddock of the CIO Maritime Committee in Washington, D. C.

(100-203-268-75X3)

By letter dated March 11, 1948, the Washington Field Office advised that pursuant to the instructions of the Bureau of December 2, 1947, to review the files of the Cogog case to determine the most prominent members of the Communist underground group, a review had been made and 131 names were submitted to the Civil Service Commission to ascertain if they were ever employed or are still employed by the Government. As a result of this check of Civil Service records, there was forwarded to the Bureau on the previously mentioned date a list of persons previously reported in connection with the Cogog investigation who were reportedly still employed in the Government. Included in this list was the name of Julias Wadleigh, a transferee from F.E.A. to the State Department. (100-3-65-941)

The foregoing named individuals may be identical with the person named in the Berle notes.

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

In the interview of Chambers conducted by Bureau Agents on the above date, Chambers did not specifically refer to an individual by the name of Wadleigh or Wadley.

Re: HAROLD M. WARE

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

The first investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of Harold Ware was an investigation conducted in 1921 which reflected that on December 27, 1921 the National Convention of the Workers Party of America held in New York City, elected Harold Ware as an alternate member of the Executive Committee of that organization. At the same convention on January 12, 1922, Ware was appointed as agrarian organizer of the Workers Party of America. On February 5, 1922, he was appointed as business manager of the "Worker."

(61-23-66, 89
61-228-38)

Ware sailed for Russia on the SS "Latvia" on May 10, 1922. He was accompanied by his wife, Chris, and Ware was taking tractors to Russia and reportedly was to represent the Communist Party of America in Russia on the agrarian question.

(61-443-98)

In November of 1922 the Friends of Soviet Russia received a communication from Lenin lauding the work of the United States tractor group in the Ukraine headed by Harold Ware. Lenin stated that he was suggesting that the group farm be used as a model for all Russia.

(61-181-216)

On June 22, 1923, Harold Ware sailed for Russia on the SS "Westphalia" giving as his address 1223 United Trust Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He had United States passport No. 160968. He reportedly was to be the delegate of the United Farmers Educational League of North Dakota to the All-Russian Agricultural Exposition in Moscow. It was reported that on August 28, 1923, officials of the Communist Party were contemplating sending a message to Ware on board the SS "Westphalia" informing him that his wife was dead.

(61-231243
61-3537-2
61-167-1930)

According to an informant, on November 24, 1923 information had been received by the Communist Party from Harold M. Ware to the effect that the subject Government had granted a concession of 27,000 acres of agricultural land on the Donetz River, Ukrain. Ware had agreed to develop this land with American agricultural equipment which was to go to Russia before February 15, 1924.

Kisseloff-26488 CONFIDENTIAL

(61-23-269 p. 19)

On July 17, 1924, Ware sailed for Russia representing the Ukrainian Farm and Machinery Corporation which had been formed in the United States to develop agricultural land for the Soviet Government. Ware as managing director of this corporation was to sign the final contract with the Soviet Government.

(61-223-296

In 1925 Ware reportedly made another trip to Moscow, accompanied by his second wife, Jessica Smith, who later married John Abt. He organized a Russian-American State Farm in the Caucasus and was later one of the organizers and Assistant Director of "Verblud."

(Biographical Sketch of Jessica Smith in files of Soviet Russia Today)
(61-5381-2071)

The investigation also reflected that Harold Ware was the son of Ella Reeve Bloor by her first husband, Lucien Ware. Ella Reeve Bloor is a famous figure in the Communist Party, USA, reportedly living with Earl Browder in the early days of the movement. It was also reported that Harold Ware was a graduate from an agricultural college and had been active during War World I in large scale farming activity. According to information received in 1941, Harold Ware with the aid of Jay Lovestone in 1930 and later with the support of Foster and Browder was in charge of an agricultural Communist Research Bureau in Washington, D. C. that had for its purpose the preparing of Communist Party material for dissemination among farmers.

[redacted] b7D

101-142-67)

The hearing of the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, 77th Congress, First Session, reports the testimony of Dr. J. B. Matthews to the effect that Hal Ware was employed by the Department of Agriculture until 1935 when he was killed by a street car in Washington. It might be noted at this point that a report from another informant reflects that he was killed in an automobile crash near Harrisburg, Pennsylvania in 1935. According to the files of the Public Relations Division of the Metropolitan Police, Hal Ware was at one time Assistant Research Director for Farm Research, Incorporated, Washington, D. C.

(101-142-6, 16)

Kisseloff-26489 CONFIDENTIAL

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Whittaker Chambers stated that when he became associated with the underground movement of the Communist Party, they sent him to Washington to assist Harold Ware, who was associated with the son of Mother Bloor (Carl Reeve) to develop the very fertile field which was Washington, D. C. in the early and middle days of the New Deal. Chambers stated that Ware had been a courier prior to this time who had carried American currency from Russia to the United States for investment here. Chambers stated that the underground work in Washington was ostensibly in the farm field and that they established underground quarters in the violin studios of Ware's sister, located above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle.

He stated that they began to organize the men in the New Deal and to make such individuals a part of the underground organization of the Communist Party.

Further identifying his position in this movement, Whittaker Chambers advised that he was the assistant to Ware who was the organizer and that he, Chambers, was kind of a morale officer inasmuch as the recruits had to be guided in the Party's policies at all times.

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No active investigation of Harold Ware was instituted at this time inasmuch as he was known to be dead. An investigation at the violin studio of Helen Ware was instituted on February 5, 1943, which reflected that she had maintained a studio in 1932 at 1501 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. (100-12997-28; 100-197163-2130)

III. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

Mr. Berle's notes reflected the following notation:

"Underground organized by the late Harold Ware;
Pressman was in his group - (1932-3??) Pressman
then in the A.A.A."

III. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation of Ware was conducted on the basis of Mr. Berle's notes.

CONFIDENTIAL

IV. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Chambers stated that after he was recruited for underground activities in Washington, D. C., he was told by J. Peters that he would act as a connecting link between Harold Ware and Peters in New York and that he would also serve as sort of a morale officer, giving pep talks and indoctrination talks to the Communist group headed by Harold Ware in Washington. Peters explained that Ware was the leader of a group of men composed of Government employees in high-salaried positions who were Communist Party members, but whose activities with the Party as such had ceased when they were transferred to the underground of the Communist Party. Chambers pointed out that Ware's group was composed of approximately eight individual members and that almost everyone of these members was himself a leader of another underground unit operating in Washington which consisted of from six to eight members; that the members of each of these underground units were not aware of the identity or composition of any of the other units.

Chambers stated that one of the meeting places was the violin studio belonging to Helen Ware, Harold Ware's sister above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle. He explained that this was more or less Ware's headquarters and that the members did not meet there as a group. Chambers recalled that after Harold Ware died a meeting took place at which John Abt was elected as the new leader of the group.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation of Harold Ware was conducted as a result of the above allegations.

The Chambers allegations concerning Harold Ware were included in a summary of Communist activities in the United States Government given distribution to the White House, State Department, the Attorney General and other agencies in February, 1946. (65-56402-573)

Re: HELEN WARE CAPPEL, aka HELEN WARE

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An investigation of Harold Ware was conducted in 1921 and 1922 which reflected that Helen Ware was the daughter of Ella Reeve Bloor, famous Communist propagandist. In 1921, Helen Ware was reportedly married but was using her maiden name. One informant reported that she was employed on the "Toiler". Other information reflects this report may have been erroneous as it was stated her only Communist activity was to attend meetings where her mother spoke and on occasion play her violin at these meetings.

II. (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

Chambers said they established underground quarters in the violin studio of Ware's sister, located above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle.

II. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

On February 5, 1943, an investigation was instituted to locate the violin studio of Helen Ware at Dupont Circle, Washington, D. C. It was learned that in 1932 Helen Ware rented a studio at 1501 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. It was reported that she occupied this studio until about 1937. It was noted that a flower shop of the J. H. Small and Sons had been located at that address under the studio since prior to 1932. In further verification, a search of Boyd's District of Columbia Directory for 1932 gave the address of Helen Ware, a music instructor at 1501 Connecticut Avenue, N. W. Helen Ware's residence address in the Directories was given as 3264 S Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

An investigation at 3264 S Street in 1943 reflected that the entire house was occupied by the family of C. C. Cappel and that Helen Ware was the wife of C. C. Cappel. It was determined that Mr. Cappel was a well-known orchestra leader in the Washington area but had moved to Baltimore. An investigation in Baltimore reflected that the Cappel's were residing at 1614 Park Avenue, Baltimore and that Mr. Cappel was the Business Manager of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

(100-12997-28
100-197163-2130)

According to an informant interviewed in 1944, Helen Ware had been married to an Austrian before marrying Cappel. According to this informant she was reported to be anti-Communist. [redacted] b7D

100-316282-1)

The Chambers allegations concerning Helen Ware insofar as they included the location of the violin studio, were included in a summary of Communist activities in the United States Government, which was given distribution to the White House, State Department, the Attorney General and other agencies in February, 1946.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE 1943

There is no mention of Helen Ware in these notes.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

Whittaker Chambers in 1945 advised that the violin studio which was used as a meeting place belonged to Helen Ware, Harold Ware's sister. This studio was located above a florist shop on Connecticut Avenue and Dupont Circle. Chambers explained that this was more or less Ware's headquarters and that the members did not meet there as a group.

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No additional investigation was conducted on the basis of this information.

I INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

An active investigation of Welwel Warszower, better known as William Weiner, was instituted on June 12, 1941, although considerable information concerning Weiner had previously been developed as reflected by the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The investigation instituted in 1941 reflected that Weiner was a member of the Socialist Party in 1915. He joined the Communist Party in 1919, was a Communist Party Organizer in 1927 and 1928, was Financial Secretary of the Communist Party from 1933 to 1940, was a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party in 1938, and a leading member of the International Workers Order since at least 1930. (100-14778-37)

Weiner was born as Welwel Warszower in Russia on September 5, 1893. He entered the United States at Philadelphia on March 27, 1914. Weiner went abroad in 1932 and in 1937 applied for a passport under the name of Robert William Weiner fraudulently reporting himself to be a United States citizen. Weiner was found guilty of passport fraud and sentenced to serve a sentence of two years in a United States Penitentiary in the Southern District of New York on February 20, 1940. This sentence was suspended due to Weiner's bad heart. In connection with this passport fraud it is to be noted that Weiner was active during the 1930's using the name of Blake in connection with the organization World Tourists, Incorporated, which arranged for travel of leading Communists to Europe. One of the persons so assisted was Gerhart Eisler who traveled on a false passport under the name of Samuel Liptzin. (100-14778-2)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

No information concerning William Weiner was received during the course of this interview.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

In the Berle notes regarding J. Peters the following notations were made by Mr. Berle relative to Weiner: Friend: "Blake" of "Freiheit" - real name - Weiner - American: Polish Jew.

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No actual investigation was conducted based upon these notations inasmuch as the information concerning Weiner was already well known to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

In speaking of Gerhart Eisler, Chambers stated that he knew that Welwel

CONFIDENTIAL

Warszower (better known as William Weiner) had been a close contact of Edwards (Gerhart Eisler) in the middle thirties in the United States. He stated that he had known Weiner under the name of Blake when he was an editor of the "Freiheit". He could not recall the source of his information as to this contact between Eisler and Warszower.

IV. (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

No investigation was conducted based upon Chambers' allegations listed above. Documentary evidence was later established in the Eisler investigation reflecting that Eisler's passage to Europe in 1935 and 1936 was paid for by Blake of Communist Party Headquarters who has been identified as Weiner.

NATHAN WITT, WITH ALIASES:
Nat Witt, Nathan Witkowsky, Nathan Witkowski

I. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Nathan Witt has been under investigation by the Bureau since January, 1941. (100-16886-2)

He resigned his position as Secretary of the National Labor Relations Board on November 19, 1940. (100-16886-3, P.4) Since that time he has been practicing law in New York City, representing many large Communist-infiltrated unions in New York City. (100-16886-3-27)

II (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

None.

II (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The Bureau continued the investigation started in January, 1941.

III (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

The notes made by Berle at the time of his interview with Chambers in September, 1939 were obtained from Berle in June, 1943. With regard to Witt, Berle's notes are as follows:

> "Nathan Witt - Secretary of the NLRB - Head of the underground group after Harold Ware."

On the last page of the Berle notes it is stated that Donald Hiss was a "member of C.P. with Pressman & Witt." (100-25824-27)

III (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

As indicated under Item I, an investigation of Witt was commenced in January, 1941. Also, as indicated under Item III (A), Chambers' allegations were not obtained by the Bureau until June, 1943, which was approximately one and one-half years after Witt had resigned as Secretary of the National Labor Relations Board and had gone to New York City. Chambers' allegations against Witt were investigated in connection with the continuing investigation of Witt, previously started, and in connection with the Gregory investigation.

IV (A) CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

During the interview with Chambers on May 10, 1945 by New York Agents, he named Harold Ware, Nathan Witt and John Abt as the leaders of the Ware Underground

Kisseloff-26496 ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Group with whom he, Chambers, had dealt directly. Chambers stated that the members of the Ware Group were high-salaried Government employees who were Communist Party members, but that their activities with the Party had ceased when they were transferred to the Communist Party underground. Chambers recalled the following individuals as members of the Ware Group: John Abt, Lee Pressman, Henry Collins, Nathan Perlo (later identified by Chambers as Victor Perlo), Charles Kramer, also known as Charles Krivitsky, Alger Hiss, Donald Hiss, ____ Post, Nathan Witt and an unnamed man who was described as the husband of Alice Wendham. (100-25824-36)

IV (B) INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The investigation of Witt, which was started in January, 1941, was continued into 1947. The closing report from the New York Office is dated October 1, 1947. (100-16886-23)

In addition to continuing the individual investigation on Witt, the information about him in the Berle notes, together with the information from Chambers, was furnished to the Washington Field Office in May, 1945, in connection with the COGOG investigation. (100-3-65-1)

The investigation of Witt confirmed his acquaintance with Charles Kramer, Lee Pressman, John Abt, Victor Perlo, Alger Hiss and Alexander Stevens (J. V. Peters), all of whom were named by Chambers as members of the Ware Underground Group; and showed that Witt has been in contact with several of the most outstanding national figures in the Communist Party - USA. (100-16886-11,21,23; 65-56402-2586)

During October, 1947, Witt's conversations with Communist contacts disclosed that he had a definite knowledge of and interest in developments in the Gregory case, and that he admittedly was a "coordinator" - at least of information and developments on behalf of other subjects in the Gregory case. (65-56402-2966)

Investigation did not disclose that Witt is a card-carrying member of the Communist Party. As an underground member, he would not, of course, be a card-carrying member. (100-16886-12) b7D

However, Confidential Informant [redacted] advised the Washington Field Office on February 3, 1948, that during the late summer of 1940 she, the informant, was present at a small gathering in the apartment of Marian Bachrach (sister of John Abt), Washington, D. C. when Nathan Witt disclosed his affiliation with the Communist Party. (100-16886-24)

- - - - - - - - - - - - -

Copies of investigative reports have been furnished to the Army and Navy Intelligence agencies and to the Division of Records in the Department.

(100-16886)

In connection with the Gregory investigation, information about Witt was furnished at various times to the Attorney General, the White House and other interested Government agencies.

Dear Mr. Case,

I was disappointed to receive the news that one of Mrs. Shaw's heirs may not wish to dispose of her interest in the property. As my interest in the place lies in its possibilities for spring and summer occupation and as I feel that much must be done to the premises before they are really habitable, I shall not wish to continue negotiations much longer, but will look elsewhere - probably nearer Washington.

I shall appreciate your notifying me promptly of any further developments.

Dear Mr. Case,

Your letter of April 22 and earlier letters contained the information that no executed copy of any will of Mrs. Shaw's had been found. They further indicated that her sister, Mrs. Shirley, was one of the heirs and stated that she had so far refused to consent to a sale of the property. Your two later letters did not show any change in these fundamental facts. The belief of the attorneys that it would be safe to assume title could eventually be secured was apparently based on the assumption that the Orphans Court would determine the will had been executed and lost and would admit an unexecuted copy to probate.

I would not be willing to take possession and make the necessary repairs on the basis of this assumption. Consequently, I have not thought it worth the time to make another trip to discuss other matters which depend upon the title being straightened out and have been waiting to hear further from you as to developments in connection with the latter question. If my assumption as to the basis of Mr. Walsh's opinion and that of Mr. Amalang's attorney is incorrect I should like to have Mr. Walsh write to me as to the actual reasons why he believes the title will eventually be cleared.

As I wrote earlier to you, I had assumed you had authority to close the matter promptly and will not be interested in waiting much longer for the title to be cleared. Will you please let me know promptly what the situation is.

Very truly yours,

Alger Hiss

I was disappointed to receive the news that one of Mrs. Shaw's heirs may not wish to dispose of her interest in the property. As my interest in the place lies in its possibilities for spring and summer occupation and as I feel that much must be done to the premises before they are really habitable, I shall not wish to continue negotiations much longer, but will look elsewhere - probably nearer Washington.

I shall appreciate your notifying me promptly of any further developments.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Case,

Your letter of April 22 and earlier letters contained the information that no executed copy of any will of Mrs. Shaw's had been found. They further indicated that her sister, Mrs. Shirley, was one of the heirs and stated that she had so far refused to consent to a sale of the property. Your two later letters did not show any change in these fundamental facts. The belief of the attorneys that it would be safe to assume title could eventually be secured was apparently based on the assumption that the Orphans Court would determine the will had been executed and lost and would admit an unexecuted copy to probate.

I would not be willing to take possession and make the necessary repairs on the basis of this assumption. Consequently, I have not thought it worth the time to make another trip to discuss other matters which depend upon the title being straightened out and have been waiting to hear further from you as to developments in connection with the latter question. If my assumption as to the basis of Mr. Walsh's opinion and that of Mr. Amalang's attorney is incorrect I should like to have Mr. Walsh write to me as to the actual reasons why he believes the title will eventually be cleared.

As I wrote earlier to you, I had assumed you had authority to close the matter promptly and will not be interested in waiting much longer for the title to be cleared. Will you please let me know promptly what the situation is.

Very truly yours,

Algernon Ries

COUNTY OF NEW YORK)

EDWARD C. McLEAN, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

I am an attorney at law and a member of the firm of Debevoise, Plimpton & McLean, attorneys for the defendant in this action. I make this affidavit in support of defendant's motion for an order permitting him to inspect certain minutes of the Grand Jury which returned the indictment herein against the defendant on December 15, 1948.

The indictment contains two counts, each for the crime of perjury allegedly committed by defendant on December 15, 1948. The first count alleges that on or about December 15, 1948, the Grand Jurors duly impanelled and sworn in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York were conducting an investigation pertaining to possible violations of espionage laws of the United States and other federal criminal statutes, and that it was material to that investigation to ascertain whether United States statutes had been violated by the unlawful abstraction or removal of secret, confidential or restricted documents, writings, sketches, notes or other papers by persons employed by the United States Government, or by the furnishing, delivery or transmittal of any such documents, writings, sketches, notes or other papers to any unauthorized persons. The indictment alleges that the defendant, a witness before said Grand Jury, testified under oath that he had not turned over to one Whittaker Chambers any documents of the State Department or of any other government organization, or any copies of such documents. The indictment charges that the said testimony of defendant was false in that the defendant "being then and there employed in the Department of State, in or about the months of February and March 1938, furnished, delivered and transmitted to one Jay David Whittaker Chambers, who was not then and there a person authorized to receive the same, copies of numerous secret, confidential and restricted documents, writings, notes and other papers, the originals of which had theretofore been removed and abstracted from the possession and custody of the Department of State."

The second count of the indictment, after realleging the allegations of the first count pertaining to the Grand Jury investigation, alleges that defendant further testified as a witness before the Grand Jury that he thought that he could say definitely that he had not seen said Whittaker Chambers after January 1, 1937. The indictment charges that that testimony was untrue in that "the defendant did in fact see and converse with the said Mr. Chambers in or about the months of February and March 1938."

Kisseloff-25396

Defendant pleaded not guilty to each count of the indictment on December 16, 1948. At the arraignment, defendant's time for the making of motions, including a motion for a bill of particulars, was extended to December 30, 1948. That time was thereafter further extended to March 7, 1949, by successive orders of this court, dated respectively December 22, 1948, January 10, 1949 and February 9, 1949.

Certain facts which occurred prior to the indictment in this action which have relevance to the issues raised by this motion may be briefly summarized as follows:

In August 1948, certain hearings were held in Washington, D.C. by the Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives which was then engaged in investigating the subject of Communism. On or about August 3, 1948, one Whittaker Chambers, also known as Jay David Whittaker Chambers, testified before that House Committee and in the course of that testimony stated in substance that Alger Hiss, the defendant in this action, in 1935 had been a member of a Communist " apparatus". Mr. Chambers testified on this subject before the House Committee on a number of occasions subsequent to August 3 but at no time in his testimony before the House Committee did he assert or claim in any way that Mr. Hiss had ever furnished to him any official documents or copies thereof. Mr. Hiss voluntarily appeared before the House Committee on August 5, 1948 and testified on that occasion and on subsequent occasions before the Committee that the charges made against him by said Whittaker Chambers were entirely untrue.

Kisseloff-25397

Thereafter, on or about August 27, 1948, said Whittaker Chambers in the course of a broadcast on a radio program known as "Meet the Press" over radio station WOL in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, repeated his charge that Alger Hiss had been a Communist. Thereafter, on or about September 27, 1948, Mr. Hiss began an action for libel against Mr. Chambers in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland based upon the defamatory statements made by Mr. Chambers in the course of that radio broadcast.

After issue had been joined in the libel action, the attorneys for Mr. Hiss, plaintiff in that action, who were William L. Marbury of the Baltimore firm of Marbury, Miller & Evans and your deponent, began an examination before trial of Whittaker Chambers on the issues raised in the libel action. On or about November 17, 1948, in the course of that examination before trial, Whittaker Chambers produced certain handwritten and typewritten papers purporting to be copies or summaries of documents in the files of the State Department. Chambers testified in substance that these documents were typed in Alger Hiss's home on a typewriter owned by Alger Hiss.

On November 18, 1948, Mr. Hiss, upon being advised of the testimony given by Chambers on the previous day, directed his attorneys to turn over the documents produced by Chambers to the United States Department of Justice. On November 19, 1948, Mr. Hiss's attorneys informed representatives of the Department of Justice of the production of these documents by Chambers, and the photostatic copies of the documents were delivered to the representatives of the Department of Justice on that day. I am advised and believe that the original documents so produced by Chambers were delivered to the Department of Justice within a day or two after November 19, 1948.

On or about December 3, 1948, representatives of the Un-American Activities Committee of the House of Representatives visited the farm of Whittaker Chambers at Westminster, Maryland and were led by Mr. Chambers to a pumpkin lying in a field on his farm from which Mr. Chambers produced and delivered to the representatives of the Committee five rolls of microfilm. These were subsequently developed by agents of the Committee and are said to contain photographs of documents purporting to be from the files of the State Department and other government departments.

Thereafter, beginning on or about December 6, 1948, representatives of the Department of Justice began the presentation of evidence to the Grand Jury of the Southern District of New York as to the circumstances under which Chambers claimed to have come into possession of the microfilm and the documents which he had produced in Baltimore on November 17, 1948. That Grand Jury had originally been impanelled on June 16, 1947, pursuant to order of this court dated June 2, 1947, and had served continuously since that date. Its maximum period of service of eighteen months, pursuant to Rule 6(g) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, was due to expire on December 15, 1948. Between December 6 and December 15, 1948, the Grand Jury conducted an intensive investigation on this subject. I am informed and believe that Chambers testified before the Grand Jury on a number of occasions during that period, that many other witnesses were called, and that various documentary evidence was introduced.

Kisselloff-25399

The defendant Alger Hiss testified before the Grand Jury on December 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13 and 14, 1948. I am advised by the defendant and believe that during the course of his several appearances before the Grand Jury on the dates mentioned above, the defendant was fully interrogated concerning the charges which had been made against him by Chambers, charges which the defendant repeatedly denied. Defendant was asked in detail about his relations with Chambers. He was asked several times when he had last seen Chambers. Defendant testified that to the best of his recollection, he had not seen Chambers after the year 1936. Defendant was also asked several times whether he had ever transmitted any official documents or copies thereof to Chambers. Defendant testified that he had not.

On December 14,1948, I was present at an interview between defendant and Alexander Campbell, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. This interview took place in a room adjacent to the Grand Jury Room in the United States Court House. Mr. Campbell in my presence stated to the defendant, "The F.B.I. has cracked this case. You are going to be indicted."

Thereafter, on the morning of December 15, 1948, the defendant again testified before the Grand Jury and was further interrogated with respect to a number of matters in issue, including the question of when the defendant had last seen Chambers and the question of whether defendant had ever turned over any copies of official documents to Chambers. Defendant's answers in substance were the same as those he had previously given.

Risseloff-25400

After testifying on these subjects at some length on the morning of December 15, defendant was excused and left the Grand Jury Room. Thereafter, at about 12:30 P.M. on December 15, at the very end of the morning session, defendant was again recalled to the Grand Jury Room for approximately fifteen minutes, during which he was asked the questions and gave the answers which appear in the indictment in this action.

That indictment was handed up by the Grand Jury to the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York at approximately 5:00 P.M. on the afternoon of December 15. The Grand Jury was thereupon discharged by the court, its term of service having expired on that day. It thus appears that between the time of defendant's final appearance before the Grand Jury at noon on that day and 5:00 P.M., the indictment had been voted, prepared, typed and signed.

The transactions under investigation by the Grand Jury allegedly occurred some ten years ago. Manifestly, prosecution of any charge of violation of the espionage laws or any other federal statute based upon these alleged transactions was barred by the statute of limitations long prior to December, 1948. Deponent submits that it is apparent from the foregoing facts that by the present indictment, the Grand Jury has attempted to do indirectly what it could not do directly. Being barred by the statute of limitations from charging the defendant with the offense of transmitting copies of official documents to an unauthorized person, it proceeded to indict the defendant for perjury based on his denial that he had committed that offense. Moreover, deponent submits that it is equally apparent that the questions which defendant is alleged in the indictment to have answered falsely, were asked defendant not for the purpose of eliciting information, but for the deliberate purpose of eliciting the very answers which were in fact obtained and which the Grand Jury had every reason to believe that the defendant would give in view of his similar testimony on the same subjects during the preceding week. It is defendant's contention that the answers given by him on December 15 could not have obstructed or impeded the Grand Jury's investigation, inasmuch as that investigation had already been completed, that the Grand Jury had already determined to indict, and that defendant was called before the Grand Jury on December 15 for the sole purpose of laying a foundation to indict him for perjury for denying the commission of an offense for which he could not be indicted directly because of the statute of limitations. Under these circumstances, it is defendant's contention that the allegedly false answers set forth in the indictment were not given with respect to a material matter, within the meaning of the perjury statute. In order properly to support a motion to dismiss the indictment on this ground, it is necessary that defendant be permitted to inspect the minutes of the proceedings of the Grand Jury during the period from December 6 to December 15, 1948, which deponent believes will substantiate the contentions set forth above.

In addition to moving for an inspection of the minutes of all proceedings of the Grand Jury from December 6 to December 15, defendant also moves, in the alternative, for the inspection of the minutes of a portion of these proceedings, i.e. the minutes of defendant's own testimony and the minutes of the testimony given by Richard Nixon. Defendant's request for the inspection of these portions of the Grand Jury record rests not only upon the grounds set forth above, but also upon the following additional grounds.

With respect to defendant's own testimony, it is apparent that the indictment has been based upon a few questions and answers selected out of many on the same subject. Count I of the indictment reveals this on its face for the first question begins, "Mr. Hiss, you have probably been asked this question before, but I'd like to ask the question again." Manifestly, the government had some reason for choosing these particular questions and answers for inclusion in the indictment. Presumably, they were selected because it was considered that they were more favorable to the government's contention than other answers previously given by the defendant. Under these circumstances, fairness requires that the defendant have the opportunity to examine his entire testimony, so that the particular answers referred to in the indictment may be read in the context of all the testimony on the subject. This is particularly true as to the second count, where defendant's answers amount to no more than a statement of his best recollection, i.e. "I think I can say definitely I did not see him."

With respect to the testimony of Mr. Nixon, the relevant facts are these:

Mr. Nixon, a member of Congress from California, was in 1948 and still is, a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He was an active participant in the hearings of the Committee at which Chambers and the defendant testified. On October 19, 1948, Mr. Nixon spoke at the New York Herald Tribune Forum on "Loyalty and Civil Liberties." Near the end of his discussion, Mr. Bert Andrews, the moderator, brought up the Hiss-Chambers controversy. Mr. Andrews stated, "All of us know that one of the two lies." He then asked Mr. Nixon for his opinion. Mr. Nixon's answer, as quoted in the press, was as follows:

> "Well, I must admit that I have been very close to the case and I want to preface everything that I say with that obviously I would have some bias * * . From the testimony that we have heard to date, the credibility of Mr. Hiss has been substantially impaired; the credibility of Mr. Chambers has stood up on the items where corroborative testimony was available. That is the conclusion that I would reach on the testimony to date." (New York Herald Tribune, October 20, 1948.)

Kiseloff-25403

After Chambers produced the microfilm from his pumpkin, a considerable public clamor arose. The House Committee resumed its investigation of the Chambers-Hiss controversy, and various charges were made to the effect that the Department of Justice was endeavoring to hush up the entire affair. Mr. Nixon lent his support to this contention by stating in a wireless message sent from a steamship on or about December 2, 1948, as quoted in the press:

> "Will reopen hearings if necessary to prevent Justice Department cover up." (New York Herald Tribune, December 3, 1948)

On December 13, 1948, at 2:15 P.M., Mr. Nixon appeared before the Grand Jury. A few minutes earlier, at 1:40 P.M., he announced to the press that:

> "The indictment of Chambers for perjury without anybody else would constitute a white-wash because it would be impossible to bring out the truth regarding other people." (New York Times, December 14, 1948)

It is apparent from his public utterances (1) that Mr. Nixon believed that Mr. Hiss should be indicted, (2) that he believed that it was unwise to indict Chambers for perjury lest it impair his effectiveness as a witness against Mr. Hiss, (3) that he was afraid that the Department of Justice might seek an indictment of Chambers instead of Hiss. Inasmuch as Mr. Nixon made public announcement of these opinions only a few minutes before he appeared before the Grand Jury, there is reason to believe that he may have repeated and elaborated upon these ideas during the course of his Grand Jury testimony. If he did so, deponent believes that such conduct would in itself constitute a basis for the dismissal of this indictment. It would amount to the exertion of undue pressure upon the Grand Jury by a member of a coordinate branch of the government. An inspection of the minutes of Mr. Nixon's testimony is, therefore, requested in order to provide the basis for a motion to dismiss on this ground.

Defendant's time within which to move to dismiss the indictment will expire on March 7, 1949. In order to protect defendant's rights to make such a motion, an extension of that time is requested until fourteen days after the entry of the order determining the present motion.

WHEREFORE, deponent respectfully requests that defendant's motion for an inspection of the Grand Jury minutes be granted in its entirety.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA :

STATE OF NEW YORK)
: SS.:
COUNTY OF NEW YORK)

EDWARD C. McLEAN, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

I am an attorney at law and a member of the firm of Debevoise, Plimpton & McLean, attorneys for the defendant in this action. I make this affidavit in support of defendant's motion for:

1. A bill of particulars, pursuant to Rule 7(f) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure;

2. A discovery and inspection, pursuant to Rule 16 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure; and

3. The production, pursuant to Rule 17(c) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, prior to the trial of this proceeding, of certain papers, documents and other objects.

The indictment contains two counts, each for the crime of perjury allegedly committed by defendant on December 15, 1948. The first count alleges that on or about December 15, 1948, the Grand Jurors duly impanelled and sworn in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York were conducting an investigation pertaining to possible violations of espionage laws of the United States and other federal criminal statutes, and that it was material to that investigation to ascertain whether United States statutes had been violated by the unlawful abstraction or removal of secret, confidential or restricted documents, writings, sketches, notes or other papers by persons employed by the United States Government, or by the furnishing, delivery or transmittal of any such documents, writings, sketches, notes or other papers to any unauthorized persons. The indictment alleges that the defendant, a witness before said Grand Jury, testified under oath that he had not turned over to one Whittaker Chambers any documents of the State Department or of any other government organization, or any copies of such documents. The indictment charges that the said testimony of defendant was false in that the defendant "being then and there employed in the Department of State, in or about the months of February and March 1938, furnished, delivered and transmitted to one Jay David Whittaker Chambers, who was not then and there a person authorized to receive the same, copies of numerous secret, confidential and restricted documents, writings, notes and other papers, the originals of which had theretofore been removed and abstracted from the possession and custody of the Department of State."

Kisseloff-25420

The second count of the indictment, after realleging the allegations of the first count pertaining to the Grand Jury investigation, alleges that defendant futher testified as a witness before the Grand Jury that he thought that he could say definitely that he had not seen said Whittaker Chambers after January 1, 1937. The indictment charges that that testimony was untrue in that "the defendant did in fact see and converse with the said Mr. Chambers in or about the months of February and March 1938."

Defendant pleaded not guilty to each count of the indictment on December 16, 1948. At the arraignment, defendant's time for the making of motions, including a motion for a bill of particulars, was extended to December 30, 1948. That time was thereafter further extended to March 7, 1949, by successive orders of this court, dated respectively December 22, 1948, January 10, 1949 and February 9, 1949.

Certain facts which occurred prior to the indictment in this action which have relevance to the issues raised by this motion may be briefly summarized as follows:

In August 1948, certain hearings were held in Washington, D.C. by the Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives which was then engaged in investigating the subject of Communism. On or about August 3, 1948, one Whittaker Chambers, also known as Jay David Whittaker Chambers, testified before that House Committee and in the course of that testimony stated in substance that Alger Hiss, the defendant in this action, in 1935 had been a member of a Communist "apparatus". Mr. Chambers testified on this subject before the House Committee on a number of occasions subsequent to August 3 but at no time in his testimony before the House Committee did he assert or claim in any way that Mr. Hiss had ever furnished to him any official documents or copies thereof. Mr. Hiss voluntarily appeared before the House Committee on August 5, 1948 and testified on that occasion and on subsequent occasions before the Committee that the charges made against him by said Whittaker Chambers were entirely untrue.

Kisseloff-25421

Thereafter, on or about August 27, 1948, said Whittaker Chambers in the course of a broadcast on a radio program known as "Meet the Press" over radio station WOL in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, repeated his charge that Alger Hiss had been a Communist. Thereafter, on or about September 27, 1948, Mr. Hiss began an action for libel against Mr. Chambers in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland based upon the defamatory statements made by Mr. Chambers in the course of that radio broadcast.

After issue had been joined in the libel action, the attorneys for Mr. Hiss, plaintiff in that action, who were William L. Marbury of the Baltimore firm of Marbury, Hiller & Evans and your deponent, began an examination before trial of Whittaker Chambers on the issues raised in the libel action. On or about November 17, 1948, in the course of that examination before trial, Whittaker Chambers produced certain handwritten and typewritten papers purporting to be copies or summaries of documents in the files of the State Department. Chambers testified in substance that these documents were typed in Alger Hiss's home on a typewriter owned by Alger Hiss.

Kisseloff-25422

On November 18, 1948, Mr. Hiss, upon being advised of the testimony given by Chambers on the previous day, directed his attorneys to turn over the documents produced by Chambers to the United States Department of Justice. The annexed affidavit of William L. Marbury verified February 3, 1949 sets forth in detail the steps which were immediately taken by him to comply with Mr. Hiss's instructions in this respect. On November 19, 1948, representatives of the Department of Justice were informed by Mr. Marbury of the production of these documents by Mr. Chambers and photostatic copies of the documents were delivered to the representatives of the Department of Justice by Mr. Marbury on that day. I am advised and believe that the original documents so produced by Mr. Chambers were delivered to the Department of Justice within a day or two after November 19, 1948 and that they have ever since remained and still are in the possession of the Department of Justice. For convenience, the handwritten and typewritten papers produced by Whittaker Chambers on November 17, 1948 as aforesaid are sometimes referred to hereinafter as the "Baltimore papers".

On or about December 3, 1948, representatives of the Un-American Activities Committee of the House of Representatives visited the farm of Whittaker Chambers at Westminster, Maryland and were led by Mr. Chambers to a pumpkin lying in a field on his farm from which Mr. Chambers produced and delivered to the representatives of the Committee five rolls of microfilm. Prints from these films were subsequently made under the direction of the House Committee. I have been advised by Mr. Richard Nixon, a member of that Committee, that one of the four rolls was light-struck or damaged in some other way so that it was blank, and no legible prints could be obtained therefrom. Prints were obtained from each of the four other rolls. I have been advised by Thomas J. Donegan, Special Assistant to the Attorney General and Raymond P. Whearty, Special Assistant to the Attorney General that a complete set of prints made from the four rolls of microfilm were obtained from the House Committee by the Department of Justice early in December 1948. I verily believe that the prints are still in the possession of the Department of Justice. I am advised and believe that the prints made from the microfilm purport to be photographs of official documents from the files of the State Department and other government departments. The microfilms and the prints made therefrom are sometimes hereinafter referred to for convenience as the "pumpkin papers".

Kissenoff-25423

The Grand Jury of the Southern District of New York which was in session in December 1948 and which had been in session since June 16, 1947, conducted an investigation of the circumstances under which Whittaker Chambers claimed to have come into possession of the Baltimore papers and the pumpkin papers. Alger Hiss, the defendant in this action, testified as a witness before the Grand Jury on a number of occasions from December 7 to December 15, 1948. On the latter day, the indictment in this action was handed up.

The allegations of the indictment are phrased in vague and general terms. A bill of particulars is essential in order to enable the defendant to prepare for trial and to prevent surprise. For example, the first count of the indictment alleges merely that the defendant transmitted to Chambers "copies of numerous secret, confidential and restricted documents, writings, notes and other papers." No details whatever are given. Defendant cannot tell from the indictment whether he is charged with having transmitted to Chambers the Baltimore papers, or the pumpkin papers, or both, or part of each. He cannot tell whether the government will contend that he delivered to Chambers other papers having no relation to either of the foregoing groups.

Kisseloff-25424

It is impossible for the defendant to prepare his defense without being apprised of the true nature of the charges against him.

Similarly, Count II of the indictment alleges merely that the defendant "did in fact see and converse with the said Mr. Chambers in or about the months of February and March 1938." The indictment gives no details as to when the alleged meeting is claimed to have taken place, or as to where it took place, or as to what the alleged conversation consisted of. It is impossible to tell from the face of the indictment whether it is the government's claim that the alleged conversation between the defendant and Chambers took place at the time of the transactions alleged in Count I, or whether the government is basing Count II upon some wholly separate and distinct alleged conversation. Unless the government is required to specify its claim, defendant will be left wholly in the dark as to the nature of the charge that he is called upon to meet.

The documents and objects of which an inspection is sought, as listed in Appendix B, are highly material to the preparation of defendant's defense. Deponent verily believes that the request for their inspection is reasonable and proper, as appears from the following.

Kisseloff-25425

Item 1 of Appendix B refers to the "Baltimore papers". If the government claims that defendant transmitted some or all of those papers to Whittaker Chambers in February and March 1938, then the physical characteristics of the original documents become of paramount importance. Defendant cannot properly prepare for trial unless he is afforded an opportunity to have the documents examined by an expert well in advance of trial. It is important to study the appearance and type of the paper, the type and age of the ink, the handwriting upon the handwritten documents and the typewriting upon the typewritten ones. The scientific and technical study which must be made as a preliminary to expert testimony on such subjects requires time for its successful completion. It cannot be done adequately upon a hasty inspection of the documents at the trial.

Item 2 of Appendix B relates to the "pumpkin papers", i.e. the prints made from the rolls of microfilm. Although the House Committee on Un-American Activities has furnished deponent with copies of some of these prints, the set so furnished deponent is concededly incomplete, inasmuch as many of the prints have not been released for publication by the Committee. It is essential that defendant have an opportunity to examine the complete set of prints. Such an inspection is necessary, not only to apprise the defendant of the contents of the documents so photographed, but also to ascertain whether the prints reveal markings or notations on the microfilm which would aid in revealing the source from which the documents were obtained.

Item 3 of Appendix B relates to all papers and documents in addition to those referred to in Items 1 and 2 allegedly furnished to Whittaker Chambers. Until a bill of particulars has been granted, defendant has no way of knowing whether the government will claim that any such additional documents were transmitted to Chambers. If such claim is made, however, defendant would be entitled to inspect them for the same reasons as apply to the papers already referred to.

Kisseloff-25426

Item 4 of Appendix B relates to the roll of microfilm itself. The age and characteristics of this film may have a very important bearing upon the issues in this case. The government, of course, has had every opportunity to inspect the film and to have it examined by experts. Defendant has not had that opportunity and cannot properly prepare his defense without it.

I have been advised by Mr. Richard Nixon, a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, that prints made from certain portions of the microfilm were partially illegible, due to some defect in the film. Consequently, the entire contents of the documents photographed upon those portions of the microfilm could not be ascertained from the prints themselves. Enough of the contents of those documents was shown upon the prints, however, to enable the Committee to identify the documents which had been photographed upon the microfilm. The Committee thereupon obtained from the various government departments having custody of them, copies of the entire documents, so that all their terms and provisions could be ascertained. It is reasonable to believe that the originals of such documents, or true copies thereof, are now in the possession of the Department of Justice. Under Item 5 of Appendix B, defendant asks permission to inspect these documents, since in these instances, inspection of the prints alone would not be sufficiently informative.

Kisselloff-25427

In view of the assertion made by Whittaker Chambers in the Maryland libel action, an assertion which he will doubtless repeat in the present action, that certain of the Baltimore papers are in defendant's handwriting and that the remainder of the Baltimore papers were typed upon defendant's typewriter, it is obvious that expert testimony on matters of handwriting and typewriting will be necessary in this case. Deponent has been informed and believes that an intensive search has been made by the Department of Justice throughout the country for samples of the handwriting of defendant and his wife and for samples of typewriting purporting to have been done upon any typewriter possessed at any time by defendant or members of his family. Deponent has been informed of a number of instances in which letters, memoranda and other documents purportedly emanating from defendant or his family have been seized by the government from third persons. Deponent verily believes that such documents are now in the possession of the Department of Justice, and it is to be anticipated that expert testimony concerning them will be offered by the government at the trial. In order to afford defendant an opportunity to prepare for trial and to meet this testimony, it is essential that he be permitted to have an expert inspect such samples now in the government's possession, and any others which the government may acquire from third persons prior to the trial. Examination of such documents and their comparison with the other papers asserted by Chambers to have been written by defendant or to have been typed on his typewriter is a process which will require expert study which cannot be undertaken on the spur of the moment in the midst of a trial. Adequate opportunity in advance of trial for such study is necessary. Items 6 and 7 of Appendix B relate to such matters.

Kisseloff-25428

Deponent has also been informed and believes that the government has conducted an intensive search with a view to securing any and all typewriters at any time in the possession of defendant or his family. Such typewriters will, of course, be an important item of evidence in this case and if the government now has obtained any of them, or should obtain any of them prior to the trial, defendant should be entitled to have his expert inspect them for the same reasons indicated above. This is covered by Item 8 of Appendix B.

In view of the critical significance to this case of the handwritten and typewritten "Baltimore papers" produced by Whittaker Chambers, it is an essential part of the preparation of defendant's defense to cause a thorough expert study to be made of the handwriting and typewriting of Chambers and his wife. To that end, samples of their known handwriting and typewriting must be subjected to expert examination. If the Department of Justice has obtained such samples, or if it should obtain some prior to the trial, they should, in all fairness, be as available to the defendant's expert as to the government's. Accordingly, inspection of such material is requested in Item 9 of Appendix B.

I have been informed by Mr. Nixon that experts of the Eastman Kodak Company and the Dupont Company have examined the microfilm at the request of the Department of Justice. Manifestly, reports of that inspection have been made by those experts to the government. I have also been advised by Raymond P. Whearty, Special Assistant to the Attorney General, that experts of the Federal Bureau of Investigation have also examined the microfilm and that they have inspected the paper and ink of the "Baltimore papers" and have examined specimens of defendant's handwriting and of typewriting purporting to have been done on typewriters possessed by the defendant. It is apparent that government experts will testify at the trial as to their findings as a result of such examinations and studies. Deponent verily believes that at the trial defendant would be entitled to require the production of the reports and studies made by the government experts in order to form a basis for their cross examination. Under Item 10 of Appendix B, defendant asks that these reports and studies be produced for defendant's inspection at a reasonable time in advance of the trial. An inspection in advance will expedite the trial by eliminating the delay which would inevitably ensue if defendant's counsel and experts had had no opportunity to examine these documents until after the trial had begun.

The government's principal witness, Whittaker Chambers, has admittedly made a number of statements to various government agencies, prior to the institution of the present prosecution in December 1948, which relate to the subject matter in this case. Chambers has testified in the course of his deposition in the libel action that on various occasions he gave written statements to representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and to representatives of the State Department. Chambers has also testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in executive session, and his testimony so given has not been made public. It is apparent that the statements and testimony given by Chambers prior to November 17, 1948 were inconsistent with the testimony which he gave on November 17 in the libel action and which he has presumably given since that date before the Grand Jury. On November 17, 1948, in the course of his deposition in the libel action, Chambers testified that the alleged activities which he then referred to, i.e. the alleged furnishing of documents to him by the defendant, had never been mentioned by him before. In response to the specific question as to whether he had ever informed the Committee or the Federal Bureau of Investigation of these alleged transactions, he testified, "I have never informed anyone of this activity."

Kisselloff-29430

In Item 11 of Appendix B, defendant asks that the government produce for defendant's inspection at a reasonable time before trial these prior inconsistent statements and testimony given by Chambers to various government agencies on this subject. Deponent verily believes that defendant would be entitled to an inspection of such statements and testimony at the trial as a basis for the cross examination of Chambers. Inspection of this material in advance of the trial will facilitate and expedite the trial and avoid the delay which would otherwise arise if inspection did not take place until the trial itself.

Deponent verily believes that an inspection of the documents and articles described in Items 1 to 9 inclusive of Appendix B is authorized by Rule 16 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. Each of these groups of documents is material to the preparation of defendant's defense, for the reasons set forth above. Deponent verily believes that each group of documents was either obtained by the government from the defendant himself, as in the case of the Baltimore papers, or was obtained by the government from third persons by seizure or Grand Jury process.

Moreover, production of these documents and articles in advance of trial is also authorized by Rule 17(c). In so far as it relates to Items 1 to 9 of Appendix B, this application is based upon each of these rules.

Kisseloff-25431

As to the documents specified in Items 10 and 11 of Appendix B, the application is based upon Rule 17(c).

The indictment in this action is based upon transactions alleged to have occurred ten years ago. As in the case of all stale claims, the lapse of so much time has made the preparation of defendant's case unusually difficult. Witnesses have died, files and records have been lost, recollections have been impaired.

Moreover, the government's case depends in very large part upon the properties and characteristics of physical objects, documents and papers which the government has had ample opportunity to examine and study with all the large technical resources available to it, but which thus far the defendant has not been able to see at all. Under the circumstances, deponent submits that a proper case exists for the generous exercise of the court's discretion in order to enable the defendant to make adequate preparation for his defense against the serious charges that have been made against him, charges which the defendant denies in their entirety.

WHEREFORE, deponent respectfully requests that defendant's motion for a bill of particulars and for a discovery and inspection and production of documents be granted.

CITY OF BALTIMORE:

I, M. CELESTE BARLOW, a Notary Public in and for the City of Baltimore, State of Maryland, do hereby certify that on this 3rd day of February, 1949, before me personally appeared the undersigned, WILLIAM L. MARBURY, of Baltimore, Maryland, who did make the following affidavit:

My name is William L. Marbury. I am an attorney at law with offices in 1000 Maryland Trust Building, Baltimore, Maryland. I represent Mr. Alger Hiss in the suit which he filed against Mr. Whittaker Chambers in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland, Civil No. 4176. On November 4, 1948, I began an oral examination of Mr. Chambers, pursuant to notice served upon him, in accordance with the Rules of Civil Procedure applicable to proceedings in the Federal Courts. This examination continued throughout November 4 and 5 and was resumed on the afternoon of November 17. On the date last mentioned Mr. Chambers produced certain handwritten memoranda and a number of typewritten papers. The handwritten memoranda were marked by the reporter by whom the deposition was being transcribed as Exhibits Nos. 1 to 4. The typewritten papers were marked as Exhibits Nos. 5 to 47 and were identified as follows:

By agreement of counsel, the originals of these exhibits were retained by counsel for Mr. Chambers, with the understanding that they should be subject to inspection by counsel for Mr. Hiss at any time. Photostatic copies were furnished counsel for Mr. Hiss.

On November 18, 1948, I saw Mr. Alger Hiss in New York City and showed him the photostatic copies of the papers which had been produced by Mr. Chambers. After consulting Mr. Edward C. McLean, who was associated with me as counsel in the libel suit, Mr. Hiss requested me to bring these papers to the attention of the Attorney General of the United States as soon as possible.

Kisseloff-25436

On the following morning I tried to reach the Attorney General by telephone but found that he had left his office and was not expected to return and then spoke to the Acting Attorney General, Mr. Philip B. Perlman, and told him that certain papers had come to light in connection with the Hiss-Chambers libel suit which should have the immediate attention of the highest officials of the Department of Justice. I asked Mr. Perlman whether he could arrange to see Mr. McLean and myself the following day. Mr. Perlman stated that he would get in touch with Mr. Alexander M. Campbell, Head of the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice, and tell him to call me. I then called Mr. Richard F. Cleveland, one of the counsel for Mr. Chambers, and told him that I had been instructed by my client to bring these papers to the attention of the Attorney General. Mr. Cleveland suggested that counsel for Mr. Chambers and Mr. Hiss meet to discuss the matter. Shortly thereafter he arrived at my office with his associate, Mr. William D. Macmillan, and with Mr. Harold R. Medina, Jr., of New York City, who stated that he was representing Time, Incorporated. Mr. Cleveland stated that there was no objection on their part to having these papers brought to the attention of the Department of Justice but suggested that the matter should be first taken up with Judge Chesnut. A conference was then arranged with Judge Chesnut which was held at 1:00 P.M. on Friday, November 19. At that conference I told Judge Chesnut what had taken place, including the instructions which I had received from my client. Mr. Cleveland stated to the court that his client had no objection to the proposed course of action, provided that there would be no unreasonable delay in the trial of the libel suit. My recollection is that his exact words were: "Your Honor, this is more Mr. Marbury's idea than it is ours, but we have no objection to it." Judge Chesnut then indicated that he saw no objection to the matter being brought to the attention of the Department of Justice.

Kisselloff-25437

While waiting to see Judge Chesnut I had received a call from Mr. Campbell, who indicated that he had been instructed by the Attorney General to come to Baltimore immediately. I suggested that he wait to hear from me until after the conference with Judge Chesnut had been concluded. Immediately upon returning from Judge Chesnut's office, I called Mr. Campbell and made arrangements for him to come to my office on that same afternoon. He arrived in the middle of the afternoon accompanied by two associates. Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Macmillan, and Mr. Medina arrived shortly thereafter. I explained the circumstances to Mr. Campbell and turned over to him the photostatic copies of the original papers which had been produced on the afternoon of November 17. Mr. Cleveland told Mr. Campbell that the originals were in his possession and had been placed in a safe deposit box. Mr. Campbell then requested that the taking of further depositions be suspended for a period of two weeks and that the utmost secrecy be preserved in the meantime so as to enable the government to make as complete an investigation as possible. He agreed that at the end of two weeks he would get in touch with me and let me know what the government intended to do. At his request, a reporter was called into the conference and asked not to write up his notes until further word was received from the Department of Justice.

Exactly at the expiration of two weeks, the Attorney General made public announcement of the fact that important evidence which had been produced in the Hiss-Chambers libel suit would be laid before the Grand Jury in New York City.

According to my present recollection, that statement appeared in the press on the afternoon of Friday, December 3. That same evening Mr. Frank Johnstone called me from the office of the Federal Bureau of Information in Baltimore and requested me to make arrangements to have Mr. Hiss in Baltimore on the following day for an interview. I reached Mr. Hiss at midnight, and he agreed immediately to come to Baltimore. I went with him to the offices of the Federal Bureau of Information on the following morning and remained there all day. During the course of that day he was served with a subpoena to appear before the Grand Jury in New York on Monday morning.

s of minor importance, in my opinion, and shouldn't be rated. The American class struggle, it seems fairly clear, still to produce (and will inevitably produce) its intellectual ders. The present little fuss is just an outpost skirmish. But it's no reason for not putting up as good a fight as you can.

Granville Hicks:

It is hard for me to know whether I ought to be grateful for or regret the fact that I fell under the influence of Wilsonian liberalism. On the one hand, training in that school kept me from blind admiration of big business, belief in the Republican party, and the more chauvinistic forms of patriotism. On the other, it gave me a lot of comforting theories that obscured the real issues at stake in the years during and after the war. Needless to say, there was nothing at Harvard, in the years from 1919 to 1925, that could turn my liberalism into radicalism. The surprising thing is, indeed, that my liberal attitudes survived at all. I even became, in the face of the unquestioning patriotism of one part of my associates and the cynical indifference of another part, a thoughgoing pacifist.

I emerged, in short, a fairly typical liberal, with a mild interest in socialism, a strong faith in pacifism, and the usual conviction that the desired changes in the social order could be brought about by the dissemination of sound ideas. But in the next four years my liberalism was steadily undermined. Reading made me sceptical of liberal reforms; Coolidge prosperity made it easy for me to forget that reforms were necessary. The one event that moved me deeply in those years was the murder of Sacco and Vanzetti. This completely crushed my faith in liberalism, for I saw on the one hand the detestable treachery of such liberals as Lowell who had helped to bring about the murder, and on the other the absolute helplessness of the liberals who had tried to stop it.

I could no longer accept the pleasant theories of liberalism, but nothing had taken their place. How easy it was to drift in 1927, 1928, and 1929! Though the social order still seemed viciously inefficient and indecently corrupt, there was, I consoled myself, nothing that I could do about. I was very much occupied with personal problems and the tasks of literary criticism, and I managed to forget about the world in which I lived. To my shame I confess it, I was as much a victim of the myth of prosperity as if I had been making fabulous profits in Wall Street instead of the meager salary of a college instructor.

Then came the crash! I did not lose any money; I had none to lose. But the depression wiped out the illusion of security, as I saw friends and even relatives losing their jobs, and witnessed every time I went on the street the spectacle of the unemployed. I no longer tried to conceal from myself the fact that the system was rotten, but still I could see nothing for me to do. Liberal attitudes persisted, even though liberal theories had been destroyed, and whenever communism was mentioned I reacted like any good liberal with talk of pacifism, freedom of speech, and intellectual integrity.

It took a long time, as a matter of fact, to get the virus of liberalism out of my system. As some of my friends turned to communism, long conversations, in which I tried to attack their opinions, showed me the weakness of my position, but I clutched at every straw. There was even a time when I argued that our only hope was in a beneficent, planned capitalism. Nothing could show more clearly how far I would go in defense of my old conceptions, than to assert that the future of society depended on the intelligence and benevolence of such men as Henry Ford and Owen D. Young was, after all, to deny everything I had professed to believe. Yet even this ridiculous subterfuge had its value: it forced me to admit that the choice lay between industrial feudalism and revolution. The necessity of defending the idea of planned capitalism led me to study the proposals made by George Soule, Stuart Chase, and the like, and when I attempted to translate the vague ideas of planning into concrete projects I could no longer conceal from myself the preposterousness of the notion. There was, I at least saw clearly, but one way out.

I have traced the intellectual steps in my change of opinion, for it is easier to see them than it is to see the various sorts of economic pressure that were affecting me. Yet I know well enough that both the questions I asked and the answers I arrived at were products of the particular situation in which I found myself. If I was able, however gradually, to break through the fog of self-delusion and confusion, it was because my experience at this time was precisely what it was. My present attitude is the product of the depression as if I had been forced out into the streets to beg for food.

The time came, then, when I was prepared to say that capitalism must be destroyed and that its destruction could be brought about only by a mass movement for the expropriation of the expropriators. But I was a long way from understanding what these propositions meant. I believed a time was coming when the sheep would be separated from the goats, and I thought I knew on which side I should align myself. I did not realize that the issue was already clear, the lines already established, the battle already begun. Especially I failed to see that the acceptance of these propositions must inevitably affect my whole attitude towards life.

It happened that at this time—less than two years ago—I was preparing to write a book on American literature since the Civil War. I had already seen that the chief problems writers faced in the period I was considering were those raised by industrialism, and I was trying to discover what attitudes had been adopted towards those problems and what these various attitudes had achieved in literature. I was, as everything I have said indicates, too confused about the issues of my own time, to see clearly the issues of the past. But as soon as I began to reconsider those issues in terms of the decision I had reached, they became more and more definite. As I read a little in the works of Marx and his followers, I found the answer to one question after another that had been bothering me. I realized that I had done more than reach a decision that might have consequences in some vague future; I had discovered a literary method of great and immediate importance.

I have no illusions, I trust, about the importance of criticism in this period of transition. The battle that is going on must be fought and won in quite a different arena. A person born in the middle class as I was, educated in bourgeois institutions, more or less professionally interested in literature, is poorly prepared to take a leading part. Yet the fight goes on on many fronts, and minor engagements as well as major must be fought and won. If the work for which I have been trained is not of primary importance, it is not without its own significance. Criticism must be a weapon if it is not to be merely an amusing game, and I now know in what cause that weapon, so far as I am concerned, shall be wielded.

Sherwood Anderson:

There is a sense in which I believe that the little stories in Winesburg Ohio are as revolutionary as anything I shall ever be able to write.

You do not need to go far back into the history of writing to come to the place where the life of a common man or woman, the worker, was not thought interesting. Such lives were not thought of as material for the story teller at all. In the old fiction, old poetry, old plays the workers and peasants were invariably introduced as comic figures. Go to your Shakespeare and you will see what I mean. It is so in all the older fiction. The notion that the worker, in the factory, in the sweat-shop, in the mine, might be as sensitive and as easily hurt as the well-to-do man or woman, and that the strange thing in life we call beauty might be as alive in such a one—man or woman—as in the rich and successful, is still new.

If our present capitalist system did in fact produce, even for the few, the kind of glowing lives some of our romancers pretend I would myself hesitate about deserting capitalism. It doesn't.

I am only trying to say this in explanation. I myself wrote, when I was a very young man, a long book I called Why I Believe in Socialism. Afterward I tore it up. It was very badly written. Among my earlier books I wrote the novel Marching Men, an attempt to get at the every day lives of coal miners in a middle western coal mining town.

I believe and am bound to believe that those of you who are revolutionists will get the most help out of such men as myself not by trying to utilize such talents as we have directly as writers of propaganda but in leaving us as free as possible to strike, by our stories out of American life, into the deeper facts.

I mean that the lives of those who now succeed in getting money and power in our present individualistic capitalistic society are neither happy nor successful lives. That illusion also needs to be destroyed.

When it comes to the others, the workers, the real producers, he down trodden people, there stories need to be told.

I think I have always wanted to tell that story and still want to tell it. It is my one great passion. If Winesburg Ohio tries to tell the story of the defeated figures of an old American individualistic small town life, then my new book Beyond Desire is but carrying these same people forward into the new American life and into the whirl and roar of modern machines. I do not believe my own impulses have changed.

Edmund Wilson:

Thank you for asking me to contribute to the intellectual autobiography series, but I've got so much else on my hands just now that I couldn't possibly do the article. There's nothing to my story anyway. I've always had about the same general tendencies—was imbued with literary socialism at college and used to contribute to the Masses after the War—but it was only recently in trying to formulate a new policy for The New Republic after Croly's death that I investigated Marxism and really understood the Marxist position.

Michael Gold

Why I am a Communist:

In 1914 there was an unemployment crisis in America, and I was one of its victims. I was 18 years old, a factory worker and shipping clerk with five years experience, and the chief support of a fatherless family. Unemployment was no academic matter to me, but the blackest and most personal tragedy.

Well, the hungry workers were raising hell in New York. There were demonstrations, marches, and raids on fashionable Fifth Avenue churches by the unemployed. The Anarchists were then still a brilliant and fearless revolutionary group in America, and they led the fight in New York.

I blundered into a big Union Square meeting, where Alexander Berkman, Emma Goldman, Leonard Abbott and other anarchists spoke. The cops, as usual, pointed the anarchist denunciations of capitalism by smashing into the meeting, cracking the skulls and ribs of everyone present. I saw a woman knocked down by a beefy cop's club. She screamed, and instinctively I ran across the square to help her. I was knocked down myself, booted, and managed to escape the hospital only by sheer luck.

I have always been grateful to that cop and his club. For one thing, he introduced me to literature and revolution. I had not read a single book in five years; nothing except the sporting page of newspapers. I hadn't thought much about anything except baseball, jobs, food, sleep and Sundays at Coney Island. I was a prize fight fanatic and amateur boxer. Now I grew so bitter because of that cop that I went around to the anarchist Ferrer School and discovered books—I discovered history, poetry, science, and the class struggle.

Nobody who has not gone through this proletarian experience can ever understand the fever that seized me in the next year. I read myself almost blind each night after work. My mind woke up like a suppressed volcano. I can never discharge this personal debt to the revolutionary movement—it gave me a mind.

And I think I can understand what the Soviet state means today to millions of grateful Russian workers and peasants—it has given them a mind.

I was an anarchist for several years. The poetry, the strong passions and naive ideology of that movement appealed to a literary adolescent. I found a job as night porter at the Adams Express Company depot on West 47th Street. I wrestled big trunks and half-ton cases from seven at night until seven the next morning. I sweated, but in my mind I lived in the idealistic world of Shelley, Blake, Walt Whitman, Kropotkin. I was a revolutionist, but it never occurred to me to do anything about it. Nothing, really, was demanded of me.

It was the I. W. W. who made me conscious of the proletarian basis of the revolution. I left New York, had some road experiences, and was present in several Wobbly strikes. The history of this heroic organization has still to be written. It is decadent veteran leaders of American Commu- through the I. W. W. experience—Bill er, Bill Earl Br

George, and others. (But of course nobody ought feel grate this to the bourgeois Civil Liberties liberals who now ru poor old Wobblies).

The War came; the Russian Revolution; I was against the I was 100 per cent with the Bolsheviks. It seemed marve then, beyond any words, and it still is as marvellous, tha workers' state had come down from the clouds of Shelley's dr and established itself on this earth.

We formed a Red Guard of about a thousand youth in N York, which Hugo Gellert and I joined, to go to Russia and for the cause. Our captain went to Washington to inter the State Department, but they told him that if we wanted to we had better enlist for France. This, of course, didn't sa a bunch of young Red Guards.

And now I will end the autobiography by saying that the sian Revolution forced me to read Lenin. I read his pam State and Revolution, and for the first time, really seeme understand the necessary historical steps by which the could be changed from a filthy capitalist jungle into an ea paradise of socialism.

Till then, the revolution had been a queer mixture in my that now is difficult to describe. One half of me knew the p tarian realities of bastardly foremen, lousy jobs, the misery reading the want ads each morning, cops' clubs, etc. The ot half was full of the most extraordinary mystic hash, the re of reading. Let me confess it now—I took Shelley, Blake, Walt Whitman quite literally. They were my real guides to re lutionary action. But our great teacher Lenin, clarified everythi for me.

The Communist dream is beautiful, he seemed to say in h axe-like words, the greatest man has ever formed. The rev tion is the highest poetry of the human race. But to be my about it means admitting it is only a dream, and can neve realized. A revolutionist ought never lose sight of the wonde goal—(Anarchism, so Lenin stated it)—but he is a traitor, misleader and a source of dangerous confusion if for even a m ment he neglects the daily class struggle, the links in the revol tionary chain.

Did one really want the socialist world? Then one must disca every bit of romantic nonsense, one must become as practical this business as the enemy, who was never romantic, but who sh and jailed romantics and amateurs.

Yes, I learned from Leninism never to lose sight of the ultima goal; also never to lose sight of the practical steps in attaining i I cannot tell what a great lesson this was to me; I can only sa that its effect was to make me study economics for the first tim

Today I might sum up my attitude in a few paragraphs. Com munism can't be summed up that way; it is a new world large than that found by Columbus, and thousands of poets, economist literary critics, and above all, workers, are mapping it out a creating its history.

But this is a symposium, space is valuable, so here are a fe ideas:

1. We must have a Socialist world. Capitalism is litera destroying the human race; it has broken down, it can no long feed the multitudes; it is a bandit, also, and must be execute before it murders another ten million young men in another wa

2. The intellectuals, the teachers, engineers, critics, art photo raphers, ballet masters, etc. haven't the numbers, or the econom power or the will or the sheer necessity of ushering in a sociali world. Only the working class satisfies these requirements. T free itself it is forced to bring in socialism. The intellectua have a favored servant status in capitalism; and their chief air will remain fascist. Like good flunkeys the majority of them w remain incorrigibly "loyalist." They will try to patch up master's failing fortunes; they will invent "planning" schemes, elect Norman Thomas as President to stave off a revolution Socialist revolution); they will flock around a Woodrow Wils a Franklin Roosevelt, and then a Mussolini; yes, they will hu saviours for capitalism; we know too well these liberals who liberal in America, but now may be found in the Fascist ra Orient. Perhaps 10 per cent of them r will join the workingclass ranks and enormously. But this will be the cream of the intellectual

3. Only the workingclass can bring in Socialism. The one problem of our time, therefore, is how the working class organized and led to the conquest of the state and to There is no other problem.

HOW I CAME TO COMMUNISM

Waldo Frank

Where I Stand and How I Got Here

The editors of New Masses write to me of "the marked movement among the intellectuals toward the left"; and they ask me for an "intellectual autobiography" of how I got that way. What they want to know, of course, is in my books. And what they are really asking, is a 2,000 word digest of my books for readers who, presumeably, are too busy preparing the Revolution to find time to read them. Personally, I feel that if a necessarily superficial digest of a man's books is worth while, it would repay the effort to read the books, themselves. Moreover, although there may be some critic smart enough to get into so brief a space the essence of what I have labored to put into fifteen volumes, I am sure I can not do it.

My "movement toward the left" is a steady, logical evolution in my published works. It is not really a "movement" at all in the sense of a displacement—like that of a man, for instance, who moves from Brooklyn to the Bronx. It is really a clarifying and solidifying and organizing of convictions present in my work from its beginning: it is a sharpening and shifting of the focus of my work, due to the economic and psychologic shifts of the America I live in.

I have never been an economist or sociologist. I have always been, first of all, an artist—the kind of artist, however, who is interested not only in individuals but also in peoples, in cultures, in ideas. Those of my creations that deal with imaginary persons or groups of persons are "fiction": those that deal with actual historic peoples are harder to classify, but they are as essentially works of art as my novels. I am, moreover, a product of the New York upper middle class. But by the time I was finished with college, I knew that I did not belong with my class, and that I could not go into the money-making racket which went by such names as "business" or "the law." A couple of years of newspaper work were sufficient to convince me that the capitalistic order was rotten from top to bottom: rotten in its churches, in its politics, in its business, in its arts, in its intellectual life. But this conviction brought with it no clear idea as to the way out. The trouble, it seemed to me, was with human nature. And of course, it was—and it is. Men and women, I thought, might individually achieve, against great odds, some truth and beauty. It was a desperately slow process; but at the time I knew no other. The Marxian idea of a class, potentially representative of mankind, and potentially destined to destroy the stratified greed and violence that had become Society, was still far beyond me.

Nonetheless, social emotions and social ideas were, from the beginning, conscious factors in my books. And it would be possible, if I had the time, to isolate and trace their evolution from one book to the next; although in so doing I should necessarily distort the true nature of my works, if I disregarded other vital and integral elements.

My first published novel (written before we entered the War) was The Unwelcome Man. It is the story of a sensitive youth, without unusual talents, in petty bourgeois American society. The story arraigns this society for its sordidness, its cruelty, its sterility; it depicts the fate of a lad who rebels against it, yet who rebels hopelessly, since he is equipped with but ordinary powers, since he is alone, and since—above all—he possesses no ideology except that of his own class.

Then the War came to America and it forced me, who had always been most at home in the arts and in philosophy, to think for the first time in political terms. I saw soon enough that the War was not what the Nations said it was: that it was the result of imperialistic capitalism and, more deeply, of the state of mind symbolized by the capitalistic order. Before this, I had condemned capitalism's culture, I had also condemned its economic [illegible]. But I had gone no farther than a vague utopian socialism. [illegible]opotkin, but not Ma[illegible]. Which meant, that I had faith only in individual action. Now, I read Marx. But I was still extremely far from applying his laws to American conditions.

At the time, I was editing "The Seven Arts" with James Oppenheim and Van Wyck Brooks. All three of us called ourselves socialists; but our magazine had begun as a purely literary organ for national expression. Our "master" was Walt Whitman. Now, however, with the War upon us, we were faced with the necessity of action. We opposed America's entry into the War. We supported Eugene Debs, (although we did not think much of his mind). We published John Reed, and the magnificent revolutionary articles of Randolph Bourne. Secret service men began to infest our offices; the papers listed us among "enemies from within." We went down with flying colors.

When the draft came, I registered as an objector "not for religious reasons but against imperialist war." And while I waited for the military police to send me to Leavenworth (they never got to me), I began a novel which only now I am really writing; and of which I published a part under the title The Dark Mother.

My rebellion and my hopes at this time, were expressed in my first critical volume Our America, which appeared in 1919. Let me quote from the first paragraph:

"No American can hope to run a journal, win public office, successfully advertise a soap or write a popular novel who does not insist upon the idealistic basis of his country. A peculiar sort of ethical rapture has earned the term American. Woodrow Wilson is only its latest adept: George Washington was by no means its first. And the reason is probably at least in part that no land has ever sprung so nakedly as ours from a direct and conscious material impulse. The history of the colonization of America is the reflex result of economic movements in the Mother countries . . . "

And the book's last sentence:

" . . . In a dying world, creation is revolution."

Our America, although essentially a poet's portrait of his world, was an attack on our capitalistic system, viewed as a culture. It also was an appeal to the future—to "revolution." But it did not envisage the way to this future in Marxian terms—i.e., in terms of the class war. The masses, whom it called "the multitudes in Whitman," must take over and make over America; but the book stressed as the dynamic force making for revolution, the spiritual and cultural values in America: the Indian, the immigrant, the message of men like Whitman, Lincoln, Spinoza, Marx. And its direct appeal was not to a proletarian class (with whom I had little contact), but to a small band of gallant writers who were to lead the "multitude"—and who, of course, failed to materialize.

I returned to fiction; and wrote in the next four years my three most important novels: Rahab, City Block, Holiday. These were pure forms of experimental art: lyrical and dionysian. But even in them, there is a strong line of social implication—which perhaps is one reason why all three of these novels are translated into Russian. Holiday is a novel of the South. It really has but two collective characters: "white town" and "nigger town" of a Gulf state. It depicts the encounter of these two characters—the economic subjugation of the Negro to the white, and the emotional subjugation of the white to the Negro. It draws the clash to its tragic passionate conclusion: the lynching. Perhaps I can best suggest the social quality of the book by saying that the Negro press hailed it, and called it the "modern Uncle Tom's Cabin"—a compliment which, I fear, did not flatter the artist in me.

Rahab is, in its bare social lines, the story of a Southern girl of the middle class, ruined by her evangelical Christian husband, dri[illegible] here, in contact with the underworld, sh[illegible] finds what must be the essence of true religion: the facing of th[illegible] reality of life. And City Block is a kind of collective novel abo[illegible] a New York proletarian street. These books are not "proletar[illegible] literature" in the sense that their characters consciously call [illegible] a Marxian revolution. Neither is Winesburg or Mur[illegible] although Sherwood Anderson is deeply a proletarian novelist. But let me point out, that to have made the characters of my "city block" call for revolution in 1922 would have been bad art. It would have been contrary to the nature of these characters. Only when the proletariat itself becomes consciously revolutionary, can a good proletarian novelist so depict it. That consciousness is just beginning in the U. S. To demand it of novels faithful to the truth as it existed a decade ago, is absurd.

Now again, the great American problem claimed me: the problem of creating a true new world in our hemisphere. Our America had been but a prelude of this theme, which I intended to treat symphonically in a group of books. My purpose was not mainly critical: it was to create portraits of the American worlds—of the human sources of our energy—which would constructively lead forth into the future. One of the results of Our America had been to put me in touch with the radical students and writers of South America. And they made me see that America did not stop at the Rio Grande: it went all the way down to Argentina. Now, you cannot understand the U. S. without knowing England and Europe. And similarly you cannot understand America Hispana, without knowing Spain, Portugal, North Africa. So I went there. And later on, I went to Mexico and South America.

I wrote Virgin Spain and America Hispana—cultural portraits of these peoples. I cannot, here, possibly go into even the simplest exposition of what these books contain; their ideological content is too complex, and besides, they are primarily portraits—works of art. Here, all I can say is, that I felt very strongly the relevance of both the Catholic and Semitic traditions in Spain, and of the American Indian cultures, to the problem of creating a world in which the person, knowing his true place in the collective group, should be a true person. The Spaniard has a sense of the whole which needs only to be transposed from its false Christian symbols to prepare him for a true communism. (I point out the analogy of the Russians, who also had a Catholic background, in my recent Dawn in Russia). And the great Indian cultures have always had communistic roots; have always preserved that sense of the individual as a social integer, which we must achieve in North America, before we can think of overcoming the false individualism that is the essence of our capitalistic order.

I wrote these two books primarily for the United States, since I was convinced of the usefulness for ourselves of understanding these peoples. But oddly enough, the books have been understood chiefly in the Hispanic countries. Here, they were shallowly regarded as "travel books." (They are no more travel books, than Don Quixote is a travel book). In Spain, in Mexico, in Argentina, they are understood as revolutionary analyses of the genius of races—attempts to lift up, into consciousness and therefore into force, the potential promise of the American peoples.

Well allotted space is running short, and I haven't done much more than mention a few of my books. They may be said to represent, socially, an evolution from personal revolt against bourgeois society (The Unwelcome Man, Our America) to the discovery of dynamic forces and values in our modern epoch, potential for the creating of a new revolutionary world (The Rediscovery of America, America Hispana). In all my books, however, the stress is on the primary material that must be recreated—i.e., mankind; and not on the economic and political method that must be the first outward step in the re-creative task. The reason for this is, that I am not an economist, not a professional revolutionist; but an artist, a psychologist, and cultural historian.

Where, then, is my "movement to the left?" For it exists. In my books, it is not a movement, it is a steady evolution. But in my active life, it has recently been something of a "movement."

I will put down briefly why this is, and why it will continue to be . . .

1. I have lost my last vestige of faith in the middle-classes, in all middle class action, and in the efficacy of intellectual groups who are identified, either openly or indirectly, with middle class values.

2. I do not romanticize or idealize the workers and peasants. I am no follower of Rousseau, vaguely dreaming of the perfe tion of "the natural man." But to have faith in human life a all, in this epoch of bourgeois decadence, must mean henceforth to have faith in the proletarians and farmers who alone as a clas have not been hopelessly corrupted by the sources and methods of the capitalistic order. The artist and thinker, from now on, must choose: either to hope and fight with the masses, or to despair and surrender alone. At bottom, Marxism is a methodology for creating a human culture—in place of the slave cultures which history reveals. In this sense, which underlies his great economic discoveries, I am better equipped to understand Marx; and I accept him wholly. However, Marx did not complete the task of providing a methodology for the new culture. He began, but he did not conclude the work. And he knew To be a good Marxian is to be creative enough to go beyond M

3. I accept wholly the Marxian law, that a revolutionary pr tarian class is the chief instrument for creating the commu society. And I agree with Marx, wholly, that only this commu society can go forward to the creating of a real human cultur

4. I believe that the intellectuals of all kinds must definit and actively join hands with the revolutionary proletarian cla that they must take a militant part, as intellectuals, henceforth in the class war, and that it is their duty to make their positi unequivocally clear to all the workers.

5. The world is in crisis. Men and women are starving; the are being demoralized by unemployment; when they attempt even to protest they are being bludgeoned back to slavery by the armed mobs of Business fascism. At such a time, I cannot forever remain in my library, although my essential work lies there. must from time to time make clear, in language simpler than the language of my books—in the language of physical comradeship—my solidarity with the people.

6. The world is in crisis, and there is no time to lose. Th revolutionary tomorrow must be prepared today. Otherwise, may come too late—too late to save mankind from the destructio of capitalistic war, and (still worse) from the moral siphilis o capitalistic Peace.

7. However, I shall not lose sight of what has been, and continues to be, my share in the work of world-creation. Nor shall let my emotions in the daily crisis swerve me. That would be deadly sentimentalism. The task of the creative artist, the task of the creator of revolutionary cultural values, is important today as it has never been before.

August 14, 1932.

Clifton B. Fadiman:

My particular turn to the left was a simple matter. I can' write 1500 words about it.

History—mainly in the form of the crisis—became my teacher while I was still young enough to learn.

Another thing—my work, for many years, has been mainly in the field of business. You can accept business (another word for America); you can be cynical about it ('civilized' in the New Yorker manner); or you can take a good look at it. Unless you're a big shot in business—and even then, frequently—accepting business or being cynical about it makes you out a damned fool. I'm one of the smallest shots in the locker—and I got tired of being a damned fool.

There were a couple of other cut-and-dried factors. During the summer of 1931 I happened to spend time with people who knew more than I did. They too, perhaps, were just history disguised as individuals. I couldn't help learning from them.

Also I got a little sour on the sort of stuff I was writing. didn't seem capable of development. The point of view behind was inadequate for the interpretation of events, particularly cultural events. And, as I am temperamentally indisposed toward th b[illegible] only one other point of view possible.

[illegible] was a certain amount of imitation, ma[illegible] compulsion, whatever you choose to call it—still another name f history.

The present left turn of any one person or any small grou

Many groups have fought for this leadership. By now his- has given all of them a chance at power, and it is possible ate exactly what each will do to bring in socialism.

The Anarchists may be dismissed as a small and moribund Their chief form of action today is not against capitalism, against the Russian Revolution. The I. W. W. and syndicalist vement can be described in the same terms. The Socialist and mmunist parties are the chief international rivals for leadership the working class. And both have controlled great nations.

The Socialists may best be analyzed, perhaps, by their ons in Germany, where they made a revolution. The Socialist ters there have swung into the ranks of reaction. They mur- Liebknecht and Luxemburg at the beginning of their regime, they ended by advising the working class to vote for Von enburg. They established no socialism. They tolerated sm, even made compacts with it, until it grew strong enough lestroy them. Their political strategy had as goal not the nse of workers' rights and the establishment of socialism, but patching up of capitalism. The same story could be told of isay Macdonald's England, or Chiang Kai Shek's China, or Japan, where two-thirds of the Socialist party moved over into ew Fascist Party to back their native imperialists in the rape Manchuria. Is all this true, or isn't it? How can anyone end such a party? How can anyone say any longer that this ternational Socialist party can be trusted to bring in socialism? en in America they run true to form, as in the case of their ader, Morris Hillquit. He acted as lawyer for certain Czarist illionaires who tried to seize Soviet funds on the grounds that heir oil wells had been nationalized, (Socialism). Yes, Hillquit, Socialist leader, pleaded in a long brief that Socialism is gal. And Norman Thomas, the Socialist president, in a long ech said that Socialism meant confiscation, and that he was inst confiscation. In Milwaukee a Socialist Mayor gives $1.31 orth of food to each starving unemployed family per week, and eats them up when they demonstrate for more. Is this a fact, r isn't it? And is it Socialism?

7. The Socialists are the great alibi merchants of the modern world. Their constant plea, when in power, has always been that he time was not yet ripe for Socialism. But the time was not ipe either, in Russia, when the Communists took power. The ifficulties were the most enormous and heartbreaking that ever faced a group of leaders. But in the midst of war, revolution, famine, an armed intervention by seventeen capitalist nations, the Communists struck the first blow for Socialism. They have gone on; nobody lies any longer that Russia is swinging back to capitalism. While capitalism strangles in the fatal web of its own contradictions, the Soviet state grows stronger and wins new victories for Socialism. The majestic thunder of the Five Year Plan has shaken the world. We can trust this Party to bring in socialism, therefore; it has already begun the historic task.

8. It is an international party, with units in each country. It as developed tactics, a discipline, a literature; and to it daily re attracted the most fearless and intelligent elements of the working class. It makes mistakes. It suffers defeats. But it marches on. Its discipline may seem harsh at times, but when he world war comes the Communist International will not split p into national units fighting each other under the capitalist lags, as did the Socialist International. It will not betray us; or it purges itself constantly of every taint of capitalist influence. We can trust this Party; but we cannot trust the Hillquits, Ramsay Macdonalds and Schiedemanns of the Socialist movement.

9. Is there another instrument, another political party in the world today, as well-tempered, as fearless, as studious and flexible, in as deadly earnest about the birth of Socialism as this ommunist Party? If there is not, then whoever injures or iticizes this party without helping it, whoever forms rival parties or sects, is of necessity a traitor to the coming of socialism.

10. I have wanted for fifteen years one supreme thing. I have nted it more than love, health, fame or security. It is world alism that I want—for I know this alone can banish the mis- s of the world I now live in. It will free the factory slaves, farm drudges, it will set women free, and restore the Negro o its human rights. I know that the world will be beautiful the sunlight of proletarian brotherhood; meanwhile, the And I want Socialism so much that I accept this fierce, le as my fate in time; I accept its disciplines . . . necessities; I become as practical and realistic as is possible for me; I v

A Most Significant Change

In the August issue of the "Living Age" I read with sorrow of soul an article by Nikolaus Basseches, reprinted from the "Neue Freie Presse" of Vienna, telling about the terrible failure which is coming in Soviet agriculture.

To put it briefly, Mr. Basseches says that by the 10th of last May the Russians had succeeded in planting less than 30 per cent of the 264 million acres called for under the Plan, "and a few weeks later the Plan was only 42.7 per cent fulfilled." There is a good deal more about this, nearly three full pages, and it winds up with the statement: "After four years of the first Five-Year Plan, which is now supposed to be completed, the total output of grain, which had risen during recent years to 21,600,000 tons in 1930 and 22,400,000 tons in 1931, will amount at most to ten million tons."

This hurt me in spirit, because I am on record as having said that the socialization of agriculture in Russia is the most significant change in the history of mankind. I have predicted that it will bankrupt small-scale peasant agriculture throughout the world, and make inevitable an agricultural revolution. The peasants of every country being the back bone of superstition and reaction, I was hopeful of change, and sad over the Basseches article.

But I remembered how many other sets of statistics I had read, over a period of fifteen years, proving the collapse of the Soviet system. I decided to wait a few days before giving way completely to despair. And sure enough, here comes the "Economic Review of the Soviet Union," published by Amtorg in New York, dated August 15th. In it I find an article headed "Results of Spring Sowing and the Harvesting Campaign." To be sure these are Soviet figures; but then, so are Mr. Basseches', I presume. I do not believe the correspondent of the "Neue Freie Presse" has been flying over Russia in an airplane and counting the number of acres which have been planted. Neither do I suppose that the correspondents of any White newspapers in Riga or Warsaw have been performing such service.

According to the figures, I learn that the results of the spring sowing campaign up to July first show that "the plantings were 99.6 per cent of the record area sown last year." I learn also that by August First the harvesting campaign "was well under way, and a total of 75.8 million acres have been harvested." Russia expects eight million extra tons of grain this year, instead of twelve million less. Also I learn that 80 per cent of the sowings this year were done by the socialized sector of State and cooperative farms. That is the thing that really counts; so believers in social progress may cheer up.

PERJURY
ESPIONAGE - R

The information which follows has been obtained from the Bureau's files and pertains to Alger Hiss, one of the individuals who has figured prominently in the allegations of Jay David Whittaker Chambers concerning the existence of a Communist underground espionage apparatus in Washington, D. C. in the 1930's.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Alger Hiss was born November 11, 1904 at Baltimore, Maryland. He attended the public schools of Baltimore, Maryland and Powder Point Academy in Duxbury, Massachusetts. He was granted a Bachelor of Arts degree by Johns Hopkins University in 1926 and a Bachelor of Law degree by Harvard University in 1929. Hiss is married to Priscilla Fansler Hobson Hiss and has one son, Anthony, and a stepson, Timothy Hobson.

Following his graduation from Harvard, Hiss became Secretary to Associate Justice Oliver W. Holmes of the United States Supreme Court and remained in that capacity until October, 1930. From that time until May, 1933 he practiced law in Boston, Massachusetts and New York City. Hiss was then employed from May, 1933 until April, 1935 as Assistant to the General Counsel and as Assistant General Counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration at a salary of $6,000 to $7,000 per year. During a portion of this period he served as a legal assistant to the Senate Munitions Investigation Committee, remaining in that position until August, 1935. During the succeeding year until August, 1936 Hiss served as Special Attorney in the Office of the Solicitor General in the Department of Justice at a salary ranging from $6,000 to $7,500 a year. He was appointed Assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State at $5,600 per year on September 1, 1936, and on June 1, 1939 his salary was increased to $5,800 per year. In 1942 he was reported to be Assistant to the Adviser on Political Relations in the Department of State. On February 19, 1945 Hiss, then Deputy of the Office of Special Political Affairs in the Department of State, was indicated as the successor of Edwin C. Wilson as Director of that office upon the assignment of Wilson as Ambassador to Turkey. Hiss served as Secretary General of the United Nations Conference at San Francisco in 1945. He resigned from the Department of State in January, 1947 to become President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. As a result of the disclosures of Jay David Whittaker Chambers concerning Hiss, Hiss is presently on a ninety-day leave of absence with pay from his post with the Carnegie Endowment, pending a clarification of the controversy which has arisen between him and Chambers. INVESTIGATION PRIOR TO CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS

Alger Hiss was investigated in the latter part of 1941 and the early part of 1942 in accordance with the provisions of Public Law #135 (Hatch Act). At that time Hiss had been reported to be a member of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action according to the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It was determined, however, that the name of Alger Hiss did not, in fact, appear in the active indices of that organization but that the name of his wife did. Since Hiss was then Assistant to the Adviser on Political Relations in the Department of State, a copy of the report on this investigation was furnished to the Secretary of State by letter dated March 24, 1942. This report set forth information furnished by a former fellow-employee of Hiss in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to the effect that Hiss and his associates in the AAA, if not Communists, were fellow travelers. No other unfavorable information was developed and Hiss himself denied in a sworn statement that he had ever been a member of the Communist Party, the Washington Committee for Democratic Action, or of any other organization which advocated the overthrow of the Government.

By letter dated March 26, 1942 G. Howland Shaw, Assistant Secretary of the Department of State, advised that Hiss was well and favorably known to a number of the higher officials of the Department and was a valued employee. Mr. Shaw's letter stated that the FBI report, mentioned above, afforded "no basis for administrative action." (101-2668-5, 6; 65-56402-695)

CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 13, 1942

On May 13, 1942 Jay David Whittaker Chambers advised Special Agents of the FBI that Alger Hiss and his brother, Donald Hiss, were members of the Communist Party underground organization in Washington which was headed by Harold Ware. Chambers described Alger Hiss as a former employee of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration who had later served in the Government's investigation of the Munitions Industry and had subsequently become an Assistant Solicitor General of the United States. Chambers further explained that the same Hiss had later become an assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State. (100-25824-22)

INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

The Bureau's files do not disclose that any investigation was conducted in 1942 following Chambers' allegations concerning Hiss. It may be noted that Chambers' disclosures were not reported to the State Department by the FBI inasmuch as upon the occasion he furnished this information to FBI Agents, Chambers had first obtained approval to do so from Adolf A. Berle, Jr., then Assistant Secretary of State and had made it evident that he had already submitted similar details to Mr. Berle.

CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS IN BERLE NOTES OBTAINED IN JUNE, 1943

In June, 1943 the FBI obtained from the then Assistant Secretary of State, Adolf A. Berle, a copy of notes which he had made in 1939 in the course of an interview with Chambers. The portion of the Berle notes which pertained to Alger Hiss read as follows:

"Alger Hiss
Assistant to Sayre - CP - 1937
Member of the Underground Com. - Active
Baltimore Boys
Wife - Priscilla Hiss - Socialist -
Early Days of New Deal"

There is no record of any additional information having been furnished by Mr. Berle at the time he furnished a copy of his notes to a representative of the FBI. (100-25824-27)

At this point it should be noted that, as mentioned above, Alger Hiss in March of 1945, was employed by the Department of State. On March 24, 1945 an official of the FBI (Mr. E. A. Tamm, the Assistant to the Director) furnished orally the substance of a summary memorandum, dated March 21, 1945, concerning Alger Hiss to Robert Lynch, Special Assistant to the Secretary of State. This summary memorandum reflected that Chambers, a former member of the Communist Party, had reported that Alger Hiss had been a member of the underground organization of the Communist Party. This memorandum also mentioned that Hiss had been associated with Nathan Witt and Lee Pressman, who were also reported to have been recruited into the Communist underground in Washington, D. C. (61-7559; 100-25836-41; 101-2668-9, 12)

On March 27, 1945 a summary memorandum dated March 26, 1945, containing the information set forth in the preceding paragraph, was furnished to Mr. Frederick B. Lyon, Chief of the Division of Foreign Activity Correlation of the Department of State, by an official of the FBI (Mr. D. M. Ladd) pursuant to Mr. Lyon's request. (101-2668-10)

CHAMBERS' ALLEGATIONS ON MAY 10, 1945

When interviewed on May 10, 1945, Jay David Whittaker Chambers said that Hiss, who in the meantime had become General Secretary of the United Nations Conference at San Francisco, had met on several occasions with Harold Ware's group and that he had usually attendeded meetings of the group when they were held at Henry Collins' house. He said that when Hiss went with the Senate (Nye) Munitions Investigation Committee, Hiss had been segregated from the group and had no more official contacts with them. Chambers said, however, that Hiss did meet socially with many of the group and was particularly close to John Abt's sister, Marian Bachrach. Chambers further stated that he had no reason to believe that Hiss had broken away from the Communist Party. As a reason for this belief, he explained that after he, Chambers, had broken with the Party, he had made a special trip to Hiss' home in the Georgetown Section of Washington for the purpose of persuading Hiss to leave the Party. Chambers explained that when he arrived there, Hiss' wife was the only one present and that while Chambers momentarily excused himself to go to the bathroom, he observed Hiss' wife going to the telephone "obviously to get in touch with Party members." Chambers immediately returned to the room and awaited the arrival of Alger Hiss. When Hiss arrived they had dinner together at his home following which Chambers said he talked with him all night in an endeavor to persuade Hiss to leave the Party. Chambers stated that, with tears streaming down his face, Hiss had refused to break with the Communists and had given as his reason for not breaking away, his loyalty to his friends and his principles. Chambers pointed out that in his opinion one of the strongest reasons for Hiss' maintaining contact with the Communist Party was the fanatical loyalty to the Communist Party on the part of his wife. In this connection Chambers explained that he had endeavored to persuade Hiss to leave the Communist Party because he personally had great regard for Hiss and considered him an intelligent and decent young man whose better judgment should have led him to leave the Communist Party.

Kisseloff-24979

INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Although no action was immediately taken concerning Chambers' additional information concerning Hiss, Hiss, as a result of the disclosures of Elizabeth Terrill Bentley in November, 1945, became a subject of the investigation conducted in the Silvermaster case. (100-25824-22, 27, 36)

ALLEGATIONS OF ELIZABETH TERRILL BENTLEY IN NOVEMBER - 1945

On November 7, 1945 Elizabeth Terrill Bentley voluntarily appeared at the New York Office of the FBI and furnished, at length, information concerning her own activities as well as the activities of other individuals in Soviet espionage which she stated had extended into agencies of the United States Government. She was thereafter interviewed on numerous occasions during the month of November, 1945 and on November 30, 1945 she signed a statement which set forth her allegations concerning the individuals named by her. It should be noted that Miss Bentley's allegations were the first indication received by the FBI that a Soviet espionage ring had existed in Washington.

Miss Bentley related that Harold Glasser had been working in Europe for the United States Treasury Department and that Victor Perlo had advised her that Glasser had asked him if he, Glasser, would be able to return to the Perlo Group. Bentley at a later date, in talking with Charles Kramer in New York City, brought up the matter of Glasser's return to activity in the Perlo Group and Kramer, at that time, stated that the person who had originally taken Glasser away from the Perlo Group and had turned him over directly to a Russian was a man named Hiss, who was employed in the Department of State. Miss Bentley subsequently was advised by her Russian contact named Jack that he had learned of the identity of Hiss. Miss Bentley indicated that the Hiss in question was an adviser to Dean Acheson of the Department of State named Eugene Hiss. (Subsequent inquiry pointed to the individual referred to as being Alger Hiss.) (65-56402-220)

INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED

Authority was requested of the Attorney General to install a technical surveillance on the residence of Alger Hiss, 3210 P Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., by memorandum dated November 28, 1945. The request was based on the allegation that Hiss was engaged in Soviet espionage. By memorandum dated November 29, 1945, the Attorney General asked if this individual was identical with the one employed in the State Department, and if so, what information the FBI had regarding him. In accordance to the Attorney General's inquiry, a memorandum dated November 30, 1945 was furnished to him concerning Alger Hiss. This memorandum set forth the allegations of Elizabeth Terrill Bentley concerning the individual named Hiss, who was employed in the State Department. This surveillance was authorized and installed. (65-56402-94)

It was ascertained that in March, 1946, Michael Greenberg, another individual mentioned by Miss Bentley as being connected with the espionage ring which she had described, addressed a letter to Alger Hiss, setting forth his qualifications and stating, "I expect to be in New York City next week and would appreciate any suggestions you might make. If it be possible to put me in touch with principal UNO people, I would appreciate it duly." (65-56402-1019)

Alger Hiss was interviewed at his request by a Bureau official, Mr. D. M. Ladd, on March 25, 1946. At that time Hiss explained that he wished to clear up any questions that might have arisen concerning his loyalty to the Government since it had been brought to his attention by the then Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, that his name had been mentioned in connection with subversive organizations. Hiss, on this occasion, denied that he or his wife were ever members of the Washington Committee for Democratic Action. He mentioned the possibility that his wife could have been a member of the League of Women Shoppers because he thought that some of her friends had been members of that organization. Hiss further emphatically stated that at no time had he been a member of the Communist Party or had any association with it. He further declared that he knew of no friends of his who were members of the Party. Asked, whether he had any association with any person or persons who might be members of any subversive organizations which might have caused the belief to exist that he likewise was a member of such organizations, he replied that he knew of no association on his part with any persons which would lead to this conclusion. The results of this interview were made available to both the Attorney General and the Secretary of State on March 25, 1946. (65-56402-1120X)

Chambers was further interviewed on March 28, 1946 at New York City with specific reference to Alger Hiss. On this occasion he said he was unable to elaborate on any of the information concerning Hiss' connection with the Communist Party which he had furnished at the time he was interviewed in 1942 and again in 1945 by Bureau agents. He recalled that after 1937, being no longer actively associated with the Communist Party, he had lost all contact with Alger Hiss. He stated that as a matter of fact he had absolutely no information that would conclusively prove Hiss held a membership card in the Communist Party or that he was an actual dues-paying member of the Party, even while he was active prior to 1937. He declared that he knew in 1937 that Hiss was favorably impressed with the Communist movement and was of the belief that Hiss was then (1946) still of the same belief. He indicated that he did not have any documentary proof on which to base this belief, having based it solely on comments made by various Washington and New York newspaper writers at the time. (100-25823-33)

On December 30, 1945 it was determined through physical surveillance that Robert Talbott Miller, III, also mentioned by Miss Bentley as being involved in the spy ring reported by her, spent three hours at the office of Alger Hiss in the Department of State. (65-56402-2243)

On April 15, 1947 Robert Talbott Miller, III was interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI at which time he denied being a member of the Communist Party but acknowledged acquaintanceship with various members of the espionage group described by Elizabeth Terrill Bentley, including Alger Hiss. He insisted, however, that he had no knowledge of any Communist sympathies on the part of any of the individuals he admitted knowing. (65-56402-2349)

Alger Hiss was interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI on August 2, 1947. He stated that he was acquainted with Charles Kramer, whom he had met while both were employed in the United States Department of Agriculture, but that he had not seen him for sometime. He denied knowing Nathan Gregory Silvermaster but acknowledged that he was acquainted with John Abt. He advised that he had met Victor Perlo in 1934 but did not recall him very well. He said that he had met Harold Glasser in an official capacity when Glasser was an official of the United States Treasury Department, but denied that he had ever placed Glasser in touch with any representative of the Soviet Government. He denied that he had any information to the effect that any individual, either in or out of the Government, had ever attempted to furnish any Government information to unauthorized persons. The individuals mentioned above were others who, according to Miss Bentley, were connected with Soviet espionage in the United States. On that occasion Miss also denied that he had any connection with the Communist Party and said that he was not acquainted with an individual named Whittaker Chambers. In a signed statement which he furnished he also mentioned knowing Leon Pressman and Henry Collins, both of whom had been mentioned by Chambers in connection with his allegations concerning a Communist underground apparatus in Washington. CURRENT INVESTIGATION

Jay David Whittaker Chambers furnished a signed statement dated December 3, 1948, to Special Agents of the FBI at Baltimore, Maryland. In this statement Chambers said that he had become a defendant in a civil action brought against him by Alger Hiss in Federal Court at Baltimore, Maryland. This referred to a libel suit presently pending in the U. S. District Court for the District of Maryland which arose out of Chambers' comments concerning Alger Hiss on a radio program entitled, "Meet the Press." In a pretrial deposition taken at the request of Counsel for Hiss on November 17, 1948, in connection with this suit Chambers said he produced in evidence 65 typewritten documents and 4 small pieces of sheet paper on which there appeared handwriting that according to Chambers' recollection was the handwriting of Alger Hiss. Chambers said that the documents referred to were copies of State Department documents which were turned over to him by Alger Hiss during the latter part of 1937 and early part of 1938. He said that the documents had been in the possession of Nathan L. Levine, his wife's nephew, who is a resident of Brooklyn, New York, and a lawyer in New York City. Chambers said that he had asked Levine to hide these documents for him but in the event that any harm should befall Chambers, he told Levine to open them and make them public. Chambers further stated that Levine was unaware of the contents of the documents entrusted to him or of their original source. Chambers said that on November 14, 1948, he secured the return of these documents from Levine who in the meantime had hidden them in a dumb-waiter shaft in his mother's house in Brooklyn. Chambers explained that the envelopes containing the documents also contained three cans of undeveloped film, two strips of developed film and four yellow lined sheets of paper bearing the handwriting of Harry Dexter White. Chambers said he did not introduce the three cans of film in the deposition mentioned above because it was undeveloped, nor did he introduce the two strips of developed film because he wanted to keep all of the film together and possibly have the other film developed and made readable at a later date. He said he likewise did not introduce the sheets of paper bearing the handwriting of Harry Dexter White on the advice of counsel because it was thought to be irrelevant.

The three cans of undeveloped film and the two strips of developed negative film were turned over by Chambers, he said, to the House Committee on Un-American Activities on Thursday night, December 2, 1948, in response to a subpoena served by them at that time. Chambers then declared that he had no other documents whatever of the nature described above.

The 69 original documents produced by Chambers at Baltimore were turned over to the FBI by his attorney, Richard F. Cleveland, on November 29, 1948. (From a preliminary examination they appear to be copies and condensations of communications between the State Department and its foreign posts in Europe and the Far East. They deal generally with the various political, economic and military developments in 1938 which culminated in the world crisis of 1939. The files of the State Department are being checked as to which were actually confidential or otherwise restricted). The HCUA on December 14, 1948, made available to the FBI for examination, the five rolls of film which Chambers had given them. (These were found to contain photographs of what appear to be 53 pages of actual State Department documents of a like nature and blurred photographs of 79 pages of Navy Department correspondence and designs dealing with radio, airplane and other technical equipment).

According to Chambers the undeveloped film contained photographs of original documents that had come from the State Department and the Bureau of Standards. He said the bulk of the documents from the State Department had been turned over to him by Alger Hiss. He said that the others were possibly turned over to him by Henry Julian Wadleigh.

Chambers also declared that the documents presented by him at the deposition mentioned above had been turned over to him by Alger Hiss during the latter part of 1937 and the first part of 1938 as indicated by the dates on the documents. These documents he said had been given to him for delivery to a Colonel Bykov who had been previously introduced to Alger Hiss at which time Hiss agreed to furnish the documents from the State Department to Chambers for transmittal to Bykov. Chambers said that Alger Hiss was well aware that Colonel Bykov was at the head of the Soviet underground organization. He said that it was possible that some of the 65 documents presented at his deposition had been photographed and that copies of the photographs had been turned over to Colonel Bykov. Chambers stated he did not destroy the documents because he was preparing to quit the Communist Party in about April, 1938. Chambers said that some of the documents supplied by Hiss were copied on a typewriter in Alger Hiss' own home by Hiss or his wife and then turned over to Chambers. In other instances, the original documents from the State Department were turned over to Chambers by Hiss and taken by him in most instances to photographers to be copied, the original documents then being returned to Alger Hiss on the same night in order to be returned by him to the State Department. One of these photographers was a Baltimorean named Felix, and it was Chambers' usual procedure to obtain documents from Alger Hiss and then meet Felix at some prearranged place either in Baltimore or Washington at which time he would give the documents to Felix for photographing. Felix would then return the documents to Chambers who would in turn give them back to Hiss. At a later date Felix would turn over the developed or undeveloped film which had been exposed and Chambers would deliver it to Colonel Bykov. He said that Alger Hiss was aware of the fact that the documents were being photographed for delivery to Colonel Bykov. Another photographer who was occasionally utilized in this manner was a man named David Carpenter, also of Baltimore.

As for Colonel Bykov, Chambers said that General Walter Krivitsky had said that he was with the 4th Section of the Red Army Intelligence. Chambers stated that J. Peters (Alexander Stevens) who had introduced him to Colonel Bykov at the end of 1936 or the first part of 1937 had appeared to be considerably disturbed because Bykov wanted to work his way into the American Communist Party's underground apparatus in Washington, D. C., as it would seem apparently, that Peters would ultimately lose control of this apparatus. However, he said that Peters was not able to do anything about it and Bykov began pressing for information about the personnel of the apparatus and requested that he meet some of them.

The first person that Iglov met in the apparatus was Alger Hiss. In the spring of 1937, Chambers said he arranged a meeting between Hiss and Colonel Iglov on the mezzanine floor of a theater in Brooklyn, New York. Chambers said similar meetings were arranged in Brooklyn between Iglov and other members of the apparatus such as Harry Collins, George Silverman, and Harry Dexter White. Iglov, according to Chambers, wanted to observe individuals he met in this manner to discuss present and future work for him with them and possibly also to check up on Chambers.

When Hiss met Iglov the latter raised the question of procuring documents from the State Department and Alger Hiss agreed to do so. Following this meeting Alger Hiss began to supply a constant flow of material from the State Department such as the documents presented by Chambers at his pretrial deposition on November 17, 1948. Chambers said that he had never disclosed the existence of the documents he presented at the pretrial deposition with anyone else nor had he told any other Government agency at the time about their existence.

Chambers on this occasion declared that in testifying to various Government agencies over the past ten years he had been influenced by two principles. The first was to stop "the Communist conspiracy", the second was to try to preserve the human elements involved and for this reason he had not previously mentioned the preceding and passing of any documents. (report of SA FrankG.Johnston,12-4-48,Baltimore)

(Nathan L. Levine of 966 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, New York, with his offices at 137 West 42nd Street, New York, N. Y., acknowledged on December 15, 1948, to special agents of the FBI that he is the nephew of Esther Shemetz Chambers, the wife of Whittaker Chambers. At that time he subsequently collaborated the earlier explanation of Chambers of the manner in which Chambers had turned over a sealed envelope to him in 1938 or 1939, hidden by Levine and eventually recovered by Chambers. Levine insisted, however, that the envelope had always remained sealed while in his charge and that his only knowledge of the contents thereof came from watching Chambers opening the envelope immediately after he had given it back to Chambers.)
(report of SA Joseph M.Kelly,12-23-48,N.Y.)

Chambers furnished another signed statement to the special agents of the FBI in New York City on December 6, 1948. On this occasion Chambers said that in connection with providing money or gifts to the various people who turned over information to him he wished to state that no one so far as he knows has been given any money for the services they rendered. However, he did recall that probably at the end of 1936, Colonel Iglov in one of his conversations with Chambers suggested that it might be a good idea to give Alger Hiss, Harry Dexter White and Mr. George Silverman a gift of some kind. After some discussion, Iglov thought it might be advisable to present each of them with an expensive rug. Chambers said that he did not favor the idea but Iglov became somewhat insistent and as a result Chambers arranged for the purchase of three oriental rugs following inquiry made of an Armenian rug dealer in New York City. He said that Iglov furnished him with the money to buy these rugs which cost approximately $200. each and that as he recalled it the three rugs were sent by the Armenian rug dealer via American Railway Express to the home of Mr. George Silverman in Washington, D. C.

Kisseloff-24990

Prior to the delivery of the rugs to Washington, Chambers said that he had informed Hiss, White, and Silverman that they were going to be presented with gifts as a token of gratitude for their activities for the American Communists. He said that White and Silverman appeared pleased with the fact that they were going to receive such a gift. Hiss, however, was more polite than pleased when he received his. It was Chambers' recollection that the rugs were delivered to Silverman's home because of the latter's close association with White and that Silverman delivered White's rug. The rug intended for Alger Hiss, as Chambers remembers, was brought by Silverman in his car one evening to a predesignated point, a restaurant on Route 1 about three or four miles east of College Park, Maryland. Chambers said he accompanied Hiss in the latter's car to that point and upon arriving there he got out of Hiss' car, took the rug from Silverman's automobile and carried it to Hiss' car. (Report of SA Joseph M. Kelly dated 12-23-48 at New York)

(It may be noted that Harry Julian Wadleigh has also admitted receiving an oriental rug from David Carpenter for similar reasons in this connection)

On December 15, 1948, Chambers was reinterviewed at the request of the Special Assistant to the Attorney General Thomas J. Donegan for the purpose of ascertaining his specific knowledge, if any, of the typewriter in the Hiss household together with the related facts concerning the transmission of documents by Hiss to Chambers. Chambers declared that he had never seen Priscilla Hiss operate a typewriter, that his "understanding" that she was making typewritten copies of State Department documents for transmission to Chambers came from Hiss and his wife and that he recalls no direct statement by either concerning such copying. Chambers said he is "quite sure" that he never had occasion to borrow a typewriter from either Alger or Priscilla Hiss and it is his present recollection that he himself did not own a typewriter during the period he was associated with Hiss and his wife. He did point out, however, that there was in his possession for part of that time a typewriter which had been given to him probably by J. Peters for use in connection with his work in the apparatus. Chambers said that he is positive that this machine was a portable typewriter and that it may have been a Remington. He mentioned that it may have been Colonel Bykov who furnished him with this machine but believed it came from J. Peters and that he ultimately disposed of it by abandoning it in a public elevator or public conveyance at a time and place he did not remember. Chambers believed that he got rid of the machine after leaving the Communist Party in April, 1938 but said that this is only a conclusion and not a definite recollection.

Chambers declared that he could best approximate the dates of various meetings with Alger Hiss by recalling that his last conversation with Hiss prior to the HCUA hearings in 1948 occurred in December, 1938, at which time he saw Hiss at the latter's residence on Volta Place in Washington and pleaded with Hiss to break with the Party as he himself had done eight months before. Chambers said that he fixed the date of this final meeting by remembering that Hiss asked him what kind of a Christmas his family was going to have and that Hiss gave him a small wooden rolling pin as a Christmas gift for Chambers' daughter. It is Chambers' best recollection that Hiss moved into his Volta Place residence early in the spring of 1938 and although he has no definite recollection of having met Hiss there prior to the final meeting he feels he must have gone to see Hiss at the Volta Place address, basing this on his wife's recollection. He said meetings with Hiss in 1937 were frequent, and usually took place at the 30th Street house which Hiss occupied at that time. In explaining the exact method employed by Hiss and himself with respect to the documentary material being handled, Chambers stated that he would see Hiss usually at the end of the week and receive from him whatever material Hiss had obtained during the week. He said it was the practice of Hiss to extract each day certain material from the State Department, take it to his home where it would be copied on the typewriter, and return the original document to the Department the next day. Chambers would then take the typewritten copies of such material to Carpenter who would photograph this material. Chambers would turn over the microfilm thus produced to Colonel Bykov and would destroy the typewritten material.

With respect to the four small sheets containing the handwriting of Alger Hiss which are referred to above, Chambers explained that at the time he would make his weekly visit to Hiss' home some material might be in the form of handwritten notes which had not yet been copied on the typewriter. Rather than wait for this material to be typed, Chambers would take these penciled notes along with the typewritten material. However, Chambers stated that to the best of his present recollection all of the written information he gave to Colonel Bykov was on film and never was it the original documents or typed copies.

With respect to his reason for having in his possession in November, 1948, 65 typewritten sheets furnished him by Alger Hiss, Chambers explained that they were the last documents given him by Hiss and that shortly prior to the time he began receiving this particular group of documents he had already made up his mind to break away from the Communist Party and had decided to retain them for further use in the event it became necessary to have documentary proof that, in fact, not only Alger Hiss but the Communist Party was involved in espionage against the United States. Chambers made the observation that in all probability the 65 sheets of typewritten material referred to had been photographed in the usual manner and that the film developed had been delivered by him to Bykov.

With respect to the rolls of microfilm that were seized by the HCUA on December 2, 1948, at the Chambers' farm, (where they had been hidden in a pumpkin), Chambers explained that in all probability this was photographed material, the microfilm for which he had received at about the time he had definitely decided to leave the Communist Party and for that reason had not turned it over to Bykov. (New York report of SA Joseph M. Kelly of December 23, 1948)

Chambers was interviewed on December 31, 1948, by Mr. Ray Thearty of the Department of Justice and a Special Agent of the FBI in Mr. Thearty's Office. On this occasion Chambers furnished additional details concerning his espionage operations and again referred to Boris Bykov to whom he said he had been introduced by J. Peters. He repeated his statement that Bykov had met on a single occasion with Alger Hiss as well as with other individuals. Chambers again mentioned the underground group organized by Harold Ware among Government employees in Washington, D.C.

in the early 1930's mentioning that the primary objective at first was to place Communists in important positions where they had opportunity for advancement in order to formulate or influence policies along lines favoring Communist interests. He again mentioned that this group included among others, Alger and Donald Hiss, Henry Collins, John Abt, Charles Kramer, Victor Perlo, Nathan Witt, and Lee Pressman.

Concerning early operations, Chambers recalled that in about 1935 Alger Hiss had furnished him with a set of State Department documents which Hiss had secured through his employment with the Nye (Munitions Investigation) Committee. Chambers said that he photographed these documents himself with a Leica camera supplied by J. Peters. He mentioned that Hiss had been instrumental in taking documents from the State Department furnished to the Committee in the usual course of business and observed that a man named Greene, a former professor of History at Princeton University who was then in the State Department, had unwittingly supplied these documents but subsequently became somewhat suspicious and as a result, the practice was discontinued.

Concerning Harry Dexter White, Chambers recalled that J. Peters had introduced him to George Silverman at an early date and that Silverman in turn had introduced him to White in about 1936. He recalled vividly he said that Harry White was a financial expert who had evolved a fiscal plan for Soviet Russia in which he was greatly interested. Chambers advised that in the summer of 1937 as he recalls, Alger and Priscilla Hiss took Chambers to White's summer home in New Hampshire to discuss this monetary plan with him. He remembered that they stopped the first night in Thomaston, Connecticut, drove to White's home the following day and returned by way of Peterborough, New Hampshire, where they attended the performance of a summer stock company. Chambers also remembered that White's brother from Boston, Massachusetts, was at White's summer place at the time.

Chambers again mentioned that Alger Hiss had conceived the idea that Noel Field would be a good source of information and had made a serious effort to recruit Field only to return to Chambers with the report that Field indicated he was already in a "parallel". Chambers also said he had a vague recollection that Hiss had related having made an effort to recruit Laurence Duggan also and had returned giving the impression that Duggan was already operating. Chambers said he recalls that Noel Field was the best friend of Laurence Duggan and he cannot but believe that Duggan was aware of the activity around him.

Chambers was questioned briefly about Harold Glasser, mentioned above in the allegations of Elizabeth Terrill Bentley. Chambers said that he was not aware that Glasser also furnished Alger Hiss with any information but understood that Glasser was a member of an underground cell. Against this statement is that of Miss Bentley to the effect that Charles Kramer once informed her that Glasser had been stolen from the Perlo Group by Hiss.

As a side light on Hiss, Chambers recalled that Priscilla Hiss had been a very close friend of Marian Bachrach and had continued to see her frequently after being forbidden to do so by the apparatus. Kisseloff-24993

Following the above interview Chambers on his way out of the Justice Building advised Special Agent Maurice A. Taylor that he was suspicious of William P. Marbury, the Baltimore Attorney who is representing Alger Hiss. Chambers stated that he thought Marbury may have ideological interest in the defense of Hiss which goes further than his ordinary interest as Hiss' counsel. He stated that Marbury had plenty of opportunity to withdraw from the case since the documents were produced but had appeared more interested than ever. He recalled that Marbury had questioned him at great length regarding Helen Tare and the meetings of the underground group in her violin studio at Washington, D. C. Chambers said he concluded that in view of the complete knowledge of Helen Ware evidenced by Marbury he must have been aware of the fact that she was the daughter of Ella Reeve Bloor. (Washington report of SA Maurice A. Taylor, January 4, 1949)

ALGER HISS INTERVIEWED DECEMBER 4, 1948

Alger Hiss furnished a signed statement to Special Agents of the FBI at Baltimore, Maryland on December 4, 1948. In this statement he referred to the 65 pages of typewritten material and four small sheets of paper bearing handwritten material which Chambers had introduced at a pretrial examination on November 17, 1948 in the office of Hiss' attorney, William L. Marbury in Baltimore in connection with the Hiss libel suit against Chambers. Hiss stated that there had been exhibited to him by the interviewing Agents photostatic copies of the documents referred to and that he was satisfied that they were copies of the documents actually produced by Chambers.

Hiss said he had read portions of the court reporter's transcription of the deposition of Chambers and said that according to a part of it, Chambers on November 5, 1948, had been asked whether he had ever obtained any documents from Hiss for transmittal to the Communist Party and Chambers had replied that he had not.

Hiss said that from a cursory examination of the typewritten material mentioned above he would say that they appeared to be authentic copies of U. S. State Department documents, or summaries of such documents, dated approximately from January to March, 1938. He admitted that documents similar to those in question normally passed over his desk during his employment as Assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State, the Honorable Francis B. Sayre. He said he had no independent recollection of having seen any of the questioned documents or document summaries while he was employed by the State Department. He said that by and large the documents do not appear to be documents of a very highly confidential nature and would not have been treated in the State Department with any special precautions at that time according to the security regulations then in effect. Hiss said that three of the four handwritten pages appeared to be in his own handwriting. The fourth page, consisting of five handwritten lines, Hiss said may or may not be in his handwriting, but does not look to him as if it were.

Hiss stated he learned from his attorney and from reading the above-mentioned deposition that Chambers claimed the questioned documents and others like them had been obtained by Hiss from the State Department and that typewritten copies of the larger documents had been made on a typewriter in Hiss' home either by Hiss or his wife, Priscilla. He said he was also aware of Chambers' claim that Hiss would subsequently return such documents to the files of the State Department. He said he was also aware that Chambers alleged that on some occasions Hiss had turned over the actual State Department documents to him, that photographic copies would be made in a manner unknown to Hiss and that these documents would then be returned to Hiss for return to the State Department files.

Hiss denied that any of the above claims of Chambers are true. He also denied that he ever gave the originals of the handwritten documents to Chambers at any time for any purpose whatsoever. Hiss further denied that any of the claims of Chambers concerning a meeting between Colonel Rykov and Hiss are true. He said he had never met, and had never heard of any Russian named Peter or Colonel Rykov until he was told of the testimony given by Chambers.

Hiss did admit that he had a typewriter in his home in Washington during the period from 1936 to some time after 1938, which was an old-fashioned machine and was possibly an Underwood. He said that Mrs. Hiss, although not a typist, had used this machine somewhat as an amateur typist, but that he never recalled having used it. He claimed that Mrs. Hiss disposed of this typewriter to either a secondhand typewriter concern or a secondhand dealer in Washington, D. C. some time subsequent to 1938, the exact date and place being unknown to him. He denied having any knowledge of the present whereabouts of the typewriter, but explained that before it had come into the possession of his immediate family, it had been the property of Thomas Fansler, the father of Mrs. Hiss, who was an insurance agent in Philadelphia until his death in the early 1940's.

On this occasion, Hiss declared that until he met Chambers face to face at a sub-committee hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities on August 17, 1948, in the Hotel Commodore in New York City, he did not know whether he had ever previously met Chambers although he thought that newspaper pictures of him looked somewhat familiar. He acknowledged that when he first appeared before the HCUA on August 5, 1948, he had stated that to the best of his knowledge he had never met Chambers, explaining that at that time it had not occurred to him that Chambers might be "George Crosley." On August 16, 1948, he told a Sub-Committee of the HCUA in Washington that Chambers might be a person previously known to him as "George Crosley." Upon confrontation on August 17, he realized that Chambers and "George Crosley" were one and the same person. He related that he first met Chambers when he, Hiss, was employed as Legal Assistant to the Senate Munitions Investigation Committee about December, 1934 or January, 1935. At that time he said Chambers came to his office in the Senate Office building in Washington and stated that he was a free lance magazine writer who desired information for a series of articles on the munitions investigation. Chambers gave him the impression that he was making periodic trips to Washington from New York City where Hiss assumed he lived.

Between the turn of the year 1934-35 and the Spring or Summer of 1936 Chambers contacted him perhaps six or eight times, always for the purpose of obtaining information for his magazine articles or of discussing the problems of munitions investigation. Hiss denied that he ever saw or heard from "Crosley" after the Spring or Summer of 1936 until he was confronted with him at the Sub-Committee hearing mentioned above.

Hiss said that during the period when Chambers periodically got in touch with him, he occasionally borrowed small sums of money from Hiss, totaling $20 to $30, obtained $4 or $5 at a time. Chambers appeared to be hard-pressed financially and furthermore, during this period sublet Hiss' apartment at 2131 - 29th Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. for himself, his wife and child, at $60 a month. Hiss acknowledged that Chambers and his family spent two or three days on the third floor of his home at 2905 P Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. prior to taking over the apartment which he had just sublet and from which Hiss had just moved. It was Hiss' recollection that Chambers at the time explained that some of his furniture or other possessions had not arrived on time and that he and his family could not, therefore, move into the 29th Street apartment immediately. He said that as far as he knew, Chambers and his family lived in the apartment on 29th Street until the expiration of their lease on July 1, 1935. During the sub-tenancy of the apartment by Chambers, Hiss continued to pay the rent, he said, and Chambers has never reimbursed him for it nor has he repaid the small loans mentioned above. He declared that on one occasion Chambers did give him a rug which Chambers said he had received from a patron of his. Furthermore, while the Chambers family stayed at his house on P Street, Mrs. Chambers painted a portrait of Timothy Hobson, the son of Mrs. Hiss by a former marriage, who was then eight years old.

Hiss claimed to have no clear recollection of the date of his last contact with Chambers but said it probably occured in the Spring or Summer of 1936 while Hiss was employed as an attorney by the Department of Justice in Washington, D. C. However, he said that he does recall the meeting quite well and that on this occasion he told Chambers that he did not think the latter would ever repay the loans he had made to him and that he, Hiss, thought any further contacts should be discontinued. Hiss said he wished to state that Chambers never paid him any funds for any purpose. He said that during the period mentioned above, most of the contacts were made by Chambers either at Hiss' office or for lunch, with the possible exceptions that Chambers may have contacted him on several occasions at Hiss' residence.

Kisseloff-24996

In connection with the sublease of the apartment, Hiss said he occasionally lent Chambers his 1929 Ford roadster. Some time after the summer of 1935, when he acquired a 1935 Plymouth Sedan, Hiss said he told Chambers that he could have the Ford Roadster, a car which he understood had a trade-in value of $25. If Chambers used the Ford in the Fall of 1935 or the winter of 1935-36, it must have been only occasionally because, continued Hiss, he recalled it sitting on the streets of Georgetown during a number of months of that winter. He claimed that Chambers took permanent possession of the car under such circumstances some time before May or June, 1936. At that time or before he had turned over the Certificate of Title, he said, to Chambers but has no recollection of the occasion. The Certificate of Title for the Ford, he admitted, bears what appears to be his signature, witnessed under date of July 23, 1936 by Marvin Smith, a notary public, who was also employed in the same office as he was in the Department of Justice. Hiss said he could only assume that the Certificate was brought to him in his office in the Department of Justice by some one who said that he had disposed of the car without completing the legal technicalities required and that he signed it under those circumstances, asking Smith to witness his signature.

Hiss said he had endeavored personally and through counsel and private investigators to locate other persons who knew Chambers as "George Crosley" during the period from the turn of the year 1934 -35 to the Spring or Summer of 1936 but without success. He said he had discovered one person who claimed to know that Chambers at one time had submitted a manuscript to him for publication under the name of "George Crosley" but that that was during a much earlier period, approximately in 1926.

Hiss denied that he is or has ever been a member of the Communist Party or that he has ever attended any Communist Party meetings. Likewise, he denied that he has ever been a member of a Communist Party, espionage apparatus or underground group in Washington or any where else at any time. He said he never saw Chambers at any time in the State Department and knows of no opportunity which Chambers may have had, either in Hiss' State Department office or residence or any other place, to obtain any documents pertaining to State Department business during the period 1937-38 or at any other time.

He said he does not know whether Chambers personally obtained these documents from the State Department or whether he had some confederate who cooperated with him in obtaining these documents. He asserted that Chambers' entire story with respect to the matters outlined above which relate to Hiss is a complete fabrication, except as he had otherwise indicated. He said he does not know what motive Chambers could have for making such accusations against him but thinks that a thorough examination of Chambers' life and personal background might throw some light on the problem. (Source: Baltimore report of SA Frank G. Johnstone of 12/4/48) Kisseloff-24997

In addition to the above remarks which were contained in his signed statement, Hiss further stated that he believes that Chambers is a psychopathic personality and that all of his allegations relating to Hiss are fabrications. Both Hiss and his attorney, William L. Marbury, based their joint belief in this respect on the fact that in 1929 Chambers translated from the German a novel by Franz Werfel entitled "Class Reunion." The story recounted in "Class Reunion" has a striking counterpart in the present Hiss-Chambers controversy and it is evident that Chambers has used some of the exact phraseology in this novel in his testimony before the HCUA, as well as in his pretrial deposition at Baltimore, according to them.

Hiss and Marbury also advanced as a possible reason for Chambers' alleged fabrications involving Hiss that the story was of assistance to Chambers in obtaining his first position with Time Magazine. Hiss stated that Chambers first told the story involving him in about 1939 to Isaac Don Levine, Editor of "Plain Talk," an anti-Communist publication of New York City, but that Levine refused to publish it. Even at that time he pointed out most of the individuals named by Chambers were no longer in the employ of the Government, except Hiss who was advancing as a rather prominent official. Without the name of Hiss in the "expose" such a story would not be sufficiently sensational to attract the attention of Time Magazine, a prospective employer of Chambers at the time.

Hiss' story suggested the possibility that Chambers could have stolen the State Department documents in question himself, instead of having obtained them from Hiss. In support of this theory, Hiss said that his private investigation of Chambers' background had revealed that Chambers was possibly employed in Washington, D. C. in 1938 on a Railroad Retirement Project sponsored by the WPA and that this project had offices in an old theater building maintained as a storehouse for old Government records, located in the vicinity of the main State Department building. It was the thought of Hiss and Marbury that Chambers may have gained access to the State Department through familiarity with other buildings in the general locality where he was employed.

Hiss and Marbury both stated that they were particularly impressed by the fact that Chambers did not produce the documents involved in this case for patriotic reasons, but only "to save his neck in a libel suit." Hiss and Marbury assured the interviewing Agents of their desire to cooperate with the Government in every way in an effort to ascertain the true facts of this case. PRISCILLA HISS INTERVIEWED DECEMBER 6 and 7, 1948

Alger Hiss' wife, Priscilla, was interviewed in the presence of her attorney, Edward C. McLean, by Special Agents of the FBI at New York City on December 6, 1948 and furnished a signed statement dated December 7, 1948, covering the substance of her remarks on the previous day. In this statement Mrs. Hiss said that some time in 1935 she met a man named "George Crosley" whom she now believes to have been Whittaker Chambers. She also mentioned that Chambers and his wife lived in a spare room in the Hiss residence at 2905 P Street, N.W. in Washington, D. C. while the Chambers family was waiting to move into the premises at 2831 - 28th Street, N.W. which had been sublet to Chambers by her husband. She said that as far as she knows, no lease was drawn for the sublotting of these premises. She also admitted meeting Chambers on several occasions when he called at the Hiss home to visit her husband. She also recalled that Hiss gave a 1929 Ford automobile which he had owned to Chambers. She said that as far as she can remember, she has not seen Chambers since some time in 1936.

Mrs. Hiss denied that her husband ever turned over any Government documents to Chambers in her presence or so far as she knows, at any other time, for the purpose of having them photographed. She said that her husband while employed by the Government occasionally brought work home from his office but that she never personally examined any of this material and has no knowledge of its contents.

Concerning a typewriter which she possessed at one time, Mrs. Hiss said that some time in 1932 or 1933, as far as she can recall, her father, Thomas L. Pansler, who was in the insurance business in Philadelphia, had given her a typewriter which had belonged to him. She said she does not recall whether she had this typewriter while residing in New York City, nor does she recall the make of this machine or how she disposed of it. She said she was not a proficient typist, but did type several things on it, including part of a manuscript for a book which was later published by the Carnegie Corporation. She said she is of the belief that she prepared the rest of this manuscript in long hand. (Extensive investigation has failed to locate this manuscript.)

Mrs. Hiss stated that she has never heard her husband, Alger Hiss, or Chambers discuss any material which had been obtained from the Government or documents which Mr. Hiss may have had in his possession in his official capacity. She said that she has never been acquainted with an individual known as Colonel Rykov whom she understands Chambers claims to have introduced to her husband. She denied that she has ever copied or typed any U. S. Government documents for the purpose of giving them to Chambers. (Source: New York report of SA Joseph M. Kelly, dated 12/23/48)

INTERVIEWS WITH OTHER INDIVIDUALS

When Henry Julian Wadleigh was interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI on December 6, 1948 at Washington, D. C., he furnished a signed statement in which he gave the details of his activities as a member of the Communist espionage underground in Washington, D. C. in the 1930's while employed in the State Department.

Wadleigh said that during his employment in the Trade Agreement Division of the State Department, one of his colleagues was Alger Hiss who was then Assistant to Francis B. Sayre, Assistant to the Secretary of State, and was sufficiently acquainted with Hiss to know him by his first name. His duties brought him into fairly frequent contact with Hiss and he had occasion to discuss matters of official business with him. His personal contacts outside the office, he said, were confined to one luncheon date.

Wadleigh said that he never went to Hiss' home, nor did Hiss ever come to his. Wadleigh furnished no information which indicated that Hiss had been involved in Communist espionage. (Source: Washington report of SA Lambert G. Zander dated 12/7/48)

Wadleigh was again interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI at New York City on December 14, 1948, at which time he furnished another signed statement. In this statement he declared that when the Federal Grand Jury at New York had questioned him on December 11, 1948, one of the jurors asked him if he possessed a typewriter and if he had ever loaned it to Mrs. Hiss. Wadleigh said that he also affirmed the statement made on that occasion that he had never loaned a typewriter to Mrs. Hiss and added that he never lent one to Mr. Hiss. (Source: New York report of SA Joseph F. Kelly dated 12/23/48)

Mrs. Hede Massing, also known as Hede Gumpertz, was interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI on December 7, 1948. At that time Mrs. Massing stated that for approximately one year, or at least for a period of time which included a winter and a summer, she had been endeavoring to persuade Noel Field, a State Department employee, to enter into the intelligence work she was performing on behalf of the Soviets or the Comintern. She stated that she was not certain that she was working for the Soviets nor did she know whether or not Noel Field understood that he was being recruited for the Soviets. However, she said, she is certain that he knew that he was to work in behalf of the Communist International cause. Mrs. Massing stated that she had proposed to Noel Field that he obtain information from the State Department and turn it over to her; she would then see to it that it was turned over to her superior, "Boris," who would send it either to Russia or to a representative of the Comintern. Mrs. Massing explained that she frequently went to Washington and stayed with Field and his wife at their apartment while she was "developing" him.

After about a year, and possibly in the winter of 1935-36, Noel Field told Mrs. Massing that someone else was also attempting to recruit him to do the same work and he did not know just what to do. Mrs. Massing told Field that she would like to meet this individual so that they could come to an understanding, whereupon Field said he would arrange a meeting.

About a week later, according to Mrs. Massing, Field gave a dinner party at his apartment in Washington. She said that Herta Field, Noel's wife, was present, together with Noel, herself and Alger Hiss. She cannot recall whether or not anyone else was present, indicating that there may have been a few others there. However, Mrs. Alger Hiss was not present. Noel Field then told Mrs. Massing that Alger Hiss was the person who was trying to recruit him. He told her this either before, or on the night of the dinner party. Mrs. Massing said that she was impressed by Hiss' good looks, charm, and intelligence, and that they got along very well. Immediately after the dinner and at the first moment when Mrs. Massing and Hiss could get together they had a conversation, which, to the best of Mrs. Massing's recollection, ran as follows:

Alger Hiss: Well, you are the famous girl who is meddling in my affairs.

Hede Massing: And you are the man who is meddling in my affairs.

Alger Hiss: What is your apparatus?

Hede Massing: I wouldn't ask that question of you. You shouldn't ask it of me!

(They both laughed at this)

Alger Hiss: Well, we'll fight it out to see who gets Noel.

Hede Massing: I'll beat you in this game because I'm a woman.

After this either Hede or Alger said, "What difference does it make who gets Noel, we're both working for the same boss."

Kisseloff-25001

Mrs. Massing can not recall whether she made this latter statement or whether Alger Hiss made it. She said that to her the statement meant that they were both working for the same cause, namely the Communist International Movement. Mrs. Massing stated that there was no question in her mind that Hiss was working for some branch of Soviet intelligence or for the Comintern, and was trying to recruit Field to work for him and for a branch which was in competition with her group headed by "Boris."

Mrs. Massing stated that she got along very well with Alger Hiss throughout the evening and that they seemed to agree on everything. After the meeting Mrs. Massing returned to New York where she reported the results of her meeting with Hiss to her superior "Boris." "Boris" was delighted and slapped Mrs. Massing on the back, exclaiming, "Good girl!" He instructed her not to see Hiss in the future. Mrs. Massing stated that she never saw Alger Hiss either before or after this one dinner party at Noel Field's apartment. She stated that she has seen many photographs of Alger Hiss in the newspapers in recent months and that she is certain that it was Alger Hiss she met in Field's apartment, adding that she was probably staying at the Field apartment the night she met him. Mrs. Massing said that she eventually won Field and he "operated" for her group.

Arrangements were made to confront Alger Hiss with Mrs. Massing at the New York Office of the FBI on December 9, 1948. Neither Hiss nor Massing said anything on this occasion. Hiss was requested immediately prior to the confrontation to view Mrs. Massing long enough to satisfy himself with certainty as to whether or not he had ever seen her before. After he observed her for approximately two minutes, he indicated that he had satisfied himself and was, accordingly, escorted from the room. He then declared that he was positive he had never talked with the woman he had just seen at any time or place, that he had no recollection whatsoever of ever having met her and that the only qualification he would make in his denial of acquaintanceship or introduction to her was that it was barely possible that he might have been casually introduced to her at a large affair where hundreds of people might have been present and he might have been introduced briefly to a great number of persons. He declared that this contingency was an exceedingly remote possibility.

On the following day a second confrontation of Hiss with Mrs. Massing was arranged and on this occasion he was accompanied by his attorney, Edward C. McLean. This meeting lasted approximately 15 minutes, during which time Mrs. Massing attempted, by giving her recollection of the conversation reported above between herself and Hiss, to refresh his recollection. She stated, for instance, that she recalled definitely that this conversation took place at the home of Noel Field in Washington, that Field and his wife were present, that Alger Hiss was not accompanied by his wife, and that there may have been a few other persons present. She pointed out to Hiss that she remembered their private conversation apart from the others immediately after dinner.

Kisseloff-25002

Hiss, however, insisted that Mrs. Massing was surely mistaken in her identification of him as the man with whom she conversed on that occasion and very pleasantly thanked Mrs. Massing for attempting to "help."

After leaving the room where the above-described confrontation took place, Hiss expressed complete amazement that this woman would be so positive of her recollection of an event which he was equally positive never took place.

(Source: New York report of Special Agent Joseph M. Kelly dated 12/23/48.)

When the late Laurence H. Duggan was interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI at New York City, on December 10, 1948, he declared that he was unable to recall clearly any one named Hede Gumpertz, but acknowledged that he had possibly met her through Noel Field or Rodney Dutch, a newspaper man who had worked in Washington but who has since died. Duggan stated that if he had ever been recruited by Hede Gumpertz then he never recognized it and denied that he had ever gone to see her superior, stating that he never went to see anyone at her request.

Concerning Alger Hiss, Duggan stated that he first met him in Washington, D. C. probably around 1934 at which time Hiss was employed by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. He mentioned that later, probably around 1936, Hiss came to the State Department where he worked in the Trade Agreements Section and later in the Far Eastern Section. Duggan said that he and Hiss never worked in the same section of the State Department. He added that his friendship with Hiss was very casual and that they saw each other but once or twice a year, usually at social functions. He added that he did not know Hiss' political philosophy but was of the opinion that Hiss was a thoroughly loyal American. He added that he was surprised to hear of the charges made by

Chambers against Alger Hiss as nothing had ever come to his attention which would indicate that Hiss was a Communist or was engaged in espionage while employed in the State Department. He declared that Alger Hiss had never approached him at any time to do anything in behalf of the Soviets or of the Communist International.

Duggan also said that he knew Alger Hiss' brother, Donald Hiss, and felt the same about Donald as he did about Alger, stating that nothing had ever come to his attention concerning Donald which would indicate that he was a Communist or had been engaged in espionage. He further stated that Donald Hiss likewise had never approached him to work in the interests of the Soviet Union or the Communist International.

Duggan related that he believed Alger Hiss and Noel Field were acquainted and that it was his impression that they had known each other prior to 1936 and had become more friendly thereafter. Duggan said that so far as he could recall he had never attended a dinner party at which Alger Hiss and Noel Field were present and could not remember ever having seen them together.

Alexander Gregory-Graff Barmine is a former Russian diplomatic officer who defected from the Russians in 1937 in Athens, Greece and subsequently came to the United States where he became a citizen and is presently employed by the Russian Section of the Voice of America Division of the State Department.

On October 22, 1946 Fred B. Lyon, of the State Department, called the FBI and advised that he understood that Barmine reportedly had told some one that he, Barmine, had seen a list of foreign agents of the Soviets and that Alger Hiss' name was on this list.

As a result, Barmine was immediately interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI at New York City. He, however, claimed to be unaware of the identity of any actual Soviet agents in the United States and furnished no information concerning Hiss. He was given ample opportunity to mention having seen such a list as was reported, tho he was not directly questioned on the matter. (100-176949-12,13,14)

On December 14, 1948 Barmine was again interviewed and specifically questioned concerning the possibility of his ever having seen the list referred to and in regard to his knowledge of Alger Hiss. Barmine denied that he had ever seen such a list or that he had ever seen the name of Alger Hiss on such a list. He did say that he had heard Alger Hiss referred to as being an agent of the Soviet Military Intelligence. In explanation of this, he said that in the early part of 1938 after his own defection from the Soviet Diplomatic Service he had visited Walter Krivitsky at the latter's hotel in Paris, France. Krivitsky had recently defected from the Soviet Intelligence Service and Barmine claimed that his visit to him was at the instigation of some mutual friends in the Socialist Party of France. Barmine said he was very suspicious of Krivitsky's defection and thought that he might, in fact, be a GPU Agent who was searching for Barmine in an attempt to kill him or return him to Russia. In an attempt to establish the reliability of the man, Barmine said he asked Krivitsky to supply him with the names of certain people in Moscow who should be known to him if he had been in the military intelligence Krivitsky complied by naming a number of individuals, none of whom Barmine is able to recall at the present time.

Barmine, still uncertain, then asked Krivitsky to name some of the individuals who were working for the Soviet Military Intelligence in America. According to Barmine, Krivitsky then named about ten persons, including Alger Hiss, George Mink and Harry Dexter White. Barmine said he could not remember the names of the others mentioned by Krivitsky. He claimed that Krivitsky gave no further explanation of this allegation and said that he had no further discussion along these lines with Krivitsky, either in France or the United States.

Barmine also recalled one other incident involving the name of Alger Hiss. He placed this as being some time in 1945 or 1946 and said that on this occasion he dined in the home of a couple, whose names he could not remember but who lived in Westchester County, New York. After dinner a discussion developed concerning the number of Communists working in the U. S. Government. Barmine said that the names of several people were mentioned but that the only one he specifically recalled was that of Alger Hiss. The latter, according to Barmine, was referred to by his acquaintances as being a Communist, and it was his recollection that they had described him as being Chief Counsel in the State Department. (New York report of Special Agent Joseph M. Kelly, dated 12/23/48, pages 88 and 89)

Louis F. Budenz, Assistant Professor at Fordham University and formerly Managing Editor of the Daily Worker, was interviewed in December, 1948 concerning Alger Hiss. He advised that he had never met Alger Hiss, but understood that he was a member of the Communist Party connected with the Washington group. Budenz stated that he could not place the date when he first heard of Hiss as a Party member. He added that he can recall two instances when Hiss was mentioned in a discussion by Party members. The first discussion took place during the Hitler-Stalin Pact at the National Headquarters of the Communist Party. Budenz, Roy Hudson and Robert Minor were present and possibly others. They were discussing an attack on the Daily Worker and someone mentioned that Nathan Witt and Lee Pressman could not be too helpful because they were under attack at the time. Alger Hiss was then mentioned as someone who would be helpful and who was a good Comrade.

The second discussion recalled by Budenz took place in Jack Stachel's office some time in 1945, on which occasion there were present: Stachel, Budenz, Eugene Dennis and possibly Charles Krumbein. The subject of discussion on this occasion was the Amerasia Case. Dennis stated that Lieutenant Andrew Roth had suggested that Alger Hiss should be used to quash the case.

Budenz stated that he had furnished the above information to the HCUA in Executive Session. He said he did not know whether or not Priscilla Hiss or Donald Hiss were members of the Communist Party.

In addition to the above information, Budenz had mentioned in a previous interview on August 26, 1948 that during the Hitler-Stalin Pact Eugene Dennis had contacted him at the Daily Worker office and stated that he had a technical difficulty and wanted to know if Budenz felt that Howard Hunter in Washington would help him. Dennis continued that he did not wish to contact Alger Hiss since Hiss was under a cloud at the time. Budenz said it was his understanding that the technical difficulty mentioned by Dennis referred to Dennis' use of a fraudulent passport in the past. (Source: N.Y. report of SA Joseph M. Kelly, dated 12/23/48, page 91)

Max Yergen, a former leader in Negro Communist circles in New York who recently left the Communist Party and has become openly hostile to it, was interviewed at New York City on December 20, 1948. Yergen advised that he first saw Alger Hiss in April, 1945 at the San Francisco Conference of the United Nations at which time he believed Hiss was acting as Secretary to Edward R. Stettinius. He advised that he did not know whether or not Hiss is connected with the Communist Party, nor does he know the background of Alger Hiss. (It should be noted that according to George Hewitt, mentioned below, Yergen had information concerning Hiss.)

Yergen did advise that in the Fall of 1946, Paul Robeson brought into his office at the Council of African Affairs a woman named Fleiner (phonetic) who said at the time that she was the sister-in-law of Alger Hiss. Robeson recommended her for employment and she was employed from September, 1946 to early 1947 as a representative of the Council of African Affairs, reporting on the daily activities of the United Nations at the United Nations Meetings. Yergen, however, said he had no information which would indicate that she was a Communist.

Kisselpff-25006

George Hewitt was interviewed on December 20, 1948 at New York City. He advised that he met Alger Hiss in 1937 or 1938 at a Party meeting, the purpose of which was to discuss the Negro question and the Communist Party infiltration of the West Indies. According to Hewitt, this meeting took place in an apartment house near West 21st Street in New York City and was attended by J. Peters, Rose Wortis, Jack Stachel, Ted Bassett, Max Steinberg, Bill Lawrence and the two Hiss brothers, Alger and Donald.

Hewitt further said that he met both Alger and Donald Hiss on one occasion in Washington about 1940, on the occasion of an organizational meeting of the National Negro Congress held in the rear of one of the Congress Halls on Pennsylvania Avenue. He said 35 or 40 others were present, including Max Yergen, James W. Ford, Rose Wortis, Max Steinberg and Bob Campbell. (In this connection, Yergen advised that he does not recall being at this meeting.) Hewitt stated that Alger Hiss left the meeting after a very short time. He said he did not know either Alger or Donald and has never spoken to them. He indicated that he thought they were "CI Agents;" that is, International Agents of the Communist Party whose duty it is to observe at such meetings and to report back to Moscow.

Following the interview Hewitt was taken to the vicinity of West 21st Street in an attempt to locate the apartment house mentioned by him. He advised that the apartment house at 8 West 16th Street is the building which he believes was the one where the meeting he described had been held and pointed out Apartment F-35 as the one in which the meeting took place. (Further inquiry is being made concerning this development.)

Marc Catudal, Advisor, Division of Commercial Policy, Department of State, was interviewed in December, 1948 at Washington, D. C. with respect to Henry Julian Wadleigh. Catudal said that he was acquainted with Alger Hiss during the period 1936 and that Wadleigh also knew Hiss but stated that the nature of the official business in the Division of Trade Agreements made it necessary for all three of them, Hiss as a superior, and Wadleigh and Catudal, to have some professional relations with each other. However, Catudal added that he never knew of Hiss' association with Wadleigh to be anything more than an office relationship and that it was his impression that Hiss and Wadleigh were not social acquaintances. Catudal advised that there had never been anything of a personal nature or in connection with official matters that ever led him to consider either Wadleigh or Hiss anything but loyal Americans.

Woodbury Willoughby, Chief of the Commercial Policy Division of the Department of State, upon being interviewed at Washington, D. C. in December,

Kisseloff-25007

1948, regarding Wadleigh declared that he could think of nothing on the part of Wadleigh or Hiss which might indicate any inclination toward a sympathy with a foreign country.

Willoughby, who explained that he had worked with Wadleigh in the State Department in 1936 and again from August, 1937 to August, 1939, in the Division of Trade Agreements, said that he was certain that there may have been some official contacts between Hiss and Wadleigh, as Wadleigh had helped draft speeches for Lynn R. Edminster and for Francis Sayre. However, according to Willoughby, he was never aware that Wadleigh and Hiss were friendly or that they were social acquaintances. (Source: Report of SA Alexander W. Neale, dated 12-27-48, pages 5, 6 and 7)

In the signed statement furnished by Chambers on December 3, 1948, to Special Agents of the FBI at Baltimore, he claimed that one of the photographers who photographed the documents which Alger Hiss and others employed by the United States Government had furnished to him was an individual whom he knew only as, "Felix."

On December 19, 1948, FBI Agents together with Chambers toured about in a section of Baltimore, Maryland, in an effort to locate a house where the latter believed "Felix" had once lived. The search was narrowed to the 2100 block of three streets and by a check of various directories for the pertinent period of 1937-38, it was determined that Felix August Inslerman had lived at that time at 2113 Gallow Avenue. (Through further investigation a photograph of Inslerman was obtained and identified by Chambers as that of "Felix"). It was also determined that Inslerman has more recently been employed by the General Electric Company at Schenectady, New York. (Baltimore Report of Frank G. Johnstone 12-23-48)

When interviewed on December 23, 1948, by Special Agents of the FBI, Inslerman denied in a signed statement knowing Chambers or that he had ever taken any photographs or microfilm for Chambers. Inslerman also declared upon being shown photographs of Alger Hiss, Franklin Victor Reno, Patrick Whelen, Bernard Weinkrantz and Henry J. Wadleigh, that as far as he can recall, he has never met any of them.

Numerous other individuals both in and out of the Department of State have been interviewed in an effort to throw additional light on the reported espionage activities of Alger Hiss without result.

ALGER HISS INDICTED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY, DECEMBER 15, 1948

On December 15, 1948, the Federal Grand Jury at New York City returned a two count indictment against Alger Hiss charging him with violations of Title 18, Section 1621 of United States Code (Perjury Statute).

The first count of the indictment charged that Alger Hiss had testified before the Grand Jury to the effect that neither he nor his wife had ever turned over any documents of the State Department or of any other Government organization or any copies thereof to Whittaker Chambers or to any other unauthorized persons. This testimony, according to the indictment, was untrue in that Hiss in or about the months of February and March, 1938, had furnished to Jay David Whittaker Chambers, who was not then and there a person authorized to receive the same, copies of numerous secret confidential and restricted documents, writings and other papers, the originals of which had been removed and extracted from the possession and custody of the State Department in violation of the United States Code.

The second count charged that although Hiss testified that he had not seen Whittaker Chambers after January 1, 1937, Hiss in fact had seen and conversed with Chambers in or about the months of February and March, 1938, in violation of United States Code. (Report of SA Joseph M. Kelly, 12-23-48, New York, page 93)

CHAMBERS' MICROFILM IDENTIFIED AS MANUFACTURED IN 1937-38.

On December 20, 1948, a special agent of the FBI accompanied an investigator of the HCUA to the Eastman Kodak Company at Rochester, New York, and to the Dupont Company's Photo Products Department at Parlin, New Jersey, where the five rolls of film obtained by the HCUA from Chambers on December 2, 1948, were exhibited to company officials in an attempt to determine the date of the film's manufacture.

The following information was ascertained through the Eastman Kodak Company at Rochester, New York:

1. A roll identified as Grand Jury exhibit 748 (Completely filled with messages) was slit from a large roll at the plant during the period from July 1, 1937, to January 1, 1938. This film was described as positive Eastman Safety film of 35 mm. size.

Kisseloff-25009

2. Another roll of film (Grand Jury exhibit #49) was slit from a large roll during the period from January 1, 1937, to July 1, 1937, at the same plant. This roll is also completely filled with messages.

3. Grand Jury exhibit #50 is a roll of film which has been light struck and contains no messages. It could not be identified as an Eastman product.

4. A fourth roll of film known as Grand Jury exhibit #51 contains some messages. It was identified as 35mm. positive Eastman safety film, but its date of manufacture could not be determined as the film is too fogged in the area where the manufacturer's code symbols are located. Officials of the Eastman Company advised that by chemical analysis it could very probably be determined whether this roll was used in March, 1939, or thereafter.

The fifth roll of film (Grand Jury exhibit #47) was exhibited to officials of the Photo Products Department of the Dupont Company at Parlin, New Jersey. They advised that the film is 35mm. positive Dupont nitrate film which was manufactured in that plant in December, 1936, or in June, 1944. They advised that they do not know which of these two is the actual date since the identifying code appearing on this roll of film was used in both December, 1936, and in June, 1944. It was indicated, however, that because of the grain of the film, it was believed to have been manufactured more probably in December, 1936. (Report of SA Robert E. McQueen dated 12-23-48, Washington Field.)

FBI LABORATORY IDENTIFICATION OF CHAMBERS' DOCUMENTS

As a result of examinations conducted by the FBI Laboratory, the following documents have been identified by it as having been typed on the same machine which was used to type 64 of the documents which Chambers alleges were given to him by Alger Hiss and which were submitted by Chambers at the time of his pre-trial deposition at Baltimore, Maryland, on November 17, 1948. (Memo to D.M.Ladd from H.B. Fletcher 12-18-48) (This machine is believed to be a Woodstock typewriter.)

1. A letter addressed to Miss Sara Billings, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, postmarked December 6, 1931, beginning "Mr. Feltz, my physician ..." This letter was signed "Daisy Tansler" (sister of Mrs. Alger Hiss). It was obtained from the Free Library of Philadelphia. This letter contains an explanation of an absence of Miss Tansler from her employment which was necessitated by her illness. (Report of SA James L. Kirkland, Philadelphia, dated 12-17-48, page 7)

2. A two page letter addressed to Walter L. Tibbetts, Boston, Massachusetts, dated January 30, 1933, which begins, "On reading over my policy last week..." This letter, which is unsigned and was never mailed, relates to an insurance policy allegedly issued to Alger Hiss. The original of this letter was furnished to the FBI at New York by Edward C. McLean, attorney for Alger Hiss, on December 10, 1948. Mr. McLean had previously furnished the FBI with a carbon copy of this letter, advising that he had obtained it from the papers of Mr. Hiss but was unable to state whether Hiss or his wife had typed the letter. (New York report of SA Joseph H. Kelly, 12-23-48, page 80.)

Kisseloff-25010

3. A one page letter addressed to Walter G. Schelter, Assistant Secretary of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, New York, dated February 17, 1933, signed "Alger Hiss." The carbon copy of this letter was furnished to the FBI by Mr. McLean. The original was obtained from the Equitable Life Assurance Society by subpoena. (New York report of SA Joseph H. Kelly, 12-23-48 page 81.)

4. Three pages of typewritten material entitled "Description of Personal Characteristics of Timothy Hobson," bearing the date September 9, 1936. This was apparently an enclosure to a handwritten letter bearing the date September 9, 1936, signed by Alger Hiss. This material was obtained from the Landon School at Bethesda, Maryland, on December 12, 1948. (Memorandum from H.B. Fletcher to D. M. Ladd, 12-28-48.)

5. A letter addressed to A. W. Pillsbury, Director of Admissions, University of Maryland, Baltimore, Maryland, dated May 25, 1937. This letter begins "I am sending to your office today..." and is signed by "Priscilla Fansler Hiss. This letter was obtained from the Assistant Registrar's Office of the University of Maryland on December 14, 1948, and deals with an application of Mrs. Hiss for admission to a summer school session at that University. (Baltimore report of SA Frank G. Johnstone, 12-23-48.)

6. Three pages of typewritten material entitled "President's Report for the year 1936-37," which was obtained from the Bryn Mawr Alumni Association at Washington, D. C., on January 7, 1949. This material is believed by Mrs. Abbott of the Association to have been typed by Priscilla Hiss sometime in 1937, when the latter's term as President of the Association expired. (FBI Laboratory report 1-10-49.)

Over 400 typewriting specimens from various sources have been examined by the FBI Laboratory in connection with efforts to locate and identify the typewriter used to type the documents submitted by Chambers. Extensive efforts to establish the present whereabouts of this machine which the FBI Laboratory has reported to be most probably a Woodstock have to date been unavailing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL ADVISED DECEMBER 13, 1948, RE ALLEGED CLEARANCE OF ALGER HISS BY FBI

A personal and confidential memorandum was furnished to the Attorney General under date of December 13, 1948, in which attention was called to newspaper reports to the effect that the FBI had cleared Alger Hiss while he was employed by the State Department. This memorandum made clear the fact that the FBI never clears or charges anyone, and furthermore that a review of the files of the FBI reflects that the FBI could not have cleared Hiss. It was pointed out that Adolf A. Berle, Jr., then Assistant Secretary of State, had been advised by Chambers in September, 1939, of Alger Hiss' reported activities in the Communist underground in Washington. This memorandum referred to letters and memoranda furnished to the Department of State and which are elsewhere described in this brief. Reference was also made to various occasions upon which the Director of the FBI had personally discussed the Alger Hiss case with officials of the Department of State.

CONFERENCES OF FBI DIRECTOR WITH STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS RE ALGER HISS

On October 11, 1945, the Director of the FBI had a conference with the then Under-Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, in the course of which Mr. Acheson inquired as to whether the Director had any information concerning the identity of the alleged Soviet agent who had been described by Igor Gouzenko as an assistant to Secretary of State Stettinius, but without further details. (This information from Gouzenko, a Russian code clerk who disclosed a Soviet spy ring in Canada, was first made available to the FBI on September 10, 1945. It was in turn furnished to Mr. Fred B. Lyon of the State Department by memorandum dated September 24, 1945). The Director advised Mr. Acheson that at that time it had not been possible to establish definitely the identity of this man. In answer to the question as to whether or not the FBI suspected anyone, Mr. Acheson was told that one individual was being considered as a possible suspect, although there was no direct evidence to sustain the suspicion. The Director told Mr. Acheson that this suspect was Alger Hiss, but he did not feel that any accusation could be made since there was no supporting proof for such a charge. Mr. Acheson stated that he would not mention Hiss' name to the Secretary of State since he assumed that the Director might do so in the latter's talk with the Secretary. The Director advised Mr. Acheson that he would not mention Hiss' name to the Secretary of State because of the vagueness of the allegation. (61-3499-181, 172)

On 11-15-45 ,the Director of the FBI conferred with the Secretary of State Byrnes at the request of the President in order to discuss the Gregory case which arose out of the allegations of Elizabeth Terrill Bentley, and the Canadian Espionage case. During this conference the Director mentioned the names of a number of individuals who were named by Miss Bentley as being engaged in Soviet espionage. The Director did not mention the name of Alger Hiss to the Secretary on this occasion because he had not been definitely identified. (61-3499-192)

(On March 14, 1946, Mr. Reams, Special Assistant to the Secretary of State Byrnes, advised a Special Agent of the FBI that Alger Hiss was on the Secretary of State's "pending" list and that Hiss was to be given no further consideration for promotion or assignment to responsible duties in the State Department, and that a study should be made of his case to determine if he could be dismissed similarly under Civil Service regulations. Mr. Reams stated that Secretary Byrnes was of the definite opinion that Hiss should be disposed of, but was concerned over the best manner in which this could be dosemplished. (101-268-17)

While the Director was discussing other matters with the Attorney General on March 19, 1946, he was advised by the Attorney General that the Secretary of State Byrnes wanted to dismiss Alger Hiss, but had been told that he could not do so without giving him a hearing as a Civil Service employee. At that time the Director declared that he did not think a hearing would be wise since the material available against Hiss was confidential and if not used would leave insufficient evidence against him. The Director expressed the thought that the best thing the Secretary could do, would be to move Hiss to an innocuous position where he would "understand the situation" and resign. The Director also suggested that the Secretary of State might desire to take Senators Connally and Vandenburg into his confidence since they were friends of Hiss and would appreciate the circumstances. The Attorney General indicated that he would call the Secretary of State and mention the above to him. (Memorandum from Director to Messrs. Ladd, Tamm, Tolson and Clegg 3-19-46)

During a conversation the Director had with the Attorney General on March 20, 1946, the case of Alger Hiss again came up. On this occasion the Attorney General advised the Director that Secretary Byrnes had proposed if the Justice Department agreed, to call Alger Hiss in and inform him that there had been complaints received against him, without disclosing the source to him. The Director suggested to the Attorney General that it seemed to be apparent that when Hiss was questioned, the questions asked would give him some indication as to the nature of the information possessed by the FBI concerning him. The Director pointed out to the Attorney General the possibility that Secretary Byrnes might use the Department of Justice as an alibi, saying that he had called upon the Department of Justice to investigate Hiss, and that following such investigations the Department of Justice had found nothing to warrant the dismissal of Hiss. The Director called attention to the fact that this would put the Justice Department in an awkward position and would be subjected to possible future criticism.)

On the same day, March 20, 1946, the Director returned a call of Secretary of State Byrnes and told him that he, the Director, understood the position Secretary Byrnes was in with respect to the Hiss case, but suggested in view of the fact that any interview with Hiss at that time would alert him and ruin any important espionage investigation, he contact several key men in the House and Senate and explain his predicament to them, pointing out that he, the Secretary, wanted their help in avoiding any criticism from "the Hill." Secretary Byrnes stated he thought this might be a solution to the problem and said he would call some of these men. The Director subsequently advised the Attorney General of this conversation with Secretary Byrnes. The Attorney General thereupon expressed his agreement with the proposal made by the Director. (Memorandum from Director to Tolson, Tamm and Ladd 3-20-46)

On March 21, 1946, Secretary Byrnes again contacted the Director concerning the Hiss case. The Secretary stated that he had called Hiss in and asked him if he was ever a member of any organization which had subversive tendencies. Hiss swore that he had never been a member of any such organization and it was decided that he be referred to the FBI for interview by an FBI official. The Director told Secretary Byrnes that instructions had been left with Assistant Director D. M. Ladd, to the effect that if Hiss wanted to come over and talk to the FBI, it would be perfectly agreeable, but that there were some questions which would not be asked because they might disclose information on current cases. The Director then told the Secretary that if Hiss wanted to make any statement or relate anything about his associations that he might surmise . would place him under suspicion, the FBI would be very glad to listen to him. The Secretary stated that he wished the FBI would do so. The above conversation was outlined by the Director to the Attorney General on the same day and it was pointed out that when Hiss came to the FBI, he would do the talking and the FBI would do the listening. (Memorandum of Director to Tolson, Tamm and Ladd 3-21-46)

The interview with Alger Hiss which resulted from the above arrangement is mentioned in further detail on pages 5 and 6 of this brief.

This brief covers developments in this case in so far as it concerns Alger Hiss, up to January 24, 1949. Any additional information that may be developed will be included together with the above in a brief currently being prepared on the Whittaker Chambers case as a whole.

ENCLOSURE

Alger Hiss's defense obviously intends to press the charge that I have had homosexual relations with certain individuals. With the resumption of pretrial deposition, it is necessary to face this issue since my answer or refusal to answer certain questions must have a direct bearing on the case. I am for stating the facts. They are as follows:

The cause of separation between my father and my mother, which I have described in my statement, was chiefly due to my father's active homosexualism.

Kisseloff-24803

As a boy, I was aware that something peculiar was involved, and I even knew the name of the other participant. But the nature of homosexualism remained secret to me. Nevertheless, I undoubtedly inherited this tendency from my father. It was no doubt further intensified by the domination of our home by my mother, who taught me that sex is an evil.

Yet I did not know what homosexualism meant until I was more than thirty years old. Until then, some of my friendships with men were too intense but they were completely innocent. My relations with women were slow to develop, but were normal.

Kisseloff-24894

The defense will probably bear down on my relationships with Michael Intrator and Frank Bang.

I. Relations with Intrator. Nothing in this relationship at any time exceeded the strong friendship natural between two men deeply interested in the same political and journalistic experiences.

II. Relations with Frank Bang. No physical relations occurred during this friendship. Nevertheless, it was a homosexual relationship. For the first three or four years, this friendship was perfectly innocent, based on common interests in camping, canoeing and out door living. But when both of us became involved with the same girl (I shall describe the relationship in the course of my general statement), I became conscious that my friendship with Frank Bang was excessive. I am not sure how much he realized. Both of us (individually) continued to live with various women. One of these subsequently told my wife that "the trouble with Frank is that he is in love with Whittaker". At the time this remark was made, I was seeing Frank Bang very seldom. I presently ceased seeing him altogether. By that time both of us were married and the fathers of children.

kissloff-24895

When I say this relationship was homosexual, I mean that Frank Bang and I were attracted to each to the exclusion of most other relationships.

Kisseloff-24896

It was the kind of exclusive comradeship that often develops in war between soldiers. The manifestations of this relationship are quite obvious to other people — much more so than to the persons involved. Hence the defense may have many people who would charge a much greater degree of relationship than actually existed.

III Relations with others. In 1933 or 4, a young fellow stopped me on the street in N.Y. and asked me if I could give him a meal and lodgings for the night. I fed him and he told me about his life as a miner's son. I was footloose, so I took him to a hotel to spend the night. Then he presently taught me an experience I did not know existed. At the same time, he revealed to me, and unleashed, the hereditary tendency of which I was still unaware. Because it had been repressed so long, it was all the more violent when once set free. For three or four years, I fought a wavering battle against this affliction. Ten years or more ago, with God's help, I absolutely conquered it. This does not mean that I am completely immune to such ~~suggestions~~ stimuli. It does mean that my self-control is complete and that for years I have lived a blameless and devoted life as husband and father.

The Hiss forces, of course, will seek to prove that my weakness entered into my relations with Alger Hiss and possibly others. This is completely untrue. At no time, did I have such relations, or even the thought of such relations with Hiss or with anybody else in the Communist Party or connected with Communist work of any kind. I kept my secret as jealously from my associates in the C.P. as I did from everyone else. I tell it now only because, in this case, I stand for truth. Having testified mercilessly against others, it has become my function to testify mercilessly against myself. I have said before that I am consciously destroying myself. This is not from love of self destruction but because only if we are consciously prepared to destroy ourselves in the struggle can the thing we are fighting be destroyed.

Kisseloff-24898

Kisseloff-24899

We have now reached a point in my testimony where I must testify to certain facts which should be told only to a priest. Therefore, to save embarrassment to myself, and possibly to others, I have attached a general statement of these facts which may be used as a basis for specific questions.

As a special courtesy, I should like to have only one agent present during this interview. For some reason the presence of a second agent makes the ordeal more difficult.

WILLIAM WARD PIGMAN

Rerep SA CLARK E. LOVRIEN, dated February 8, 1949 at Milwaukee.

On page five of reference report, PIGMAN relates an incident wherein he forwarded to a woman in Moscow, Russia a shipment of household goods and other items at the request of the woman's husband who is a professor acquaintance of PIGMAN's at Leipzig University, Germany. It will be noted that at the time of interview, PIGMAN was anxious that this information be furnished to the FBI, yet he would not let the letter and the license forms out of his possession for the purpose of photostating. By letter dated February 16, 1949, PIGMAN advised this office that he had been unable to make satisfactory arrangements to have these items photostated in Appleton, Wisconsin and offered to come to Milwaukee where this could be done in his presence.

PIGMAN appeared at the Milwaukee Office the morning of February 23, 1949 and in his presence photostatic copies of these documents were made. Upon his own suggestion, PIGMAN wrote his name, date, and a number on the face of each original before it was photostated. He then initialed and dated the negatives of each photostat on the back thereof.

There are being enclosed with the copy of this letter to New York Office the negative photostats and one positive copy from the negative of each of the following documents in the order as numbered by PIGMAN:

1. A letter from Sears Roebuck and Company, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, dated December 7, year not given, and addressed to Dr. WARD PIGMAN, 2006 North Stratford Street, Arlington, Virginia.

2. The reverse side of letter #1.

3. A document in Russian described in #1 as "official license" form bearing serial number 91777 at the top of the document.

4. Same as #3 but bearing serial number 91778.

5. Same as #3 but bearing serial number 91779.

A check of the St.Louis indices failed to reflect any information pertaining to JAMES P. CRAUDER, 10418 Maddox Avenue, Overland, Missouri.

It was determined from VIRGIL J. WILTSE, Industrial Relations Director, McDonnell Aircraft Corporation, St. Louis, Missouri, that JAMES P. CRAUDER had been in the employ of McDonnell Aircraft Corporation as a design engineer since October, 1943, and was highly regarded. JAMES P. CRAUDER advised that while in the employ of Glen L. Martin Aircraft Corporation, Baltimore, Maryland, from November, 1939, to May, 1942, as a design engineer he had never met nor heard of an individual by the name BUZZ. CRAUDER advised that approximately six months after being employed by Martin he met FELIX INSIERMAN, who was employed as an electrical designer working on B-26 planes. He stated that he knew INSIERMAN as a fellow employee in the Engineer Building and that he visited him on several occasions at INSIERMAN's home and thus knew him socially. He stated that when he first met INSIERMAN, INSIERMAN lived about six miles from the Martin Aircraft Plant at Baltimore, Maryland, near U. S. Highway #1, and that laterthe INSIERMAN's resided in a prefabricated home which had been erected by the Martin Corporation for employees and which was near the plant.

He stated that in his conversations and associations with INSIERMAN and his wife, DOLLIE, that they at no time either directly or by inference ever indicated that they were anything but loyal citizens. He stated that INSIERMAN and his wife, whose first name is ELIZABETH but better known by DOLLIE, never engaged in political discussions although he, CRAUDER, engaged the INSIERMAN's on occasions in arguments and discussions pertaining to unions, w ages, working arrangements, plant operations, etc. He stated that neither INSIERMAN nor his wife DOLLIE ever advocated any revolutionary principles and both appeared tobe strong willed and opinionated persons.

He continued that it was his belief that the INSIERMANS originally came from New York City or the area and that they were close friends of THOMASKING, who was mentioned in reference teletype as being group engineer and radio section at the Glen L. Martin Aircraft Corporation. CRAUDER advised that he has no recollection where INSIERMAN stated he was employed previously to coming to Glen L.Martin and that since he, CRAUDER, left Baltimore in May, 1942, he had never been in contact with the INSIERMANS except exchanging Christmas cards. He stated that it was his understanding that INSIERMAN on leaving Glen L. Martin went to work on the Republic Aviation Company, Beth Page, Long Island, New York, and that he later obtained employment with the General Electric Corporation in the vicinity of Cambridge, New York.

In this respect CRAUDER advised that as late as December 23, 1948, they had received a Christmas card from the INSIERMANS in which they stated that they were residing on a farm near Cambridge, New York. CRAUDER advised that he has maintained correspondence with the aforementioned THOM AS KING and that recently he had received a letter and news clipping from KING, in which was enclosed newspaper clipping and a newspaper photo in one of the Baltimore papers which reflected that the INSIERMANS were involved in some type of trouble with the government.

CRAUDER advised that approximately a year after meeting INSIERMAN he visited INSIERMAN at his home and that as he recalled INSIERMANS lived in the bottom portion of this home and that INSIERMAN maintained in one of the upper bedrooms a work room; that he appeared to be interested in photography and possessed what appeared to be an expensive camera and enlarger, make unknown. He advised that he did not observe any movie cameras nor did he observe photos or pictures of a technical nature and that the only pictures exhibited to him were enlargements made by INSIERMAN of INSIERMAN'S wife.

He continued that he used to eac lunch with INSIERMAN frequently at the plant and that when he and his wife visited the INSIERMANS, the evenings were generally spent socially in playing cards. He recalled during the period that INSIERMAN had built a house trailer. He stated that he did not know with whom INSIERMAN associated except that he was friendly with the afor mentioned THOMAS KING and that he believed he associated additionally with other employees of the Glen L. Martin Corporation, who were employed in the same unti, whose names he didnot recall.

The following file review was made by Special Agent EDWARD E. KACHELHOFFER and is predicated on referenced teletype from the Washington Field Office:

ANALYSIS OF DOCUMENTS OBTAINED

FROM CHAMBERS IN CONNECTION WITH THIS INVESTIGATION

ENCLOSURE 74-1833-2943

THE DIRECTOR

April 13, 1949

MR. LADD

JAY DAVID WHITTAKER CHAMBERS
PERJURY; ESPIONAGE - R; INTERNAL SECURITY - R

For your information there is attached an analysis of documents obtained from JAY DAVID WHITTAKER CHAMBERS in connection with this investigation.

Background

You will recall that CHAMBERS, in a signed statement on December 3, 1948, advised that he had placed certain documents in a manila envelope shortly after breaking with the Communist Party in April, 1938. The manila envelope was alleged to have been placed in a dumb-waiter shaft in the home of the mother of NATHAN LEVINE, the brother-in-law of CHAMBERS. The analysis is broken down into the following groups of documents.

(1) The "CHAMBERS" documents, which were 65 pages of typewritten material together with four pieces of paper alleged to be in the handwriting of ALGER HISS. These documents were alleged to have been obtained by CHAMBERS from ALGER HISS and were excerpts or copies of State Department documents.

(2) The "pumpkin" documents. These consisted of two rolls of developed film and three rolls of undeveloped film which were obtained from a pumpkin on CHAMBERS' farm outside of Westminster, Maryland, and turned over to WILLIAM A. WHEELER and DONALD T. APPELL of the House Committee on Un-American Activities on December 2, 1948. A description of these documents is listed under Grand Jury exhibits 47 and 48, which are photographs of State Department documents, and Grand Jury exhibits 49 and 51, which are photographs of Navy documents obtained from the Bureau of Standards. Grand Jury exhibit 50 was a roll of film which was light-struck and could not be developed.

(3) The "HARRY DEXTER WHITE" documents consist of four pages of handwriting on yellow lined paper alleged by CHAMBERS to be in the handwriting of HARRY DEXTER WHITE. These documents were turned over to the Baltimore office on December 3, 1948.

MEMORANDUM

"CHAMBERS" DOCUMENTS

In connection with a civil action brought by ALGER HISS against WHITTAKER CHAMBERS a pretrial deposition was conducted at Baltimore, Maryland on November 17, 1948. During the deposition CHAMBERS produced sixty-five typewritten pages of material and four handwritten pieces of white paper. These documents are being referred to as the "CHAMBERS" documents. According to CHAMBERS these documents were given to him by ALGER HISS in 1937 or in the early part of 1938.

Origin of Documents

In a signed statement dated December 3, 1948 CHAMBERS advised that the documents were deposited in a manila envelope which was hidden in a dumb-waiter shaft in the home of the mother of NATHAN LEVINE, 260 Rochester Avenue, Brooklyn, New York. This envelope was reported to have been placed in the dumb-waiter shaft in 1938 when CHAMBERS broke with the Communist Party. The envelope was removed by CHAMBERS on Sunday, November 14, 1948, and the sixty-nine "CHAMBERS" documents were thereafter introduced at the deposition in Baltimore.

FBI Laboratory Examination

In a report to the Attorney General dated December 13, 1948 the Laboratory advised that it was not possible to determine the age of the documents. Specimens Q1 through Q4 were concluded to have been written by ALGER HISS, whose known handwriting is listed as Kc1 through Kc4, submitted by the Baltimore office on November 29, 1948. The Laboratory determined that the typing on specimens Q6 through Q69 compared most closely with Woodstock pica type spaced ten letters to the inch, a style of type made by Woodstock in 1929. Q5 was reported to compare most closely to the standards of type for the Royal elite type spaced twelve letters to the inch. Q6 through Q69 were identified as having been prepared on the same typewriting machine as that used to prepare documents designated as K17, K32, K35, K40, K41 and K249, which are described below.

K17 is a two-page typewritten letter addressed to WALTER L. TIBBETTS, Boston, Massachusetts, dated January 30, 1933. It is purported to be an unsigned, unmailed letter beginning "On reading over my policy last week" and relates to an insurance policy allegedly issued to ALGER HISS. This document was furnished the New York office by Mr. EDWARD C. McLEAN, Attorney for ALGER HISS, on December 10, 1948. This document was returned to Mr. McLEAN pursuant to his request on December 28, 1948 by Mr. T. J. DONEGAN, Special Assistant to the Attorney General.

K32 is three pages of typewritten material entitled "Description of Personal Characteristics of TIMOTHY HOBSON." This document is dated September 9, 1936 and was apparently an enclosure to a handwritten letter to PAUL L. BANFIELD which is signed by ALGER HISS. This document, together with a letter dated September 1, 1936 bearing the signature PRISCILLA HISS referring to the application of TIMOTHY HOBSON for admission to the Landon School, was obtained from Mr. PAUL L. BANFIELD, Headmaster, Landon School, Bethesda Post Office, Washington, D. C., on December 12, 1948. Mr. BANFIELD requested that the material be used only in an investigation concerning the national defense of this country and was particularly desirous of not having the information made available to the House Committee on Un-American Activities in any form. He also advised that attorneys for both HISS and CHAMBERS had requested access to his file but had been refused. K32 was delivered to Mr. T. J. DONEGAN in New York City by Special Agent JONES of the Washington Field Office on December 14, 1948, together with the other documents furnished by Mr. BANFIELD.

FBI K35 is a typewritten letter addressed to Miss EMMA HELLINGS, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, which was enclosed in an envelope postmarked December 6, 1931 which begins "Dr. PELTZ, my physician" and is signed DAISY FANSTER, a sister of Mrs. ALGER HISS. This document was obtained from FRANKLIN H. PRICE, librarian for the Free Library of Philadelphia, on December 13, 1948. This document was transmitted to the Justice Department as an enclosure to a memorandum to Mr. ALEXANDER M. CAMPBELL, Assistant Attorney General, dated March 3, 1949.

K40 is a one-page typewritten letter to WALTER G. SCHELKER, New York City, dated February 17, 1933, and is signed ALGER HISS. This document was obtained from Mr. LEO D. FITZGERALD, Associate Counsel, Equitable Life Insurance Society of the United States, in response to a subpoena served on December 13, 1948. A carbon copy of this document had been previously furnished by Mr. McLEAN, Attorney for HISS, on December 10, 1948, and was returned at his request on December 28, 1948. K40 was transmitted to the Department of Justice as an enclosure to a memorandum to Mr. ALEXANDER M. CAMPBELL, Assistant Attorney General, dated March 3, 1949.

K41, a typewritten letter dated May 25, 1937 addressed to Mrs. W. M.

HILLEGEIST, Director of Admissions, University of Maryland, Baltimore, Maryland, beginning "I am sending to your office today," and signed PRISCILLA FANSLER HISS, was obtained by the Baltimore office from Mrs. FLORENCE T. STAFFORD, assistant in the registrar's office, University of Maryland, on December 14, 1948. K41 has been returned to Mrs. STAFFORD by the Baltimore office.

K249 is three typewritten pages captioned "President's Report for the Year 1936 to 37" and is reported to have been a report submitted by Mrs. ALGER HISS at the expiration of her term of office as presdient of the Bryn Mawr Alumni Association in 1937. This document was obtained from Mrs. HENRY L. ABBOTT, 2205 California Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C., and forwarded to the Laboratory on January 7, 1949. After the examination it was returned to Mrs. ABBOTT by the Washington Field Office.

THE "PUMPKIN" DOCUMENTS

Mr. JAY DAVID WHITTAKER CHAMBERS, in a signed statement dated December 3, 1948, advised that three cans of undeveloped film and two strips of developed film which had been in a manila envelope hidden in a dumb-waiter shaft of the home of NATHAN LEVINE's mother, 260 Rochester Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, had been turned over to investigators for the House Committee on Un-American Activities at Westminster, Maryland, on December 2, 1948 in response to a subpoena. Mr. CHAMBERS advised that the film contained photographs of original documents taken from the State Department and the Bureau of Standards. He alleged that the bulk of the documents from the State Department were obtained from ALGER HISS, the remainder having been received from JULIAN WADLEIGH.

WILLIAM A. WHEELER, 3924 Southern Avenue, Southeast, Washington, and DONALD T. APPELL, 3241 Terrace Drive, Silver Hill, Maryland, investigators employed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, on December 2, 1948 at 10:45 PM received from CHAMBERS at his farm near Westminster, Maryland, five rolls of 35-millimeter film which CHAMBERS took from a hollowed-out pumpkin. Two rolls of the film had been developed and three rolls were unprocessed. The developed film was identified with the date 12/2/48 and the initials WT by WHEELER and APPELL. The undeveloped film was processed by PHILLIP L. SCHMITZ of the Veterans Administration and was identified by the date 12/3/48 and the initial W by Mr. WHEELER. This film was subsequently identified on December 13, 1948 in the office of Mr. T. J. DONEGAN, Special Assistant to the Attorney General, New York City, as G.J. 47, 48, 49, 50 and 51. These documents were photographed by the FBI Laboratory on December 14, 1948 and are described below. In identifying the "pumpkin" films with State Department documents Mr. DAVID A. SALMON, 3223 Klingle Road, Northwest, Washington, D. C., advised the State Department kept "action" copies of communications and a microfilm of an "information" copy of the same document and that the "information" copy was destroyed.

The differences, in the absence of the original document, prevent a definite conclusion. P R E S E N T M E N T

TO The District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.

WHEREAS the undersigned constitute all the members of the December 16th, 1948, Special Federal Grand Jury of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York impaneled to inquire into espionage and subversive activities; and

WHEREAS there has been presented for the past four months, and is being presented, before this Special Federal Grand Jury a volume of testimony concerning activities of both foreigners and American citizens which are directed from within and without against the security of the Nation; and

WHEREAS this testimony and evidence have led this Special Federal Grand Jury to certain conclusions it deems proper and imperative to be brought to the attention of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the United States Government for such action as may be necessary or appropriate, the undersigned members of this Grand Jury respectfully show and allege as follows:

1. The Grand Jury is of the unanimous opinion that the safety of this country and its institutions is being jeopardized because

(a) increasing efforts, since the United States of America has been forced by events to take a dominant position in world leadership, have unlawfully been and are being made by those inimical to the Nation to obtain information relating to the national defense and security--information which could be used to the Nation's injury and to the advantage of foreign nations; and because

(b) existing laws, applicable to activities aimed at unlawfully obtaining such information, are inadequate and unrealistic in view both of the Nation's position in world affairs and internal menaces from those zealously activating a philosophy hostile to our constitutional form of government.

2. This conviction was arrived at by the Grand Jury after hearing, over a period of four months, the testimony of a large number of witnesses who, irrespective of their widely differing relations to the problems under consideration, have been able to aid its investigations. Many of these witnesses have been summoned by the Department of Justice and some by the Grand Jury itself acting independently under its own authority as the anciently established representative of the people. They have been examined in that secrecy which is designed not only to determine those who may have violated federal laws but to protect the rights and the reputations of the innocent.

Among these witnesses have been men charged with ferreting out violations of federal laws and others who could be classed as "government witnesses."

Others, men and women whose integrity and innocence have not been questioned but who have had valuable information to give, have proven entirely cooperative in the Grand Jury inquiries.

Kisseloff-23429

Still others--and the number has proven surprisingly large--themselves believed to be guiltless of direct violation of the law as it now exists, have invoked their constitutional rights to refuse to give information they indubitably possess concerning knowledge of violations by others. It has been a matter of grave concern to the Grand Jury that there are in this category of witnesses certain lawyers who, despite the fact that they are by virtue of their profession "officers of the court," have refused to answer questions put to them by the Federal Attorneys and the Grand Jurors on the grounds that the answers "will tend to degrade or incriminate" themselves. This, such witnesses have unquestionably done because they have been alerted through the publicity given by other investigating bodies to the circumstances which the Grand Jury must examine in secrecy.

Lastly, there have been a certain number of witnesses who the Grand Jury is convinced, either by their own confessions or by the incontrovertible evidence of others, have violated federal laws, but who are protected by the operation of the statute of limitations. The Grand Jury is powerless to indict such an individual so that he can be given a fair trial before a judge and jury with all the safeguards of such legal procedures.

3. The Grand Jury has been provided with many object lessons of the looseness with which laws governing espionage, the practical application of which it must determine, are at present drawn. In the light of the situations it has had to face, it believes that the safety and welfare of this country require either the enactment of new legislation or the amendment of existing legislation.

Kisseloff-23430

4. The Grand Jury, without making detailed recommendations, is nevertheless convinced that the espionage statutes themselves should be amended and tightened without meanwhile infringing on those civil rights constitutionally guaranteed our citizens. It recommends, therefore, that laws defining espionage be designed to cover all unauthorized transmission of information relating to the national defense which could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation. It further recommends provision be made that those engaged in such transmission can be prosecuted if they know the information may be used for such purposes.

The Grand Jury holds the crime of acting against one's own country is of such gravity and of such abhorrence to the American people that those so guilty should not be protected in any manner not provided by their constitutional rights. Accordingly it strongly recommends that provision be made to indict at any time any individual guilty of transgressing espionage statutes, now existing or to be enacted, without regard to any statute of limitation as in the case of treason.

Convinced that, despite the vigilance and the efficiency of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, increasing efforts will be made to acquire and transmit information injurious to the Nation, the Grand Jury holds that persons trained in espionage or sabotage by any foreign country should be required to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act; and that failure to register under the Act shall be considered a continuing offense for which the statute of limitations will not be operative. It recommends legislation to this end.

The Grand Jury is aware of the legislation on these and related subjects which has been proposed on the recommendations of Attorney General Clark. These recommendations were prepared in close consultation with the Inter-departmental Intelligence Committee, composed of representatives of the intelligence divisions of the Army, Navy and Air Departments and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. It urges the careful study of this proposed legislation by our legislative authorities with the view that laws be passed to achieve these objectives in the proper constitutional framework.

Having seen at firsthand the difficulties in arriving at the truth concerning espionage violations when witnesses have been alerted by publicized charges and countercharges, the Grand Jury recommends that all investigating bodies conduct their inquiries into espionage in secret.

The Grand Jury further recommends that an investigation be made by the proper authorities, by Bar Associations and other similar bodies, to determine those measures that may be taken to disbar from practice in the courts any lawyer who, appearing before any Grand Jury, refuses to answer questions on the grounds of self-incrimination. It is obvious that if such grounds exist the lawyer is not of that integrity which the American people should demand of all officers of the court.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Grand Jury respectfully petitions the Court to accept this Presentment and order it filed, authorizing the Foreman and the Secretary of this Grand Jury to send copies of it to the members of Congress and to the proper officers of the Executive Department of the Government, and to permit such other use as may properly be made of this document.

Kissel01-23432

HOW MUCH FREEDOM OF ASSOCIATION?

When I selected as my topic "How Much Freedom of Association?", I had not anticipated its possible relevance to activities in the Harvard Yard. I had not known that Provost Buck had pending before him - and that your President, Mr. Lowell, would be asked to comment upon - an application by Harvard undergraduates to organize a local branch of American Youth for Democracy, a group which the newspapers call a Communist-front organization.[1] The immediate stimuli for my choice of subject were President Truman's socalled Loyalty Order of March 21, 1947, establishing as a standard for hiring and firing every government employee his sympathetic association or lack of it with any group designated by the Attorney-General as subversive,[2] and the provision in the pending Labor Management Relations Bill of 1947 that unions may not enjoy the benefits of the National Labor Relations Act if any of their officers[3] as officers.
